A PUBLIC NEED.

A local newspaper is as much a public utility as is a gas, water or electric light service. In each case you want the best. The Daily Press itself is the best argument why you should have it in your home.

JOS. A. BLATZ DIES SUDDENLY

Well Known Hotel Man Passed Away Shortly After a Family Reunion.

HIS FRIENDS NUMEROUS

Heart Trouble Caused His End—He Was a Founder of St. Joseph's—Solemn High Mass on Wednesday Morning.

Joseph A. Blatz, aged 72 years, one of the best known hotel men in this section of the State, and father of Councilman-elect Francis J. Blatz, a lawyer of this city, died suddenly at his home, Hotel Chatham, 72 Somerset street, at 10:30 o'clock last night, only a short time after enjoying a family reunion with his children and grandchildren, representing three generations. Mr. Blatz appeared to be in excellent health during the day and evening and at the time he retired, which was about 10 o'clock. A half-hour later he suffered an attack of heart trouble. Dr. F. J. Hughes was summoned, but within a half-hour Mr. Blatz passed away. His sudden death was a great shock to the family, as well as the many friends and acquaintances.

Mr. Blatz was born in Hoboken, and he removed with his parents to Warrenville when he was a child. In later years he engaged in the hotel business, being proprietor of the Arlington Hotel at Somerset street and Greenbrook road and for many years conducted the cafe at Front and Somerset streets, being succeeded by Christian Gloekler. Later he took charge of the Hotel Chatham.

Mr. Blatz was one of the founders of St. Joseph's R. C. church, and was almost a life-long communicant there. While he never held any public office, Mr. Blatz was always public-spirited and was interested in everything that was for the advancement of North Plainfield. He had a happy, genial disposition and the faculty of making friends.

Mr. Blatz is survived by a wife, who is a sister of former City Judge John Ulrich; also three sons, Francis J. Blatz, Joseph R. Blatz and Hilaire C. Blatz, the last named being proprietor of Hotel Chatham and one daughter, Mrs. Arthur A. Cannon.

The funeral will be held at St. Joseph's church, Wednesday morning at 9:30, where a solemn high mass will be said. The burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery. The members of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, have been requested to meet at Craig place and Somerset street, tomorrow evening at 7:45 o'clock, for the purpose of visiting the home of Mr. Blatz.

DANCE OF Y. M. H. A. WAS WELL ATTENDED

One hundred members and friends of the Y. M. H. A. enjoyed the monthly informal social and dance given by that association last night in the club rooms in Grove street. Music was furnished by Prof. Naylor's orchestra. An entertaing program consisting of vocal and instrumental solos was rendered and during the course of the evening several fancy dances were introduced. Refreshments concluded the evening. The arrangements committee was composed of A. H. Richard, Nathan Aaron, Manuel Block and Jacob Abrams.

Plans for the annual dance to take place Christmas night in Sebring's Auditorium are being made and it is expected that the event will attract a large number of merry-makers.

ALL SOULS' NEW PASTOR PREACHES

Rev. Arthur E. Wilson's Discourse Heard by Large Congregation.

HE COMES FROM MASS.

Formerly in a Bank and Gave up Business Career to Preach the Gospel—Successor to the Rev. A. C. Nickerson.

Rev. Arthur E. Wilson, accepting a call to All Souls' Unitarian church, began his pastorate yesterday, officiating at the morning service. He comes to this city from Northfield, Mass., where for the past two years and seven months he held the pulpit in the First Parish, of that city, and conducted it with great success.

The text the minister used for his first discourse was found in 1 Cor. 13:11 and the topic of it was "Putting Away Childish Things." He tried to show how in the adult age we must put aside childish playthings and toys and assume the perfectly natural conditions of that age. "We should carry over into our adult age the spirit of childhood, the spirit of innocency and sincerity, but not the ways and employments of childhood. The same is true of society as of the individual. There are many things of today that have been brought over from the race's childhood to which we should apply this text." He spoke of profanity as one of war and of many symbols treated as reality of today's life and that should be abolished.

MISSIONARY INSTITUTE ALL DAY TOMORROW

The Three Sessions Are to Be Held at Holy Cross Church.

Mrs. Arthur S. Phelps, of Bound Brook, president of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese of New Jersey, will preside at the first session of the Missionary Institute to be held at Holy Cross church tomorrow at 11:30 o'clock. This session will be devoted to "Mission Study Classes," and Mrs. Phelps will give the benefit of her own experience and will bring out the ideas of others as to be best conduct of such classes for mission studies.

As it is very unusual now in church work to have well-organized and interested bodies of women who are engaged in learning facts about the mission field, this will be a feature of the institute. Mrs. Phelps will also preside at a discussion in the afternoon on "Parish Missionary Problems.'

The young people and the children are not to be neglected in the program. Miss Evelyn Prophet, of Yonkers, N. Y., will tell how the interest of the boys can be aroused, while Miss Cornelia Schwartz, of Lakewood, is to discuss the similar problem as regards girls.

Rev. Thomas A. Conover, of Bernardsville, will give a stereopticon address in the parish house at 4 o'clock in the afternoon for the children. Mr. Conover has some interesting lantern slides, and is sure to interest the children for an hour or so. The mass meeting in the evening, as has been announced, is to be of special interest to men, and the layman's opportunity will be approached from three points of view by as many speakers. Visitors who remain for the evening meeting will be entertained at the homes of churchmen of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

All the plans for the institute are complete, the committees on program and entertainment having held several meetings for that purpose. Mrs. John O. Stevens is chairman of the entertainment committee, and acting with her are representatives from Grace, Church of the Heavenly Rest and St. Stephen's.

HEART TROUBLE FATAL

Duer Street Woman, Aged 74 Years, Had Been Dead 8 Hours When Discovery is Made—Coroner Long Notified.

Failing to see Miss Mary McClymont, seventy-four years old, of 219 Duer street, about her place recently, neighbors started an investigation this morning, and when they received no response to their requests for admittance to the house, Roundsman Keller, of the North Plainfield police, was summoned shortly after noon. He smashed a window on the first floor and on entering found the aged woman dead in her bed.

Her brother, Jacob McClymont, was found dead about eight years ago in a similar way. His end was caused suddenly by heart trouble. Since his death, Miss McClymont had lived alone.

After finding the body, Roundsman Keller telephoned for Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, who viewed the body and expressed the opinion that death was caused by old age and heart failure. She had been dead for about eight hours, the physician added.

County Physician Long, of Somerville, was notified.

CONGREGATION STIRRED

The members and congregation of the First Baptist church enjoyed a rare treat yesterday morning in listening to a most instructive address by Rev. Dr. A. J. Vining, of Toronto, on the cause of Christ in Europe. Dr. Vining has spent much time on the field, and has made a thorough study of its conditions. He represents the Baptist World Alliance, and is speaking especially in the interest of the establishment of four much-needed theological seminaries, in Russia, France, Hungary and the Balkan States. Dr. Vining also addressed the Bible school, and his earnest and instructive messages will not soon be forgotten. The church gave him $1,000 yesterday toward the cause he represents. Still more money is coming in, and it is expected that very soon the work will be accomplished.

Last evening after a superb discourse on John 3:16 by Rev. Dr. Strong, the pastor, the ordinance of baptism was administered to three young girls, and two others responded to the invitation to enter upon the Christian life. Those who were baptized were Misses Wilhelmina and Katherine Endress and Dorothy Krewson.

WATCHUNG CLUB HUNTERS FOLLOWED THE HOUNDS

The chase of the Watchung Hunt Club, Saturday afternoon, covered a distance of about twenty-two miles and proved to be one of the most exciting this season. The hounds were thrown in on the Delafield farm, and the line led straight to Stelton, where the first check was made. Casting in again on the Endicott farm, the chase led to New Market, where the second check was made. The third check was on the Delafield farm. The hounds were very fast and there was plenty of good jumping, with not a single mishap. The following finished:

THE MUSIC ELABORATE

Soloists and Elks' Chorus Under Direction of W. E. MacClymont—Rev. Dr. Neilson Chaplain—The Theatre Crowded.

Elks' Memorial Day, the first Sunday in December of each year dedicated to the purpose of holding a sacred session in memory of departed brothers, was observed last night by Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., an elaborate service being held at the Plainfield theatre. The impressive exercises were witnessed by a large audience.

Rev. Dr. W. H. Neilson, a retired Episcopal clergyman, was the chaplain. Arthur C. Moreland, former exalted ruler of New York Lodge, No. 1, as the memorial orator, delivered an inspiring address. Other features of the program were the rendition of sacred songs by Reinald Werrenrath, baritone, and Miss Mildred Potter, contralto, assisted by the Elks' chorus, composed of H. N. Blimm, William R. Tallamy, Clarence E. Teal, R. H. McCready, Joseph F. O'Keefe, B. F. Tallamy, Morris C. Van Arsdale, H. C. Runyon, W. A. Weber and John Todd. William E. MacClymont was musical director.

Mr. Moreland, who has a reputation as a vivid portrayer of word pictures, held his hearers in rapt attention throughout his discourse. He

The business block at the southeast corner of Park and North avenues, formerly owned by W. W. Warnock, the baker, was today sold by him to R. Henry Depew, of Hillside avenue, as an investment. Charles H. Lyman was the broker. No changes in the tenants are expected. This building was formerly owned by Woolston & Buckle, who purchased it from F. C. Jennings, of North Plainfield. Later it was sold to Mr. Warnock just before he removed from his place of business on West Front street.

The building at present is occupied by Mr. Warnock, the Monarch Printing Company, the Plainfield Democratic Club, a barber and the rest as offices by several different parties. As stated no change in this respect is anticipated.

FOUND AGED RECLUSE IN DYING CONDITION

Neighbors Have "Bill" Spicer Removed to Hospital and His Sister is Located.

William Spicer, aged about eighty years, a quaint character who has lived alone in a cabin for many years on the Watchung Mountains, was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday afternoon, critically ill. "Bill," as he was familiarly known, was found in a helpless condition by some neighbors, who summoned a physician. An examination showed that the man was suffering from complications.

Mr. Spicer was too weak to talk yesterday, but last night he informed the hospital authorities that he had a sister, Mrs. Chapman, living on East 50th street, New York. She was notified and came here this morning.

Eccentric in his ideas, Mr. Spicer preferred living alone. For many years he derived an income from the sale of Sunday newspapers throughout the city and borough, and it was understood that he was of a saving disposition, and had laid by a considerable sum. He will be remembered by some of the older residents as one always carrying an umbrella, rain or shine.

So far as known Mrs. Chapman is his only relative.

MRS. JOHN ROBERTSON.

Mrs. Margaret M. Robertson, aged 36 years, wife of John Robertson, of 1657 South Second street, died at Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday, where she was removed Saturday suffering from a complication of diseases. The announcement of the funeral will be made later.

ACCUSED PASTOR WAS IN PULPIT

Rev. W. S. MacRorie Read the Scriptures at Mt. Horeb Church Service.

ANOTHER THE PREACHER

Girl's Mother Among the Congregation—At Close of Service Minister Held for Grand Jury Invites Worshippers to Meet Rev. Haney.

Rev. Willis S. MacRorie, the pastor of the Mt. Horeb and Springdale M. E. churches, now resting under charges preferred by Mrs. Amelia Mason, mother of nineteen-year-old Miss Gertrude Nelson, while he did not preach at either one of his charges yesterday, attended service at the Mt. Horeb church in the morning entering the pulpit with Rev. D. Roe Haney, the student from Drew Theological Seminary, who was assigned to preach there for the day. He had previously announced his withdrawal from the pastorate until his case is settled by the grand jury, and his presence was the occasion of much surprise, especially when he took part in the service by giving out a hymn and reading the Scripture. Mr. Haney made no reference in his sermon to the pastor's troubles. At the close of the service Mr. MacRorie invited all to remain and meet Mr. Haney. There were about fifty worshippers present, about one-half the usual congregation. Mrs. MacRorie was absent, but Mrs. Amelia Mason attended the service alone. Her daughter is living in Plainfield for the present.

Mr. Haney announced in the morning that he would preach in the evening at Martinsville, the third charge on the circuit, but Mr. MacRorie did not appear with him at that time, it is said. It was whispered among some of the people while on their way to church in the morning that if Mr. MacRorie attempted to preach they would not remain at the service.

There was no outward show of any especial loyalty to Mr. MacRorie among those attending the morning service and a majority of the people left the church immediately after meeting Mr. Haney.

LARGE ACCESSION TO TRINITY.

Sixteen new members were received at the communion service at Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning, fifteen on confession and one on by letter. Fourteen of the fifteen were from the Sunday-school. Rev. J. Y. Broek, the pastor, also baptized four adults. It was the largest attended communion service in the history of the church, 430 persons partaking of communion.

GAMBLING JOINT RAIDED BY POLICE

Eight Italians Caught at De Dominico't Home Lectured and Fined by Court.

CONFISCATE BEER KEGS

Proprietor and His Customers Tell a Well Rehearsed But Lame Story and Judge DeMeza Shows Them no Mercy.

The home of Fred De Dominico, at 826 St. Mary's avenue, which has been regarded with suspicion by the local police for some time, was raided yesterday afternoon by Seargent John Flynn and Roundsman Charles Flynn yesterday afternoon and the proprietor, eight alleged gamblers, a small amount of money and several cases and kegs of beer were taken to police headquarters.

With one exception, all the prisoners pleaded not guilty and told an apparently well rehearsed story to the court, but the evidence gathered by the officers satisfied Judge DeMeza and sentences ranging from $100 or 90 days in Jail to $10 fine and 40 days in jail were imposed.

De Dominico, who received the heavier sentence, was arraigned on the charge of violating a city ordinance prohibiting the keeping of a disorderly house or selling liquor without a license. He denied having received any money for the intoxicants served to his "guests."

The court severely reprimanded the prisoners and threatened to take steps to have Toney Delego, who was fined $50, deported. The court said there had been several murders committed in the Italian section as the result of these Sunday afternoon gambling affairs and warned them that future appearance in court would mean a heavier sentence.

Those arrested in the raid and the finest imposed follows: Fred De-Dominico, $100 or 90 days; Dominick Ceuro, $20 or 40 days; Toney Delego, $50 or 90 days; Tony Pelligren, $20 or 40 days; Fufi Romano, $20 or 40 days; Patsey Fusco, $20 or 40 days; Michael Collucci, sentence suspended; Michael Santo, $10 or 20 days and Toney Harro, sentence suspended. All have been arrested on similar charges before except Harro.

The Daily Press today publishes the first count of votes in the contest for the three splendid musical instruments offered by this paper to the lodges, clubs, organizations and individuals of Plainfield and surrounding towns. From now on the ballots will be allowed to accumulate in the ballot box each week until Saturday evening, when they will be counted and credited to the various candidates on the following Monday.

The result to date is gratifying. As there are only twenty days remaining in the contest it behooves all those who have entered and those who expect to enter to bring in their votes and nominations each day.

This contest is being run for the benefit of the advertisers and is not a money-making scheme. Each and every contestant has an equal chance, and will be well rewarded for the labor, for as stated, each contestant turning in five or more yearly subscriptions will receive ten per cent. cash commission, payable at the end of the contest, thereby providing a Christmas fund gained by a little work among ones friends during spare moments. This is something no other newspaper has ever done before, allowing a cash commission in addition to the prizes offered.

Every organization and individual really trying for one of the pianos, either the player or the one without the automatic attachment, or the vitaphone should endeavor to make a good showing in the next vote in order that his friends and supporters may see that he is in the race and is trying hard to win. They should secure and deposit at once a few of the subscription ballots, which the active candidates are demonstrating are easily to be had with a little effort.

For the convenience of the candidates and their friends, this office will be open on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings from 7:30 to 9 o'clock, to answer all enquiries, receive subscriptions, issue vote coupons and give any suggestions or other helps regarding the contest.

Hallstrom; the groceries and stationary tables were managed by the Misses Julia, Lillian and Annette Benson and the ice cream and coffee was in charge of the Misses Anna Amberg, Selma Davidson and Berta Pierson.

The proceeds of the fair will be used in connection with the new church fund that is being raised by the members.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

The announcement of comical Eddie Foy's engagement at the Plainfield theatre tomorrow night is really a theatrical event of much interest, not only on account of the promise of a night of fun with Eddie Foy, who is probably the drollest and most comic of all American stars, but because Werba and Luescher are sending a company and production in Mr. Foy's latest success "Over the River," that is said to rival both their "Spring Maid" and "Rose Maid" productions. This artistic firm of young producers who have taken front rank in the light opera field paid $25,000 for Mr. Foy, and his company will be one of ten big organizations under their management. "Over the River" is described as one of the most stylish girlie shows that ran on Broadway last season. Its chorus and ballet augmented by the addition of the "Eight Berlin Madcap" dancers from Germany became one of the most talked about ensemble organizations of the year. The piece was also the first to introduce a "cabaret" scene showing the interior of one of New York's popular all-night restaurants where the "400" go for their after-theatre entertainments. n fact, the plot of the play is built around one of these fashionable resorts. The music is spoken of as unusually "catchy." One of the songs, "Ting-a-ling-a-ling," number being one of the most popular hits any recent musical comedy has to offer.

The thousands of theatregoers who have been charmed by the naive beauty and the delightful acting of Ida St. Leon in her famous play "Polly of the Circus," will be glad to learn that she is returning to the Plainfield theatre Thursday, December 5. Her play this season and, judging from its tremendous success, for the next two seasons as well, is "Finishing Fanny," an amusing, yet scathing satire on New York society. It is a prize play. At the close of Miss St. Leon's tour in "Polly of the Circus" last summer, her manager, A. S. Stern, offered a prize of five thousand dollars for the piece that would suit this fascinating young actress, and would serve as the vehicle in which she might make her stellar debut. The winning play was "Finishing Fanny" by Lee Wilson Dodd, one of the most brilliant of our American dramatists. Mr. Dodd is the author of "Speed" and many other well-known successes, but he has never written any comedy quite as appealing as this. In addition to the bad picture that he draws of New York society, and of New York types with all their fads and foibles, he has woven a love story of intense beauty. It is the love story of a young girl brought suddenly into a fashionable life that she doesn't understand and then is forced to play upon her own cleverness to win the man that she loves.

THIS CITY SURELY BUSY AND SO ARE ITS FOLKS

Elizabeth, N. J., is Telling the World About its Work and Industrial Exposition.

Elizabeth, N. J., Dec. 2.—The message that this is a busy city filled with busy people will be carried to half a million persons through the medium of inserts to be supplied by the Board of Trade and placed in the envelopes mailed to all parts of the world by the business men of the community. The inserts will be neat announcements of the industrial exposition to be held in the Second Regiment Armory, this city, during the week of February 10 next, and will contain interesting statistics regarding the city as an industrial center. Some of the information is as follows:

Establishments—1900, 141; 1910, 163.

Employes—1900, 9,498; 1910, 13,538.

Capital—1900, $15,951,174; 1910, $26,774,000.

Value of Products—1900, $22,861,375; 1910, $29,147,000.

Salaries and wages—1900, $5,475,852; 1910, $8,865,000.

These figures show that in ten years the number of industrial establishments increased nearly 20 per cent., the number of employes more than 40 per cent., the capital invested nearly 70 per cent., the value of products 30 per cent., and the salaries and wages, 60 per cent. The officers and members of the Board of Trade are the promoters of the exposition and are determined that it shall be the means of placing Elizabeth on the map for good, and of advancing the city to a place in the industrial world that will attract attention.

Frank L. Devine, secretary of the board, is in charge of the detail work in connection with the exposition, and will furnish complete information regarding it.

JUDGE CASE ORATOR FOR SOMERVILLE ELKS

Somerville, Dec. 2.—Special memorial services were held by the Somerville Lodge of Elks at the armory last night. The spacious hall was filled and the service was interesting throughout. The members of the order marched in a body from the Elks' building to the hall. Judge Clarence E. Case, a member of the organization, delivered the oration, which was particularly interesting, and Edward P. Johnson, Jr., spoke in eulogy of the departed members of the Somerville lodge, who were H. W. Reusswig and William J. Keys.

There was special music by the Elks' quartet and instrumental selections by the Misses Flynn, of Somerville, and Suhr's orchestra from Plainfield.

RECITAL AT CRESCENT AVE. CHURCH EDIFYING

The first of the series of monthly organ recitals given at the Crescent Avenue church, Saturday afternoon by Dr. E. Mettler Davis, organist, proved to be edifying. Dr. Davis was assisted in the recital by Miss Emilie Burger, soprano, who made a favorable impression. She possesses an unusually sweet voice of wide range. Miss Beatrice Eberhardt, violinist, was unable to be present, and her part in the program was taken by Dr. Davis with organ numbers.

The program opened with a suite for organ by Rogers, followed with two numbers by Miss Burger, "Chant Hundou," Bemberg, and "From the Land of the Sky-Blue Water," Cadman. Dr. Davis then played "Cavatina," by Raff, in place of the violin solo, and the program was concluded with "Pastorale," Scarlatti; "Cantilene Pastorale," Guilmant, on the organ, "Sancta Maria," Faure, by Miss Burger, and "Concerto II," Bach, on the organ.

P. S. R. WORK NOT STARTED.

Although sometime has now elapsed since the Common Council gave the Public Service Railway Corporation the right to install turn-out switches and "Y's" in this city, the work has not even been started. At one time the company appeared to be very anxious to secure these privileges to improve the local service.

Miss Laura Gesswein, formerly of this city, but now of New York, spent Sunday with her brother, Dr. C. A. Geswein, of The Bristol.

ROWE MAY FIGHT FOR PLACE.

Summit, Dec. 2.—Much speculation is being indulged in as to whether Dr. J. Edward Rowe, present clerk of the Union Counay Board of Freeholders, will retain that position when the new small board goes into office the first of the year. At a caucus of the new members a few days ago William A. Bourdon, of Elizabeth, was slated for the clerkship. Some of Dr. Rowe's friends say he is protected by the firemen's exemption act, while others say this has been tested and "found wanting." Dr. Rowe himself, when questioned on the subject Saturday, said he was not prepared to make a statement but intimated he had consulted counsel. The doctor is health officer of this city.

INJURED AT ROEBLING.

A GOOD MAN IN OFFICE.

While the new Board of Freeholders have named another for his place, it is not altogether probable that Augustus W. Schwartz will be forced to relinquish his office as Union county superintendent of weights and measures on January 1. Mr. Schwartz is an exempt fireman and he proposes to take advantage of the provisions of the act protecting such from dismissal. His recourse will be to the courts and it is not unlikely that pending the determination of the case at least he will continue to hold the position.

"To the victors belong the spoils" is an accepted rule of our form of government, and therefore none can begrudge the Democratic Board for giving to their own any offices in the county at their disposal. Nevertheless, it is a matter of keen regret that we may lose an office-holder of Mr. Schwartz's stamp. He has made an indelible impress during his brief career as superintendent. The hundreds of short weight and small measure devices stacked up in his offices bear ample testimony to the fact that he has been on his job. Every shopkeeper and peddler in the county knows full well today that no mercy will be shown him should Mr. Schwartz find that the law is being violated and as he is ever vigilant the consumer feels a certain sense of confidence that he is not going to be cheated by the dishonest dealer.

If Mr. Schwartz loses his office, it will be a public loss.

The Daily Press acknowledges with genuine appreciation and thanks the kindly notice given "The Good Fellow" movement in the columns of that excellent parish monthly, "The Messenger," of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. The formal appeal of "The Good Fellow" will appear in tomorrow's issue. Since this scheme for providing toys and candy for the poor of the community was inaugurated by The Daily Press with the co-operation of the Charity Organization Society, every worthy case has been given attention and each succeeding Christmas eve over 600 little ones, who otherwise would not have felt the joys of Christmas, have had toys placed in their stockings by the unknown Santa Claus.

Ability, not political pull and prestige, it is learned by way of Bermuda is to be the pass-word to get into the Wilson cabinet. With that as the test, the information is given that Bryan will surely be offered the premiership. The preponderance of opinion appears to be, however, that the Nebraskan will decline the offer. He has said in the past that appointive office had no attractions for him, but to be the next man in importance to the President has some allurements.

With the grafting police lieutenant and the gunmen sentenced to the death chair and with the former city chamberlain awaiting sentence, New York is speedily redeeming its bad reputation for criminal justice. It only goes to show what an upright judge and a faithful and conscientious district attorney can do.

At last the real estate men of the community have gotten together and formed an association for mutual benefit. We hope the spirit of harmony will be lasting for it will redound not only to the material benefit of the members but will be of much good to the city itself.

Now is the right time to enter the piano contest to win one of the three fine prizes offered by the Daily Press, a player-piano, a piano without the automatic attachment and a cabinet vitaphone. Read the particulars on the first page of this issue.

The Atlanta Constitution suggests that Wilson appoint Taft for the first vacancy on the Supreme Court bench. That is the kind of a job Taft is cut out for and it would not be surprising to see it come to pass.

PEACE ASSURED; TRUCE ARRANGED

After Two Months' War End Is In Sight.

ALLIES AND TURKS AGREE

Powers Urge Movement For Diplomatic Clearing House—Expect Amicable Agreement Between Austria and Servia Over Question of Seaport on Adriatic.

London, Dec. 2.—The Balkan war is practically at an end. After two months of fighting, during which thousands of lives were lost, plenipotentiaries of the allied states and Turkey are ready to sign an armistice. Meanwhile fighting has ceased.

It is the hope in all the capitals of Europe that the patching up of a truce will be followed by an amicable agreement between Austria and Servia over the question of a seaport on the Adriatic. It is said that Servia is ready to give up Durazzo, which her troops have already occupied, in return for another port, and to this, it is believed, Austria will consent.

The alarming rumors that have been emanating from various sources on the continent during the last few weeks are now believed to have originated with stock gamblers, and the general opinion seems to be that there will not be any general European conflict.

Bulgaria Makes Concession.

The terms of the armistice which is to be arranged between Turkey and the Balkan states have not yet been announced, but it is said on good authority that Bulgaria has withdrawn her demand for the surrender of Adrianople. This in spite of the fact as reliably reported that the Turkish city is almost nearing the limit of its resistance. The garrison is short of rations, and the Bulgarians and their allies are rapidly drawing their cordon of artillery tighter around the city.

The Turkish cabinet has approved the protocol of an armistice, and an irade has been issued in Constantinople sanctioning it. The armistice will last as long as the preliminary negotiations for peace continue. It is stipulated that the positions of the various armies shall remain as they are at the time of signing.

The movement that has been started looking to the establishment of a diplomatic clearing house composed of the ambassadors of the powers, in some capital to exchange views on the Balkan questions is gaining ground daily, and the Pall Mall Gazette predicts that it will be arranged in a few days. This will facilitate the peace negotiations between the Balkans and Turkey, as it will hardly be possible for them to arrange a treaty without constant consultation with the powers.

COLLEGE GIRLS IN WAR ZONE

Anxiety Felt For Seven Young Women Graduates of Wellesley College.

Boston, Dec. 2.—Seven Wellesley college girls are in danger from the war in the Balkans. As missionaries in the war district in Turkey they have been cut off from communication with America, and their Wellesley friends are anxiously awaiting assurances of their safety.

The sister of Miss Eleanor Fowle, who is now at Wellesley, is shut up in Constantinople, with no way of getting word to her family, and every girl in college is anxiously watching the movements of the two armies because of their personal interest in a classmate.

Wellesley has a large body of student volunteers, with 106 missionaries already in the field. Twenty-one have gone to India, nineteen to China, nine to Japan, and others are in Africa, Brazil, Mexico, Siam, Spain, Korea and Syria. The mission fund often reaches the $2,500 mark.

DERAILED AT 50 MILE SPEED.

Two Hundred Passengers on New York Central Train Miraculously Escape.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 2.—When New York Central train No. 45, westbound from New York, traveling at an estimated speed of between fifty and sixty miles an hour, was derailed at Hoffman's, seven miles west of Schenectady, not one of the 200 passengers was injured, although all were thoroughly shaken up. The chef of the dining car, the only person injured, sustained several broken ribs and is in a Schenectady hospital. The passengers were transferred to another train.

Traffic on two of the Central's tracks was completely tied up for ten hours as a result of the wreck.

WILSON BOMBARDED BY ENEMIES OF BRYAN

Hamilton, Bermuda, Dec. 2.—Anti-Bryanite Democrats, alarmed by the reports that the portfolio of secretary of state has been offered to William J. Bryan, are bombarding Governor Woodrow Wilson with protests and attacks on the Nebraskan. Many inclose newspaper clippings and editorials to back up their views. A large part of the last mail received by the president elect consists of such letters.

There seems to be an impression among certain people in the United States that Governor Wilson is here because of illness. Many persons have sent prayers for his speedy recovery, much to his amusement, as he was never better in his life. Some inclosed patent medicines. Some of these were from nostrum venders who were seeking advertisement.

At the Warwick Presbyterian church the Rev. Mr. Cameron prayed for Governor Wilson, "on whom the eyes of the nation are set."

Governor Wilson paid $6 due postage on the last mail because his correspondents used two cent stamps instead of five cent ones.

Hopes to Have Him Home With Her For Christmas.

Goshen, N. Y., Dec. 2.—Mrs. Burton W. Gibson paid her first visit to her husband in the county jail here since she left town after the jury failed to free him last Tuesday evening.

"Nothing would please me better than to have Mr. Gibson return to our home as a Christmas present," she remarked. "You see, during our fourteen years of married life we have never been separated more than a week at a time."

Asked what she thought the prospects were for another trial, she replied:

"I do not know what will be done about that, but Mr. Gibson desired to be vindicated of the charge against him and would welcome another trial.

"Did you notice that one of the jurors was asleep when the prosecution was summing up their side?" she said with a smile. "Well, he was. I saw him."

DESCRIPTION OF PIANOS.

Made by Braumuller Piano Co., 627-641 West 43d Street, New York City.

Aside from the fact that one piano contains the player and the other does not, there is no difference between the instruments. Both are fully warranted by the makers, who are an old established and reliable firm.

Seven and one-third Octaves; Overstrung Bass, three strings to each note, except in Wound Bass Strings; New Patent Upright Grand Scale; Full Composite Metal Plate, extending over pin-block to top of Piano; Tuning Pins specially fitted with hardwood Bushings; Practice Pedal; Ivory Keys; full length Music Desk; Revolving Fall-Board; Brass Pedals and trimmings; handsome mouldings, attractive panels; carved Trusses and Pilasters.

Case: Antique Mahogany. All Upright cases are Double Veneered and have hardwood, varnished backs. Every Parklyn Piano is fully warranted.

DESCRIPTION OF PLAYER.

The Player is the latest device of the kind, and is the simplest and easiest working apparatus on the market. It is made by the Gulbranson-Dickinson Co., of Chicago, and is fully warranted. A test of the Player can be made at any time at Joseph Sattel's warerooms at 108 North avenue. Briefly it can be described as follows:

Special attachment, enabling the performer to obtain a diminished volume of tone in the bass, middle treble, or upper treble registers, by touching one of the two buttons. Each acts independently of the other. There is a silent travel device, a patented cylinder motor and other features which can be seen by inspecting the instrument.

Cash value of player-piano, stool, rolls and cover, $525.

Cash value of piano, stool and cover, $275.

DESCRIPTION OF VITAPHONE.

The $100 Cabinet Vitaphone is the third prize. This instrument was made by The Vitaphone Company, of Netherwood, and contains points of merit not to be found in other makes of talking machines.

It reproduces voice and instrument so true to life, that one may close their eyes and imagine the performer actually present. No other instrument reproduces the original tone in purity, strength and detail as well, and no metallic parts hamper, diminish or partly destroy the skill of the artist.

Winner can have choice of mahogany, golden oak or mission oak case. There is a triple spring motor that can be wound while playing, interchangeable diaphragm connection from amplifier to horn. Plays either needle or sapphire records. It is beautifully finished and polished. The machine stands four feet high and has a twelve inch turntable, and a filing compartment holding 150 records.

A novel feature of the Vitaphone is the stationary sound box, rigidly fixed to its supporting frame and made of few and simple parts. Any make of records can be used and owing to its construction, a record used on the Vitaphone has a much longer life than is possible on any other Talking Machine.

NEW PASTOR PREACHES

Massachusetts and in addition to the years he has spent in the ministry has had considerable business experience. At the age of fifteen he was graduated from the Clinton High School, after which he entered the employ of the Bigelow Carpet Co. where he remained for seven years in the office. He entered the Meadville Theological School with the class of 1893, his vacations being spent in the employ of the First National Bank of Clinton. After taking his third year in study in Europe the bank made him a fine offer and he continued in its employ for three years, during which time he acted as supply preacher. His services were in demand and at last he took a permanent settlement over the Unitarian Society in Berlin Mass., which he held for four years, when he resigned and after a study and travel trip in Europe he was induced to return to the employ of the bank, where he was given a position of responsibility. During the six years that he was with the bank he held many positions of trust, was auditor of the Clinton Savings Bank, treasurer of the Clinton Choral Union and when not engaged in supply preaching sang in the Unitarian church choir.

His work as supply preacher covered a period of two years in the church at Westboro, Mass. A little less than three years ago he accepted the call of the old First Parish, at Northfield, Mass. He succeeds Rev. A. C. Nickerson, for many years the pastor, who retired from the active ministry to regain his health.

ELKS' MEMORIAL SERVICES

said in part:

"As it was in the beginning, so is now and so it will be until the end. Every living creature is born to die. While death is looked upon as a calamity, and while it is a calamity for those from whom loved ones are taken, we can hopefully believe that death has no sting for those whose existence in this life is ended and who pass into eternity never to return. Life is merely a transition. We are here to prepare for a better place; being able to distinguish between right and wrong is not all that is necessary but righteous living insures a happy reward that God promised the faithful in the life eternal."

The speaker in illustrating the uncertainty of life pictured a ship sailing o'er the sea laden with hundreds of souls. "A band is playing," he said, "and passengers and crew are indulging in the pleasantries of life when suddenly upon the horizon there appears a black cloud. This sign of danger is unheeded until the whole skies take on a sabled hue. The tortured sea rolls and tosses, the rumbling of thunder reverberating and terrifying flashes of lightning illuminate the dark background of the heavens. The wind screeches and howls and the craft unable to withstand the storm sinks to the bottom of the watery waste. Presently the winds are silenced; the tortured sea becomes calm again; a glad sunshine dispells the clouds, and the ship that sailed so majestically a short time before is nowhere to be seen. Floatsom and jetsom are on the bosom of the sea and the dead bodies of the passengers and crew lie in a watery grave, but their immortal souls live on for evermore."

Mr. Moreland continued, "The man has lived too long who has outlived the love of those about him. We should be charitable to all mankind and while it is said that 'the evil men do in life live after them,' let us inscribe the faults of our brothers upon the sands,' where the never ceasing wash of the waves will obliterate them from view; but let us engrave their virtues upon the imperishable tablet of love and memory. It is for this latter duty of life that members of the Lodge of Elks congregate all over the country in sacred session to do honor to the brothers who have left us."

The complete program follows:

Prelude, orchestra; chorus, "Lead Kindly Light," opening ceremonies response, "Sleep Thy Last Sleep;" baritone solo, "Crossing the Bar," Buck, Mr. Werrenrath; opening ode invocation, Rev. Dr. W. H. Neilson contralto solo, "Abide With Me," Liddle, Miss Potter; memorial oration, Arthur C. Moreland; baritone solo "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," Ambrose, Mr. Werrenrath; duet, "The Lord Is My Light," Buck, Miss Potter and Mr. Werrenrath; closing ceremonies; hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee;" benediction, Rev. Dr. W. H. Neilson; response, "Peace, Perfect Peace;" postlude, orchestra.

The complete list of the departed members of Plainfield Lodge is as follows: Daniel Detweiler, April 8, 1906; Herbert S. Taylor, April 16, 1906; Robert L. Thomae, July 24, 1906; Dr. Olin L. Jenkins, November 13, 1906; Herbert B. Brooks, January 8, 1907; Charles C. Burnet, February 23, 1907; Maze Edwards, July 4, 1909; Joseph W. Reinhart, January 27, 1911; Alexander H. Small, January 9, 1912; John A. Lawrence, January 11, 1912; Herbert L. Overbaugh, May 17, 1912; Elmer E. Runyon, October 16, 1912.

Exalted ruler, Frank H. Smith; esteemed leading knight, Alfred A. Prudhon; esteemed loyal knight, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., esteemed leeturing knight, Jos. P. Burd; secretary, William R. Townsend; treasurer, Harry B. MacDonald; esquire, Fred G. Lynn; chaplain, Walter A. Marder; inner guard, Mefford H. Giles; tiler, Edward C. Searing; organist, James L. Pope; trustees, James F. Buckle, William A. Coddington and Samuel P. T. Wilbur; district deputy for Northern North Jersey, Peter F. Daly, of New Brunswick.

"ORGANIC EDUCATION" WILL BE HER THEME

Mrs. L. M. Johnson, principal of the School of Organic education at Fairhope, Alabama, will speak at the Plainfield High School tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, in which she will tell of the School of Organic Education in which she is so deeply interested. The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Franklin-Stillman Schools and the public is invited to hear this talented woman.

Mrs. Johnson is a speaker of unusual interest. She addressed the State Congress of Mothers recently at Riverton and made a deep impression. The Parent-Teacher Association made great efforts to engage her to speak here tomorrow night, feeling that there are many people here who would like the opportunity to hear her speak along the lines of sensible education of children.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

CREAM PIES.

CREAM pies are just the things for winter desserts when fruits are scarce and high. While the different kinds are made much alike, they may be greatly varied by using different flavors in the creams.

The following recipe will provide a puff paste for cream fillings. It is especially suitable for the purpose:

Sift together half a cupful each of sugar and pastry flour, one-half teaspoonful of cream of tartar and a little nutmeg. Separate two eggs, beating the whites very stiff. Beat the yolks an equal length of time. Put both together, mixing very carefully, and fold in the flour, sugar, etc., a little at a time. Do not beat in the ingredients, but fold in with mixing spoon.

Bake in a moderate oven about fifteen minutes.

A Rich Filling.

Chocolate Cream Pie.—Take three and one-half pints of sweet milk and one cupful of sugar. Beat the yolks of three eggs and add to two and one-half tablespoonfuls of corn starch which has been dissolved in a little milk combined with the rest of the milk. Stir and let come to a boil. Fill the pie crusts and frost with the whites of eggs; sweeten to taste; brown slightly. Two tablespoonfuls of chocolate or cocoa may be added to the boiling milk and one has a nice chocolate filling.

Plain Puff Paste.—A plainer crust than the one above mentioned may be made for this as follows: Take three cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of salt and one-half teaspoonful of baking powder sifted together. Rub into this one cupful of lard. Moisten with cold water. Roll out, place in pie pan and bake.

A Fruit Cream.

Peach Cream Pie.—Take half a cupful of sugar, the yolks of two eggs, a cup and a half of canned peaches which have been passed through a sieve and a quarter of a cupful of milk or peach juice. Beat the egg yolks and sugar. Add milk or fruit juice then beat in the peaches. This is baked in a lower crust of puff paste covered with meringue. Put the meringue on the pie after the same has been baked and cooled. Set the pie in a moderately warm oven, keeping the door open so you can watch. As soon as the meringue is evenly tinged with a light golden color remove from direct heat, but let it cool gradually.

VOGUE POINTS.

What Paris Is Sending Over In Winter Coat Models.

Some of the latest coats from Paris are knee length and actually show some fullness. The sleeves are apt to be bell shaped and flowing.

Fur trimmings on evening coats are all the vogue. Fox, skunk and mole are much used, with marabou and mouffion for cheaper grades.

Ostrich plumage is again being used as a hair ornament.

In raincoats mannish styles predominate, with raglan or regulation coat sleeves. Many made of homespuns look like ordinary walking coats.

The skirt made with a few plaits is the very newest and smartest. This one shows a panel at the front that is most attractive. It is cut in five gores, and the plaits are laid at the right side of the back only.

THE LAST CRY.

Drapery Almost Classical on Evening Frocks.

OF SILVER AND ROSE BROCADE.

Classical simplicity is brought to a climax of artistic skill in the exquisite evening frock seen in the illustration which is carried out in silver and rose brocade. The long lines are almost unbroken from the bust to the end of the train, while at the back the brocade is caught up at the knee in a single well placed festoon, from which the material falls in graceful folds.

Gray satin boots with glass buttons match the costume.

DOMESTIC INFELICITY.

One Unhappy Cause of the Marital Estate Explained.

It is undoubtedly a fact that most married people say things to each other that they would not dare say to the cook, who would give notice and leave, and they would not dream of saying to a casual acquaintance.

Marriage is life with the polish rubbed off in a good many cases. It is the one relation in the world in which most men and women feel that they can dispense with all the amenities of civilization and in which they have the courage of their rudeness.

Most human beings have no idea of the number of faults they possess nor how they look to others until they hear the litany of their shortcomings chanted with relentless candor by their husbands or wives.

Other people laugh long and lustily at your pet story. Your wife or your husband feels that it is good for you to know that they have heard it at least fifty times and that your power as a conversationalist doesn't amount to much.

Other people praise your vivacity. Your husband feels free to tell you not to make a fool of yourself by acting like a schoolgirl when you are closing on to forty; that dignity and sweetness and silence are what you should cultivate; that you talk too much, anyhow, and it is getting to be a bore. He thinks these things are good for you to know.

Too often husbands and wives use each other to flash out on each other all the ill temper and irritability in their systems—irritability and ill temper that they dare not show to their customers or their servants.

It is usually husbands and wives that tell each other things that the other is not particularly anxious to know—that they are trying to blind themselves to.

And there are people who speculate about the cause of the many cases of domestic infelicity.

Trim Your Winter Hat.

Hat trimming nowadays is such a simple matter that almost any girl who can sew at all will be able to trim her own hats for the winter season.

Just now it is the fashion to wear hats almost devoid of any trimming whatever, but a cluster of flowers or a wing placed in a jaunty manner at one side or in the center of the front will be all that is necessary as trimming for one of the new felt or velours hats.

Hats having turned up brims are exceedingly fashionable and very often are trimmed with two small wings, one sewed on the under brim and one on the upper directly over it, so that it appears that the wings are simply folded over the edge of the brim.

When sewing feathers or wings on a felt hat catch the threads through from the inside of the brim, then take a small stitch in the feather back to the inside again. Always use single thread that has been waxed. The stitches can be concealed under the fronds of the feather or a single feather if it be a wing.

OVER CONFIDENT HOLY CROSS TEAM PLAYED TO STANDSTILL

High School Warriors Force Contest All the Way—Game Fiercely Fought—Peacock and Schenck Excel —Familiarity With Game Kept P. H. S. Always in the Running.

Eleven Plainfield High School football warriors completely turned the tables on Holy Cross at Cricket Field Saturday afternoon and although they outplayed the boroughites from whistle to whistle, gridiron luck decreed that they should contend with the smaller end of a 12 to 7 score. The very instant that play was called by Referee Line, the schoolboys got action in such quantity that Holy Cross held their thumbs and trusted to luck to save a score. And luck was good to the boroughites even at that early stage of the contest. The first time the P. H. S. pigskin chasers got the ball in their hands they began a steady march down the field and Holy Cross was threatened from every angle with dementia footballitis. So sure were the winners of encountering a victory without exertion, that the sudden and bewildering attack of their opponents completely baffled them. It was the same bewildering spectacle, and above all the same old smashing, fighting game that these two rivals put up at every meeting.

Although every man on the field played at top notch form it was the grim and determined person in the large and roomy shoes of Peacock, around which the attack of the school machine was centered. It was Peacock who carried the oval within twenty yards of the Holy Cross goal line in the second period, and it was the same player who ploughed through the center of the boroughites' line on the next play for six points. But that did not close his contribution to the afternoon's enjoyment, by any means. He was a sort of an entertainment committee all by himself—the sort of entertainment committee that goes around looking for entertainment with a blackjack and a pair of brass knuckles. He certainly was unkind to the opposing line. Every player appeared to be laying for him and every time they went around knocking at his door, he'd be in and they'd be sorry. If any doubt exists as to Peacock's right to be considered the All-Plainfield back, ask anybody who saw him in action Saturday. He was worked like a plough-horse and certainly demonstrated his football qualities by an invariable gain of five to ten yards every time the pigskin was snapped back to him.

But Peacock was not alone in his work for the losing side. Schenck and McDowell must be coupled with this versatile athlete in the praise that is being poured out at P. H. S. Schenck's work at tackle gives him the right to six or seven beautiful slaves in the Seventh Football Heaven, or wherever it is that great players go for their final reward. He tackled harder than any man on the field and was as much to P. H. S. on the line as Peacock was in the backfield. McDowell proved a marvel at getting down the field on punts and time after time he layed the receiver low in his tracks.

As for the winners, they deserve all the recognition that should accompany their great achievements. They never quit for an instant although the steady plunging of the scholastic boys making their way steadily down the field toward the Holy Cross goal must have been disheartening. Quarterback Coyle displayed a degree of generalship that has seldom been equaled on Cricket Field at least, and although he was leading a lost cause for three quarters of the game, he was full of fight and so inspired his team. In other games the church boys have out-dashed, out-played and outfought the team they go against for the first few minutes of play, but not so in this contest. The winners appeared to be enveloped in a cloudy haze until the third quarter, when a fumble by Good, after he had received the kickoff, gave Hamilton an opportunity to go around end for twenty yards and a touchdown. But Holy Cross failed on the punt out and the score remained P. H. S. 7, Holy Cross 6. The final and winning score was made by Ricketts in the last few minutes of the third quarter but Holy Cross again failed in the attempt to kick the goal.

Both teams grew desperate in the last quarter but their efforts proved fruitless and the score ended Holy Cross 12, Plainfield High School 7.

"MAC" SAYS

Saturday drew to a close one of the most interesting gridiron seasons ever held in this city. We hail Holy Cross as the champion, but have to hand it to P. H. S. for a close runner-up.

Peacock, as a name, suggests fight and aggressiveness, and the holder of this handle certainly secured a berth for himself in the annals of Plainfield sportdom. If Holy Cross had him in the backfield there would be little use of staging the battle, and if P. H. S. had another plunger like him the church eleven would have been sent into oblivion.

The old saying that "A fool and his money are soon parted," proved true on Cricket Field. Holy Cross rooters were running around in a frantic effort to place the "long greens" and some there were at the end of the game who wished they had never met.

Frequently along the sidelines some valid cohort would advance the information that some one player or another had a yellow streak. Any man who has sand enough to secure a position on a football team is utterly devoid of any streak of yellow unless he be a Chinaman playing on a Chinese football eleven.

For many days before the game Holy Cross tipsters were telling us how many grams of carbohydiates would be left of Schenck when Ruttledge hit him on the opposite side of the line. From the sidelines it looked as though Schenck had reversed the tables and had domesticated the formerly savage Union man into a peaceful citizen.

McDowell's speed as an end was clearly demonstrated when he got down the field under one of Mills' long spiral punts and downed the recipient before he had a chance to take a step.

Sedom has such an enthused crowd of cohorts gathered in this vicinity to witness a football game and both factions were given something to be satisfied with.

Holy Cross rooters were of course glad of a victory, but appeared exceedingly gloomy over the narrow margin that separated them from migrating to the sunny south. Before the contest the church boys solemnly vowed that in the event of their suffering a defeat they would one and all start hiking it to the dark continent and never return to the Queen City of the East.

If the Boroughites really want to exhibit their sporting blood they might at least begin their tramp for the scholastic team came within an ace of sending eleven citizens to the Southern wilds.

SIXTH VICTORY FOR Y. M. C. A.

Ajax With a Patched up Team Defeated the Company M Cadets.

HANDICAPPED BY FLOOR

Score 22 to 14—Locals Led the Entire Game—Many Shifts and Changes Had to Be Made in Order to Play—Battin High School Next.

Although the Senior dance at the Plainfield High School deprived the Y. M. C. A. Ajax of the services of Captain Brynarski and William Peacock, in their game against the Company M cadets at Somerville Saturday night, the local players managed to pull through with their sixth straight victory by a score of 22 to 14. This was the first out of town game for the association players and considering the disadvantages under which they play, the win was a creditable one. The Armory floor at Somerville is nearly twice the length of the one at the Y. M. C. A. and the slippery condition of the court hindered the Ajax guards to a large extent.

The Cadets played a fast and thrilling game, getting in some fast teamwork and also executed a number of brilliant baskets that demonstrated their familiarity with the court. Aside from the substitutions used by the Y. M. C. A. five, a number of shifts had to be made which broke up the usual consistant teamwork. Dunning has became infected since the Hope chapel game and he is now nursing a case of blood poisoning, and was not able to play center. Glover filled in the pivot position, however, and Dunning put up a good game at forward. As guards, Dickerson and Hetfield, both played good games although the slippery floor was a great handicap to them. A good-sized crowd (in more sense of the word than one) accompanied the Ajax to Somerville in order to witness the game.

Next Friday afternoon the Ajax will leave on the 2:39 train for Elizabeth, where they meet the Battin High School quintet.

The score:

AJAX.

STRONG MATERIAL COMPILED AS UNIT

All City Football Eleven Picked at Holy Cross-P. H. S. Game.

ALL-PLAINFIELD FOOTBALL ELEVEN

- Hamilton, left end, Holy Cross.
- Schenck, left tackle, P. H. S.
- Manning, left guard, Holy Cross.
- Carty, center, P. H. S.
- Gloyer, right guard, Holy Cross.
- Ruttledge, right tackle, Holy Cross.
- McDowell, right end, P. H. S.
- Coyle, quarterback, Holy Cross.
- Good, left halfback, P. H. S.
- J. Ricketts, right halfback, Holy Cross.
- Peacock, fullback, P. H. S.

Now that the local football season of 1912 has finally lowered its shades, we not only begin to realize that coal is more valuable than hard water spelled with three letters (i-c-e), but also give over a large portion of our energy in an attempt to pick a representative all-city football eleven. The wealth of material football prowess that confronts us makes the task an exceedingly difficult one. Everything and everybody taken into consideration it seems best to determine and pick such an eleven on the article of the gridiron stuff put up by those twenty-two warriors who battled on Cricket Field Saturday afternoon.

Taken from that standpoint the backfield belongs without discussion to Peacock, Coyle, Good and Jack Ricketts. Peacock's great playing on the defense and his ability to rip up the opposition gives him the fullback position. Coyle, by his masterful directing of the Holy Cross machine has won for himself the distinction of being the best field general in the city. Ricketts has starred in almost every contest that the church boys have played and although he did not play up to his usual standard Saturday, he demonstrated beyond a doubt his right to be considered a leading halfback. The other half runs nearly even between Nash and Good, but the latter put up a better game than Nash in that contest, although the Holy Cross backfield man was greatly handicapped by a broken toe.

To Carty, must be awarded the center position, by his aggressiveness and heady playing. Lester Hamilton has established a right to one end while McDowell should be awarded the other. Both of these men are sure tacklers and can get down the field on punts as good as any of the ends playing local football. Schenck and Ruttledge are leading choice for tackles, while Glover and Manning can fill the guard positions to perfection against any opponent.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The regular monthly birthday supper given to the members of the Y. W. C. A. was held and enjoyed by seven members of the association Saturday night. The early part of the evening was spent in playing games, after which the guests were ushered into the banquet room where a bountiful birthday supper was served. The room was decorated with yellow and white crepe paper and the birthday cake which was covered with white icing bore small yellow candles. Miss Marguerite Case had the honor of cutting the cake as the supper was held on her tenth birthday. Those that were present were the Misses Ida Englehardt, Mary Line, Rose Cooper, Jesie Fullerton, Marguerite Case, Anna Hoagland and Reba Kline.

The vesper service of the Y. W. C. A. was held in the association rooms yesterday afternoon at four o'clock. Miss Ruth Tapping, of the Newark association, spoke on "What Shall I Give for Christmas." She said that if everyone would give Christmas cheer to everyone that they met that it would mean a great deal to the people of the world. She also said, "Speak kindly to the girl across the counter and be thoughtful of her. Remember that she is of the same race as you are and is entitled to your respect even if it is necessary for her to work for a living. That is no disgrace. Therefore I again say be thoughtful of the girls across the counter."

SCOOP WANTS TO SET A GOOD EXAMPLE

CAPITAL FILLS UP AS CONGRESS SITS

Manufacturers Anxious to Get Line on Tariff.

JOB HUNTERS OUT IN FORCE

President's Message, Dealing With Foreign Relations, Will Be Received Tomorrow—Important Measures Are Pending Before Last Session of Sixty-second Body.

Washington, Dec. 2.—When the last session of the Sixty-second congress convened at noon today practically a full representation of both houses was present. Familiar scenes of political and social activity are being re-enacted in the hotels and other haunts of official circles. In addition to the senators and representatives, there is an unusually large number of outsiders, who have been drawn to Washington at this time for one reason or another.

Many Democrats have come on to interview senators and representatives about office under the new administration. A considerable representation from commercial bodies and industrial enterprises is here to inquire about the tariff. The announcement by Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee that hearings will begin immediately after the holidays was a signal to all the industrial interests and to importers to hurry to Washington and make their plans to be heard.

Little of importance will be done in either house today. Both houses will adjourn almost immediately after being called to order out of respect for the memory of notable men who have died since the last adjournment.

President Taft's first message, dealing with foreign relations, will go to congress tomorrow. His second message, dealing with general subjects, will be submitted Friday, according to present information. With the knowledge that the senate will promptly adjourn the president will hardly send in any nomination today.

The supreme court divided interest with the two houses of congress. The court met at noon after two weeks' vacation, and there is a general expectation that some of the opinions in important trust cases which have been long deferred will be read. One of the most important is the anthracite coal case. Another case of wide interest is a suit brought by the government to dissolve the merger of the Harriman lines.

Tariff Hearings Planned.

Members of the house who have arrived in Washington are giving most of their attention to the preparation of the general appropriation bills. There is a general sentiment expressed by senators and representatives that the session which opened today will probably transact very little important business outside of the general appropriation bills. The ways and means committee of the house will be busy with tariff hearings, and it is not unlikely that the Democratic members of the senate will be in daily touch with these hearings, believing that in this way tariff legislation may be expedited after it has been submitted to the extra session.

One of the most important bills before the house is the employers' liability and workmen's compensation act, which was passed by the senate at the last session and is now before a committee of the house. Representatives of the railway brotherhood are all working to bring about the passage of the act.

Next to the compensation bill the chief interest is in the Works resolution that is unfinished business of the senate, which proposes an amendment to the legislation limiting the tenure of presidential office to a single term of six years.

Sulzer Talks on Legislation.

Washington, Dec. 2.—Representative William Sulzer, New York's governor elect, in a statement said: "There are several bills I would like to see passed before I leave congress. Among them I might mention the bill for the purchase of American embassies in foreign countries, the bill for the improvement of the foreign service, the bill for an international commission to ascertain the high cost of living, the bill for the interparliamentary union, the bill for the international prison congress and the bill creating the department of labor, with a secretary having a seat in the cabinet. I am the author of these bills, and they have all been reported favorably."

GREAT SUFFERING AS COLD GRIPS ENGLAND

Many Dead and Blizzard Ties Up Railroads.

London, Dec. 2.—The opening of December sees England in the grip of winter after a November in which there were thirty hours of sunshine and more than 300 hours of fog. Terrible tales of suffering in the storms are coming in from all sides. There is zero weather on land, and hurricanes are sweeping the sea. The White Star steamship Oceanic and the American line steamship Philadelphia both had thrilling tales of mountainous seas to tell when their passengers disembarked at Portsmouth.

Passengers aboard the Oceanic told of a narrow escape from collision on Wednesday evening when after the steamship's telegraph had signaled full speed astern a big tramp steamship outward bound loomed out of the fog a few yards away and was lost in the fog again in a few minutes.

There are many reports of wreckage along the coast, of rescues and loss of life at sea, of heavy snowstorms in the midlands, the north of England and Scotland; of trains stalled in deep drifts and high roads impassable and of many thousands of outdoor workers idle owing to the severe weather.

Several persons were frozen to death in the midlands, and schools were closed, while shooting, hunting and football were abandoned for tobogganning, curling and skating in many parts of the country.

ARCHBALD TRIAL TOMORROW

Judge to Face Senate Charged With Misuse of His Office.

Washington, Dec. 2.—For the ninth time since the foundation of the government the senate tomorrow will sit to take testimony as a high court of impeachment. Robert W. Archbald of Pennsylvania, formerly a United States judge for the middle district of that state and now an associate judge of the commerce court, is the defendant.

Mr. Archbald, in general, is accused of using his power on the bench to influence litigants to his personal profit. Several of the articles of impeachment relate to deals in culm banks in Pennsylvania, and the accusation is that Judge Archbald attempted to induce railroads to sell them to him and his friends at far less than their real value. He is also charged with using his post to obtain extensions of his individual credit in a financial way.

ABANDON STEAMER AT SEA.

River Meander's Captain and Crew Rescued.

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 2.—The steamer River Meander, New York for Naples, has been abandoned at sea and probably has foundered. Captain McGregor and crew of thirty men were rescued by the steamer Ikbal, which entered Halifax harbor.

The River Meander left New York Nov. 26. She is a British steamer of 2,888 tons and was formerly named the Bardistan.

Captain Bartley Dead at Seventy-six.

Webster, Mass., Dec. 2. – Captain Amos Bartley, for years manager of the Slater woolen mill here, later a trustee of the vast Slater estate and one of the widest known woolen men in America, died at his home from heart disease, aged seventy-six.

RICH INVENTOR ENDS LIFE.

Philadelphia, Dec. 2.—Leaving a note to his brother that he had suffered extreme pains in his heart, Charles S. Heller, a wealthy retired manufacturer and inventor, committed suicide by inhaling illuminating gas.

He was seventy-three years old and was the author of a number of pamphlets on scientific subjects as well as the inventor of several instruments used extensively by scientists.

L. BAMBERGER & CO. NEWARK, N. J.

WILL ASK FOR ROAD BIDS.

High Bridge, Dec. 2.—Bids for the first section of the macadam road between High Bridge and the Morris county line at Crestmoor will be asked for by the Board of Freeholders at its next meeting. The first section extends from High Bridge to Hoffman. Awards probably will be made in late December. Obstacles interposed by property owners to the original surveys have, it is said, been removed by a partial resurvey. Efforts will be made to have the Morris county authorities continue the road from Crestmoor to German Valley. This connecting link would make a shorter route for Newark motorists and avoid the steep climb at Schooley's Mountain.

HOW TO PREVENT FIRE

Do not allow the formation of rubbish heaps. Attics and cellars should be kept free from combustible accumulations. Too frequently are hot ashes heaped against fences or other combustible surfaces. The householder should exercise great care in the disposal of waste material. Many homes have been destroyed because of bonfires. Exercise care in avoiding those conditions which tend to the origin of fire. It will repay you.

BIG BLAZE GIVES HOBOKEN SCARE

Fire Stopped Fifty Feet From Gas Tanks.

DOES $300,000 DAMAGES.

Six Families Rendered Homeless, 300 Employees Out of Work and Man Suffering From Tuberculosis and Now Dying From Shock Are Results of Blaze Which Raged Four Hours.

Hoboken, N. J., Dec. 2.—A fire which overtaxed the local department so that Jersey City was asked to lend assistance wiped out a block of factories and tenements on Grand street and stopped within fifty feet of the city's source of gas supply. Had the flames reached the five big gas tanks of the Public Service corporation at Twelfth and Grand streets there probably would have been a serious conflagration. As it was the loss amounted to more than $300,000.

Six families are homeless, 300 employees out of work and a man suffering from tuberculosis and now dying from shock are the results of a fire which raged for four hours.

The blaze started in the southeast corner of the old Granite rink, owned by the Caledonia Curling club of Manhattan and used by the curlers up to the end of last winter. The building, which was of frame and one story high and covering several city lots from 1110 to 1126 Grand street, was burning at a lively rate when the alarm was sent in.

Fanned by a stiff breeze the flames ate up the old rink and leaped across the street to William Hunter's machine shops, which were soon destroyed. The Fox Hill Iron foundry, operated by Joseph Ferguson, directly to the north, was the next building to go.

Meanwhile the fire in the rink had spread to the four story brick factory of the Joseph N. Courtake Piano Case Manufacturing company, with offices at 514 West Twenty-fourth street, Manhattan. Nothing but one corner of the brick wall remains.

Patrolman Harry Harrison of the Second precinct while trying to get an old lady out of the way of the engines was knocked down by the horses of Engine No. 1 and trampled upon. He was taken to his home 1222 Park avenue, suffering from internal injuries.

The old rink, where the fire started, was built twenty-five years ago, when prizefighting and horse racing were permitted in New Jersey.

USES TURKEY AS WEAPON.

Farmhand Holds Highwayman at Bay and Saves His Month's Wages.

Ridgewood, N. J., Dec. 2.—With a turkey as a weapon John Moran, a farmhand, kept a highwayman at bay and saved his wallet containing $32.60, which he had received only a short time previous from his employer for his month's work.

Moran was walking over a lonely stretch of road toward Paterson. When he approached the railroad tracks the highwayman jumped out from behind a tree and demanded his money. Moran swung his turkey and landed on the fellow's head with such force as to knock him down. He then dropped the bird and pummeled the would be thief with his fists, after which he continued his journey without further molestation.

FALLS 100 FEET DOWN SHAFT

Miner's Brother Was Killed by Fall In the Same Place Two Years Ago.

Newton, N. J., Dec. 2. Julius Penta, twenty two years old, a Hungarian miner employed at the old Totten mine at Franklin, slipped at the edge of the pit mouth and dropped 100 feet to the first level of the shaft. In falling he loosened a mass of rock and earth, and he was buried under tons of debris. Every bone was broken. He was dead when reached.

Two years ago an older brother of Penta tripped at the same spot, fell down the shaft and was killed.

Mount Holly, N. J., Dec. 2.—Joseph Grooms, seventy, for many years flagman at the Washington street crossing of the Pennsylvania railroad here, was placed on the pension list Saturday by that company and retired from further work. Last night he lay dead at his home on King street.

STUDEBAKER "25", "35" AND "SIX" REPRESENT THE CAR OWNERS IDEALS

(By Andrew C. Thompson.)

You have all read the announcement of the new Studebaker cars and have recognized its epoch-marking importance. The beauty, correctness of design and real class of these cars have forced expressions of admiration from all motordom, present and prospective.

But this announcement did not by any means tells the whole story of these new cars. It is my purpose to tell you the big working motive back of the new Studebaker "25," "35" and "Six."

In the search for your ideals The Studebaker Co. found that you seemed to want a car of relatively great power. This has been secured by the long stroke motor which, while increasing the power, does not imply deviation from established lines of economy in maintenance.

Many of you wanted a "Six"—a Studebaker "Six"—that would sell at a popular price, here is just a little bit the handsomest car of the three. For those who want even more power than they can get from the "35," a car which combines Studebaker quality and class with the smooth running qualities of a Studebaker six cylinder motor.

You wanted cars even quieter than the standby Studebaker types of 1912. This feature has been given special attention. The new cars operate pump and magneto in a manner absolutely noiseless. In addition, great improvements in silencing the transmission gears and differential ha been made.

You wanted a car with a Self starter. The "25" is equipped with a gas primer-starter of positive action and practical design.

On the "35" and the "Six" are installed the best electric cranking and lighting device that has yet been produced, it is built by the Wagner Electric Co. exclusively for the Studebaker cars. It will crank the motor at a speed of 80 R. P. M. for a half-hour if necessary.

You wanted a full floating rear axle. This on the "35" and "Six" is a bit in advance of anything ever used in the popular-priced field. It is light and strong. The weight of the car is carried on the ends of the housing; the axle shafts are seperately removable.

You wanted larger wheels and tires. This suggestion has been followed out in all the new models. The "25" has 3½ inch tires front and rear; the "35" and the "Six" have 34 by 4 inches tires.

The new Studebaker cars feature a constant-level system of lubrication, automatic, smokeless and economical to a wonderful degree. A sight gauge on the dash permits the driver to watch his supply, affording plain view of a stream of oil constantly flowing to the timing gears and back again to the main reservoir.

Another improvement you asked for was a longer wheel base. The design is generous in this respect. The "35" wheel base is 116 inches; that of the "Six" 121. And every additional inch has been made use of in securing comfortable, roomy characteristics for the cars, along with increased passenger capacity.

The photographs of the new cars have shown you that they are in every respect cars that are graceful and beautiful. Nothing has been left undone in the endeavor to secure true, artistic effect, in finish as well as symmetry these cars will admit of no superior. Furthermore, their beauty is more than skin-deep. Their shining, clean-cut motors, with all moving parts enclosed will make you proud to lift their hoods.

These cars are listed with full equipments, including tops, windshields, speedometers, electric horns, demountable rims, spare rims, and tire carrying brackets.

The Studebaker "25" with its long stroke motor, new style bodies, and larger tires lists at $885, fully equipped.

The Studebaker "35" with electric self-starter and lighting device, improved and larger motor, six passenger body, larger wheels and tires, and full floating rear axle, lists for $1,250, fully equipped.

The Studebaker "Six" at $1,550 presents value attainable at the price only by the Studebaker methods of manufacture.

Never before in the history of the industry has any manufacturer turned out a line of cars embodying desirable features as great as these. It is certain—yes, inevitable—that the Studebaker cars will even more notably than ever before, dominate their prospective fields.

CITY FATHERS ROUTINE

Cottage Place to be Cleaned Up—Many Petitions Acted Upon and Resolutions Put Through—Reports Presented.

Mayor G. W. V. Moy, at the December meeting of the Common Council, last night, appointed the following special policemen as regulars, and they were confirmed upon motion of Councilman C. C. Randolph, who explained that the appointments were made by a unanimous vote of the police board: John Hendershot, Roland McIntyre, Charles B. Wicht, George Muir, Martin T. Welsh, Martin J. Flatley, William G. Mernagh and Arthur Craig.

H. W. Marchant and others petitioned for lights on Martine avenue and a crosswalk at Martine and Edwards avenues. Charles A. Peterson, who has a sewer contract for the city, asked for an extension of time to May 1 next to complete the work. This was referred to the corporation counsel. Another communication from Mr. Peterson contained the request that he be allowed to use slag instead of stone in repairing the sewage beds, adding that if allowed to do so he would deduct 15 cents per cubic yard for the work. This was referred to the sewer committee, as was also a petition from J. Herbert Case and others complaining about the bad drainage in the vicinity of Park and Evergreen avenues.

The East End Taxpayers' Association petitioned for additional lights on North avenue, Leland avenue and George street. This was referred. The application of Abram Steinman for an auctioneer's license was granted, and the contract between Mobus Brothers and the city for sewer work was filed. On motion of Mr. Mygatt releases were granted in the tax matters of Julia Ford and Samuel Shaw.

Horace G. Adams, clerk of the District Court, reported receipts during the past month of $187.84, with a balance of $129.70 turned over to the city treasurer, W. F. Arnold. Building Inspector Doane reported the granting of 22 permits and Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett reported having granted 19 sewer permits.

Resolutions offered by Councilman F. E. Mygatt, and adopted, provided for the borrowing of $1,500 on account of sewer extension work, the payment of $138,568.82 by City Treasurer W. F. Arnold on account of Plainfield's share of the State and county school tax, and authorizing

WANT TO ESTABLISH PUBLIC SKATING RINK

Playground Commission Suggests City Appropriate $990 for Open Air One.

As president of the Playground Commission George P. Mellick brought to the attention of the Common Council at the December meeting last night the desirability of providing skating facilities this winter at Parker Field. He said that the commission had no funds for the purpose but suggested that if the Council could see its way clear to appropriate about $900 he thought it would be a wise expenditure as the city has never had such facilities. The petition was referred to the finance committee.

In connection with this petition, another one was received from H. R. Hubbard, of the Plainfield High School faculty, asking that the city provide a skating rink at Parker Field, suggesting that a small fee could be charged on certain days in addition to "free days" which could be arranged for by the commission. This petition was also referred.

CUTTING RACE TRACK UP INTO BLDG. LOTS

Plainfield Driving Park is Now a Thing of the Past for Memories Alone.

The Plainfield Driving Park, which in years past has been the scene of many fine race meets and in the early days the home of the Union-Middlesex County Fair Association, whose annual fairs were considered among the best in the State, is a thing of the past. Nothing now remains but pleasant memories of other days.

The change has been brought about by a New York realty company which recently got control of the property and is now cutting it up into building lots, laying out streets, etc. The new tract is known as "Holly Crest."

The barns, the old grandstand and the long fence, together with the judge's stand on the old track have all been taken down, sold and removed from the park, and one would scarcely recognize the present place. Frank Mobus has the contract for laying out the new streets.

Local horsemen deeply regret the passing away of the old track, one of the finest in the State, and in the future will be obliged to go to Westfield for their racing in the future, that being the nearest track to this section.

TAFT TREATS OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Discusses Merchant Marine, Executive Power in Tariff Duties, Consular System.

NO GENERAL MESSAGE

President Addresses Congress on the Need for Greater Effort in Market-Building Abroad and for American Banks in Foreign Lands.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, Dec. 3.—In his message transmitted to Congress today President Taft treats among other things of the foreign relations of the United States. After citing the vital importance of such relations the President urges greater efforts in market building, giving specific examples of action which he regards as necessary. Among other things he declares that America cannot take its proper place in the most important fields in its commercial activity and enterprise unless there is a merchant marine and that American commerce and enterprise cannot be effectively fostered in those fields unless good American banks are established in the foreign countries.

The President also refers to the benefits which have already resulted in the introduction of the merit system in the conduct of the United States diplomatic and consular service and earnestly renews his previous recommendation of legislation making the system permanent.

On the subject of the tariff Mr. Taft urges legislation to enable the Executive to apply as the case may require, a graduated scale of duties, up to a maximum of 25 per cent. advalorem, whether or not the article is on the free list, in the case of any country which discriminates against the United States.

The President has abandoned the custom of sending a general message to Congress on all topics, and the one sent in today is the first of several, the others to appear within the next few weeks, and which will be confined to one or two subjects each.

The message in part follows:

TWO CHANGES MADE IN TEACHERS' CORPS

Education Board Also Grants Use of H. S. Auditorium for a Conference.

The local committee on arrangements for the annual meeting of the State Conference of Charity Organizations were granted the use of the High School auditorium on February 2, 3 and 4, by the Board of Education at a meeting held last night. Dr. Henry M. Maxson, who submitted the request to the board in behalf of the Charity Organizations, stated the opinion that a conference of this kind in Plainfield was sure to result in some good, either directly or indirectly, for the poor of the city.

Dr. Maxson's report for the month of November showed that Miss Catharine Carman and Miss Louise B. Runyon, teachers in the Jefferson and Bryant Schools, respectfully, had resigned. No reason was given in the report for their action. The new appointments were Miss Julia L. Post, for the Washington School, and Miss Nellie Gonyea, formerly of Glen Falls, who will teach in the Jefferson School.

In the event of some matter arising calling for the immediate attention of the board, the members decided to meet again Thursday night in adjourned session.

PASSES AWAY THREE WEEKS AFTER WIFE

James S. Lunger is Stricken by Paralysis While Asleep and Dies.

James S. Lunger, aged 75 years, a life-long resident of North Plainfield, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at his home on Summit avenue, following a stroke of paralysis early in the morning. His death occurred just three weeks after that of his wife, Mrs. Isabelle Lunger. Mr. Lunger had been in poor health for some time and his wife's death was a severe shock to him. He suffered the stroke of paralysis while sleeping, and was found in an unconscious condition by his daughter, Miss Isabelle Lunger.

Later in the morning he partially rallied from the stroke, but during the afternoon he became worse and passed away suddenly. Mr. Lunger for many years was widely known as a builder, having erected many residences in the city and borough. He was a faithful member of Grace M. E. church. He is survived by a daughter, Miss Isabelle Lunger, and one son, William Lunger, who is the business agent for the Trade Unions of this city.

The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the late home, Rev. C. C. Cain, of Grace M. E. chruch, officiating. The burial will be in the Methodist cemetery.

COUNTY'S ATTORNEY BUT 34 YEARS OLD

John P. Owens, Who Will Succeed W. R. Codington, has Practised 12 Years.

John P. Owens, slated at the caucus of the Democratic members-elect of the Board of Freeholders as the next county attorney, to succeed William R. Coddington, is, like the present incumbent, a resident of this city. He is a native of Hunterdon county, and is 34 years old. When he was 12 years of age his parents removed to Plainfield, and Mr. Owens has resided there since.

He attended St. Mary's Parochial School in Plainfield and Harned Academy, a private institution there, and prepared for Seton Hall at St. Peter's College, in Jersey City. He was graduated from Seton Hall in the class of '98 with the degree of Bachelor of Arts, and received his M. A. degree in 1900. After leaving Seton Hall he studied law in the New York Law School and Philip Lowry's office in Newark.

Mr. Owens was admitted to the bar in November, 1900, at the same time as was Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr. Mr. Owens started to practise law in Plainfield in 1902 and in 1907 passed the bar examination for counselor. His office is in the same building and adjoins that of William M. Stillman, who succeeded the late Craig A. Marsh as corporation counsel of Plainfield.

Mr. Owens has practised in every court except the United States Supreme Court, and has a reversal by the Court of Errors and Appeals to his credit in the case of Anderson vs. The Catholic Benevolent Legion. He married Miss Minnie A. Callahan, a daughter of Thomas Callahan, the pioneer grocer in Plainfield's east end, shortly after opening his office. They have two children.

PARROT'S PLURALITY 62.

When the Union County Board of Elections adjourned yesterday afternoon, George T. Parrot had made a total gain of two on James P. Kelly's net gain of twelve, bringing the former's plurality up to 62 and Kelly's net gain down to ten votes in the districts already counted in the recount asked for by Kelly.

CITY EMPLOYES GET HIGHER PAY

Ordinances Passed Giving Increase to Firemen as Well as Policemen.

EFFECTIVE ON JAN. 1

The Fire Chief Gets $1,800, Same as Police Chief—Graduated Scale for the Men in Both Departments is Arranged.

The ordinance providing for an increase in pay to the members of the fire department, as proposed at a recent meeting, was adopted on two readings at the December meeting of the Common Council, last night, following a recess during which it was decided to amend the ordinance by giving Chief Doane an additional $200, that is making his salary as chief $1,800 instead of $1,600 as at first proposed. It was also decided to give Assistant Chief A. D. Jennings an extra $50, making it $1,350 and the captains salary was raised from $1,250 to $1,300, which makes these salaries practically the same as those given the officers of same rank in the police department.

Councilman D. W. Taylor, chairman of the fire committee, explained that the duties of the building inspector are becoming greater all the time and if the building continues next year at the present rate he thought it would be necessary to engage a separate building inspector. He said that Chief Doane had on numerous occasions said that he would be willing to be relieved of the double duty.

The new schedule of pay for the firemen which will go into effect January 1 next is as follows:

Chief, $1,800; assistant chief, $1,350; captains, $1,300; chief engineer, $90 a year; drivers, tillermen and hosemen, divided into five classes as follows: Class A, $1,100; B, $1,606; C, $1,024; D, $964; E, $892. Call-men, who are required to do 90 per cent. duty, will receive $55 a year. When acting as captain they will receive $100 a year and when acting as engineer the pay will be $82.50 a year. As a result of this increase, the pension fund of the department will likewise receive more money, as the paid members are required to give 1 per cent. of their salaries to that fund.

The ordinance increasing the pay of the members of the police department was adopted on third reading last night. The new schedule for that department which goes in effect January 1 next is as follows:

Chief, $1,800; captain, $1,350; sargeant, $1,300; detective-sargeant, $1,300; roundsmen, $1,200; patrolmen divided into five classes as follows: A, $1,100; B, $1,060; C, $1,024; D, $964; E, $892. Doorman, $720.

MRS. JOHNSON TO TALK ON "SENSIBLE EDUCATION"

Mrs. M. L. Johnson will speak on "Sensible Education" at the High School this evening at 8 o'clock. All who are interested in the education of their own and the children of the community should hear Mrs. Johnson as she presents many new ideas in up-to-date education.

The delegates from the Parent-Teacher Associations to the State Congress of Mothers were so impressed with Mrs. Johnson's address that a great effort was made to engage her to speak in this city and it is hoped many will avail themselves of this opportunity to hear one who not only has practical ideas but has put them to the test in The School of Organic Education at Fairhope, Alabama.

HOURS OF DUTY FIXED FOR CITY'S POLICEMEN

The Councilmanic Police Board, at a meeting held last night, prior to the Common Council meeting, adopted a resolution fixing the hours of duty for the three roundsmen. Hereafter the men will work in rotation on an eight-hour shift. The first roundsman will go on duty at 8 o'clock in the morning and work until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when the second roundsman will relieve him and work until 12 midnight. The third roundsman will go on at midnight and work until 8 o'clock in the morning.

By this arrangement each roundsman will receive one month of daylight duty every three months. The resolution further provided that no roundsman shall do patrol duty.

Miss Gertrude King, of Craig place, who has been seriously ill since the first of July, has recovered and is now able to go around without the aid of any supports.

SELL RESTAURANT TO FIGHT THE TURK

Two Greeks, We Can't Spell Their Names, Leave to Enlist in Their Army.

In response to the call sent out to the Greeks in this country who are eligible and able to serve in the Grecian army, thousands of native sons are hastening back to their country to fight against the Turks. Among those who have left for their homes are the two young Greeks who have been conducting a restaurant on West Front street next to the Endress Company's market. They expect to reach their destination within the next twenty days and enter the service of their country.

The young men have disposed of the restaurant business to fellow-countrymen who have not been called for service. They received word a few days ago that unless they returned home now they could never go back, and if they did at some future time they would have to pay a severe penalty. It was reported today that nearly 40,000 Greeks from California and other western States are now on their way home to enter the army.

LOCKED STABLE DOOR BUT HORSE GOT OUT

When he left his blacksmith shop on East Second street for his luncheon today, Frank Hand, remembering the old adage locked the stable door leaving a "flea grey" horse belonging to the Scheuer grocery, fastened within by a halter. The animal, however, couldn't see why he should be denied his noon-day meal and breaking his halter made for a possible exit. A large window in front of the shop furnished the only means of escape and through it he plunged.

Attracted by the sound of crashing glass, G. H. Freeman, of fire headquarters, found that his first jump had planted the animal halfway through the window, his hind legs still being within the shop. In another second the horse had managed to get to the street, where Freeman caught him. When tied to a pole in front of headquarters the animal cut up like a wild beast and was only quieted when Freeman gave him some feed.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Peter's Lutheran church will meet at the residence of Mrs. J. Bantle, 428 Watchung avenue, on Thursday afternoon at 2:30. All members are requested to be present.

MISSION MEET OF CHURCHMEN

Episcopalians Holding An Institute Today at Church of the Holy Cross.

MANY RECTORS THERE

Mrs. A. S. Phelps Presided This Morning After Celebration of Communion—The Program Ends With a Meeting for Men Tonight.

The Missionary Institute of the Elizabeth-Somerville district of the Diocese of New Jersey, opened this morning in the Church of the Holy Cross and will continue throughout the day ending with an evening service of special interest for men. The morning service began with a celebration of the Holy Communion, the Venerable R. Bowden Shepherd, acting as celebrant assisted by the Rev. W. S. McCoy and Rev. E. V. Stevenson.

At 11:30 the missionary study conference was opened with Mrs. A. S. Phelps, president of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese of New Jersey, presiding. The aim of this session was to encourage enlistment into the home and foreign missionary service. Mrs. Phelps is actively engaged in organizing classes for mission studies and her short talk at the beginning of the conference was highly instructive to those desiring to learn facts about the mission field. She has had wide experience in all lines of mission work and expressed many of her own ideas in regard to the conducting of this work. Following the conference prayer was offered by Rev. Charles Baer, the new rector of the Trinity Episcopal church, Elizabeth, for the spread of the Gospel of Christ throughout the world.

Preceding the luncheon served to the out of town guests present, Miss Agnes Smith, of Virginia, gave an account of her missionary work among the mountaineers of West Virginia. TO THE "GOOD FELLOWS" OF PLAINFIELD

Just about this time last year I told you my story. You listened to it—you did more—you followed its spirit out in a bang-up style. Bless your hearts, you made over 600 poor little tots know the real meaning of a joyous Christmas. I'm not claiming any credit for my story; I'm claiming credit for knowing that there are many Good Fellows in this fine old town of ours—royal chaps, who don't do much preaching, but when it comes to doing a good turn, well, they're there with the goods. This is no sermon that I'm handing you, it's a heart to heart talk with men with red blood in their veins, and here it is off last year's reel.

On Christmas and New Year's eve you and I went out for a good time and spent from $10 to $200. Christmas morning hundreds of children awoke to an empty stocking—bitter with the pain of disappointment that Santa Claus had forgotten them. That's the way it used to be. Perhaps it wasn't our fault. We had provided for our own; we had also reflected in a passing way on those less fortunate than our own, but they seemed far off and we didn't know where to find them. Perhaps in the hundred and one things we had to do some of us didn't think of that heart sorrow of the child over the empty stocking.

Now, old man, here's a chance. Just send your name and address to the Daily Press—address Santa Claus—state about how many children you are willing to protect against grief over that empty stocking, inclose a two-cent stamp and you will be furnished with the names, addresses, sex and age of that many children. It is then up to you, you do the rest. Select your own present, spend 50 cents or $50, and send or take the gifts to those children on Christmas eve. You pay not a cent more than you want to pay—every cent goes just where you want it to go. You gain neither notoriety nor advertising; no record will be kept; your letter will be returned to you with its answer. The whole plan is just as anonymous as old Santa Claus himself.

This is not a newspaper scheme. The Daily Press will preserve the anonymous character of this work. The responsibility of finding the children and sending you their names will be assumed by this paper and it guarantees that whatever you bestow will be deserved.

Neither you nor I get anything out of this, except the feeling that you have saved from sorrow on Christmas morning. If that is not enough for you then you have wasted time in reading this—it is not intended for you, but for the good fellows of Plainfield.

Perhaps a twenty-five cent doll or a ten cent tin toy wouldn't mean much to the children you know, but to the child who would find them in the otherwise empty stocking they mean much—the difference between utter disappointment and the joy that Santa Claus did not forget them. Here is where you and I get in. The charitable organizations attend to the bread and meat, the clothes, the necessaries; you and the rest of the good fellows furnish the toys, the nuts, the candies, the child's real Christmas.

GOOD FELLOW.

"Good Fellow" is not a professional philanthropist, he takes a drink, and even goes out at night with the boys for a mild good time—but he has taken care of some poor little ones each year in Plainfield. He says he wishes he had always curtailed his holiday joy-making with the good fellows even more than he did, so that he might have had more money to gladden childish hearts.

The Worthy Grand Master of the lodge of Good Fellows has laid his plans for securing names through the Charity Organization Society.

This is how you can joint the lodge of Good Fellows. Write a letter to "Santa Claus," care of the Daily Press, something like this:

I live at No. ..... street. I will be Santa Claus to 6 children.

JOHN JONES.

The letter will go to Santa Claus. He will indorse on your letter the names and addresses of six children. That letter will be remailed to you. Then you get busy. That's all. Come on in, good fellows.

The first vote published yesterday is not to be taken as an indication of the real strength of the candidates entered in the competition for the three valuable prizes offered by this paper, for there still remain outstanding many thousands of votes to be placed in the ballot box later, and there are some candidates who have not yet turned in any subscription votes. These are certain to be heard from and some of them before long may assume the lead in the race. It is not too late for new candidates, however, and the organizations and individuals entering now with a determination to win will find many will rally to their support.

Company K, N. G. N. J. had a very enthusiastic meeting last night and each and every member present promised to work for the benefit of the company in securing votes, which means that they are going after that player-piano.

There are three grand prizes, the player-piano, the piano without the automatic attachment and the cabinet vitaphone. There is also a special inducement of a cash commission of ten per cent. to every bonafide contestant.

Opportunity Knocks But Once.

One of the chief regrets in life is the realization that a bright and shining opportunity has been neglected. The magic letters "Player-piano and Piano" spell to the people of Plainfield and vicinity the words "opportunity and education," and who will say that it is not a bright one? When the ballots are counted for the last time on the night of December 21 be sure and be among the winners, do not be among those left behind with regrets over another wasted opportunity. Hesitate no longer, but get busy and try for one of these splendid musical instruments.

Decide today and then start gathering in the votes. Deliberation, decision, energetic efforts and sticktoitiveness are the qualities that will win honors, and one may grasp them if they will.

HERE AND THERE

Miss Olive B. Bickel, of East Fifth street, this morning, received a clipping from a Jacksonville (Fla.) newspaper containing an account of the action of the authorities in trying to extradite her brother, Clare Bickel, who was wanted for wife desertion. The newspaper account after stating that Mr. Bickel will be released from custody, says:

"Governor Gilchrist today wired Chief of Police Vinzant that upon receipt of a letter from Clare Bickel's sister, Miss Olive B. Bickel, he has denied requisition papers. Mr. Bickel wrote a letter explaining his reasons for deserting his wife. His attorneys mailed it to Tallahassee. It was understood that the letter placed Mr. Bickel's alleged desertion in a more favorable light. Chief of Police Kiely, of Plainfield, who has been here several days in the hope of having Bickel delivered to him, will be obliged to return empty handed."

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

The engagement of Ida St. Leon in "Finishing Fanny" at the Plainfield theatre, Thursday night, December 5, will be a notable one. It will be the first appearance of this famous "Polly of the Circus" girl in this city as a full-fledged star. Her unusual talent and wonderful sympathetic appeal has caused her manager, A. S. Stern, to give her her own production. Thus, at the age of eighteen, she has the distinction of being the youngest star on the American stage. Yet young as she is, she probably has a following larger than any other star save Maude Adams, Mrs. Fiske, Julia Marlowe and Billie Burke. During the past three years over a million people have laughed and cried with her in "Polly of the Circus." Her coming also marks the first appearance in this city of one of the most remarkable plays that has been written in the past decade. At the close of her tour last summer Mr. Stern offered a prize of five thousand dollars for the most suitable play for this youngest of stars. The prize was won by Lee Wilson Dodd, already well known to theatregoers throughout the country as the author of "Speed" and other successful plays. "Finishing Fanny" is a delightful satire on New York society, and woven through it is a love story of intense appeal.

Laughing Eddie Foy, the funniest of all Broadway comedians, will appear at the Plainfield theatre tonight in the best musical show he has had in many years entitled "Over The River." From all reports, Werba and Luescher, the producers of this hilarious girl and song comedy, have staged their production in spectacular fashion and the piece comes after a smashing six months' success at the Globe theatre in New York. The play gets its somewhat unique title from the fact that in New York city, there is a slang designation for the prison on Blackwell's Island, where one of the scenes is located. Prisoners sent there are said to be doing time "over the river." A comedian in prison stripes is a novelty and Foy is said to make the role excruciatingly comical. Eddie Foy plays the role of Madison Parke, a man about town, who entertains his friends so riotously on a certain night that he wakes up the next morning and finds himself sentenced to thirty days "over the river." Surrounding Mr. Foy is a large company of well known players, including Arline Fredericks, George S. Trimble, David Andrada, Harry Meyer, Leavitt James, J. S. Kinslow and Davis and Matthews in a great dancing specialty. A feature of the performance is a novel dance by the "Eight Berlin Madcaps," whose whirlwind performance during the New York run was one of the two sensations in "Over The River." The other is the exciting "cabaret" scene, the first introduced in a Broadway show. "Over The River" boasts the prettiest chorus in any company sent out of New York this season.

OPEN RIVER CONGRESS.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3.—The annual meeting of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, which opens here tomorrow, promises to be one of the most notable gatherings ever assembled in the history of the United States in the interest of waterway development. The congress is national in its scope, representing all sections and all waterways, and is endeavoring to impress Congress with the necessity of a broad and comprehensive policy for improving rivers, harbors and canals of the nation. President Taft will deliver the opening address at the congress. Other men of note who will be heard during the three days' session are Secretary of War Stimson, Senator Simmons, of North Carolina; Senator Townsend, of Michigan, Senator Martin, of Virginia; Mayor Fitzgerald, of Boston; P. A. Pezet, the Peruvian minister to the United States, and Lieut. Col. W. B. Anderson, chief engineer of the Department of Marine and Fisheries of Canada.

SUN CULT TRIAL.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 3.—Preparations are being made for the trial in the Federal court here next week of Otoman Nar Adusht Hanish, leader and founder of the Mazdaznan sun cult. Hanish is under four indictments, charging violations of the postal laws by the sending of improper literature, including the "Inner Studies," through the mails. The trial of the accused is awaited with considerable interest, inasmuch as the members of the cult are said to include maids and matrons of social prominence, not only in Chicago but in Massachusetts and in Canada, where Mazdaznan colonies have existed. Hanish, the founder of the cult, had led his followers to believe that he was born in Persia and reared in a monastory by followers of Soroaster. As a matter of fact, it has been established that he is the son of Richard E. Hanish, an aged musician of Milwaukee, in poor circumstances.

UNION PRAISE SERVICE.

The subject, "Orientals in the United States," will be considered. The speaker will be the wife of Rev. Huie Kin, pastor of the Chinese church, of New York, under the care of the Presbytery of that city.

Mrs. Samuel Tervin and daughter, Catherine, of Baltimore, Md., returned home yesterday after spending two weeks with their cousin, Mrs. Oliver Voorhees, of Stone street.

THE "GOOD FELLOW."

It is now three years since the "Good Fellow" first told his story and made his appeal for the poor little boys and girls who knew not the real joys of a child's Christmas. He told you about himself and how his heart went out to those youngsters whose parents fortune had not favored.

And you listened to his appeal and in goodly numbers you joined the noble little army of his. You made some 600 little girls and boys happy for you placed toys and candy and other things dear to them in stockings which otherwise would have been empty. And say, you warmed up so after a realization of what it all meant that you re-enlisted last Christmas. You had found on visiting the homes of those you provided for that there was as much joy in it all for you as for them. It made you feel proud of yourself, even if for the first time in your life. You had done something for another, something that was appreciated.

When we said yesterday that the "Good Fellow" would start his campaign today, we didn't go to the trouble of asking the Charity Organization Society if it was "game" as Chimmie Fadden might say. The C. O. S. from the first had co-operated with the Daily Press in making the undertaking a "bang up" success, so we just knew we could count on it this season. And we can.

The "Good Fellow" tells his own story in his own way today and his letter is printed on the first page. It's all there, read it. It will do you good.

AN EYESORE.

It is no exaggeration to say that the appearance of Cottage place for years has been a positive disgrace to the city, not to mention those responsible for its deplorable condition. It is good news, therefore, to learn that there is to be a change for the better. Acting on the petition of the Charity Organization Society, the Common Council has ordered a general "clean up" in that locality. This was a matter for the Chamber of Commerce to give its attention to, and it is rather a reflection on that civic body that the C. O. S. had to take the initiative. But that is of little consequence, the important thing is that a public "eyesore" is to be no more.

As Cottage place faces the railroad tracks, its wretched appearance has been particucarly deplorable. People passing through a city on trains get a wrong impression of the community when they see such an unsightly row of dwellings, and first impressions count more than they should. Tell these people that Plainfield makes claim to being "the city beautiful" and they would instantly recall the squalid thoroughfare which met their gaze as they passed swiftly through the city.

Let the "clean up" be a thorough one.

Red Cross stamps have been placed on sale by the Charity Organization Society, 50,000 having been obtained for local use on letters and parcels during the Christmas season. It should be borne in mind that eighty-five per cent. of the cash realized in this way will be devoted to local work for the relief of the poor afflicted with tuberculosis or having a tendency to develop that dreaded disease. The stamps sell for a cent apiece and may be had, among other places at the Daily Press office in any quantites desired.

The Daily Press will be glad to publish any expressions of opinion on the suggestion that the city make an appropriation of $900 to defray the expense of ice skating facilities at Parker Field. It should be remembered, however, that this paper publishes no communication unless the name of the writer is allowed to be attached to what he has to say.

Now is the time to do Christmas shopping, for not only will "the early bird" get the choice of the greatest variety of selection but will be doing a merciful act for the young woman behind the counter who is ordinarily "rushed to death" during the last few days before Christmas.

Every man and woman in the community ought to read the contributed editorial to appear next Saturday. If they do, it will be a few moments will spent. Look out for it.

ASSESSMENTS CAUSE OF MANY PROTESTS

Commission's Report Recalled and Property-Owners to Be Given a Hearing.

That there may be some merit in the protests of the realty companies and hundreds of other individual property owners regarding the sewer assessments made in the southern part of the city by Howard C. Tracy, H. B. MacDonald and Edward A. Laing, was evident at the December meeting of the Common Council last night, when that body after previously confirming the commissioner's report, voted to reconsider it. It was announced afterwards that the Common Council as a committee on the whole would take the report up on Monday night, December 9, and all protesting property owners and others interested would be present to state their grievance.

When the Council confirmed the report at a previous meeting, the Plainfield Construction Company, which is developing a large tract of land in the southern part of the city, protested against its assessment, an additional $987, especially for the reason that it had donated a piece of land upon which the pumping station is located with the understanding that the assessment should be on a basis of 60 cents a foot, instead of $1 which seems to have been adopted by the commissioners. Last night this same company again entered a protest and asked to be heard, and then following that there were presented a large number of others, including one from May R. Green, of 950 West Sixth street; the Central Holding Company, owning property on Plainfield, Sherman and Stelle avenues; Elston S. Elliott, R. A. Claybrook, and six separate petitions bearing hundreds of names, which were headed by Mrs. Maud C. Serrell, Mrs. Bertha Randolph, Thomas F. Hylan, Stephen Higham, Alfred Spangenberg and Mrs. Bessie E. Loch.

All of these petitions were laid on the table at first and later Councilman F. E. Mygatt had them referred to the sewer committee, and then arose the question of giving the petitioners an opportunity of appearing before the Council. It was finally decided to grant such a hearing on Monday night, December 9, and all those included in the list of assessments will have the opportunity to come before the Council and have their say on the subject.

SOCIETY XMAS DANCE PLANNED FOR DEC. 27

Among the social events planned for the Christmas season is a Christmas dance to be held at Hartridge Auditorium on Friday evening, December 27. Barrows, Mrs. Thomas M. Day, Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. George P. Mellick, Mrs. J. Hartley Mellick, Mrs. Walter L. Righter, Mrs. Daniel Runkle, Mrs. Harry G. Runkle, Mrs. Edward P. Sharretts, Mrs. Percy H. Stewart, Mrs. Edward M. VanBuren and Mrs. Lewis E. Waring.

The temperature report from the State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 48 degrees; 11 a. m., 52 degrees; 1 p. m., 52 degrees.

50,000 RED CROSS SEALS ARE ON SALE

85 Per Cent. of the Money Realized Will Be Spent in Local Charity Work.

The Charity Organization Society has received a large supply of Red Cross Christmas Seals which have been sent out by the National Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, and they are now on sale at the Daily Press office, the local stores, the high schools of the city and borough and by the trustees of the local society. These seals may be placed on the back of letters, the postal authorities ruling that they must not be affixed to the addressed side.

Notwithstanding the fact that several tuberculosis patients have been received at Bonnie Burn Sanitorium, there are a number in the city who cannot go there and the Charity Organization Society employs one of four nurses to visit these patients. This work will be continued.

Red Cross Seals sell for a cent apiece and eighty-five per cent. of the cash receipts will be used in the work right here in Plainfield. The C. O. S. has obtained 50,000 seals.

CO. K DECIDES TO HUSTLE TO WIN PLAYER-PIANO

The regular weekly drill and monthly business meeting of Company K held in the armory last night was attended by forty members. Matters of interest to the welfare of the company were taken up after the drill was held. The corporals of the different squads were instructed to drill their men and the drills proved to be helpful to both the men in the ranks and to the corporals who commanded them.

At the business meeting the question of the Daily Press piano contest in which the company now stands first was taken. After speeches by Captain Peterson and Lieutenant Hort several of the men offered suggestions. A vote was taken as to whether the company should remain in the race or drop out and the results were that not one had voted to quit. When the returns were read the captain said that by their votes the members had decided to compete and it would be necessary for all of them to get out and hustle.

An election of civic officers of the company will be held at the January business meeting which will be held on Monday, January 6.

ACCIDENTLY KNOCKED DOWN BY COP; SEEKS A RECOVERY

Mrs. Sarah M. Kenney, of 743 South Second street, communicating with the Common Council last night, complained that on November 9 while walking along West Front street, she was run into and knocked down by Patrolman George Dobson, while he was running along that street. She said that she had been injured, was obliged to have the services of a physician, engaged a carriage to take her home and that her hat was ruined. That was the purport of the first letter, which was accompanied by a second one in which the writer said that she would be satisfied to have the city allow her expenses, otherwise she would feel compelled to take other action. This was referred to the police committee.

It is understood that the accident referred to by Mrs. Kenney occurred when Patrolman Dobson was trying to catch a man, who was running away from him. It is said that the policeman offered to get a carriage and send the woman home, but she declined the offer.

The matter will be investigated by the police board.

TOLD OF REMBRANDT, THE POET-PAINTER

Dr. George Kriehn Gives Illustrated Talk Before Monday Afternoon Club.

Members of the Monday Afternoon Club were highly entertained at Hartridge Auditorium yesterday afternoon by an unusually instructing lecture given by Dr. George Kriehn, translator, historian and professor of art. His subject was "Rembrandt, the Poet-Painter." His address was illustrated and the lantern slides were reproductions of the great artist's famous works, including paintings exhibited in all of the art centres of the world, principally those shown in galleries in Russia, France, Italy and England. They included Rembrandt's portraits of his mother, two wives and his children. The etchings and the landscapes also proved highly interesting.

Dr. Kriehn lauded Rembrandt's achievements as a great artist. He has studied the life of the artist in order to form the guidance necessary for the true appreciation of his works, and he told in brief the history and development of art to a degree in which it was carried by famous painters.

The lecturer has gained distinction as an editor of histories and encyclopaedias of art. He took his degree of Ph. B. at the University of Strasburg, and has been a professor of art in Leland Stonford University, Columbia University and Johns Hopkins.

R. R. TAX HELD BACK; DUNELLEN IN QUANDRY

The members of the Dunellen Council decided at the meeting last night to send a letter to the Central Railroad officials requesting them to remove the flagman's shanty on the north side of the railroad at Washington avenue, which was built in the road instead of alongside as it should have been.

As the borough of Dunellen has not received its share of the railroad tax it was necessary to defer the payment of some of the bills against the town. After the regular routine business the meeting was adjourned for ten days, in hope that by that time the money will be paid by the State officials.

The groom is a grandson of the late Rev. David J. Yerkes, D. D., the honored pastor of the First Baptist church for more than forty years.

Plainfielder Attending American Assn. Annual Convention at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 3.—Nearly all the leading road builders of the United States and Canada are gathered here to attend the ninth annual convention of the American Road Builders' Association, which opened its four day session at Music Hall today. Among the delegates is Robert A. Meeker, of Plainfield, State supervisor of roads in New Jersey and one of the leading authorities on road building in the Unisted States. In connection with the convention and with the American Good Roads Congress, which is always a feature of these conventions, an interesting exhibition of road building machinery and appliances, road materials, methods of construction and numerous maps, diagrams and photographs to illustrate the work done in various States, has been arranged.

The American Road Builders' association was organized in 1902 and comprises among its members the most noted road building experts of the United States and Canada. Nelson P. PRESIDENT'S FINAL MESSAGE

The foreign relations of the United States actually and potentially affect the state of the Union to a degree not widely realized and hardly surpassed by any other factor in the welfare of the whole nation. The position of the United States in the moral, intellectual and material relations of the family of nations should be a matter of vital interest to every patriotic citizen. The national prosperity and power impose upon us duties which we cannot shirk if we are to be true to our ideals.

The tremendous growth of the export trade of the United States has already made that trade a very real factor in the industrial and commercial prosperity of the country. With the development of our industries the foreign commerce of the United States must rapidly become a still more essential factor in its economic welfare.

The relations of the United States with all foreign powers remain upon a sound basis of peace, harmony and friendship. A greater insistence upon justice to American citizens or interests wherever it may have been denied and a stronger emphasis of the need of mutuality in commercial and other relations have only served to strengthen our friendship with foreign countries by placing those friendships upon a firm foundation of realities as well as aspirations.

Reorganization of State Department.

At the beginning of the present administration the United States, having fully entered upon its position as a world power, with the responsibilities thrust upon it by the results of the Spanish-American war and already engaged in laying the groundwork of a vast foreign trade upon which it should one day become more and more dependent, found itself without the machinery for giving thorough attention to and taking effective action upon a mass of intricate business vital to American interests in every country in the world.

The department of state was an archaic and inadequate machine, lacking most of the attributes of the foreign office of any great modern power. With an appropriation made upon my recommendation by the congress on Aug. 5, 1909, the department of state was completely reorganized. There were created divisions of Latin-American affairs and of far eastern, near eastern and western European affairs.

The law offices of the department were greatly strengthened. There were added foreign trade advisers to co-operate with the diplomatic and consular bureaus and the politico-geographical divisions in the innumerable matters where commercial diplomacy or consular work calls for such special knowledge. The same officers, together with the rest of the new organization, are able at all times to give to American citizens accurate information as to conditions in foreign countries with which they have business and likewise to co-operate more effectively with the congress and also with the other executive departments.

Merit System in Consular and Diplomatic Corps.

Expert knowledge and professional training must evidently be the essence of this reorganization. Without a trained foreign service there would not be men available for the work in the reorganized department of state. President Cleveland had taken the first step toward introducing the merit system in the foreign service. That had been followed by the application of the merit principle, with excellent results to the entire consular branch. Almost nothing, however, had been done in this direction with regard to the diplomatic service. In this age of commercial diplomacy it was evidently of the first importance to train an adequate personnel in that branch of the service.

Therefore, on Nov. 26, 1909, by an executive order I placed the diplomatic service up to the grade of secretary of embassy, inclusive, upon exactly the same strict nonpartisan basis of the merit system, rigid examination for appointment and promotion only for efficiency, as had been maintained without exception in the consular service.

Merit and Nonpartisan Character of Appointments.

How faithful to the merit system and how nonpartisan has been the conduct of the diplomatic and consular services in the last four years may be judged from the following: Three ambassadors now serving held their present rank at the beginning of my administration. Of the ten ambassadors whom I have appointed five were by promotion from the rank of minister. Nine ministers now serving held their present rank at the beginning of the administration. Of the thirty ministers whom I have appointed, eleven were promoted from the lower grades of the foreign service or from the department of state. Of the nineteen missions in Latin-America, where our relations are close and our interest is great, fifteen chiefs of mission are service men, three having entered the service during this administration.

The thirty-seven secretaries of embassy or legation who have received their initial appointments after passing successfully the required examination were chosen for ascertained fitness, without regard to political affiliations. A dearth of candidates from southern and western states has alone made it impossible thus far completely to equalize all the states' representations in the foreign service. In the effort to equalize the representation of the various states in the consular service I have made sixteen of the twenty-nine new appointments as consul which have occurred during my administration from the southern states. This is 55 per cent. Every other consular appointment made, including the promotion of eleven young men from the consular assistant and student interpreter corps, has been by promotion or transfer, based solely upon efficiency shown in the service.

Larger Provision For Embassies and Legations Recommended.

In connection with legislation for the amelioration of the foreign service, I wish to invite attention to the advisability of placing the salary appropriations upon a better basis. I believe that the best results would be obtained by a moderate scale of salaries, with adequate funds for the expenses of proper representation, based in each case upon the scale and cost of living at each post, controlled by a system of accounting and under the general direction of the department of state.

In line with the object which I have sought of placing our foreign service on a basis of permanency, I have at various times advocated special congress for the acquisition of government owned buildings for the residence and offices of our diplomatic officers, so as to place them more nearly on an equality with similar officers of other nations and to do away with the discrimination which otherwise must necessarily be made in some cases in favor of men having large private fortunes.

Diplomacy a Handmaid of Commercial Intercourse and Peace.

The diplomacy of the present administration has sought to respond to modern ideas of commercial intercourse. This policy has been characterized as substituting dollars for bullets. It is one that appeals alike to idealistic humanitarian sentiments, to the dictates of sound policy and strategy and to legitimate commercial aims. It is an effort frankly directed to the increase of American trade upon the axiomatic principle that the government of the United States shall extend all proper support to every legitimate and beneficial American enterprise abroad. How great have been the results of this diplomacy, coupled with the maximum and minimum provision of the tariff law, will be seen by some consideration of the wonderful increase in the export trade of the United States. Because modern diplomacy is commercial there has been a disposition in some quarters to attribute to it none but materialistic aims. How strikingly erroneous is such an impression may be seen from a study of the results by which the diplomacy of the United States can be judged.

Successful Efforts In Promotion of Peace.

In the field of work toward the ideals of peace this government negotiated, but to my regret was unable to consummate, two arbitration treaties which set the highest mark of the aspiration of nations toward the substitution of arbitration and reason for war in the settlement of international disputes. Through the efforts of American diplomacy several wars have been prevented or ended. I refer to the successful tripartite mediation of the Argentine Republic, Brazil, and the United States between Peru and Ecuador, the bringing of the boundary dispute between Panama and Costa Rica to peaceful arbitration; the staying of warlike preparations when Haiti and the Dominican Republic were on the verge of hostilities; the stopping of a war in Nicaragua; the halting of internecine strife in Honduras.

The government of the United States was thanked for its influence toward the restoration of amicable relations between the Argentine Republic and Bolivia. The diplomacy of the United States is active in seeking to assuage the remaining ill feeling between this country and the republic of Colombia. In the recent civil war in China the United States successfully joined with the other interested powers in urging an early cessation of hostilities. An agreement has been reached between the governments of Chile and Peru whereby the celebrated Tacna-Arica dispute, which has so long embittered international relations on the west coast of South America, has at last been adjusted. Simultaneously came the news that the boundary dispute between Peru and Ecuador had entered upon a stage of amicable settlement.

China.

In China the policy of encouraging financial investment to enable that country to help itself has had the result of giving new life and practical application to the open door policy. The consistent purpose of the present administration has been to encourage the use of American capital in the development of China by the promotion of those essential reforms to which China is pledged by treaties with the United States and other powers.

The hypothecation to foreign bankers in connection with certain industrial enterprises, such as the Hukuang railways, of the national revenues upon which these reforms depended, led the department of state early in the administration to demand for American citizens participation in such enterprises, in order that the United States might have equal rights and an equal voice in all questions pertaining to the disposition of the public revenues concerned.

The same policy of promoting international accord among the powers having similar treaty rights as ourselves in the matters of reform, which could not be put into practical effect without the common consent of all, was likewise adopted in the case of the loan desired by China for the reform of its currency. The principle of international co-operation in matters of common interest upon which our policy had already been based in all of the above instances has admittedly been a great factor in that concert of the powers which has been so happily conspicuous during the perilous period of transition through which the great Chinese nation has been passing.

Central America Needs Our Help In Debt Adjustment.

In Central America the aim has been to help such countries as Nicaragua and Honduras to help themselves. They are the immediate beneficiaries. The national benefit to the United States is twofold. First, it is obvious that the Monroe doctrine is more vital in the neighborhood of the Panama canal and the zone of the Caribbean than anywhere else. There, too, the maintenance of that doctrine falls most heavily upon the United States. It is therefore essential that the countries within that sphere shall be removed from the jeopardy involved by heavy foreign debt and chaotic national finances and from the ever present danger of international complications due to disorder at home.

Hence the United States has been glad to encourage and support American bankers who were willing to lend a helping hand to the financial rehabilitation of such countries because this financial rehabilitation and the protection of their custom houses from being the prey of would be dictators would remove at one stroke the menace of foreign creditors and the menace of revolutionary disorder.

I wish to call your especial attention to the recent occurrences in Nicaragua, for I believe the terrible events recorded there during the revolution of the past summer—the useless loss of life, the devastation of property, the bombardment of defenseless cities, the killing and wounding of women and children, the torturing of noncombatants to exact contributions and the suffering of thousands of human beings—might have been averted had the department of state, through approval of the loan convention by the senate, been permitted to carry out its now well developed policy of encouraging the extending of financial aid to weak Central American states with the primary objects of avoiding just such revolutions by assisting those republics to rehabilitate their finances, to establish their currency on a stable basis, to remove the custom houses from the danger of revolutions by arranging for their secure administration, and to establish reliable banks.

I wish to congratulate the officers and men of the United States navy and marine corps who took part in re-establishing order in Nicaragua upon their splendid conduct and to record with sorrow the death of seven American marines and bluejackets. Since the re-establishment of peace and order elections have been held amid conditions of quiet and tranquillity. Nearly all the American marines have now been withdrawn.

Our Mexican Policy.

For two years revolution and counter revolution have distraught the neighboring republic of Mexico. Brigandage has involved a great deal of depredation upon foreign interests. There have constantly recurred questions of extreme delicacy. On several occasions very difficult situations have arisen on our frontier. Throughout this trying period the policy of the United States has been one of patient nonintervention, steadfast recognition of constituted authority in the neighboring nation and the exertion of every effort to care for American interests. I profoundly hope that the Mexican nation may soon resume the path of order, prosperity and progress. To that nation in its sore troubles the sympathetic friendship of the United States has been demonstrated to a high degree.

There were in Mexico at the beginning of the revolution some 30,000 or 40,000 American citizens engaged in enterprises contributing greatly to the prosperity of that republic and also benefiting the important trade between the two countries. The investments of American capital in Mexico has been estimated at $1,000,000,000. The responsibility of endeavoring to safeguard those interests and the dangers inseparable from propinquity to so turbulent a situation have been great, but I am happy to have been able to adhere to the policy above outlined—a policy which I hope may soon be justified by the complete success of the Mexican people in regaining the blessings of peace and good order.

Agricultural Credits.

A most important work accomplished in the past year by the American diplomatic officers in Europe is the investigation of the agricultural credit system in the European countries. Both as a means to afford relief to the consumers of this country through a more thorough development of agricultural resources and as a means of more sufficiently maintaining the agricultural population, the project to establish credit facilities for the farmers is a concern of vital importance to this nation.

No evidence of prosperity among well established farmers should blind us to the fact that lack of capital is preventing a development of the nation's agricultural resources and an adequate increase of the land under cultivation; that agricultural production is fast falling behind the increase in population and that, in fact, although these well established farmers are maintained in increasing prosperity because of the natural increase in population, we are not developing the industry of agriculture.

Advantage of Maximum and Minimum Tariff Provision.

The importance which our manufactures have assumed in the commerce of the world in competition with the manufactures of other countries again draws attention to the duty of this government to use its utmost endeavors to secure impartial treatment for American products in all markets. Healthy commercial rivalry in international intercourse is best assured by the possession of proper means for protecting and promoting our foreign trade. It is natural that competitive countries should view with some concern this steady expansion of our commerce. If in some instances the measures taken by them to meet it are not entirely equitable a remedy should be found.

In former messages I have described the negotiations of the department of state with foreign governments for the adjustment of the maximum and minimum tariff as provided in section 2 of the tariff law of 1909. The advantages secured by the adjustment of our trade relations under this law have continued during the last year, and some additional cases of discriminatory treatment of which we had reason to complain have been removed. The department of state has for the first time in the history of this country obtained substantial most-favored-nation treatment from all the countries of the world.

There are, however, other instances which, while apparently not constituting undue discrimination in the sense of section 2, are nevertheless exceptions to the complete equity of tariff treatment for American products that the department of state consistently has sought to obtain for American commerce abroad.

Necessity For Supplementary Legislation.

These developments confirm the opinion conveyed to you in my annual message of 1911, that while the maximum and minimum provision of the tariff law of 1909 has been fully justified by the success achieved in removing previously existing undue discriminations against American products, yet experience has shown that this feature of the law should be amended in such way as to provide a fully effective means of meeting the varying degrees of discriminatory treatment of American commerce in foreign countries still encountered, as well as to protect against injurious treatment on the part of foreign governments through either legislative or administrative measures the financial interests abroad of American citizens whose enterprises enlarge the market for American commodities.

I cannot too strongly recommend to the congress the passage of some such enabling measure as the bill which was recommended by the secretary of state in his letter of Dec. 13, 1911. The object of the proposed legislation is, in brief, to enable the executive to apply, as the case may require, to any or all commodities, whether or not on the free list from a country which discriminates against the United States, a graduated scale of duties up to the maximum of 25 per cent ad valorem provided in the present law.

Flat tariffs are out of date. Nations no longer accord equal tariff treatment to all other nations irrespective of the treatment from them received. Such a flexible power at the command of the executive would serve to moderate any unfavorable tendencies on the part of those countries from which the importations into the United States are substantially confined to articles on the free list as well as of the countries which find a lucrative market in the United States for their products under existing custom rates. It is very necessary that the American government should be equipped with weapons of negotiation adopted to modern economic conditions in order that we may at all times be in a position to gain not only technically just but actually equitable treatment for our trade and also for American enterprises and vested interests abroad.

Business Secured to Our Country by Direct Official Effort.

As illustrating the commercial benefits to the nation derived from the new diplomacy and its effectiveness upon the material as well as the more ideal side, it may be remarked that through direct official efforts alone there have been obtained in the course of this administration contracts from foreign governments involving an expenditure of $50,000,000 in the factories of the United States.

It is germane to these observations to remark that in the two years that have elapsed since the successful negotiation of our new treaty with Japan, which at the time seemed to present so many practical difficulties, our export trade to that country has increased at the rate of over $1,000,000 a month. Our exports to Japan for the year ended June 30, 1910, were $21,959,310, while for the year ended June 30, 1912, the exports were $53,478,046, a net increase in the sale of American products of nearly 150 per cent.

The act adopted at the last session of congress to give effect to the fur seal convention of July 7, 1911, between Great Britain, Japan, Russia and the United States provided for the suspension of all land killing of seals on the Pribilof islands for a period of five years, and an objection has now been presented to this provision by the other parties in interest, which raises the issue as to whether or not this prohibition of land killing is inconsistent with the spirit if not the letter of the treaty stipulations. The justification for establishing this close season depends, under the terms of the convention, upon how far if at all it is necessary for protecting and preserving the American fur seal herd and for increasing its number. This is a question requiring examination of the present condition of the herd and the treatment which it needs in the light of actual experience and scientific investigation.

Final Settlement of North Atlantic Fisheries Dispute.

On the 20th of July last an agreement was concluded between the United States and Great Britain adopting, with certain modifications, the rules and method of procedure recommended in the award rendered by the North Atlantic coast fisheries arbitration tribunal on Sept. 7, 1910, for the settlement hereafter, in accordance with the principles laid down in the award, of questions arising with reference to the exercise of the American fishing liberties under Article 1 of the treaty of Oct. 20, 1818, between the United States and Great Britain. This agreement received the approval of the senate on Aug. 1 and was formally ratified by the two governments on Nov. 15 last.

Opium Conference—Unfortunate Failure of Our Government.

In my message on foreign relations communicated to the two houses of congress Dec. 7, 1911, I called special attention to the assembling of the opium conference at The Hague, to the fact that that conference was to review all pertinent muncipal laws relating to the opium and allied evils and certainly all international rules regarding these evils, and to the fact that it seemed to me most essential that the congress should take immediate action on the anti-narcotic legislation before the congress, to which I had previously called attention by a special message.

The congress at its present session should enact into law those bills now before it which have been so carefully drawn up in collaboration between the department of state and the other executive departments and which have behind them not only the moral sentiment of the country, but the practical support of all the legitimate trade interests likely to be affected. Since the international convention was signed adherence to it has been made by several European states not represented at the conference of The Hague and also by seventeen Latin-American republics.

Europe and the Near East.

The war between Italy and Turkey came to a close in October last by the signature of a treaty of peace, subsequently to which the Ottoman empire renounced sovereignty over Cyrenaica and Tripolitania in favor of Italy. During the past year the near east has unfortunately been the theater of constant hostilities. Almost simultaneously with the conclusion of peace between Italy and Turkey and their arrival at an adjustment of the complex questions at issue between them, war broke out between Turkey on the one hand and Bulgaria, Greece, Montenegro and Servia on the other.

In the exercise of my duty in the matter I have dispatched to Turkish waters a special service squadron, consisting of two armored cruisers, in order that this government may if need be bear its part in such measures as it may be necessary for the interested nations to adopt for the safeguarding of foreign lives and property in the Ottoman empire in the event that a dangerous situation should develop.

Liberia.

As a result of the efforts of this government to place the government of Liberia in position to pay its outstanding indebtedness and to maintain a stable and efficient government, negotiations for a loan of $1,700,000 have been successfully concluded, and it is anticipated that the payment of the old loan and the issuance of the bonds of the 1912 loan for the rehabilitation of the finances of Liberia will follow at an early date, when the new receivership will go into active operation. The new receivership will consist of a general receiver of customs designated by the government of the United States and three receivers of customs designated by the governments of Germany, France and Great Britain, which countries have commercial interests in the republic of Liberia.

The Far East.

The political disturbances in China in the autumn and winter of 1911-12 resulted in the abdication of the Manchu rulers on Feb. 12, followed by the formation of a provisional republican government empowered to conduct the affairs of the nation until a permanent government might be regularly established. The natural sympathy of the American people with the assumption of republican principles by the Chinese people was appropriately expressed in a concurrent resolution of congress on April 17, 1912.

A constituent assembly, composed of representatives duly chosen by the people of China in the elections that are now being held, has been called to meet in January next to adopt a permanent constitution and organize the government of the nascent republic. During the formative constitutional stage and pending definite action by the assembly, as expressive of the popular will, and the hoped for establishment of a stable republican form of government capable of fulfilling its international obligations, the United States is, according to precedent, maintaining full and friendly de facto relations with the provisional government.

The new condition of affairs thus created has presented many serious and complicated problems, both of internal rehabilitation and of international relations, whose solution it was realized would necessarily require much time and patience. From the beginning of the upheaval last autumn it was felt by the United States, in common with the other powers having large interests in China, that independent action by the foreign governments in their own individual interests would add further confusion to a situation already complicated. A policy of international co-operation was accordingly adopted in an understanding, reached early in the disturbances, to act together for the protection of the lives and property of foreigners if menaced, to maintain an attitude of strict impartiality as between the contending factions and to abstain from any endeavor to influence the Chinese in their organization of a new form of government.

It was futher mutually agreed, in the hope of hastening an end to hostilities, that none of the interested powers would approve the making of loans by its nationals to either side. As soon, however, as a united provisional government of China was assured, the United States joined in a favorable consideration of that government's request for advances needed for immediate administrative necessities and later for a loan to effect a permanent national reorganization. The interested governments had already, by common consent, adopted, in respect to the purposes, expenditure and security of any loans to China made by their nationals, certain conditions which were held to be essential, not only to secure reasonable protection for the foreign investors, but also to safeguard and strengthen China's credit by discouraging indiscriminate borrowing and by insuring the application of the funds toward the establishment of the stable and effective government necessary to China's welfare.

In June last representative banking groups of the United States, France, Germany, Great Britain, Japan and Russia formulated, with the general sanction of their respective governments, the guaranties that would be expected in relation to the expenditure and security of the large reorganization loan desired by China, which, however, have thus far proved unacceptable to the provisional government.

The Cuban Situation.

The republic of Cuba last May was in the throes of a lawless uprising that for a time threatened the destruction of a great deal of valuable property—much of it owned by Americans and other foreigners—as well as the existence of the government itself. The armed force of Cuba being inadequate to guard property from attack and at the same time properly to operate against the rebels, a force of American marines was dispatched from our naval station at Guantanamo into the province of Oriente for the protection of American and other foreign life and property. The Cuban government was thus able to use all its forces in putting down the outbreak, which it succeeded in doing in a period of six weeks. The presence of two American warships in the harbor of Havana during the most critical period of this disturbance contributed in great measure to allay the fears of the inhabitants, including a large foreign colony.

Necessity For Retention and Expansion of Our Foreign Trade.

It is not possible to make to the congress a communication upon the present foreign relations of the United States so detailed as to convey an adequate impression of the enormous increase in the importance and activities of those relations. If this government is really to preserve to the American people that free opportunity in foreign markets which will soon be indispensable to our prosperity, even greater efforts must be made.

Conclusion.

Congress should fully realize the conditions which obtain in the world as we find ourselves at the threshold of our middle age as a nation. We have emerged full grown as a peer in the great concourse of nations. We have passed through various formative periods. We have been self centered in the struggle to develop our domestic questions. The nation is now too mature to continue in its foreign relations those temporary expedients natural to a people to whom domestic affairs are the sole concern.

In the past our diplomacy has often consisted, in normal times, in a mere assertion of the right to international existence. We are now in a larger relation with broader rights of our own and obligations to others than ourselves. A number of great guiding principles were laid down early in the history of this government. The recent task of our diplomacy has been to adjust those principles to the conditions of today, to develop their corollaries, to find practical applications of the old principles expanded to meet new situations.

The opening of the Panama canal will mark a new era in our international life and create new and world wide conditions which, with their vast correlations and consequences, will obtain for hundreds of years to come. We must not wait for events to overtake us unawares. With continuity of purpose we must deal with the problems of our external relations by a diplomacy modern, resourceful, magnanimous and fittingly expressive of the high ideals of a great nation.

the sewer committee to borrow money from time to time on account of sewer work until the bonds are issued; also that a $7 check be drawn in favor of M. Mangon, on account of sewer contract, a check for that amount having been lost. On motion of Mr. Mygatt releases were granted in the tax matter of G. C. Hall on property located on Henry street.

The sum of $43 was appropriated in accordance with a resolution by Mr. Mygatt, for the purpose of placing a window in the office of the tax collector, which is needed for both light and ventilation.

In connection with suggestions made by the Board of Health, following a conference with the Charity Organization Society, relative to the cleaning up of Cottage place and making it sanitary, Mr. Gloak offered a resolution which was adopted requesting the New Jersey Central to build a wall or fence along its property on Cottage place.

The fire and building committee was authorized to expend $445 with which to place a new roof on the fire headquarter's building, in accordance with a resolution by Councilman D. W. Taylor.

Ordinances establishing the side lines on Putnam avenue and to open up Wallace place, were adopted on third reading, following the usual public hearing. No one appeared to speak for or against the improvements. The ordinance providing that all applications for liquor licenses shall be presented on January 1 of each year, instead of February 1 as heretofore, was passed on third reading. This action was taken so that the Council will have more time to consider the applications before the time of granting or refusing the same on March 1.

Councilman P. J. Reville, as chairman of the auditing committee, in presenting the bills, objected to one of John E. Keely for $354.38 for street sprinkling for 70⅞ days. He said that he understood that Mr Keely had sprinkling wagons out on Thanksgiving Day at a time when it was snowing and he objected to paying for such work. This bill was held up for investigation.

On motion of Mr. Mygatt the ordinance providing for the $18,000 street improvement bond issue was adopted on third reading.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

TURKEY DRESSING.

THE dressing for the Thanksgiving turkey is an important matter. If tired of the plain bread stuffing you will find many others whose flavor and richness appeal to jaded appetites.

Among them are the following:

Asparagus Dressing.—Take a large can of asparagus tips, an equal quantity of boiled chopped celery, two large cupfuls grated rye bread, two tablespoonfuls melted butter, one chopped hard boiled egg, one small minced Bermuda onion. Drain the asparagus tips carefully and mix the chopped celery with them, then add the other ingredients in the order mentioned, adding a dash of white pepper, a dash of horseradish and salt to taste. Blend carefully, moistening if too dry with a very little rich milk, and stuff into the turkey before the dressing is quite cold.

A Nut Dressing.

Chestnut Dressing.—Take one quart chestnuts, one cupful cold boiled rice (dry), one teaspoonful peanut butter, two powdered soda crackers, one tablespoonful melted butter, one saltspoonful paprika, one-quarter teaspoonful ground cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful salt, a pinch of celery salt. Boil the chestnuts in slightly salted water and after shelling pound to a paste, moistening with a little sweet cream and adding gradually the rice and other ingredients. Mix well and set to cool until it can be formed with the hands. Stuff the turkey about twelve hours before it is to be roasted.

A Timely Flavored Stuffing.

Celery Dressing.—Take two tablespoonfuls melted butter, one pint canned mushrooms, one-half cupful chopped celery, one teaspoonful minced parsley. Cut the crust from a loaf of stale bread, moisten slightly in cold milk and crumble with the hands; then stir in the above ingredients in the order named, adding salt and pepper to taste, a pinch of sage and half a scraped onion. Mix thoroughly and just before using dust in a pinch of ground mace.

Giblet Dressing.—Take cooked giblets chopped fine. Split sixteen common crackers and spread with butter, allowing one-fourth of a tablespoonful to each half. Pour over two and three-fourths of a cup of stock in which giblets were cooked. When the crackers have taken up stock add chopped giblets and season with salt and pepper.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Ernest Lister, elected governor of the State of Washington, is a native of England.

William Sulzer will succeed John A. Dix as governor of New York on New Year's Day.

John Burke, who is finishing his third term as governor of North Dakota, is mentioned for a place in the Wilson cabinet.

A national conference of leaders of the Prohibition party has been called to meet in Indianapolis the third week in January.

The revised figures show that in the next Congress the Southern Democrats will have a membership in the House and Senate together about equal to that from all other sections of the country.

Woodrow Wilson will be the sixth Presbyterian to occupy the White House. His predecessors of the same religious faith were Presidents Buchanan, Lincoln, Johnson, Cleveland and Benjamin Harrison.

David R. Francis, former governor of Missouri and Secretary of the Interior under President Cleveland, is mentioned as a possible successor to Whitelaw Reid as American ambassador to Great Britain.

The all-important Ways and Means Committee of the House, which will shape into bills the tariff policies of the Wilson administration, will undergo numerous changes in its membership on March 4.

Friends of John T. McGraw, who is Democratic national committeeman for West Virginia and a close political associate of William J. Bryan would not be surprised if he received the appointment of Postmaster-General.

Carmi Thompson, the new treasurer of the United States, is forty-one years old, and a native of West Virginia. Since his early youth, however, he has resided in Ohio, where he began life as a coal miner. His public career began with his election to the Ohio Legislature in 1902.

Key Pittman, selected by the Democrats of Nevada for United States senator, is a descendant of Francis Scott Key, the Marylander who wrote "The Star Spangled Banner." On his mother's side he is related to Chief Justice John Marshall, of the Supreme Court of the United States. The new Senator was born forty years ago in Vicksburg, Miss., where his father was a celebrated lawyer. Key Pittman is a lawyer and mining man and recently "struck it rich" when the Tonopah Merger shaft penetrated rich ore.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

"MAC" SAYS

Basketball started at P. H. S. yesterday and from the appearance of the candidates who reported, that school ought to have some team. A number of the men have been playing on other teams and are in the best of physical condition.

W. R. Wriston is coaching the school boys and although he has not given out his training routine it is sure to be a stiff one as the first game is carded for Saturday at Passaic.

N. P. H. S. is having pretty rough sledding in basketball. They have not secured a court to play their games on as yet.

Several football enthusiasts have asked where Sminck came in on that All-Plainfield football eleven. We will have to admit that Sminck is some end, but in picking a representative team of this kind it is necessary to take in something besides popular opinion. Sminck did not play all of Saturday's game, but when he was on the line he had the Holy Cross backs standing on their heads. Then too, that was only his second game of the season.

Pick your choice for an all-star eleven and send it in to this paper and we will gladly publish it.

From appearances at Cricket Field Saturday afternoon it did not look as though the North Plainfield police force was respected to any remarkable degree. Coming from the game, one of the blue coats was heard to say, "I got real desperate toward the end and really hit somebody on the leg." Who was the somebody? Manager Doyle is limping around, maybe he neglected to pay the cops.

When we met a group of the Holy Cross players making their way toward Somerville Saturday night we certainly thought that they were making good on their vow to start walking and never stop until they reached the sunny South, in the event that they failed to beat P. H. S.

They defeated P. H. S., but by so small a score that some of the players yielded to retribution by taking the train to Somerville.

That old hankering to get rid of the Hamilton family again cropped up Saturday afternoon. It so happened that Lester played end and the scholastic team discovered an opportunity for revenge. The result is a badly bruised eye, which "Les" is proudly exhibiting to all his friends.

SPARKS BY "SKID"

R. W. Burdick, of Dunellen, is riding a new Pope motorcycle.

Ralph Auerbach, president of the local club, intends to have a new machine next year. He's looking them all over.

Nick Thule, who very seldom attends a meeting of the club, says he will be at the first annual banquet with "bells" on.

Leslie Hampson intends to have a twin cylinder for 1913.

Remember the New Jersey Motorcycle Club reception and dance December 4, in Newark. It will be some racket.

E. Barrie won the Dunlap Gold Cup Road Race at Melbourne, Aus. The course was 116 miles long.

The Chatham County, Ga., police are "some class." They all have motorcycles.

It costs $10 to get a motorcycle from Detroit to New York city and $5.50 from New York city to Dublin, Ireland.

The twentieth annual six-day race starts 1 o'clock Monday morning, December 9.

A three-mile handicap bicycle race comes off at the Elizabeth Armory, December 14.

The Grand Central Palace motorcycle show will be held January 11 to 18. Many will journey to New York to see this event.

130,000 motorcycle magnetos have been ordered for 1913 from the Bosch Company. Like its big brother, the automobile, the motorcycle is becoming more popular every day.

W. Coddington and W. Powers have each purchased a 1913 "Indian."

J. Dickschmidt says winter trips are fine. "The best ever," is the way he answers this query.

The game of Auto polo introduced yesterday afternoon at Madison Square Garden, makes football or prize-fighting appear like ping pong matches in comparison. It is a mixture of the bull fight, Dervish dance and Caelic football and the only requirements a player needs to become efficient at the sport is an entire lack of nerves, a clean conscience, a life insurance policy and a good surgeon in attendance. The game is played by four men, two in each automobile. One at the steering wheel and the other on the running board with mallet in hand. The object of the game is to knock the ball under the respective uprights at each end of the "battle field." The tournament continues today.

FORWARD PASS STRATEGY.

Cases Which Are Declared Not to Be In Spirit of Rules.

Veteran followers of football can remember the time in the old days when possession of the ball meant so much that a fullback could run back fifteen or twenty yards and keep the ball for a first down. McBride of Yale once sprang this strategy on Harvard, thus taking advantage of the opportunity to keep the ball in Yale's possession which, as the rules then were worded could be done. Some criticism was made of the play on the ground that it wasn't sportsmanlike.

Recently there has turned up a play of a similar nature having to do with the forward pass. The passer when he sees he is being crowded or his receivers are covered merely flings the ball two or three yards in front of him. If it isn't the fourth down his side keeps the ball and puts it in play at the spot of the preceding down. Whether such a defensive measure is in keeping with the spirit of the rules is the point being raised.

There have been cases, too, of forward passers deliberately hurling the ball out of bounds thirty or forty yards beyond the scrimmage line. The oval goes to the opposing side where the ball crossed the side line and acts exactly as a kick that goes out of bounds. This also is being objected to as contrary to the spirit of the rules, but just wherein it is any more so than kicking out of bounds, say at an opponent's five yard line, is not clear. Kicking of that sort is often good strategy, but perhaps it is contended that kicking is a sportier proceeding because the pass could be done easier and also because possibly it never was intended that a forward pass should be so employed.

SPANK INDIANS FOR FOOTBALL MISTAKES.

Coach Warner of Carlisle will institute a ruling hereafter at the beginning of a season which he says will give the Indians much fun and beneficial training from the day's drill. Warner knows that carelessness was a strong contributing factor in Pennsylvania winning recently, and in seeking a remedy against mistakes in signals decided to turn the punishment for derelictions in signal work over to the Indian youths themselves. Any redskin who falls down on a signal through commission or omission is compelled to bend the upper part of his body forward and stand for one severe spank from every man on the team. Recently Warner tried it out, and Left End Wallette was the first aborigine chastised. His punishment from his team mates was so edifying that the only other mistake of the evening was made by Center Rush Bergie, who submitted to the punishment of his team mates with the best grace possible.

PENDLETON ON BALL FIELD.

Princeton's 1912 Football Captain May Join Senators Next Season.

"Tol" Pendleton, captain of the 1912 Princeton football eleven, may become a professional baseball player next season. Clark Griffith of the Washington club recently made Pendleton a big offer to play with his team next year, and "Tol" gave Griff a promise that if he intended to play professionally he would sign with the Senators.

In the last two years Pendleton has been the most closely watched man on the Tiger eleven. A ten second man on the track, he is about the fleetest back in the country. His career in baseball is hardly less successful. He was shortstop on his freshman team and for the last two years has been one of the varsity's steadiest players.

VAN HERWERDEN TAKES OATH AS COUNCILMAN

Councilman-elect Cornelius van-Herwerden, of the Second ward, appeared before Mayor G. W. V. Moy last night and was sworn in. He was accompanied by his counsel, V. W. Nash, Jr., and a few friends. The ceremony was brief, requiring only a few minutes. Afterward there was general handshaking on the part of Mr. van Herwerden's friends.

Mr. van Herwerden and his friends then adjourned to the Council meeting. President R. I. Tolles invited him and Councilman-elect A. D. Edgar and former Councilman Leslie M. Daniel to take seats within the enclosure, which they did. Mr. Daniel was present in the interest of the protest of the Plainfield Construction Company against a sewer assessment.

IMMENSE INCREASE IN TAXABLE VALUES

Year's Addition in State $123,034,745 and in Union County $6,356,211.

Trenton, Dec. 3.—Showing a net increase of $123,034,745.62 in the valuation of real and personal property in this State, the largest increase since 1907, the State Board of Equalization of Taxation, of which Senator Pierce, of Union, is president, today filed with Acting Governor Prince its annual report. The net valuation of property subject to local taxation in this State this year, as listed by the various assessors and revised and corrected by the County Boards of Taxation, is $2,289,770,280.78, as against $2,166,735,535.16 for 1911. The total valuation for 1912 is divided as follows:

Real estate, exclusive of second-class railroad property, $1,899,023,842.08; second-class railroad property, $97,148,398; personal property, $297,042,590.70; deductions for debts, other than mortgage indebtedness, $6,078,595.

The total valuation for Union county this year is $150,701,008.98, compared with $144,344,797.36 for 1911, an increase this year of $6,356,211.62. In Somerset county the total assessment is $32,479,757, an increase of $2,185,053 over 1911 when the figures were $30,294,704. The Middlesex county total this year is $68,192,295. In 1911 it was $62,907,862, showing an increase of $5,284,433.

The State Board says that the increase in Union county is made up, in round numbers, of $5,000,000 on real estate and $1,000,000 on personal property.

MEET OF CHURCHMEN

Trinity church, Elizabeth; Rev. Edwin Gabler, of Fanwood; Rev. A. S. Phelps, of Bound Brook, and the Venerable Archdeacon R. Bowden Shepherd. The vested choir of the church rendered several hymns during the service.

The conference of "general missions" was opened at 2:30 by an address on "Parish Missionary Problems," by Mrs. Phelps. Later in the day Miss Evelyn Prophet, of Yonkers, N. Y., will tell how the interest of the boys can be aroused, while Miss Cornelia Schwartz, of Lakewood, is to discuss the similar problem as regards girls.

Rev. Thomas A. Conover, of Bernardsville gave a stereopticon address this afternoon for the children. The mass meeting this evening, as has been announced, is to be of special interest to men.

WHEN YOU WERE A BOY YOU SURELY EXPECTED IT

On the complaint of Charles Handelman and Isaac Waltman, three boys were arraigned before City Judge De Meza this morning, on a charge of assault and battery. They were William Goff, 14 years old, of 541 West Third street; James Lyons, 14 years old, of 541 West Fifth street, and Michael Chivelli, 16 years old, or 442 West Third street. The complainants claimed that whenever they met the other three boys they were attacked without provocation. After severely lecturing the culprits, the court suspended sentence.

Mrs. John King, of Verdon street, is visiting her sister, Mrs. William Aff, of Brooklyn.

Under special rule the House called up for debate the Adamson bill on physical valuation of railroads. The bill is in the same on that was reported out by the committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce and placed on the calendar last spring.

In a statement today, Senator Ashurst, of Arizona, said that he would oppose the nomination of Judge Sloane to the Federal bench in that state and also that he would oppose the nomination of Judge Howard for the District of Western Washington.

PROCTOL TO BE SIGNED BY PLENIPOTENTIARIES

London, Dec. 3.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon the plenipotentiaries representing the Balkan allies and the Turkish government held a final conference at Baghtche on the Tchalja lines, according to a message from Sofia. The protocol for an armistice between the warring nations for the purpose of permitting them to begin peace negotiations is to be signed at that time or hostilities will be resumed at once. It is believed in official circles that the protocol will be signed.

Sofia, Dec. 3.—The armistice will be signed today at Baghtche, on the lines of Tchatalja, with or without Greece being a party to it. According to information obtained from authorities here Greece will be left to continue the war alone against Turkey if she so desires.

He started at New York, visited Panama, Ireland, Sweden, India, Japan and from there back home. The lecture was attended by about 250 and was given under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association.

HOPE CHAPEL TO MOVE?

There has been a rumor to the effect that Hope Chapel will soon build another church edifice a short distance west from its present edifice. Since the erection of a store next door to the chapel, which it is said will remain open on Sunday, this discussion is again being renewed, and it is probable that action may be taken by the board of trustees in the near future.

HOW TO PREVENT FIRE

Do not allow the formation of rubbish heaps. Attics and cellars should be kept free from combustible accumulations. Too frequently are hot ashes heaped against fences or other combustible surfaces. The householder should exercise great care in the disposal of waste material. Many homes have been destroyed because of bonfires. Exercise care in avoiding those conditions which tend to the origin of fire. It will repay you.

HER METHOD OF TRAINING CHILD

200 HEAR HER SPEAK

Principal of School Explains What Her Work is and What is Done for the Pupils—Follow Child's Inclination.

Before the Parent-Teacher Association of the Franklin and Stillman Schools in the High School Auditorium last night Mrs. M. L. Johnson, principal of the School of Organic Education, of Fairhope, Ala., delivered a plea for the natural development of children, not through parental pressure but by means of teachers trained to impart the demands of the child. She said that the schools and teachers should meet the requirements of the young and not force the pupil to meet those of the school and instructors.

The school, of which she is the head, follows the inclination of the pupil and if a child displays any marked talent for any particular line of study he is taught that special branch. His schedule is compiled from branches of study which appeal to his natural inclinations and is not burdened with those which prove distasteful to him. The speaker said that many failures in life were due to this wasted energy applied to unneeded studies instead of applying it to a study chosen by the pupil himself.

The plan of work discussed has been successfully carried out in the School of Organic Education and in that institution there are classes composed of children ranging in age from six to fifteen years.

Mrs. Johnson's talk was thoroughly enjoyed by a large attendance of parents, teachers and friends of Plainfield school children to the number of 200.

One of the special branches promoted at the Fairhope School is patriotism. The instructors make a special effort to inspire the child with a high regard for the country in which he lives and various plans have been adopted to make the subject of civil government more entertaining to the pupil. He is taught to keep the street in the vicinity of his home free from all manner of refuse and filth which will prove to make the city displeasing from a sanitary point of view. Mrs. Johnson claims that in order to love a country the patriot must have some part in making it and if the city is dirty and unattractive the citizen or child will take no pride in claiming it as his own.

RUSHING WORK ON HOSPITAL BUILDINGS

Rapid Progress on the Private Pavilion and Obstetrical Pavilion.

The results of Muhlenberg Hospital's campaign of last winter is rapidly taking definite shape in brick and stone. The private room pavilion is up to a point where the basement window frames have been set and already it looks much more like a building. Progress from now on should be more noticeable as a good deal of the work on this building up to this time has been on the foundations below ground.

From the present point the artistic "tapestry" brick will show as the facing of this building and progress will be watched with keen interest by the hundreds of contributors who have made the improvement possible. The Closson-Edgerton Obstetrical Pavilion is up ready for the first floor and the contractor is waiting for re-inforcing bars for the fire-proofing work.

It is the hope of the building committee that the delay will not be long on this account as the weather has been ideal for such work and freezing conditions may set in any day, when progress will be more difficult. The shelter at the trolley is ready for the roof and the carpenters will be at this steadily until it is finished.

SOLOMON MANN BUYS HENRY LIEFKE HOLDING

Henry Liefke has sold his property at 203 West Front street, now occupied by John Wirth, the baker, to Solomon Mann, a West Third street grocer. Mann says it is for investment purposes. While the consideration is not stated, it is said to be about $31,000. Mr. Wirth expects to remain where he is for the present.

This property is one of the oldest in the business section. It has a frontage of twenty-five feet and is 125 feet deep. Mr. Liefke purchased it from Henry and Edward Bachman, in 1890, at which time the brothers conducted a dry goods business there. Afterward Mr. Liefke was engaged in the baker business there for more than ten years. Later he sold the business to John Wirth.

CLERGY TALK ON MISSION EFFORT

Bishop Thomas and Archdeacon McGuire Speak at Closing Session.

A. S. COOPMAN ALSO

Big Missionary Rally at Holy Cross Miss Prophet and Miss Schwartz Are Heard in the Afternoon—Interest Is Shown By Many.

The missionary rally of the Elizabeth-Somerville district of the Diocese of New Jersey in the Holy Cross church was concluded last night with three twenty-minute addresses by missionary workers, as an incident to a service.

The meeting was of special interest to men, each speaker dwelling particularly on the work that can be done by the men in spreading the Gospel of Christ.

After Rev. W. S. McCoy, rector of Holy Cross church, had offered prayer the first speaker, A. S. Coopman, of Englewood, was introduced by the Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church. His topic was "The Layman's Opportunity," and he told of the missionary work being done by men in foreign fields and asked that others join the force now at work in bringing souls to God.

The Venerable Archdeacon George Alexander McGuire, of New York, spoke of the good being done in the North for the education of the men of his race, taking as his topic "The Negro Problem." He said the white men were responsible for the existance of the black men in this country, and reviewed the time previous to the Civil War when negroes in large numbers were brought from Africa to be enlisted as slaves in the households and plantations of the South.

"In the time of the great war between the North and South," continued the preacher, "the white men of the States above Mason and Dixon's line fought bravely not only to save the Union, but to free the men of my race from the bondage of slavery. And I ask and plead with the younger generation of white people, and with the descendants of those brave soldiers who gave their lives for my people, to strive for the betterment of the educational and Christian life of the negroes. This is a problem that needs almost as much attention by the white man now." The closing address of the evening was made by the Rt. Rev. Nathaniel S. Thomas, D. D., Bishop of Wyoming, who spoke on Bibical subjects. While an offering was being taken Wm. G. Smith, bass soloist of the Holy Cross church, sang "Calvary."

While the evening session of the rally was devoted largely to subjects that would interest men, the children were highly entertained in the afternoon. A "Talk to Children," illustrated by moving pictures, was given by the Rev. T. A. Conover, of Bernardsville. With the use of the lantern and screen, the lecturer began his story with the birth of Christ and told of Christian happenings of note up to the present generation. Scenes in the mission fields of this country and in foreign lands were illustrated and as a final feature he took the children on an imaginary trip around the world.

The afternoon session opened with a conference on general missions presided over by Mrs. A. S. Phelps, of Bound Brook. An address on "Enthusiasm," was delivered by Miss A. B. Richmond, of Shanghai, who has had wide experience in the missionary fields of China and the Far East. The meeting closed with a talk by Miss Evelyn Prophet, of Yonkers, who dwelt on topics of special concern to boys. Miss Cornelia Schwartz, of Lakewood, held the attention of the girls in a short talk on "Girls of the Missionary Fold."

PARCELS POST LOCAL UNIT 767

Postmaster Bird Learns This, But His General Information is Meagre.

GOVERNMENT DILATORY

Plainfield's P. M. is Told That He Will Receive Books, etc., in Due Time, but the New System Goes Into Effect in less Than a Month.

Although the United States parcel post law will go into effect January 1, the only information on the subject received by Postmaster E. H. Bird is in three parcels post maps sent to him by the government. Accompanying the maps is a letter that a book of explanation giving other data will follow soon. Until the books arrive, Mr. Bird will be unable to give any definite information as to the working of the new system, except what has already been published in this paper.

According to the map the whole country is divided into what are called zones or units. The number for the local unit is 767. In the books to follow the rates of postage will be given which have already been announced in the Daily Press. The plan is to divide the sections off into distances of fifty miles from each office. Mr. Bird has no idea what arrangements will be made for delivering the parcels that arrive in the mail. At present there is a law which states that all packages weighing four pounds or more must be called for at the office. This rule has never been repealed, but Mr. Bird says that it is certainly the intention of the government to deliver packages under the new law.

Special stamps are to be issued for use on packages. The present issue of stamps will not be recognized no matter how much postage is placed on a package. In case other stamps are used the package will lay in a postoffice awaiting the affixing of the special stamps issued for that purpose. Mr. Bird is anxious to get all necessary information as soon as possible, for he is being besieged every day by people who ask a hundred questions which he is unable to answer at the present time.

ALBERT E. LEE, JR., DIED AT PORTO RICO HOME

Friends of Albert E. Lee, Jr., a bright youth who until recently attended the Franklin School, in this city, have learned of his death at Sanluce, Porto Rico. He died on November 21 and his end was due to blood poisoning caused by the pricking of a pimple on his face.

At the time of his death, young Lee was a pupil in the Sanluce High School and there as here he was extremely popular with his classmates. At the funeral the school principal delivered an eulogy and the forty members of the junior class to which he belonged acted as pall-bearers, taking turns carrying the casket from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Lee, to the cemetery a mile or so distant.

Lee's father was an American and his mother a Spaniard and so they made an agreement that he should first attend American schools and finish his education at Spanish schools. After attending the Franklin School, he studied at a preparatory academy in Massachusetts, spending his vacations here, where he had Donald Ketcham, of Westervelt avenue, as a chum. While here he lived at the home of Miss Caroline Harned, of East Front street.

FREEHOLDERS VIEW BRIDGES.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders held a special meeting at the court house, at Somerville, yesterday, after viewing a number of bridges. The structures inspected were the bridges at Middle Brook, the Raritan River bridge at Somerville, and also the Mountain avenue and Cliff street bridges over Peters' brook at the latter place. With the exception of the Mountain avenue bridge it was voted to repair the structures at once. It was also decided to rebuild the brick culvert on East High street near the new bridge over Peter's brook at Somerville.

TO GIVE BICKEL TO THE AUTHORITIES

Florida's Governor Decides to Grant Extradition—Now Hunt for Him.

When Governor Albert W. Gilchrist, of Florida, had refused to grant extradition papers asked for by the local authorities for the return of Claire Bickel to this city where he is wanted on an indictment issued by the Grand Judy on a charge of desertion, according to police headquarters, the alleged fugitive left Jacksonville, Fla., to parts unknown. In the meantime, it is said the governor of Florida reconsidered the case and had decided to grant requisition papers, but Bickel could not be found.

Captain Frederickson said the County Detective's office in Elizabeth had received word from Chief Kiely and Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., that Mr. Bickel had been traced to St. Augustine, and that when apprehended will be brought to this city, to answer the charges preferred against nim.

According to the accounts from the Jacksonville newspapers of the case, Bickel wrote to Governor Gilchrist saying he left his wife for causes that most men would have shot her for and that he had at no time avoided arrest, his wife being thoroughly acquainted with his whereabouts. The application from the New Jersey authorities seemed to have met temporary defeat because no proof had been offered to show he was a fugitive from justice.

Miss Olive B. Bickel, sister of the alleged fugitive, is receiving communications daily from her brother, and is doing everything in her power to liberate him.

ELIAS BIRD BURIED.

Funeral services for Elias Bird, 77 years old, a cousin of Postmaster Elias H. Bird, who died Saturday of complications at his home in Mt. Bethel, were held this afternoon from the Mt. Bethel church. Interment was in Mt. Bethel cemetery. Mr. Bird was well known throughout Somerset county and was owner of one of the largest saw mills in this section. He is survived by one brother, Louis M. Bird, of North Plainfield, besides his cousins and nephews.

REGRET AGENTS SIGNS ON HOUSES

Real Estate Brokers Association's Members May Put an End to Custom.

TRY TO FIND WAY OUT

Multiplicity of Signs Not Only Disfigure Property But Gives Real Estate a Bad Name—To Meet Again Dec. 17.

The Plainfield Real Estate Brokers' Association met in the office of Charles H. Lyman in the Frost building last night and discussed the question of adopting by-laws and a constitution for the association. There was also a lengthy discussion regarding the practice of certain real estate brokers in placing their signs on properties they have for rent or sale. It has been suggested by a number of brokers that it would be best to stop this custom, but among those at last night's meeting it was impossible to reach a decision.

Some of the brokers suggested that a member be allowed the privilege of placing his individual sign on any property he may have for rent or sale, adding "and other brokers," but this did not meet with the approval of others. It was cited that there are now several properties in the city on the market where there are displayed anywhere from one to a half dozen or more signs of brokers. These signs, the members feel, not only disfigure a property but when numerous they give the city a "black eye."

As all of the members and candidates for membership could not be present last night, it was decided to adjourn to Tuesday night, December 17, when the question of dues and a regular place of meeting will be decided upon. It has been suggested that the dues be $25 a year. From this income it would be possible to rent suitable quarters for carrying on the business of the association.

Earnest, sincere, hard work is now the order of the day and all the candidates entered in the Daily Press pianos contest are thoroughly alive to the possibilities of the situation and are determined with proper support to secure for themselves one of the three valuable rewards, namely, the player-piano, valued at $525; the piano without the player attachment, $275, and the cabinet vitaphone, $100, with a ten per cent. commission on all subscription money turned in.

The vote possibilities are great, for just at this time there are many hundreds of present subscribers who can with the proper degree of effort be persuaded to pay up and renew their subscription for six months or one year, giving their votes to some worthy organization or individual. The field in which to obtain new subscribers is practically unlimited.

It seems not unreasonable to expect those who are in arrears and those whose subscription is about to expire and expect to pay up some time, to avail themselves of the opportunity now offered by which they may render very substantial support to some club, lodge, organization or individual thereby enabling it to win a choice musical instrument which it would not be able to enjoy otherwise. Many will do this if they are asked by the candidates themselves, or some ardent supporter, and all are urged to put forth their best work along these lines during the remaining days of the contest. Do it now. Prompt action will bring best results and may win one of the three fine prizes.

One of the organizations which will receive substantial backing among many people in town is the Young Women's Christian Association. This body is doing a great deal of fine work in Plainfield and has need for all of the funds it is able to raise to keep on its splendid work. A new piano would be most acceptable and would be advantageously used, but it has been felt that the money which it would cost to procure one could be used to much better advantage at present for the regular necessary work of the association, and consequently those who are most interested in the organization have said that they feel that this is a splendid opportunity to secure the musical instrument, and at the same time enrich the organization's treasury by adding the ten per cent. commission offered for subscriptions to its funds. As a result the Y. W. C. A. will be one of the strongest competitors and the officers and members will make every effort to win one of the two principal prizes, with the hope that it will be the player-piano.

TO THE "GOOD FELLOWS" OF PLAINFIELD

Just about this time last year I told you my story. You listened to it—you did more—you followed its spirit out in a bang-up style. Bless your hearts, you made over 600 poor little tots know the real meaning of a joyous Christmas. I'm not claiming any credit for my story; I'm claiming credit for knowing that there are many Good Fellows in this fine old town of ours—royal chaps, who don't do much preaching, but when it comes to doing a good turn, well, they're there with the goods. This is no sermon that I'm handing you, it's a heart to heart talk with men with red blood in their veins, and here it is off last year's reel.

On Christmas and New Year's eve you and I went out for a good time and spent from $10 to $200. Christmas morning hundreds of children awoke to an empty stocking—bitter with the pain of disappointment that Santa Claus had forgotten them. That's the way it used to be. Perhaps it wasn't our fault. We had provided for our own; we had also reflected in a passing way on those less fortunate than our own, but they seemed far off and we didn't know where to find them. Perhaps in the hundred and one things we had to do some of us didn't think of that heart sorrow of the child over the empty stocking.

Now, old man, here's a chance. Just send your name and address to the Daily Press—address Santa Claus—state about how many children you are willing to protect against grief over that empty stocking, inclose a two-cent stamp and you will be furnished with the names, addresses, sex and age of that many children. It is then up to you, you do the rest. Select your own present, spend 50 cents or $50, and send or take the gifts to those children on Christmas eve. You pay not a cent more than you want to pay—every cent goes just where you want it to go. You gain neither notoriety nor advertising; no record will be kept; your letter will be returned to you with its answer. The whole plan is just as anonymous as old Santa Claus himself.

This is not a newspaper scheme. The Daily Press will preserve the anonymous character of this work. The responsibility of finding the children and sending you their names will be assumed by this paper and it guarantees that whatever you bestow will be deserved.

Neither you nor I get anything out of this, except the feeling that you have saved from sorrow on Christmas morning. If that is not enough for you then you have wasted time in reading this—it is not intended for you, but for the good fellows of Plainfield.

Perhaps a twenty-five cent doll or a ten cent tin toy wouldn't mean much to the children you know, but to the child who would find them in the otherwise empty stocking they mean much—the difference between utter disappointment and the joy that Santa Claus did not forget them. Here is where you and I get in. The charitable organizations attend to the bread and meat, the clothes, the necessaries; you and the rest of the good fellows furnish the toys, the nuts, the candies, the child's real Christmas.

GOOD FELLOW.

"Good Fellow" is not a professional philanthropist, he takes a drink, and even goes out at night with the boys for a mild good time—but he has taken care of some poor little ones each year in Plainfield. He says he wishes he had always curtailed his holiday joy-making with the good fellows even more than he did, so that he might have had more money to gladden childish hearts.

The Worthy Grand Master of the lodge of Good Fellows has laid his plans for securing names through the Charity Organization Society.

This is how you can joint the lodge of Good Fellows. Write a letter to "Santa Claus," care of the Daily Press, something like this:

I live at No.....street. I will be Santa Claus to 6 children.

JOHN JONES.

The letter will go to Santa Claus. He will indorse on your letter the names and addresses of six children. That letter will be remailed to you. Then you get busy. That's all. Come on in, good fellows.

BLEASE PROUD OF PARDON RECORD

He Also Declares Lynchers Need Not Fear.

GOVERNORS IN CONFERENCE

Baldwin Advocates Whipping Post, Also Capital Punishment—Dix Thinks Workhouse For Life Should Be Maximum Punishment For Worst Offenders.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 4.—A sensation was caused on the floor of the fifth annual session of the "house of governors" by the declaration of Governor Cole S. Blease of South Carolina that he would never call out the militia of his state to protect a negro who attacked a white man and thus subject neighbor to shoot down neighbor. He further declared that he was proud of his pardon record, hoping the number of pardons would reach 800 before his retirement.

John F. Shafroth of Colorado, speaking on the subject of "Modern Penology," said the criminals of the states were in two divisions—those whose crimes demanded severe punishment, or else anarchy would reign, and those whose crimes subjected them to the pardoning power and commutation of sentences. The punishment in either class was not ideal, and a punishment between the two classes was a necessity. The speaker said that Colorado had adopted a policy which places punishment on a humane basis. There is enough severity and a certainty of punishment that has a tendency to prevent crime.

Earn Their Liberty.

The Colorado prisoners earn their own liberty, prisoners sentenced for more than ten years being paroled at the tenth year. If their conduct is good the sentences are reduced each year, so that a ten years' sentence amounts to four years and six months.

Governor Shafroth explained the Colorado system of working convicts on the highways without guards, putting each man upon his honor not to escape. The loss has averaged one convict a year.

Governor Baldwin of Connecticut spoke in favor of separation of children from the hardened classes and advocated the use of the whipping post and capital punishment.

Governor John A. Dix of New York favored placing the worst offenders in workhouses for life, and Governor A. O. Eberhart of Minnesota spoke in opposition to capital punishment and in favor of the workhouse compensation plan, the earnings of convicts to be paid those dependent upon them, thus aiding in preventing crime.

The thirty governors and their wives were the guests of the city at a reception last night. Today they went to Cape Henry, where, as guests of Norfolk and the Virginia National Guard association, they partook of an oyster roast.

2 NEW SENATORS SWORN IN

Jackson of Maryland and Perky of Idaho Take Their Seats.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Two new senators, William P. Jackson of Maryland and Kirtland I. Perky of Idaho, were sworn in the senate. Mr. Jackson succeeds the late Senator Rayner and Mr. Perky the late Senator Heyburn.

Senator Jackson is a Republican and Senator Perky a Democrat. The seating of the two senators leaves only two vacancies in the senate, the seat of former Senator Lorimer of Illinois and one from Colorado.

The accessions give the Republicans fifty-one members and the Democrats forty-three. This will be the lineup until several state legislatures meet. The credentials of Senator Elect Broussard of Louisiana were presented by Senator Percy of Louisiana. Mr. Broussard takes his seat on March 4, 1915.

SEVEN YEARS FOR EMBEZZLER

J. Irving Davis Was Convicted of Stealing $40,000 From A. O. U. W.

Providence, R. I., Dec. 4.—J. Irving Davis received sentence from Judge Rathbun of the superior court covering a term of seven years at hard labor in the state prison for the embezzlement of $40,000 of the funds belonging to the Ancient Order of United Workmen.

The sentence was two years on each of the first four indictments, with the provision that the terms shall run concurrently.

Plainfield Citizens Gladly Testify and Confidently Recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

It is testimony like the following that has placed Doan's Kidney Pills so far above competitors. When people right here at home raise their voice in praise there is no room left for doubt. Read the public statement of a Plainfield citizen:

A. C. Lazzi, 44 Elm Place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I still endorse Doan's Kidney Pills at every opportunity and I confirm all I said in their praise when I publicly recommended them some years ago. You are at liberty to continue using my statement, for this excellent medicine cannot be given too much praise. For several years I was annoyed by a distressing backache, together with pains through my kidneys. My head also ached severely and the kidney secretions were in bad shape. I went to several physicians and also took so-called kidney cures, but it did not seem as though I could get relief. As time passed and I did not improve, I became discouraged. When suffering intensely I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and I got a supply at Randolph's Drug Store. As if by magic my pains and aches disappeared and my condition improved in every way. Doan's Kidney Pills deserve the entire credit for restoring me to good health."

POULTRY EXHIBITION AT ELIZABETH OPENS

Biggest and Best Yet is Claim Made by the Union Co. Association.

Elizabeth, Dec. 4.—That the annual poultry and agricultural exhibition opening this morning in the new armory, under the joint auspices of the Union County Poultry Association, Limited, and the Union County Board of Agriculture, will be the most stupendous affair of its kind ever conducted in this city or county, and rivaling any ever held in the State, is the prediction made by F. Warren Sumner, director of the exhibit, upon whose shoulders has fallen practically all of the work connected with its planning and preparation.

All entries had to be at the armory before 10 o'clock, as at that hour the exhibit opened and the judging begun. It is expected that this feature of the exhibit will have been completed by 4 or 5 o'clock in the afternoon and that the names of the winners and prizes awarded will be ready for display in the evening.

The judges who will pass on the exhibits will be: Poultry, W. J. Stanton, of New York, and Charles D. Cleveland, of Eatontown; eggs, Professor Harry R. Lewis, of New Brunswick; bees and honey, J. I. Stringham, of Long Island; preserves, one of the Government pure food experts; vegetables, Mr. Beebe, of Elizabeth. Director F. Warren Sumner will assist in the poultry judging.

Recorder David R. Campbell, of Dunellen avenue, who was ill the latter part of last week, is again able to be about his duties.

A window on North avenue is dressed to show the old fashioned method of making white pine cough syrup. The floor of the window is covered with leaves upon which are different herbs and roots used in the preparation. In one corner is a wind mill, operated by an electric motor, to which in days gone by the farmers and herb gatherers would take their herbs and roots to be ground up to a powder. In another corner is an old iron pot suspended between two sticks under which a fire is burning and in which are these various herbs and roots boiling to get all the juice out. As one stands before the window he can see the steam rising from the pot. In the centre of the window a perculator is placed. This is the third or next to the last process in the making of the medicine. This is known as the sugaring process. Under the perculator is a druggist's graduate which is filled with the preparation ready for bottling and on the leaves near the graduate are several bottles of the syrup such as one would purchase in the store. The window, which was decorated by Paul Bunnell, is a piece of art and is interesting as well as educational.

Paul Ratti, of North avenue, and his brother Peter, of Bound Brook, left Sunday on a hunting trip up around Whitehouse.

There is a rumor around town that C. T. Rogers, of New Market, is going to purchase the Scandell Coal Company, of that place. So far nothing refinite has been settled on.

TWO WEEKS MORE TO COMPLETE RE-COUNT

Elizabeth, Dec. 4.—Following Justice Bergen's decision on certain ballots in the Parrot-Kelly Surrogateship recount in Union county, which were referred to him yesterday, Kelly's net gain thus far was reduced from eleven to nine, increasing Parrot's plurality by that number of votes. Up to last night, forty-six districts had been canvassed, with Parrot receiving 3,646 votes in them according to the county board, while Kelly was given 3,256. The recount was continued today and during the morning Kelly lost two.

The Democratic candidate continues to lose much on discrepencies between his vote as shown on the district boards' tally sheets and the number of ballots actually in the boxes. It is estimated that the recount will require about two weeks more, one-third of the ballots having been counted.

Mme. Simone, spoken of as "the best-dressed woman in the world," is back in the United States for her second American tour, this season's offering being a dainty romance of the Louis XVI period called "The Paper Chase" and written by Louis N. Parker. In "The Paper Chase" Mme. Simone's gowns are of the delicate, delightful Watteau style, and much admired by the feminine audiences at Wallack's theatre, New York. Off the stage, Mme. Simone is seen in the latest Paris products, of which she brought no fewer than thirty trunksful to New York. In material they are chiefly of plain or embossed silks, and in many instances have an overdress of lace. Mme. Simone is partial to gray, white and black. Many of her evening robes are trimmed with Russian sable, blue fox, and other costly furs. This "best-dressed woman" professes to know nothing of the dressmaker's art, but has a very definite picture of the gown she wants in her mind when she visits her modiste. Invariably her wardrobe is replete with touches of her own personality and the daring and originality that distinguish her.

DISCLAIM LIABILITY FOR CRONEY'S DEATH

Union Co. Mosquito Commission Defers Action—Gives Asst. Inspector Raise.

Elizabeth, Dec. 4.—As the Union County Mosquito Extermination Commission failed to receive any opinion from County Attorney Codington regarding its liability or non-liability for the death of George Croney, a Plainfield mosquito inspector, who was hurt by falling on a shovel in Mountainside and died at Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield, on October 11, no action was taken yesterday on the letter from the counsel for Croney's widow, Victoria C. N. Croney.

Members of the Commission said that they did not think the body liable and would fight any claim in the courts, if necessary. Mr. Codington is said to agree with this view.

It was decided to have the North avenue swamp in Plainfield surveyed during the winter, with a view of having the brush removed from it so that mosquties can be driven out of it in the spring.

Russell W. Giles, assistant chief inspector, received an increase of $200, his salary having been $1,200.

The Commission has several maps on view at the Poultry Exhibition in the Elizabeth Armory and is distributing circulars there warning householders against letting mosquitoes breed in receptacles or pools on their premises, and stating that most of the house pests originate in this way and not in the distant marshes.

THE FORUM.

PLAN FOR SKATING FACILITIES.
Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

Taking advantage of your suggestion that you would like to receive expressions of opinion relative to the advisability of the city appropriating money to defray the expenses of ice skating facilities at Parker Field, undoubtedly the wisest policy to pursue would be to consider the matter solely from a business point of view; although there is no question that ice skating is one of the most healthful of winter sports.

Let an estimate be made as to what revenue would be received by charging say five cents for children of eleven years and over and if necessary a larger fee for adults. Should the receipts as estimated appear to be more than ample to cover the proposed appropriation by the city, then an expenditure for this purpose could not reasonably be denied.

Under present conditions the demands for new schools, street improvements, sewers, and appropriations for charitable objects are so urgent and necessary, the only way to keep down the tax rate and bonded debt of our city is to adhere strictly to sound business principles when considering appropriations of the character of ice skating facilities.

Very truly yours,
SEYMOUR PERKINS.

A SOCIAL CREED.

A new "social creed" for churches has been framed at the Quadrennial Conference of the Churches of Christ in America, in session at Chicago. It shows that the churches are alive to their duty in social problems. Should they unitedly wield all the influence and force at their command, the sad state of affairs would be well nigh ameliorated.

Some of the more salient features of this new creed are these:

Protection of the family by the single standard of purity, uniform divorce laws, proper regulation of marriage, and proper housing.

The fullest possible development for every child, especially by the provision of proper education and recreation.

The abolition of child labor.

Such regulation of the conditions of toil for women as shall safeguard the physical and moral health of the community.

The abatement and prevention of poverty.

The protection of the individual and society from the social, economic and moral waste of the liquor traffic.

The protection of the worker from dangerous machinery, occupational diseases, and mortality.

Release from employment one day in seven.

The gradual and reasonable reduction of the hours of labor to the lowest practicable point, and that degree of leisure for all which is a condition of the highest human life.

A living wage as a minimum in every industry, and the highest wage that each industry can afford.

It certainly was encouraging to view the bundle of letters received in this morning's mail for "Good Fellow." It makes one feel that the great majority of people answer "yes" to the question: "Am I my brother's keeper?" and that all "remember the little children." If you only knew the joys of making a poor little boy or girl happy by calling at his or her home on Christmas eve with a top and a box of candy you would not hesitate a moment in writing to "Good Fellow." His appeal is to be found on page one of this issue. It explains itself.

Both the firemen and the policemen are well deserving of the slight increases in pay given them by the city. It is no easy matter to get competent men to accept employment in the departments when the cost of living is so high and when a municipality has efficient corps in these two very important departments it should show its appreciation by giving the men a living wage and that is about all they are receiving.

Just by way of suggestion, would it not be a good move for Chairman Clay, of the Councilmanic public affairs committee, to interest the Chamber of Commerce in the proposition for a municipal system for the collection and disposal of garbage and ashes? Possibly that body might be able to furnish some plan for a feasible and practical solution of the matter.

Fire Chief Doane has issued a very sensible notice warning mothers against the practise of wheeling babies in carriages into stores and leaving them unattended while they do their shopping. It is not because the baby carriages block the store, and there is much to be said against it on that ground, but because there is ever danger of a fire and possible consequent panic. In such event it would not be difficult to realize what would happen, with store aisles so blocked, when a rush is made for the exits.

An exceptional opportunity is offered by the Daily Press to any individual or organization wishing to become the owner of a player-piano, a piano without the automatic attachment or a cabinet vitaphone. It's a free for all race and the time is ripe to get into it. For particulars consult the contest manager at this office.

Red Cross seals, at one cent apiece, are on sale at the Daily Press office. The Plainfield Anti-Tuberculosis Society hopes to dispose of 50,000 of these seals and it should be remembered that eighty-five per cent. of the net proceeds will be used right here in Plainfield for work among the poor afflicted with tuberculosis.

"All things come to him who waits," so it is written, and William Jennings Bryan, according to report, may become the next Moderator of the Presbyterian Church as well as Secretary of State of the United States.

"Abe" Erlanger has a most vigorous style of speech. How did he come to hide his forensic ability during the recent campaign?

Congress only convened on Monday but it is not too early to begin to pray for an adjournment at an early date.

Don't blame anybody but yourself if you neglect to read the contributed editorial to appear on Saturday.

And again we say, do your Christmas shopping now.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS TO BEGIN ON DEC. 12

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

London, Dec. 4.—Later advices from Sofia stated that formal peace negotiations would be opened in London on December 12, eighteen days earlier that the date mentioned in earlier reports from Sofia and Constantinople.

London, Dec. 4.—A dispatch today from Sofia said that the Bulgarian government officially had confirmed the signing by Bulgaria, Servia, Montenegro and Turkey of the protocol for armistice, Greece alone not participating in the agreement.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 4.—The Novoe Vremya says that three Russian banks have advanced $5,000,000 on easy terms to Bulgaria and have agreed to subscribe to a portion of another loan of $8,000,000 which is being negotiated in Paris.

CHILD PLAYING "BABY" LOCKED IN BOATHOUSE

Ethel Brown, six years old, with yellow curls, slept peacefully in the boathouse of Harry Jones at Bound Brook last night after she had played with her sister Agnes and some friends there during the afternoon. While her parents and the neighbors searched everywhere for her, Agnes, afraid to tell that they had been in the forbidden place, went to bed and cried over her secret.

It all happened after Ethel, the youngest in the group of children had been told that she could not be a "papa" or a "mamma," but must be a "baby," and wait in the corner until she was born. So Ethel went there, and fell asleep.

Outside a bonfire called the children. As they left the boathouse they forgot about the sleeping child and the patent lock on the door.

For two hours last night the parents and neighbors searched for Ethel. Finally they returned home, awoke Agnes, and she, in a fresh burst of tears, solved the mystery.

NEW BILL WOULD GIVE $10,000 PENSION

McCumber Is Introducer---President Taft's Message Received.

Washington, Dec. 4.—In the first "bill day" in the senate for the present session a number of important measures were introduced. Senator McCumber of North Dakota introduced a bill retiring ex-presidents of the United States with the rank of commanders of the army and navy at a salary of $10,000 a year. The bill provides a pension of $5,000 a year for the widows of former presidents.

Senator Works of California presented a joint resolution submitting to the states a constitutional amendment to abolish the electoral college and elect president and vice president by direct vote.

The senate devoted much of the session to a consideration of the Archbald case. The only progress made in the case was to hear the opening statements on behalf of the house managers and by A. S. Worthington, attorney for Judge Archbald.

In executive session the senate referred to committees a large number of nominations sent in by the president.

President Taft's message relating to foreign affairs was received and read.

The senate adopted an order to take the Archbald impeachment trial every day at 2 o'clock, and the taking of testimony will begin at that hour.

In the house the day was devoted to the consideration of the Adamson bill authorizing the interstate commerce commission to make a physical valuation of railroad property in the United States. The measure went over without action.

JAIL FOR SUFFRAGETTES.

Annoyers of Lloyd-George Led to Cells Amid Cries of "Shame!"

Aberdeen, Dec. 4.—A number of suffragettes who annoyed Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd-George during his recent visit to this city were arraigned in court on various charges. Three women who hid themselves in a box in the organ loft at one of the chancellor's meetings and created a disturbance, were sentenced to five days' imprisonment. As they were led from the courtroom and shouted defiantly, "No surrender; we'll protest in prison."

Another woman who had smashed a window in an automobile in which she mistakenly supposed Mr. Lloyd-George was riding, demanded that the chancellor be called as a witness. The demand was refused, and she was sentenced to a fine of 40 shillings or ten days' imprisonment. This woman clung to the dock after she had been sentenced and had to be removed by force amid cries of "Shame!" from the other suffragettes in the courtroom.

WITH THE BOXERS

Young Erne has called off his bout with Tommy Coleman in Philadelphia on account of neuralgia.

Charley White, the clever Chicago lightweight, has a brother, who is boxing in the welterweight division.

Jack Britton and Eddie Murphy will furnish the wind-up feature of the next show to be staged at Kenosha, Wis.

Germany is now enjoying the boxing game, and the Anglo-American Boxing Club, of Berlin, has proven to be a great success.

A London promoter is anxious to arrange a match between Bill Papke and Jim Sullivan, the English middleweight champion.

Al Nubiak maintains that he is still in the game and is out with a challenge to any of the so-called "white hopes."

Eddie Stanton, the California bantam, claims to be the only boxer that ever knocked out Ledoux, the French champion, who is now in this country.

Young Joey Smith, champion lightweight of Ireland and Scotland, will sail for New York soon in the hope of securing matches with some of our top-notchers.

BASEBALL NOTES

Pat Flaherty, the former big league pitcher, has been appointed manager of the Lynn New England League team.

The Ohio State League may admit Huntington and Charleston, W. Va., in order to form an eight-club circuit for next season.

The International League produced a big squad of heavy stickers the past season, an even half hundred players hitting for .300 or better.

Manager George Stallings, of the Boston Nationals, has announced the purchase of Drummond Brown, catcher from the Vernon Club, of the Pacific Coast League.

It is said that Johnny Kling, the veteran catcher and last season manager of the Boston Braves, is willing to invest some real money in a minor league franchise.

Ban Johnson has slipped John M. Ward 1,000 buttons; and thus endeth the libel suit brought against the American League president by the former baseball magnate.

Shortstop Marty Krug and First Baseman Bradley have been given the pink slip by the champion Red Sox. Krug goes to the Indianapolis team and Bradley to the Jersey City Skeeters.

President Heilbronner, of the Central League, is finding it a tough job to form an eight-club circuit for next season. Last season the Central was a twelve-club league, but at the present time only six cities are willing to enter the organization.

Roger Bresnahan claims that his contract as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals calls for a salary of $10,000 a year, and has four more years to run. Mrs. Britton, owner of the Cards, says that Roger "didn't try" to win games, so Roger is going to try to collect his salary.

MINISTER ADRESSES A GYMNASIUM CLASS

A new feature was introduced by Physical Director E. C. Ostlin, of the Y. M. C. A., in the senior class work, last night, it being a five minute lecture by Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church. He spoke on the moral and physical life of Joshua, but his time was so limited that it was impossible for him to describe in detail any of the feats accomplished by Joshua. He referred to the athletic work being done by the class and commended it most heartily. "The training you are taking," he said, "is for the physical, mental and moral side of your lives and will make of you what the world will look upon as good and faithful men. This work gives you greater strength of mind and body with which to face the world and get from it the living that it owes everyone."

After the talk by Dr. Strong the class went on apparatus work which was followed by the running high jump in the Color League athletic events. The results of the contest were:

Ostrom, Orange, 4 ft. 10 in.; W. Glover, White, 4 ft. 10 in; Carson, White, 4 ft. 8 in.; Johnson, Red, 4 ft. 8 in.; McCombe, White, 4 ft. 7 in.; M. Glover, Green, 4 ft. 7 in.; Smith, Green, 4 ft. 6 in.; J. A. Thompson, Orange, 4 ft. 5 in.; Harris, Orange, 4 ft. 5 in.; Newmiller, Orange, 4 ft. 5 in.; Borden, Orange, 4 ft. 4 in.; Hansen, White, 4 ft. 4 in.; Boice, Red, 4 ft. 4 in.; Brower, Orange, 4 ft. 3 in.; Vestigard, Orange, 4 ft. 3 in.; Seals, Alfred, Red, 4 ft. 3 in.; Lewis, White, 4 ft. 3 in.; Kennedy, Orange, 4 ft. 2 in.; Sampson, Green, 4 ft. 2 in.; Gilmore, Red, 4 ft. 2 in.; Poling, White, 4 ft. 2 in.; Clark, Orange, 3 ft. 11 in.; Anderson, Green, 3 ft. 11 in.; Caruso, White, 3 ft. 11 in.; Caffey, White, 3 ft. 11 in.; Lockley, Red, 3 ft. 11 in.; Osborne, Green, 3 ft. 11 in.; Dorman, Orange, 3 ft. 9 in.; Giese, White, 3 ft. 9 in.; Price, Green, 3 ft. 9 in.; Bagger, Orange, 3 ft. 9 in.; Shierle, Green, 2 ft. 6 in.

The standing of the different teams are:

	Orange.	Red.	Green.	White
Nov. totals	187	174	134	126
Class attendance	21	9	23	23
Running high jump	10	11	6	11
Total pts.	218	194	163	160

It was decided at a meeting of the leaders' corps held before class last night to change the number of points awarded to the winners of the basketball games from 15 to 10 so as to average as near the number awarded in the athletic events. They also decided to have short lectures during the class period every Tuesday night. The next speaker will be a business man, who will be asked to give the meaning of the Y. M. C. A. triangle. The physical director expects to be able to get a medical man to talk to the class on Tuesday night, December 17.

The next basketball games in the league will be held tomorrow night and the Reds and Whites and Oranges and Greens will strive for supremacy on the court. On Tuesday night the next event in the athletic contest will be held. It will be the "fence vault." All members are requested to be present at the Tuesday night meetings as talks of interest as well as educational value will be given.

KNOCKOUT BROWN, CLASSY LIGHTWEIGHT, IS MARVEL OF PHYSICAL DEVELOPMENT

K. O. Brown, New York's classy lightweight who has won many battles in the last four years and gives promise of winning more, is a marvel of physical development. From the waist up there probably never has been a youth who had anything on K. O. for development. Wherever he has appeared the fistic fans have marveled at Brown's wonderful back, shoulders and arms.

The accompanying picture gives a general idea of Brown's great muscular development.

He is only twenty-one years of age, and if he keeps on developing the next four years as he has in the past four he stands an excellent chance of becoming the most dangerous boy in his class.

JOHNSON WEDS CAMERON GIRL

Federal Prosecution of Negro Pugilist Will Be Continued, However.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Jack Johnson, negro pugilist, brought to a climax the series of exciting events that have crowded his life in the last few months by marrying Lucille Cameron, an attractive white girl, whose home is in Minneapolis, and for the love of whom a large part of the negro's troubles with the federal and city authorities is responsible. It was the discovery that the pugilist had transferred his affections to this nineteen-year-old girl that caused his first wife, Etta Duryea, to end her life on the second floor of the Cafe de Champion several weeks ago.

The marriage of the negro and the Cameron girl will not affect his prosecution on charges under the Mann act in the sense that a wife is barred from giving testimony against her husband. The indictments under which Johnson is to be tried concern his relations with a different woman, Belle Schreiber.

Since then he has lost but two decisions, one to Jack White of Chicago, and one to [illegible]

Brakeman, Running Back, Flags Train Too Late.

Zanesville, O., Dec. 4.—A disastrous wreck occurred on the Cincinnati and Muskingun valley branch of the Pennsylvania railroad two miles from Dresden when C. and M. V. passenger train No. 43, from Trinway to Zanesville, crashed into the rear of the Cleveland, Akron and Columbus local train from Millersburg to Zanesville, killing eight people and seriously injuring many others.

The dead are Mrs. A. B. Everson, Zanesville, and her two children; Henry Balbian of Cleveland, Henry Bartles, Max Harris and L. H. Blaney of Zanesville.

Soon after leaving Dresden the engine of the Cleveland, Akron and Columbus train broke down on the curve at Rock cut, and the train came to a standstill on the main track. A brakeman started back to flag the C. and M. V. train, but before he had gone fifty yards the other train appeared, and the collision occurred.

The dead and injured were brought to this city.

HOW TO PREVENT FIRE

Do not allow the formation of rubbish heaps. Attics and cellars should be kept free from combustible accumulations. Too frequently are hot ashes heaped against fences or other combustible surfaces. The householder should exercise great care in the disposal of waste material. Many homes have been destroyed because of bonfires. Exercise care in avoiding those conditions which tend to the origin of fire. It will repay you.

The Square Pot Does It

THE form of firepot used in Square Pot Boilers is different from the ordinary type. It holds a larger body of fire and radiates more heat. Consequently it steams the boiler and heats the house in the fewest possible minutes, beating the best efforts of ordinary round firepots by a wide margin.

This principle of increased radiation gives normal results on comparatively little fuel. Hence Square Pot Boilers prove effective in this most important particular — maximum heat development from minimum coal supply. Look into this before you install a new boiler.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

CHESTNUTS AS VEGETABLES.

CHESTNUTS are available and make such an acceptable variation in the bill of fare that it is a wonder they are not more generally used.

The large Italian chestnuts can be purchased in most towns and are the ones generally used in cooking, although the smaller ones are just as suitable.

Tempting Nut Meats.

Stewed Chestnuts.—Peel off the outside skin of the chestnuts, then steep in boiling water until the inner skins can be removed. Throw the nuts as fast as peeled into cold water. Put two ounces of butter in a saucepan with two tablespoonfuls of flour. Stir until blended, then pour in a half pint or more of clear broth, stirring until smooth. Salt to taste, add chestnuts and simmer gently until soft.

Serve with roasted meats or poultry.

Deviled Chestnuts.—Take a quart of chestnuts, remove the shells and blanch the meats.

Dry thoroughly, then place on the fire in a saucepan and brown in hot olive oil or butter. Sprinkle with fine salt and a dash of cayenne and serve at dinner after the cheese.

Dainty Side Dishes.

Chestnut Salad.—Take a half dozen chestnuts. Remove the shells, put into a saucepan of hot water and boil twenty minutes. Drain and plunge into cold water until the skins loosen. Peel, cut into quarters and dust with salt and pepper.

Peel four large sour apples, core and cut into pieces the size of the nuts.

Cut some of the dark meat of a cold roasted chicken, turkey or duck into pieces of the same size and arrange on lettuce leaves in the salad bowl or individual plates.

Sprinkle with two tablespoonfuls of chopped mixed pickles and dress with a French dressing of oil and vinegar and serve.

A Toothsome Sweet.

Chestnut Fritters.—Take a couple of dozen chestnuts. Roast and skin these and pound to a smooth paste. Add two tablespoonfuls of rice flour, one tablespoonful of sugar and two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice. Whisk the yolks of three eggs until light and whip the whites to a stiff froth with a pinch of salt. Stir first the yolks, then the whites, into the chestnut flour and use a little thick cream to moisten. Lift the mixture between two spoons, which have been well heated in boiling water, and fry in smoking hot fat.

Drain on white paper and send to table arranged in a pile, sprinkled with sugar, on a well heated dish.

SNAPSHOTS OF LA MODE.

Brown Costumes Should Be Very Carefully Planned.

When planning a brown costume special care must be given to the exact tint of the color chosen. Some browns are best combined with yellow, others with red, and no other color will bring out the lights and shades of the particular material as well. In fact, it is extraordinary how much richer and deeper a red brown will look if a touch of vivid red is introduced.

Plain cloth and satin dresses have velvet sashes of a brilliant color, with the uneven ends falling toward one side.

This illustration shows one of the newest skirts of the season. There are only front and back portions, and the back is lapped over the front, and its front edges are so shaped that they almost meet at the upper edge.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

VIEW HAS CHANGED.

Literary Digest Surveys Papers of Country and Finds Optimistic Outlook for Suffrage.

The last issue of The Literary Digest goes over carefully the changing attitude of the press regarding woman suffrage:

"Woman certainly has a right to crow over her victory of November 5," remarks one editor, who hastens to add "if the 'female of the species' ever does such a masculine thing." In fact, we find a number of papers declaring that the addition of four more States to the six which had already granted complete suffrage to women is really the most important single result of the election. "Tuesday's decision of most far-reaching importance was not the election of Wilson," says the Boston Herald—an independent paper, by the way, which supported President Taft—"but the adoption of four States of a woman's suffrage amendment to the Constitution." In the light of this decision, it adds, "the common sense thing for the country to do is to recognize woman suffrage as decreed by the spirit of the age, whether wisely or not, and to adjust itself accordingly." The New York Globe (Prog.), also thinks that the election was "not the election of a President, but the great change effected in these four States." "Its influence," predicts The Globe, "will endure long after the Wilson administration has taken its place in history," and "morally, politically, and economically, neither our children nor grandchildren will escape the consequences of Tuesday's irrevocable step." And the New York Evening Journal (Dem.) agrees that "as important as any feature of this big election—more important by far than any feature in the long run, in fact—is the news that four more States have joined the ranks of those that give the vote to woman."

If Michigan is not snatched from them in their hour of triumph, the new stars on the suffrage flag will represent Michigan, Kansas, Oregon and Arizona. The only other State in which the people voted on the woman suffrage issue on November 5 was Wisconsin. Thus in four out of five States in which the people had a chance to declare their attitude a majority of the voters expressed their willingness to extend the franchise to women. If the threatened hitch in Michigan is averted the result in these four States will double the number of women who can vote in the United States, increase the Presidential electoral vote in suffrage States from 37 to 70, and add eight Senators and twenty-five Congressmen to those who are already representing women voters. In the editorial columns of a special "woman suffrage edition" of the New York Evening Sun, published in celebration of these triumphs, we read:

"These facts will have a decided influence upon all political parties compelling them to stand for suffrage not only nationally, but in their respective State platforms. This attitude was foreshadowed, even before the recent victory, by the fact that all political parties not only welcomed the aid of women, but vied with each other in appealing for their support. Never before were women urged into political service as during this campaign, and they are there to stay. No party can ever again afford to ignore them, or attempt a campaign without their moral and practical aid, and their eagerness for the service of women will forever silence their old-time cry of 'keep women out of politics!' To plead for the active support of disfranchised women and then deny them direct political power is too great an inconsistency for even modern politicians."

"I prophesy that we will win at least six more States this coming year," says Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National Woman Suffrage Association of America, who is further quoted in the New York World as saying:

"The Dakotas, Nevada, and Montana are ripe for conversion. Texas is inclining her ear, and Pennsylvania will make a record fight for the ballot. Both Connecticut and Massachusetts are within the possibilities, while Iowa and Ohio will both press the question."

The Washington Post (Ind.) rejoices that the "American woman is winning her way by virtue of sane and orderly methods."

"Woman suffrage," reassuringly declares the Cleveland Leader (Prog.), "is not going to divide homes, set the sexes at war with each other, or in any other way annul the laws of nature or turn the world upside down."

The Epworth League of the First M. E. church, following its regular meeting Friday night, will have a social hour.

The Official Board of the First M. E. church will hold a meeting tonight following the prayer-meeting.

TAYLOR WINS IN SPEAKER FIGHT

Nugent Forces Defeat of Hennessey, Wilson Man.

EGAN IS FLOOR LEADER.

Senator Fielder Unanimous Selection of Democratic Caucus For Senate President—To Become Acting Governor After Wilson Assumes Presidency.

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 4. Former State Chairman James Nugent succeeded in landing Assemblyman Leon Taylor of Monmouth for the speakership of the house, defeating Assemblyman Charles O'Conner Hennessy of Bergen, who was Governor Wilson's candidate for the place.

Nugent's candidate for majority leader, Assemblyman Thomas Martin of Hudson, was beaten by Assemblyman Charles Egan, also of Hudson, by a vote of 30 to 21.

The Democratic caucus was held without friction and resulted in the selection of Senator James F. Fielder as the majority candidate for senate president, which will make him acting governor after March 4, when Governor Wilson goes to the White House. Senator James A. C. Johnson of Bergen was the choice of the caucus for president pro tem., which will make him acting president of the senate when Senator Fielder becomes acting governor.

Senator J. Warren Davis of Salem was chosen majority floor leader. The senate committee to distribute patronage was named, as follows: Senators Fielder, John V. Slocum of Monmouth and Harry C. Wheaton of Cape May.

In the allotment of the House patronage Union county was given one asistant sergeant at arms and one door-keeper, while to Somerset went one page, and to Midlesex one assistant at arms and two pages. These will be chosen by the representatives of the counties and named at a later date.

Court Union, 3877, Independent Order Foresters, will nominate officers at its regular meeting Monday night, December 9 and on December 16 the election will take place.

PLAINFIELD LOST FIRST SOLDIER

BY

GEN. J. MADISON DRAKE,

Medal of Honor, U. S. A., of Elizabeth.

In the new beautiful and well-kept Baptist church cemetery at Scotch Plains, peacefully reposes the mortality of a young patriot, the first New Jersey soldier to sacrifice his life in the Civil War. In a recent pilgrimage to the graves of my ancestors in this hallowed shrine, I found the spot suggestive of pleasant as well as sad reflections.

Working at his trade in Newark when the President issued his second call for volunteesr to defend the National Capital, John Hand, a native of Plainfield, and an elder brother of David Hand and the present Captain William Hand, both happily still living, hastened to his boyhood home to enlist in a company forming there, but its quota having been filled, his services were necessarily declined, much to his disappointment. That evening, however, a man who had signed the roster, overcome by a desire to remain at home and further enjoy the sweets of domesticity, told Captain Leonard H. Regur he had changed his mind, and could not possibly think of sacrificing his comfort to become a soldier at the munificent salary of eleven dollars a month. His name was therefore erased from the roll, and that of John Hand substituted therefor. The next day the company, later known as Company I, Third New Jersey Regiment, hurried to Washington to the scurry of Union drums.

The first time Corporal John Hand and other members of the Third Regiment came in actual conflict with the Confederates, was on the 31st of August, 1861, when Colonel Taylor of the command determined to put a stop to the murderous work of guerrillas, farmers by day and soldiers by night, who had annoyed his piquets. Taylor, as brave as he was rash, calling for forty volunteers from two of his companies, (of whom Corporal Hand was one), led his command along the Little River Turnpike under cover of a heavy woods until he reached a cornfield. Through this the Jerseymen were cautiously making their way when a withering volley from Confederates in ambush was poured into them, wounding four—Corporal Hand among the number. Satisfied his little force was greatly outnumbered and likely to be surrounded and captured or killed, Colonel Taylor ordered a retreat. In the haste and confusion that followed, Corporal Hand, shot through the thigh, near the body, was cruelly left behind, to die in great agony a few hours afterwards, far from home and the dear ones from whom he had sorrowfully parted just three months previously. Unable to walk, unable to staunch the flow of blood that was watering Virginia's thirsty sands, Corporal Hand complacently waited for the twilight hour to cross the shoreless sea.

His body, cold and stark, having been stripped of uniform, was recovered on the following day by a rescue party, and given temporary sepulture near Fairfax Seminary, many of his comrades being sadly affected at his fate. Subsequently the remains were exhumed, and removed to Plainfield, Lieutenant Lewis C. Spencer accompanying the body to that city.

On the day Corporal Hand's mortality reached his native town, via the Central Railroad, Captain William Hand and his family connections were at Bound Brook attending the funeral services of his sister, and when at length the sad cortage, on its way to the old burying-ground at Scotch Plains, was passing through Plainfield, it was stopped by Lieutenant Spencer, who informed Captain Hand that his soldier-brother's body was at the railroad station. Another hearse was promptly secured, and in this Corporal Hand's body was removed to the graveyard where his ancestors peacefully slept, beside whom brother and sister, who had dearly loved each other in life, now united in death, were interred side by side, to awake not till the resurrection morn.

The end of Corporal John Hand was sudden and swift, and the pathetic story of his unmurmuring resignation, on finding himself deserted by his comrades, while his pulse was growing faint, has been and will continue to be narrated in many circles by those who recall his patriotic services and regret the loss of one so worthy of many days and a hero's wreath. History will inscribe in imperishable characters the bravery and virtues of John Hand, who in the hour of his mortal agony, died wishing he could longer serve his country.

Although no opportunity was allowed this young volunteer to distinguish himself above his comrades, by acts of interpidity, the example he showed in living and dying convinced all that he was built of the stuff of which American heroes is made. An ardent patriot, burning with the holy fire that animated his ancestors in the Revolutionary War, and anxious to uphold the flag his sires had assisted in establishing, he freely gave his all to his distracted country, then in the throes of internecine war.

John Hand's comrades tell of his bravery and daring, but I will tell you of his worth. He was an affectionate son, a gentle, loving and true brother, and a warm friend. Devoted to duty, he cheerfully obeyed orders. Though rich in many of the virtues that ennoble humanity, Corporal Hand was destitute of treasures of gold and silver. His courageous heart and strong arms were all that he could pledge to aid in sustaining the government.

My comrade was noted for nobleness of soul and character, for courtesy and integrity and chivalric spirit. In the few short years he lived he did honor to our common humanity. Generous to a fault, he did what in his power lay to aid the distressed. His feet were swift in errands of mercy. Incapable of a mean action he scorned those who stooped to subterfuge, that thrift might follow fawning. He possessed in a remarkable degree the confidence and esteem of all with whom he came in contact.

In the spring-time of life, Corporal John Hand, (in loving memory of whom the Plainfield Post of the G. A. R. should have borne his noble name), died gloriously that the nation which he loved better than life, might be preserved.

No more shall the ear-piercing fife and rattling drum summon Corporal John Hand to his post, nor the bugle's blast incite him to deeds of valor. The thunder of wide-throated cannon and the shock of contending hosts are powerless to disturb his slumber. No sound shall awaken him again.

And the thought of the dreadful and exciting days of 1861 recurred to me as I stood beside my comrade's mound, under the protecting care, as it were, of a noble oak tree, whose luxuriant foliage covers the sacred sward in summer's heat, and whose great brown arms in bleak and dreary winters, like a faithful sentry keeping vigils, that, in a very short time, the spots about Plainfield, where in his youth he delighted to ramble, the altar at which with his devout parents, he regularly bowed in prayer, will know him no more forever. But myriad of ages, after the heavens and the earth shall have passed away, will my gallant comrade enjoy the reward bestowed on him by his righteous judge.

Artificial Ivory

Is a Specialty of the Christmas Toilet Goods Store

African ivory, long the luxurious ideal of the dressing table, but too costly for universal use finds its virtual replica in artificial or French ivory.

This ivory, so successfully imitates the beauty of elephant's tusks, that, excepting for its intrinsic value as a rare commodity, its artificiality need not be considered.

Of course, the French applied the idea to the production of toilet articles of high quality, such as were formerly made of real ivory.

Every Toilet Article for the dressing table can be had of this ivory.

Hair brushes with fine bristles, mirrors in several styles, different kinds of combs, large and small.

Puff boxes, salve boxes, trays, jewelry boxes, manicure articles, button hooks, shoe horns, sewing cases, bonnet brushes, hat brushes, military brushes, pin cushions, glove stretchers, talcum powder shakers, tooth powder boxes, glove and hat boxes, hatpin holders, hair receivers and vanity boxes.

When engraved with initial or monogram, a set of this French ivory may be compared advantageously with any of silver, gold or even of real ivory.

Some Geography and History—Original and best artificial ivory is made in France. America, England and Germany have adapted the idea very creditably for smaller prices.

Twelve months ago we began our plans for this Christmas, by contracts with the best manufacturers in Paris and other countries, so we might offer a complete collection of this finest ivory.

That it outranks any in the city we are told day by day.

Early selection is advisable to permit time for engraving and while stocks are complete in every size.

Sets and single pieces—Combinations have been arranged of comb, brush and mirror, as well as sets of 14 and 15 pieces of both French and domestic ivory at from $5 to $25.

Each piece of French ivory is stamped "France" to easily distinguish it.

French ivory combs, 35c to $1; French ivory hair brushes, $2.25 to $5.75; French ivory mirrors, $6.50 to $7. And all the smaller pieces to match the toilet set.

Lower-priced articles in English, German and domestic make.

Choose yours tomorrow and be sure of getting your engraving done in time.

Christmas in Japan

Four Shops of Gifts from the East for Women and Children — Kimonos, Sacques, Quilted Sweaters, Vests—All Made Specially for John Wanamaker

The Wanamaker commissioner actually spent Christmas in Yokohama, and in the heart of old Japan discovered a wealth of possible garments for American women.

Patient personal endeavor led to the final assembling in the Wanamaker French Shops of these Japanese garments of superior quality. Direct importation has resulted in the prices of many of the garments being, as comparison shows, very low.

Not a few of them are even better than those of last season.

Silk kimonos at $10 are of heavier silk, they now have wadding around the foot and at the sleeves, are interlined throughout and lined with soft native silk. Our stock is particularly varied in color and the embroidery patterns are excellent.

Silk kimonos at $20 are of rich silk with splendid dragons hand-embroidered—a pattern taken from a $35 model.

Shaded Silk Kimonos elaborately embroidered, also $20.

Stork kimonos—sign of long life, $20.

Shogun kimonos at $32.50 have the embroidered crests of the noble families of the Japanese Shoguns.—

Heishi—poised butterfly.

Ashikage—circle with two bars.

Toyotomi—mulberry leaf.

Genji—Japanese leaf and flower.

New embroidery patterns at $37.50 and $45.

Note—every silk kimono is lined with silk.

Silk sacques embroidered, made with wide sleeves, $3.75, $5 and some at $9.50, for which a customer tells us she paid $18 in another New York shop.

Quilted sacques, $4.50, $5.75, $6.50, $8.50.

Quilted vests, $1.65, $2.75, $3.50, $4.50.

Sweater coats, $3.50, $4.50, $5.75.

DESCRIPTION OF PIANOS.

Aside from the fact that one piano contains the player and the other does not, there is no difference between the instruments. Both are fully warranted by the makers, who are an old established and reliable firm.

Seven and one-third Octaves; Overstrung Bass, three strings to each note, except in Wound Bass Strings; New Patent Upright Grand Scale; Full Composite Metal Plate, extending over pin-block to top of Piano; Tuning Pins specially fitted with hardwood Bushings; Practice Pedal; Ivory Keys; full length Music Desk; Revolving Fall-Board; Brass Pedals and trimmings; handsome mouldings, attractive panels; carved Trusses and Pilasters.

Case: Antique Mahogany. All Upright cases are Double Veneered and have hardwood, varnished backs. Every Parklyn Piano is fully warranted.

DESCRIPTION OF PLAYER.

The Player is the latest device of the kind, and is the simplest and easiest working apparatus on the market. It is made by the Gulbranson-Dickinson Co., of Chicago, and is fully warranted. A test of the Player can be made at any time at Joseph Sattel's warerooms at 108 North avenue. Briefly it can be described as follows:

Special attachment, enabling the performer to obtain a diminished volume of tone in the bass, middle treble, or upper treble registers, by touching one of the two buttons. Each acts independently of the other. There is a silent travel device, a patented cylinder motor and other features which can be seen by inspecting the instrument.

Cash value of player-piano, stool, rolls and cover, $525.

DESCRIPTION OF VITAPHONE.

The $100 Cabinet Vitaphone is the third prize. This instrument was made by The Vitaphone Company, of Netherwood, and contains points of merit not to be found in other makes of talking machines.

It reproduces voice and instrument so true to life, that one may close their eyes and imagine the performer actually present. No other instrument reproduces the original tone in purity, strength and detail as well, and no metallic parts hamper, diminish or partly destroy the skill of the artist.

Winner can have choice of mahogany, golden oak or mission oak case. There is a triple spring motor that can be wound while playing, interchangeable diaphragm connection from amplifier to horn. Plays either needle or sapphire records. It is beautifully finished and polished. The machine stands four feet high and has a twelve inch turntable, and a filing compartment holding 150 records.

A novel feature of the Vitaphone is the stationary sound box, rigidly fixed to its supporting frame and made of few and simple parts. Any make of records can be used and owing to its construction, a record used on the Vitaphone has a much longer life than is possible on any other Talking Machine.

TOXIN OF XMAS; A SHOPPING TALE

Story of a Little Girl and How Her Struggle Might Easily Be Avoided.

Whirls of fine feathery flakes filled the crisp night which foretold the coming of a white Christmas on the morrow. The wheels of the delivery wagons crunched along with that ringing sound that tells the tale of the temperature better than the thermometer itself.

Under the flaming arc lights of the street the snow glistened in the air and on the coats and hats of the gay, pushing throngs, laden with bundles. Everywhere seemed to be joy, prosperity, good will—on the surface.

Struggling into the big store a human tide contended with another human tide struggling to escape. Within the store, aisles were crowded, a vista of faces and furs as far as the eye could reach. The counters overflowed with goods waiting to be bought and sent on their mission of love. And yet there was no peace and good will there. It was struggle and chaos and ill humor and stifling air, an inferno of exhaustion, from which the human tide that surged out of the doors was glad to escape.

One huge counter was laden with paper Christmas bells, garlands and wreaths. There were bells in the brightest of red, in the brightest of green, bells in red and green together, bells of enormous size that could be folded up and shoved into an overcoat pocket, little bells that could be strung along dancing merrily on a cord, bells that betokened the message of peace on earth—and tonight a riot at the counter to get something that had been put off until the last minute.

Behind the long counter half a dozen girls, "first floor sales girls," were busy, selling, answering questions, handing back change, crying out now and then shrilly, "check," trying hard to be courteous, now and then spurred on by the watchful floorwalker who with piercing eye seemed to see even half a moment's pause in the rush to sell. The time schedule of these girls had not been lengthened by night work but in this store by a reduction of the lunch and supper periods. It was the glad season when even the law does not protest—the 18th to the 24th of December.

Tessie's fingers were numb. In the mad rush she had cut them here and there on the sharp edges of the paper, painful cuts that smarted with a pain only deadened by her exhaustion. Her feet were swollen with long hours of standing. She knew nothing about the toxin of fatigue about which the doctors and social workers study and write. But she could have told them much from her own experience of the subtle poison that fatigue was injecting into the glad Christmas season for her.

There was no pause for the little girl with the dreamy face, sensitive mouth, and delicate blue-veined hands.

"Yes, ma'am, five cents for that size. These are two for five. No, we're all out of the largest size. The ten cent size? How many, please? Five? Fifty cents. Your change? Just a moment. No, the holly boxes, cord and ribbons are at the next counter. Postal cards across the aisle. Half dozen bells? Thirty cents, please."

All the worldliness of rich New York, all the sordidness of the metropolis was passing in a kaleidoscopic crowd before the eyes of Tessie but she was too tired to care much about anything, too tired even to watch the clock on the gallery at the end of the aisle.

"Hello, Tess."

It was Mazie, who had worked with Tessie last year at the handkerchief counter but had been laid off in the slack season during the summer.

Tessie had not seen her since then. She remembered Mazie as a plump-faced girl who had lost a good deal of her freshness in the store but none of her wilfulness. Was this the same Mazie? True, there was color now on her cheeks, but it was not the color of the crisp night air. Her black eyes sparkled, but there was a look of boldness in them that grated on the sensitive nature of Tessie. Yet there was no denying that Mazie was pretty. Even her cheap fur coat and rakish hat did not wholly spoil it.

"Hello, Tess. They told me that you were at this counter. I thought I'd stop and see you. I came in to get some Christmas cards. I always send little cards to the fellows who are so good to me, on holidays. It jollies 'em along, and I'm careful not to send 'em anywhere it'll cause trouble."

She laughed, the laugh of a girl of the world. But it sent a shudder through Tessie. Still, the coat was furs and the hat was rakish.

"Yes, I got lots of fellers, nice fellers," added Mazie. "We go to dances and balls and suppers and—oh, I'm havin' a grand time. I got a swell date tonight."

Mazie was talking at Tessie but not to her. Tessie noticed it and followed her roving eye.

Over by the picture post cards was a well dressed young fellow with a face that showed a knowledge of the world somewhat beyond his years. Tired as she was, Tessie saw that the young fellow had caught Mazie's eye.

A querulous customer interrupted. She wanted to see some garlands and wreaths but Tessie, absorbed in watching Mazie, had not heard her.

In an unlucky instant the floorwalker called out, "Here, no gossiping, now. Wait on this lady."

The harshness of the floorwalker brought a flush to Tessie's pale cheeks as she mechanically showed how to fold and unfold the long garlands. Again and again she had to reach up to the shelves with her leaden arms for others kinds to satisfy the querulous customer. Nothing seemed exactly to suit. While the querulous customer fussed and talked, she waited on another. Still the querulous customer took her exasperating time to decide on a fifteen cent purchase.

"So long, Tess," rasped Mazie. "Do you know what I'd do to him?" She nodded at the back of the floorwalker. "I know a feller who could frisk him good and plenty for that, if he done it to me. Say, I wouldn't go through another of these Christmas rushes at five dollars per—not if it was the last act."

Mazie laughed at the thought of the paltry sum and Tessie returned to her work of meeting this last paroxysm of Christmas shopping. The querulous customer was gone and a half a dozen crowded into her place, grabbing, unreasonable, insistent.

In the renewed rush Tessie caught sight of Mazie at the post card counter. The young fellow had edged up closer. They were laughing at something. It took no woman's intuition to guess what sort of card they were laughing at.

"See, here, Tessie, if you go to sleep over the goods I'll have you fired."

Again it was the floorwalker, not a bad fellow, but mindful of the store and its customers. Tessie bit her lip and said nothing. Her feet felt heavier than ever. Her head swam. The customers were more insistent as the clock hands advanced. Was there no antitoxin for the poisoned Christmas Eve?

At last the hour of closing came. Tessie had been invited to a Christmas dinner given by some philanthropic people to working girls. The store had given a Christmas bonus of two dollars and during the time when she should have been eating her supper she had run off to purchase a $1.59 "net" waist to wear to the festal dinner. But somehow the thought of that dinner now did not gladden Tessie. She was too worn out.

Tessie dragged herself rather than walked out on the side street from the employes' entrance. At the curb a young man was standing. He lifted his hat. "Merry Christmas, kid," he said. It was not an unpleasant voice. Tessie did not look twice. She hugged her $1.59 waist closer to her thin coat, and sped up the street which took her past a dance hall. Couples were going in and coming out. In there was light and life and happiness.

The crisp snow crunched beside her. "Say, kid, yer needn't run away from me. Come on in and have a dance."

Tessie looked up and drew back in surprise. The young man following her was the fellow to whom Mazie had been talking so gaily at the post card counter.

Just then the music started—"Everybody's doing it." She could feel her feet, tired as they were, urged on by the strains. On the waxed floor Mazie glided into her line of vision.

"Huh! She had a date wid dat guy and stood me off. Said she had to go home," sneered the voice at her side. "Come on in, kid. I got money and I don't care how I spend it fer a good time. Come on."

He took her arm, not roughly, but in a grasp that was new and strange to Tessie. An instant later she had broken away from him and was actually running down the street, slipping, sliding, but keeping on doggedly. At last, breathless, exhausted, she reached her home. She crawled upstairs to the narrow hall bedroom warmed only by the gas jet that even failed to light it. She paused a moment to look about the bare room with a growing resentment at her lot. There was the blackened and battered coffee pot and a couple of rolls for tomorrow's breakfast. Leisure was precious, weariness extreme, yet she kept her room neat and clean. She was not very clever, nor very competent, nor foresighted, perhaps. She knew nothing of scientific management or of efficient salesmanship But she was human and somehow, down in her heart, she knew she did not deserve this.

She threw herself on the bed. What a Christmas Eve this was for her—too tired even for sleep.

There flashed through Tessie's mind the picture of the gay crowd in the dance hall, of Mazie in her furs, of the young fellow who had spoken to her. He was good looking, better looking than the fellow Mazie had been dancing with. She sat up with a shudder at herself. A week ago she would have cried even to have harbored such thoughts a moment. But now it seemed different. What did it all amount to, this hopeless struggle to be decent?

"I don't know where I'll be next Christmas," she moaned as she looked at the ironing-board and little tub which she must use even before she could go to the philanthropic Christmas dinner, almost as an almstaker, "I don't know where I'll be next Christmas, but I just won't stand it, no, I won't, I won't!"

This is the next Christmas, this coming Christmas. Who knows—perhaps if we do our Christmas shopping early, early in the month and early ni the day, perhaps if we are a little more considerate of the girl behind the counter, well, perhaps we can make Tessie's Christmas more bearable, make it seem more worth while for Tessie to fight along and keep straight, make the toxin of Christmas fatigue not quite so poisonous.

XMAS ISLAND TO BE SOLD.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 4.—According to advices from Honolulu a German syndicate of coal manipulators will tomorrow come into absolute possession of Christmas Island, which it is the intention of the syndicate to convert into a coal station for the supply of the Pacific trade. The island has long been the property of the well known South Seas Greig family, whose principal residence is in this city. In view of the steadily growing American interests in the Pacific a question has been raised as to whether Washington will be likely to take official cognizance of the sale of the island, inasmuch as it is to be acquired by a foreign corporation and likely to be wholly under foreign management.

STOP RECOUNT ON SURROGATE

When Justice Bergen Orders Additional Bond, Kelly Decides to Quit Contest.

PARROT HOLDS OFFICE

Republican 63 Votes Ahead When Fight is Suddenly Ended—Frederick Baer Zior Gets a Set of Resolutions.

Elizabeth, Dec. 5.—The Kelly-Parrot recount of the votes for surrogate was declared off at the court house this morning, Mr. Kelly deciding that the progress made thus far would not warrant a continuance of the work. This decision was made by Mr. Kelly following an order from Justice Bergen that he would be required to put up another $1,000 bond to guarantee the expenses of the work. When the recount was first started on November 13, Mr. Kelly put up a $1,000 bond, which was furnished by Edward Nugent and Christopher J. Tipper, of this city.

The recount up to this morning showed that Kelly had gained 9 votes, and Parrot had lost 10 votes, giving the latter a plurality of 63. Mr. Kelly practically gave up hope of winning out a few days ago, and when Justice Bergen stated that another bond would be required, he promptly decided to drop the matter.

After the recount was stopped this morning, members of the Board of Elections presented Fred Baer Zior with an elaborate set of resolutions, and a box of quinces, potatoes and other vegetables, in honor of winning a prize for an exhibit of vegetables at the poultry and agricultural exhibit now being held in this city.

MANSLAUGHTER TRIAL IS NOT YET STARTED

Oscar Harrison's Case Will Likely Be Reached Tomorrow in Court.

Oscar Harrison, of Lincoln, was to have been placed on trial before Judge Daly at New Brunswick, this morning, for the involuntary manslaughter of Mrs. Andrew Hazlin, on August 18 last, but the case was not called, and probably will not be before tomorrow.

Mr. Harrison and Mrs. Hazlin were riding in the former's automobile, Sunday afternoon, August 18, when the car collided with a one-seated runabout in which Mr. and Mrs. Arthur VanArsdale, of this city, were riding. Mrs. Hazlin was thrown out of the car, sustaining injuries which caused her death soon afterward. Mr. and Mrs. VanArsdale were also thrown out of their wagon, but were not seriously injured. Mr. Harrison escaped with slight injuries. The automobile was wrecked.

SR. O. U. A. M. CAMPAIGN FOR MORE MEMBERS

Royal Council, Sr. O. U. A. M., at its meeting last night nominated officers to be elected on Wednesday night, December 18. There is now great rivalry between the members of the subordinate councils of northern and southern Jersey, the plan being that the council securing the greatest number of new members before February 1, will be entitled to the class day event, arrangements for which are now being made.

Royal Council is making a strong bid for the honors and the members will do their best to win out. The council has decided to hold a "ladies' night" affair in January.

WATCHUNG'S COURT CONVENES ON DEC. 11

Court Crier Anderson Says There's a Breach of Promise Suit on.

The winter term of the Watchung court, under the auspices of the North Plainfield Township Improvement Society, will convene at Watchung, Wednesday night, December 11, at which time "Walter Cheese Limburger" will be put on trial in a $20,000 breach of promise suit brought by "Miss Smorer Spoons," of Watchung, according to the court crier, W. de la for heavens sake Anderson.

The trial will be held in the municipal buildings, and following the usual custom, the constable will collect twenty-five cents from such citizens who may be attracted to witness the scandalous proceedings. The proceeds will go to the judge, a certain commission being first deducted for the support of the "Mayor," and it is expected that the judge will be enabled to purchase the phonograph which he has wanted so long.

Mr. Limburger will be represented by that eminent firm of lawyers, Sanderson & Nodin, while the possessor of the damaged heart will be represented by that learned attorney, Alvy Shark, of Somerville, assisted by Hon. E. Scanning and Col. Mobus. The interested parties refuse to discuss the case, preferring to save their information until the night of the trial.

HOW HOME CAN HELP THE SCHOOL--SUBJECT

Scotch Plains Minister Addresses a Local Parent-Teacher Assn.

Following a short business meeting, members of the Bryant-Lincoln Parent-Teacher Association were given instruction in child-training by the Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, of Scotch Plains. His topic was "How the Home Can Best Assist the School." The lecturer drew a comparison of the home life years ago, which he said afforded nearly all the pleasures then enjoyed by the young generation, and the new home life, with its gay parties, general lack of responsibilities and training toward the social life instead of instruction in housekeeping training.

Rev. Mr. Mathiews also urged that the girls be allowed to practise at home the cooking they learn in school, so that these lessons may be improved upon by actual experience.

"This applies to the boys as well in their manual training work," he said. "Unless they occasionally use the saw, or the hammer, or the square in actual work at home, the time consumed taking these lessons in school is wasted. The school in regard to training of the future men and women of this world is thoroughly efficient, but not sufficient. The home must furnish the finishing touches."

The Lincoln branch of the association will meet this afternoon, when Miss Addie Parker Jackson will speak on "Physical Culture." Refreshments will be served.

FIFTY-FOUR ARE GIVEN THEIR THIRD DEGREE

Five Hundred Members Attend Watchung Council, K. of C. Event.

The third degree was conferred on fifty-four candidates at the regular meeting of Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, held in its council rooms on East Front street, last night. The degree was conferred by State Deputy Edward J Sweeney, of Bayonne, who was assisted by District Deputies Fred Bender, of Elizabeth, and Joseph F. O'Keefe, of this city.

The members of Watchung Council met the Somerville members at the Grant Avenue railroad station at 7:30 o'clock and from there they paraded through town to Park avenue, up North avenue to Watchung avenue, to Front street, thence to the council chambers.

Delegations from Rahway, Woodbridge and Elizabeth came to this city in special trolleys and attended the meeting.

National Warder Thomas McLoughlin, of Newark, and Past State Deputy John J. Hickey, of Bayonne, addressed the men while they were seated at a luncheon which was served after the meeting.

The refreshment committee served 500 men in the banquet room.

THE FLONZALEY QUARTET HERE TOMORROW NIGHT

A concert of the greatest interest to music lovers will be the initial appearance of the famous Flonzaley Quartet at the High School tomorrow evening. The program contains two quartets from the most melodious and lovable old masters, Mozart and Maydn, whose genius had the marvelous power to charm both cultivated and uncultivated alike.

A few years ago the Flonzaleys were known to a comparatively few as an organization of four talented musicians whom E. J. de Cappet, a wealthy art patron, had banded together to play at his villa on Lake Geneva, Switzerland, and at his New York residence. The fame of the "Soirees" given for a favored few spread rapidly and the adoption of a public career led in a surprisingly sort time to a reputation extending throughout the musical world. In America, as in Europe, the quartet has outstripped its older rivals, its playing being accepted everywhere today as the standard of artistic excellence. The quartet devotes its entire time to the cultivation of chamber music. Its singleness of purpose and lofty aims are shown in a mutual agreement not to teach, play in orchestra, or accept individual engagements, and in this respect it is wholly unique among organizations of its class. It is interesting to note that the Flonzaley Quartet is the only European String Quartet ever brought to America.

Columns of laudatory press notices might be given of these performances throughout Europe and America.

ANDERSON AS MOSES OF DISRUPTED PARTY

Assemblyman Anderson, of Somerset county, since announcing his intention of calling for a conference in an effort to reunite the Republican and Progressive parties has been in receipt of many communications from all over the State both from progressives and standpatters, he says. "The general feeling," said Mr. Anderson today, "seems to be that a progressive movement is only progressive insofar as it brings progressive results; that a movement based on the highest progressive principles but using political tactics which are sure to bring defeat to those very principles, is not a progressive movement. The general sentiment seems further to be that the main principles of the progressive creed were already being served before the new third party started and were in a fair way of developing strength and widening out through the impetus of public sentiment. The placing of a third local ticket in the field, in the name of progress, without any regard as to the necessity is, from the communications, unanimously disapproved."

"The creating of a situation which makes continued Democratic party sucess inevitable," he added, "is strongly denounced, with the exception of one writer, a Democrat, who advises me 'to let the thing alone and come into the Democratic party.'"

Assemblyman Anderson says he is in receipt of information that a number of clubs composed of progressives and Republicans are in process of formation in different parts of the State with the idea of united action.

The temperature report from the State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 48 degress; 11 a. m., 47 degrees; 1 p. m., 49½ degrees.

GOT CLAIRE BICKEL

According to the County Detectives office in Elizabeth, Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and Chief Kiely, of the local police, are on their way to this city with Claire Bickel in their custody to answer to the charge of desertion proferred by his wife.

SMALLEY WOULD HAVE HIS OWN TROLLEY LINE

The North Plainfield Township Committee, at a meeting tomorrow night will grant a hearing to former Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of the borough, who seeks permission to build and construct a trolley line from his stone crusher to the terminus of the Somerset street line of the P. S. R. Most of this line would be on Mr. Smalley's own land, but for a distance of a few feet it would run over township property into Somerset street. The trolley is desired to transport stone from the quarry to the Public Service Railway's cars.

It is understood that there is some opposition on the part of the residents of the township to the building of this line, but as yet the township committee has not expressed itself on the subject. When Mr. Smalley appears before the committee tomorrow night it is said that he will be prepared to show that the trolley will not be objectionable in any way.

SHE HAS THE HABIT OF RUNNING AWAY

Susie Jameson, 12-year-old daughter of James Jameson, of 539 West Fifth street, who has been missing from home several days, was found yesterday by the North Plainfield police and turned over to her father. While the angry parent, leading his child toward home, delivered a severe lecture, the girl broke away from her father's grasp, and has not been seen since. The police of the city and borough are again looking for her. She is described as a blonde, small for her age. At the time of her disappearance she wore a short blue coat, black hat and tan shoes and stockings. Three weeks ago Susie ran away, but was finally located by Patrolman McCarthy on West Front street, near Grant avenue.

Mr. Jameson could give no reason for his daughter's actions.

MRS. R. H. HOOD WANTS ALIMONY

She Asks Vice Chancellor to Grant Her $500 a Month and $1,500 Counsel Fee.

COURT MAKES NO ORDER

Judge DeMeza Today Again Allows Postponement of Disorderly Conduct Charge When Husband Fails to Appear, but a Condition is Made

The alimony Richard Haden Hood, of this city, can afford to pay to Mrs. Frances Sparks Hood, who is suing him for divorce, is to be the subject of inquiry by a master in Chancery. Vice Chancellor Howell determined on this course today after an application for alimony, and a counsel fee had been made to him by Conover English, of McCarter & English. Widely varying statements were made by counsel for husband and wife respectively as to Hood's resources.

Mr. English contended that to maintain his client in the manner to which she was accustomed the alimony should not be less than $500 a month, and as counsel fee he named, as a modest figure considering the size of the case, the sum of $1,500.

These amounts appeared too large to former Justice Gilbert Collins, of Jersey City, who was present as counsel for Hood, Isaac P. Runyon, of Plainfied, who was to have appeared for the defendant, being unable to attend. Mr. Collins said that Mrs. Hood still occupies the Hood home in Stelle avenue, and suggested that if she were to give up the home to her husband she would be in a better position before the court.

Although Mrs. Hood appeared in the City Court, this morning, accompanied by her counsel, former State Senator Charles A. Reed, her sister and her father, John E. Sparks, of Philadelphia, and a maid, to press the charge of disorderly conduct against her husband for his alleged breaking into the Stelle avenue mansion November 18, the defendant was nowhere to be seen. It is thought that his lawyer, Isaac P. Runyon, who is at Atlantic City for his health, had advised him not to appear until he was able to represent him.

Mr. Reed conferred with Judge DeMeza, who announced the case would again be postponed until December 28 on condition that Hood would stay

The desire of the organizations and individuals entered in the Daily Press piano contest for the three valuable prizes offered, and the work now being done by them towards the winning of the rewards, is reflected in the large number of ballots that is being cast each day. The prompt response of the friends of the various candidates is very gatifying.

The next two weeks will be very interesting and exciting. Concentrated efforts are the most effective now. If one is a member of a lodge or organization or a friend of an individual who has entered in this competition let them be a committee of one and do what they can towards the securing of one of these splendid prizes. Have them see their friends and secure their support. Show that it is a determined effort to win and get them interested in the race. Get those who have not already subscribed to do so, and ask them enlist their friends; thus making an endless chain of boosters that, if properly looked after, cannot but help bring results.

The next count of votes will be made on Saturday night, and from all indications it will be a big one. All candidates are advised to make a good showing in this count and try and be among the leaders. The days on the contestants' calender are quickly passing and the importance of registering a high score each week is rapidly growing greater.

There is no one in the race who can feel sure of his or her laurels until the last vote is counted. Every one in the contest has friends who have promised to subscribe before the contest ends. The Daily Press is doing its share towards getting these promises fulfilled. Let those in the contest do their full share and then, even if they do not win one of the grand prizes they will have a ten per cent. compensation for their efforts. An ounce of work now is worth a pound of effort after December 21. Get busy at once. Use the telephone, and make personal calls—any way will do, but be sure and see them all.

Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. Mechanicts, of Dunellen, one of the organizations entered in the race seems determined to win the player-piano. They have asked the support of their brother and sister lodge members. All the members are enthusiastic over the prospect and realize that one of the instruments will make a welcome addition to their rooms.

TO THE "GOOD FELLOWS" OF PLAINFIELD

Just about this time last year I told you my story. You listened to it—you did more—you followed its spirit out in a bang-up style. Bless your hearts, you made over 600 poor little tots know the real meaning of a joyous Christmas. I'm not claiming any credit for my story; I'm claiming credit for knowing that there are many Good Fellows in this fine old town of ours—royal chaps, who don't do much preaching, but when it comes to doing a good turn, well, they're there with the goods. This is no sermon that I'm handing you, it's a heart to heart talk with men with red blood in their veins, and here it is off last year's reel.

On Christmas and New Year's eve you and I went out for a good time and spent from $10 to $200. Christmas morning hundreds of children awoke to an empty stocking—bitter with the pain of disappointment that Santa Claus had forgotten them. That's the way it used to be. Perhaps it wasn't our fault. We had provided for our own; we had also reflected in a passing way on those less fortunate than our own, but they seemed far off and we didn't know where to find them. Perhaps in the hundred and one things we had to do some of us didn't think of that heart sorrow of the child over the empty stocking.

Now, old man, here's a chance. Just send your name and address to the Daily Press—address Santa Claus—state about how many children you are willing to protect against grief over that empty stocking, inclose a two-cent stamp and you will be furnished with the names, addresses, sex and age of that many children. It is then up to you, you do the rest. Select your own present, spend 50 cents or $50, and send or take the gifts to those children on Christmas eve. You pay not a cent more than you want to pay—every cent goes just where you want it to go. You gain neither notoriety nor advertising; no record will be kept; your letter will be returned to you with its answer. The whole plan is just as anonymous as old Santa Claus himself.

This is not a newspaper scheme. The Daily Press will preserve the anonymous character of this work. The responsibility of finding the children and sending you their names will be assumed by this paper and it guarantees that whatever you bestow will be deserved.

Neither you nor I get anything out of this, except the feeling that you have saved from sorrow on Christmas morning. If that is not enough for you then you have wasted time in reading this—it is not intended for you, but for the good fellows of Plainfield.

Perhaps a twenty-five cent doll or a ten cent tin toy wouldn't mean much to the children you know, but to the child who would find them in the otherwise empty stocking they mean much—the difference between utter disappointment and the joy that Santa Claus did not forget them. Here is where you and I get in. The charitable organizations attend to the bread and meat, the clothes, the necessaries; you and the rest of the good fellows furnish the toys, the nuts, the candies, the child's real Christmas.

GOOD FELLOW.

"Good Fellow" is not a professional philanthropist, he takes a drink, and even goes out at night with the boys for a mild good time—but he has taken care of some poor little ones each year in Plainfield. He says he wishes he had always curtailed his holiday joy-making with the good fellows even more than he did, so that he might have had more money to gladden childish hearts.

The Worthy Grand Master of the lodge of Good Fellows has laid his plans for securing names through the Charity Organization Society.

This is how you can joint the lodge of Good Fellows. Write a letter to "Santa Claus," care of the Daily Press, something like this:

I live at No.....street. I will be Santa Claus to 6 children.

JOHN JONES.

The letter will go to Santa Claus. He will indorse on your letter the names and addresses of six children. That letter will be remailed to you. Then you get busy. That's all. Come on in, good fellows.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

When "School Days" comes to town on Saturday afternoon and evening at the Plainfield theatre, there will appear a cast that is well worth seeing. The show that has made thousands laugh has with it this year the original cast, with but one exception, and is surrounded by one of the best singing choruses that has left New York this season. When theatregoers take into consideration that they are getting an exceptionally fine cast of principals, a fine chours, a scenic and electrical investiture dazzling to the eye, they can go to the theatre and feel safe that they are about to see a performance in which they will ot be disappointed and never regret the price of the admission. Among those to be seen here in the company are: Callie Van Vleet, Dolly DuPree, Leah Manner, Joe Marks, Art Henry, Milton Feiber, Jack Perlman, Bobbie Blake, Fred Binder, Jack Stollmack, and thirty other juvenile artists. See it, or you miss a treat.

Headed by Willis P. Sweatnam in the role of the Pullman car porter, Henry W. Savage's original cast of players, who made "Exuce Me" keep Broadway in laughter for over one solid year, is rushing swiftly toward this city, where it will be seen at the Plainfield theatre on Tuesday night, December 10. The scenes of the play are all laid in a Pullman train en route from Chicago to Reno and the thirty odd passengers, the porter, conductor, engineer and other characters who appear, are in themselves such humorous types that they would be funny even if the theme, situations and complications of the plot did not keep an audience in roars of laughter. The whole combination is so extraordinarily funny that it is safe to say "Excuse Me" is a laughter trust.

ORCHARDISTS TO HOLD 3 DAYS' CONVENTION

Program Announced for Annual Meeting at New Brunswick.

Papers of much scientifice interest will be presented by Professors H. T. Cook, T. I. Readlee, Alva Agee, A. J. Farley, M. A. Blake and Dr. Jacob J. Lipman, all of the Experiment Station Staff. There will also be several discussions on various topics and five minute talks besides the usual question box which always takes a prominent place in the society's meetings.

The prize list has been entirely revised and premiums will be awarded amounting to more than $300, to encourage the production and display of fine fruits, flowers and vegetables.

The display this year will undoubtedly be exceptionally fine and the competition keen. John Barclay, of Cranbury; William H. Reid, of Tennent; Granville T. Leeds, of Rancocas, and Horace Roberts, of Moorestown, will display their apples which were shown in the commercial box pack, and drew so much attention at the American Land and Irrigation Show just held in New York City, in fact all of the fruit shown at the Land Show, in the New Jersey Exhibit, will be moved to New Brunswick for this meeting.

The fine silver cups and trophies won by the State at the Land Show will be exhibited at this meeting. This in itself should be of great interest to all citzens of the State.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

A new rule went into effect in High School at the beginning of this month which relates to the tardy marks. In order to cut out the late comers a rule was made that if more than twelve and one half per cent. of the High School is late during a month the whole school is called back for one hour on the last day of the month. If on the other hand, less than twelve and one half per cent. are tardy the entire High School will be dismissed one hour earlier than usual on the last day of the month. This rule has already tended to decrease the tardy marks as the whole school must suffer on account of a few.

The freshmen class numbers fifty-seven and four days out of every week they are all in school.

The Woodbridge H. S. basketball team, which was to play the borough lads this afternoon at the Y. M. C. A., cancelled yesterday for some unknown reason. The manager is having a hard time and the lack of a hall adds to his disadvantage. No home contests can be played until one is secured and the games to be played must be cancelled. However, the team is practising regularly and expect to put up a good game against Summit High School next week.

For some reason the Board of Education has delayed in making definite arrangements about the hall but they expect to have it in time for the Summit game.

The senior class is having a hard time finding suitable "knocks" to give the juniors at the entertainment given for Christmas. Ray Kline has been selected to give out the "knocks."

Elsie Debele, manager of the girls' basketball team, is having a hard time in arranging a schedule as many teams take games and then cancel.

HARD ON CHRISTOPHER.

Most of us believe that the cherry tree incident of George Washington's boyhood days is only a very pretty story, just as is the shooting the apple off another's head, figuring in the life of William Tell. But most of us, however, did suppose that Christopher Columbus actually discovered America. That it has been a matter of serious question these hundreds of years, we know, the same as Robert E. Perry's title as discoverer of the North Pole will be disputed for centuries to come.

From Washington comes the tidings that W. H. Bacock, of the Anthropological Society, declares the honor of America's discovery is improperly credited to the Italian navigator. This continent was on the map long before Columbus was born. Mr. Babcock made this assertion at a meeting of his society last night and instantly sides were taken.

The coasts of Florida and Cuba were known to the Portuguese, Italians and Spaniards, Mr. Babcock asserted, long before Columbus set out on his voyage. He showed reproductions of maps dating back to 1414. One was a reproduction of the work of Martin Behaim in 1492, before Columbus returned from his voyage of discovery, showing both Cuba and Florida.

Mr. Babcock ascribed to the Atlantic currents the discovery of the Western continent at a date earlier than 1492. Those currents, he said, set in past the Azores and would have swept a vessel to the shores either of Florida or Cuba.

Most of us would hate to be convinced at this late day that Mr. Columbus' title was bogus, nearly as much so as we would to have it proven that W. Shakespeare did not write his plays.

The Trenton True American is a stickler for the "Three R's" in public school education and every now and then it laments the fact that fads and faddisms in the free schools have to a large extent crowded out the rudiments. Says another paper:

"The backwoods system turned out some pretty good men. They may not have known how to make a chair, cook a squab, swing Indian clubs or have been very swift on the race track or active on the horizontal bars, but they knew how to get along in the world, and a whole lot of them managed to do it with distinction to themselves and credit to the country. Of course, it isn't necessary to adopt the whole backwoods system, but old-fashioned teachers had a way of teaching their pupils how to spell, how to write and how to 'figger,' that would be a revelation and a God-send to a good many pupils in our public schools today."

New Jersey's death rate for November was lower than that of the corresponding month in some years past, so reports David S. South, the State register of vital statistics. Not only is our span of life growing longer but the number of deaths among infants is decreasing right along. Deaths of persons over sixty years of age numbered 810 out of a total of 2,790. New Jersey is a good place to live in.

When purchasing Red Cross seals for Christmas packages and for letters, bear in mind that eighty-five per cent of the business done in these seals by the Plainfield Charity Organization Society means just so much for its work right here in Plainfield. The seals come in packets of 100 and may be had at almost any store for $1.00.

There's a great truth uttered in the contributing editorial to be published on Saturday and it is one bound to make every local resident do some hard thinking. Maybe, it will result in much good for Plainfield. At least we hope so. The contributing editor is a distinguished resident and knows whereof he speaks.

If you have not already responded to the appeal made by "Good Fellow," read his letter in this issue and then lose no time in joining the movement.

IS THE ARMISTICE BROKEN OFF AGAIN

London, Dec. 5.—A despatch from Constantinople says that it was officially announced there today that armistice negotiations between Greece and Turkey had been broken off. The "Ikdam," known as the official government newspaper, however, stated that it was probable that the matter would be again taken up in a few days and an armistice signed. A message from Vienna said that it was reported there that two Greek gunboats were bombarding Valona, a city of Albania. The despatch had it that the gunners aimed their shells especially at public buildings that had the Albanian flag displayed, despite the protests of Ismail Kemail Bey, provisional president of Albania.

$6,000,000 TO DEAN'S WIFE.

Mrs. Rousmaniere of Boston Inherits It From Her Father.

Boston, Dec. 5.—Mrs. Edmund S. Rousmaniere, wife of the dean of St. Paul's cathedral, inherits at least $6,000,000 from the estate of her father, Robert Knight of Providence. Knight, who began his industrial career at $1.25 a week, died a few days ago. He owned more cotton mills than any other man in America. His estate is valued at from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000. He directed the management of his property up to the time of his death at the age of eighty-two, keeping in touch with the mills by telephone from his bedside. No will has been found.

Four children survive Knight. They are Webster Knight and C. Prescott Knight of B. B. & R. Knight, Miss Edith Knight and Mrs. Rousmaniere. The estate will be divided equally among them. It includes cotton mills in many Massachusetts and Rhode Island cities and villages in addition to vast real estate holdings.

OPERATE ON PRINCE OF WALES

Adenoids Removed Before His Recent Visit to Paris.

London, Dec. 5.—It was learned authentically that the Prince of Wales underwent a successful operation for the removal of adenoids before his recent visit to Paris. News of the operation was rigidly suppressed.

The unexpected and gratifying progress made by the prince since then, both in studies and athletics at Oxford, is attributed directly to the operation. Formerly there were grave fears that he would grow up dull in mind.

MISS BESSIE YOAKUM.

Railroad President's Daughter Bravely Shoots Five Wild Hogs.

Miss Bessie Yoakum, daughter of B. F. Yoakum, the millionaire president of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad, shot five wild Mexican hogs. While hunting deer she and a guide were attacked by seven of the ferocious hogs. The guide fled. Miss Yoakum leaped from her horse, dropped to her knee, aimed a fraction of a moment and fired while the first wild hog was a score of yards away. Miss Yoakum killed two more with as many shots. Then her rifle failed her. She ran for the gun the guide had dropped. With this she killed two more of the hogs.

INITIATIVE, RECALL APPEARS IN SENATE

Senator Bristow Offers Resolutions In Upper House.

Washington, Dec. 5.—The initiative and the recall of judicial decisions as amendments to the federal constitution were proposed by Senator Bristow in resolutions laid before the senate. Senator Bristow's first resolution would permit the president to submit to popular vote at a congressional election day any measure he has recommended to congress and upon which no action has been taken for six months.

The second would provide that "if the supreme court shall decide a law enacted by congress is in violation of the provisions of the constitution of the United States the congress at a regular session held after such decision may submit the act to the electors at a regular congressional election."

Under each amendment it is proposed that the questions submitted to the people must have a majority of the popular vote in a majority of the states as well as in a majority of the congressional districts of the nation.

In a brief explanation Senator Bristow declared the amendment affecting the president would enable him to appeal from a dilatory or adverse congress to the people and that a president could not as an excuse for signing an undesirable measure say that it was the best he could get from an unfriendly congress.

Senator Bristow in support of his amendment affecting decisions of the supreme court declared that it would give to the people an opportunity to state whether or not they desire the law enacted by congress and approved by the president to stand as the last expression of their will and judgment.

SENATOR GUILTY OF BRIBERY

Convicted of Accepting $200 For Legislation From Burns Detective.

Columbus, O., Dec. 5.—State Senator George K. Cetone of Dayton was found guilty on a charge of accepting a $200 bribe from a Burns detective posing as a lobbyist before the general assembly in the spring of 1911.

He is the third senator to be convicted in the assembly bribery cases. Two representatives and the senate sergeant-at-arms have been convicted heretofore.

The measure involved was the Cetone-Whittmore insurance measure, and the state charged that Cetone took the bribe to get the bill out of committee. As in other legislation corruption cases, the state successfully introduced dictagraph testimony.

Wilbur J. Chamberlin, son of the late Wilbur J. Chamberlin, one of the most remarkable newspaper reporters in the history of American journalism, has joined the reportorial staff of the Plainfield Daily Press. Chamberlain, gained fame on the New York Herald, while the third brother, Ernest O. Chamberlin, was equally noted when managing editor of the New York World. W. J. Chamberlin "covered" the "Boxer" uprising for the Sun, and all three were equally noted as the best newspaper reporters in this country. For some years they resided on Madison avenue.

CZAR DECIDES THAT HIS DAUGHTER OLGA SHALL SUCCEED TO THRONE IF SON DIES

Grand Duchess Olga.

Czar Nicholas is said to have made up his mind that in the event of the death of his son, his daughter, the Grand Duchess Olga, aged 16, shall inherit the Russian throne. The Czar's action in thus depriving his brother, Grand Duke Michael, of succession to the throne is reported to be due to his belief that the grand duke, on the throne, would undo all the reforms that Nicholas has brought about in behalf of the people.

RIVAL POSSES OUT AFTER ASSAILANT

Armed Farmers Hunt Man Who Attacked Woman.

SHERIFF LEADS THE CHASE

Victim Struck Down With Bludgeon and Dragged Into Field and Is Now In Dying Condition—Feeling Over Assault Is Intense In Trenton.

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 5.—The all night search of the two rival posses, one an unorganized mob of armed farmers bent on lynching and the other the sheriff's posse, determined, if possible, to prevent the lynching, failed in their efforts to locate the man who attacked and mortally injured Miss Luella Marshall of 818 Pennington avenue as she was walking along a lonely road.

The victim of the outrage is dying in Mercer hospital, where she was taken after she was discovered unconscious in the thick patch of timber back of the Odd Fellows' home.

At first it was confidently believed that the assailant of the young woman was a negro, but since the search began some doubt was cast on this theory.

Miss Marshall, who is thirty years old and keeps house for her brother, a prosperous farmer, was walking along the old Pennington road, west of the city, when she was attacked. She was struck down from behind with a heavy bludgeon, which fractured her skull. Another blow of the same weapon broke the bones of her jaw. The murderous assailant then dragged his unresisting victim into a field back of the roadway fence.

This fence is constructed of barbed wire, and the man dragged his victim over the barbs, ripping off her clothing and tearing long gashes in the flesh. Before he had completed his fiendish work he had torn the young woman's clothing to ribbons.

Miss Agnes Eggert, who lives in the vicinity, saw a man hurrying out of the wooded field where the assault took place. It was so dark that Miss Eggert was unable to say afterward whether the man was white or black. He had scarcely vanished from sight when Miss Eggert heard groans and traced the sound to the field where Miss Marshall lay. An ambulance was summoned and the countryside was informed of the outrage.

The feeling over the assault is intense in the vicinity where it occurred, and the police fear that any suspicious characters that may not be able to give a good account of themselves to the farmers and citizens looking for the fugitive will fare badly at their hands.

WOMAN KILLS BIG BEAR.

Attacks Animal With Pitchfork, as It Was In Pigpen.

Towacco, N. J., Dec. 5.—Mrs. Julia Sutton, a widow, who resides near the base of Waughaw mountain, two miles west of here, killed a black bear with a pitchfork.

The bear, which weighed about 200 pounds, was leaving the widow's pigpen with a small shoat when Mrs. Sutton attacked it. One tine of the fork entered the bear's eye, penetrating to the brain.

Mrs. Sutton was awakened by a commotion in her outbuildings. The bark of a dog, the lowing of a cow, the cackling of fowl and the stamp of a horse commingled, but above all rose a series of shrill squeals from the pigs.

Mrs. Sutton ran to the barn, seized the pitchfork, proceeded to the pigpen and killed the bear as it was climbing out of the pen.

TOOK $1,000 FROM TROUSERS

Passaic Contractor and His Wife Chloroformed and Robbed.

Passaic, N. J., Dec. 5.—The police are investigating a peculiar robbery at the home of former Councilman Garret Roosma, a wealthy contractor of 60 Summer street. Thieves chloroformed Mr. and Mrs. Roosma and removed a pair of trousers rolled up under Mr. Roosma's pillow, thus obtaining $1,000 in cash. A gold watch in the trousers was not taken, and another pair of trousers containing a smaller sum of money was left. No other valuables were taken.

A number of tenants paid their rental to Mr. Roosma. One caller paid off a mortgage of $900 in cash, and with the rest of the payments he had collected $1,000.

NO SAFETY IN FLIGHT.

Alleged Forger From Germany Is Arrested In Jersey City.

Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 5.—Jacob Hack, wanted in Hanau, Germany, on forgery charges, was arrested at 574 Pavonia avenue, this city, where he had been trailed by Pinkerton detectives. He will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Stockton in Newark.

Hack is accused of having forged a check for 14,000 marks, which he discounted at a Hanau bank on Aug. 13. He arrived here Oct. 10. He first lived on Staten Island, then moved to the Jersey City house, where he was known as H. Dorn.

The "Sweet-Toned"

EMERSON

PIANO

A Piano of Individuality

THE discovery of gold in California was not the only big event that marked the year 1849. In that year the first EMERSON piano was made.

Through sixty-three years of successful effort the EMERSON aim has been to approach as nearly as possible to the best piano and keep $150 behind its price. The Emerson factory has never been satisfied merely to build a good piano, nor an expensive one.

In the alchemy of Emerson accomplishment the dollar has been transmuted into a marvelous measure of music.

It is worthy of note that while tone is the final test of a piano, the EMERSON is the only instrument in which the tone has indelibly impressed itself upon the popular mind.

"The Sweet-toned Emerson"—said a woman many years ago. And the term spread among all who played or heard this exquisitely constructed instrument.

It is better to-day than it was then—Advancement and betterment are the twin spirits behind EMERSON achievement.

Are You a Musician?

The Emerson Piano at $300 is a musician's piano—plain mahogany case with works identical with those in the best $450 piano the Emerson factory turns out.

A small piano for apartments;

A piano for parlors or music rooms of average dimensions;

A concert room piano;

A piano the case of which is a pure and typical expression of the real art in the "mission" spirit;

The new short grand—5 feet 8 inches long by 4 feet 6 inches wide—with a tone of great power, sympathetic, vibratory;

Emerson pianos in seven styles in all are here for your choice, at $300, $325, $345, $360, $390 in mahogany; at $360 in mission; at $600, the short grand, in mahogany.

And—the Emerson-Angelus

It is a fine tribute to the excellence of the ANGELUS that the makers of the best pianos in America have preferred it over all other piano-players.

By combining the EMERSON with the ANGELUS the whole wide wonder-world of music is opened up—even to a little child.

Think of the uplifting influence of this wonderful instrument in your home!

Three styles; mahogany upright, $750; mission upright, $750; mahogany grand, $1,350.

Special Christmas terms are now in force, and apply to any of the pianos or player-pianos on the Wanamaker Roll of Honor.

MISS A. CODDINGTON'S FUNERAL SATURDAY

The funeral of Miss Asenath Coddington, who died at her home, 370 Somerset street, yesterday afternoon following a five months' illness with kidney and heart troubles, will take place Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at her late home. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson will officiate and interment will be made at Hillside cemetery. She was the daughter of the late Archibald Coddington and Eliza Moore, and was born in Somerset county, between Mt. Bethel and Mt. Horeb.

About sixty years ago the family moved to the present address on Somerset street, where Miss Coddington's father operated the old mill where the Hermann property is now located. She was a faithful member of the First M. E. church.

About twenty-five years ago Miss Coddington was subjected to a severe illness, from which she never fully recovered, leaving her so that she could not do anything requiring any amount of strength to perform.

About five months ago she complained of trouble with her heart. Upon an examination by Dr. Buchanan, it was learned that she had a very leaky heart and that there was not much hope. From that time she knew that her days were numbered. When kidney trouble set in she knew that there was no possible hope for her so she resigned herself to her fate and suffered with a patience that was marvelous.

At 8 o'clock yesterday morning she became unconscious and remained so until the end. She has a wide circle of acquaintances and friends in this city, the borough and all through Somerset county and will be missed greatly by all of them.

She is survived by three sisters, the Misses Jennie and Eunice Coddington and Mrs. Mary Coon, and two brothers, Worth and Harrison Coddington, all of the borough.

C. church. Mr. and Mrs. Woodland will leave Saturday on a honeymoon. On their return they will begin housekeeping. They plan to give a reception to their friends after being settled in their new home. The bride has been at the Hotel Waldorf for several years.

The army of job hunters for State places is second only to the army of the same sort for Federal places. that must be considered by itself when you come to Paint. The lumber, the location, the condition of the old paint are all factors that must be given careful consideration. IN WOMAN'S REALM

FANCY GINGERBREAD.

GINGERBREAD horses, rabbits, chickens, figures of Santa Claus, etc., may be trimmed with colored icings put on in lines to represent the features. German bakers make the most fascinating Christmas cakes of this sort. Gingerbread cakes of any kind will be appreciated by the children and if a little fruit is used in baking them may make acceptable substitutes for the Christmas fruit cake served to their elders.

Wholesome For Children.

Gingerbread is doubly good if a few spoonfuls of grated chocolate are added before baking. This makes it richer and does not affect the flavor.

Plain Gingerbread.—Take half a cupful each of sugar, sour milk and molasses, a quarter of a cupful of butter, one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in the sour milk, one and a half cupfuls of flour, a pinch of salt, a teaspoonful of cinnamon, a half teaspoonful each of ginger and cloves and one egg. Mix well and bake in a moderately hot oven.

A Fruit Cake Substitute.

Fruit Gingerbread.—Take a pound of molasses and heat it with one-quarter of a pound each of butter and brown sugar. Mix with one and one-half pounds of fine oatmeal, one-half pound of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one tablespoonful of ground ginger, one-half teaspoonful of mixed spice, one ounce of candied orange peel, cut fine, and one pound of raisins, chopped small. Pour the molasses, etc., over the dry ingredients and mix well. Pour into a buttered tin and bake.

A portion of this mixture can be made into squares or nuts and baked in a slow oven.

Eggs may be worked in as for ordinary cake if preferred.

Spiced Gingerbread.

Soft Gingerbread.—Take half a cupful of butter, a pint of molasses, a quart of flour, one cupful of milk or cold coffee, two eggs, a teaspoonful of ginger, a teaspoonful of baking powder and half a teaspoonful of cloves. Cream the butter and sugar together; then stir in the milk and molasses mixed together. Add the baking powder and spices to the flour and beat in a little at a time, adding the eggs, well beaten, last of all. Pour into a shallow pan and bake in a moderate oven for an hour. You may bake in muffin tins, filling these only half full, and baking about twenty minutes in a slow oven.

Anna Thompson.

VANITY'S VISIONS.

Original and Unusual Gowns and Trimmings For Modish Women.

Original and smart is a gown with a little orange scarlet cloth coat, the cloth left with cut edges and the sole relief being a handsome black and silver embroidery on the upstanding collar, worn with a black satin stock.

CHAFING DISH APRON.

The skirt is of cleverly draped supple black silk of the faille order. It is finished with a group, set in a triangle to hold in place one portion of the drapery, of flat black and silver interplaited braid buttons.

Yellows and greens take precedence in evening fabrics. Yellow is used with almost any other color desired.

Many of the new suits have yellow satin linings. Vivid blues and greens are also favored.

In some of the newest street costumes the coats are entirely of fur, mostly in mole, Hudson seal, ermine or sable.

A long stole of black fox looks well with an autumn walking suit.

Pretty little aprons such as these find many uses. They are charming for the chafing dish supper and they are pretty and practical to wear when fancy work is in progress.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

This May Manton pattern is cut in one size only. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 7648, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

MOTHERS' WORK

Conducted by the Plainfield Mothers' Association. Every Thursday

Contributing Staff.
Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, Mrs. Jos. Smith, Mrs. Wm. M. Sandford, Jr.

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mother's Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

Is it a hard thing to require of the mother that she shall devote herself so closely to her child? Let her remember that motherhood is her business now! She has had her school life, she has had society, she has had literature, she has had wifehood, now she is a mother, pledged by the sacredness and the infinite impart of this new calling to self-abnegation, to the highest good of the child to whom she stands as creator and provider.—Elizabeth Powell Bond.

Roselle P. T. Assn.

Mrs. M. L. Johnson, founder of the School for Organic Education at Fairhope, Ala., who, with her progressive outlook on children's development interested greatly her large audience at the Plainfield High School on the evening of December third, spoke also before the Parent-Teacher Association of Roselle, New Jersey on the afternoon of the same day. Mrs. Johnson can be secured for addresses by associations near Philadelphia for the next few weeks. Address Mrs. M. L. Johnson.

Franklin School.

That the parents of our pupils may have a better understanding of the object of our classes in Manual Training and may really see some of the work accomplished by our children, there will be a sale of articles made by the Manual Training classes of the Franklin School in the auditorium of their building on Thursday afternoon and evening, of December twelfth.

It will consist of reed baskets made by some of the boys of the Fifth Grade; dish towels, glass towels holders, etc., done in the sewing class composed of Fifth Grade girls.

In addition to this there will be various fancy articles donated by our teachers and their friends from the Parent-Teacher Association of the school.

Aside from these there will be a table of various small articles made by pupils from the several grades, consisting of dress hangers, baskets, darning cases, unique dolls, etc.

There will also be a table from which home-made candies and chocolate and cocoa will be sold.

A most cordial invitation is extended to all our friends to come and see and help us. The proceeds of this sale will be devoted either to the advancement of the Manual Training work or to the further decoration of the school building as is deemed wisest by the superintendent of schools. Noel J. Bullock, principal

Irving P. T. Assn.

An unusual opportunity to inspect or to buy toys and books approved for their educational value is to be offered the people of Plainfield by the New York Wheelock Club. This club is composed of women who are Kindergartners, all of them graduates of the Lucy Wheelock Kindergarten Training School, of Boston. They are earnest, intelligent, experienced women, interested not only to see that children are helpfully trained in Kindergarten but desirous also to give to mothers their aid in choosing the best and simplest in toys and books for the children at home.

Some of the members of the Wheelock Club have exchanged the activities of the Kindergarten for those of the home circle and are thus fitted by the two-fold experience to combine the points of view of the mother and the school. The intense interest, steady enthusiasm and trained observation of the Wheelock Club is to find concrete expression in the exhibition and sale of inexpensive educational toys and books on December 11 next at the meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association in the Irving School at three o'clock.

Toys and books which represent a wide and careful selection will be presented by members of the club who will be prepared to explain why the materials in the display provide the richest amusement and entertainment for children, and at the same time cultivate their self-activity and natural, sensible development.

The toys and books placed on exhibition will also be for sale, as it is the desire of the club to assist parents and friends of children in the appropriate choice of Christmas as gifts. This kind of aid is frequently asked of Kindergartners at this season of the year. The co-operation of all mothers and friends is invited that as many people as possible may avail themselves of the privilege presented by the Wheelock Club.

AH, HA! OH, HO!—SANTA CLAUS IS HERE AT LAST—AND HE'S WAITING TO SEE YOU!

To My Little Friends—

Hello! How de do, my dear little kiddies? Oh, yes, I'm here at last, and right glad I am, too, for, I tell you, little ones, it's a long, hard journey from the North Pole to Newark, and my bones were aching when I got here last night in my speedy automobile.

Didn't you see me? Why, I came right down Springfield Avenue past the Court House—said "how de do" to Mr. Lincoln's statue, shot down thru the crowds on Market Street, turned at old "Four Corners," so familiar to me, and up Broad Street to Hahne's big store, where I have made my home so many, many years.

I'll be here from now till Christmas eve, and I want to see your dear little faces once more. Do come to see me—I've toys for all.

Merrily Yours,
SANTA CLAUS.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON SAYS HE'LL HAVE A SHAMROCK AT PANAMA EXPOSITION

Sir Thomas Lipton "shooting the sun" on San Francisco Bay.

Sir Thomas Lipton has brought joy to the hearts of San Franciscans by announcing that he will bring a Shamrock to the Panama-Pacific exposition in 1915 and race with all comers for the championship of the sea. Lipton is a drawing card anywhere and his presence at the exposition is expected to help the attendance. In the accompanying picture he is seen "shooting the sun" while going over the 1915 yachting course on San Francisco Bay.

BASKETBALL TONIGHT.

Members of the Young Men's Club basketball team of Grace church will line up against a similar organization from the South Bound Brook Reformed church tonight. This is the first of a series of games scheduled by Edward Williams, who is managing the team. Among the players will be a number of former local High School players, including Jack Ricketts and Frank Dunning. Ernest and Harry Van Zandt are also expected to be in the game. Manager Williams hopes to book a large number of games for the Grace five before the season ends.

CONWAY DEFEATS DODGE.

In one of the best played games ever seen on a local table Edward Conway defeated Ora Dodge last night at Stites' parlors on West Front street, by a score of 100 to 80. Conway led from the start and because of his great playing Dodge never had a chance to overtake the eventual winner. Dodge showed streaks of championship form several times during the evening but could not cut down the early lead secured by the clever Conway. A crowd of over 200 watched the players. Conway made the high run of the game with a mark of 14.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Grahame-White.

"I have finished plans for a machine to fly across the Atlantic," recently declared Claude Grahame-White, the English birdman.

"It will be a 1,000 horse power machine," he added, "with four engines and six propellers. Each engine will be of 250 horse power and they will be so constructed as to reinforce each other.

"If two break down, the other two will be there to complete the journey. I believe we can make the trip from land to land in something between twenty and thirty hours."

AJAX PLAY BATTIN HIGH AT ELIZABETH

Y. M. C. A. Team Will Go to County Seat Tomorrow Afternoon.

Although most of the Y. M. C. A. Ajax basketball players are practicing daily with the Plainfield High School candidates, the team will go to Elizabeth tomorrow afternoon to play the Battin High School quintet. The Ajax are popularly conceded to be a team of the scholastic class and will no doubt give the county seat aggregation a good contest. Most of the Battin players came to Painfield last month in the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. uniforms and although they lost to the Ajax, the victory was only a matter of a few points and both aggregations were in the running until the final minute of play.

The Battin game will be the seventh of the season for the Ajax and all of the previous games have resulted in victories. On the other hand, tomorrow's contest will be the initial one of the season for the Elizabeth five and much depends on the outcome.

Enthusiasm has been high at Battin over every form of athletics for years past, but particularly so during the present season, because of the stirling football eleven turned out by that institution. In order to accommodate the large student body the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. gymnasium has been secured and the Ajax game will be played at that place.

A number of Ajax rooters are contemplating a trip to Elizabeth with the team and all those desirous of taking the trip should be at the depot prepared to board the 2:39 train.

GETTING IN SHAPE FOR 6 DAYS BIKE RACE

Newark, Dec. 5 (Special).—Workouts in anticipation of the big six day bicycle race which starts at Madison Square Garden on Saturday night are being participated in by a large number of American and foreign cyclists on the Veldrome track here.

The foreign contingent have been pleased to get on the boards, for it broke them in to the angles of the track, which will be a condition they will face in the Garden. Many of them also intend to ride in the two sprint meets which will precede the six-day affair, and which will be held tomorrow and Saturday nights. Track practice will point them up for that.

The foreign contingent here for the grind measures up to about as high a standard as Europe has ever sent over for a six-day contest. Maurice Brocco is a tried plugger, his riding last year being one of the features of the race. Bethet, who is to be his partner, has been a factor in European six-day contests, while the Suter brothers, who are to team, and Oscar Egg, who will ride with Andre Perchicot, are known for their achievements on the road.

Walter Rutt, the German rider, who arrived in this country yesterday, is looked upon as the class among the foreigners. This distinction he has gained in former grinds. He will compete in the chief sprint events Friday and Saturday, along with Frank Kramer, Jackie Clarke, Alfred Grenda, Perchicot, Joe Fogler, Paddy Hehir and the rest of the cyclists who have been here throughout the season.

AJAX VS. BARRINGER HIGH.

Manager Hetfield, of the Y. M. C. A. Ajax, has signed up a game with the strong Barringer High School basketball team to be played January 7, at Newark. Barringer is the largest High School in the State of New Jersey and always boasts of a superior quintet. Among its season's opponents this year are Princeton and Rutgers' College teams.

GIRLS' HOCKEY TEAMS PLAY SCORELESS TIE

P. H. S. Stick Wielders Miss a Fine Opportunity to Score.

At Cranford yesterday afternoon the Girls' Hockey team, of the Plainfield High School played the Cranford High School eleven. The score being 0 to 0. It was a hotly contested game from start to finish and the local team was greatly handicapped by the condition of the field at Cranford. The game was played in 30 minute halves and during the first half the ball was kept continually in the Cranford territory. In the second half the Plainfield girls showed the metal they were made of by keeping the ball within their territory most of the time. Once the ball was within six inches of the Cranford goal but the Plainfield girls fate decreed it should roll just outside of the goal and victory slipped from their grasp. Esther Phillips, Celia Cottrell, Esther Brownlee and Helen Bryniarski played good games for the Plainfield team.

Elaine Desmond and Lorna Desmond played the best game for the Cranford girls. The lineup was as follows:

Starts for Washington State, Where He Will Be the Guest at Banquets.

Newark, Dec. 5 (Special).—"Joe" McGinnity, the "iron man," for several years the leader of the Newark Indians in the Eastern and International Leagues, left town this morning for Tacoma, Washington, to exercise an opinion on the baseball club at that place. He expects to reach there on Monday night.

The Tacoma fans have planned to hold a banquet in McGinnity's honor upon his arrival and another big dinner will be given by the baseball men when the Northwestern League meets in Tacoma on December 21. He will strengthen the Tacoma club materially.

McGinnity will be the sole owner of the Tacoma club. The "iron man" is of the opinion that the Tacoma team is one of the best propositions on the Pacific coast. Since returning from the Milwaukee meeting McGinnity has received many letters from the business men and fans of Tacoma, all of whom promise their support to the "iron man." According to advices from Tacoma, McGinnity is to get the team for $8,500. The owners were offered a higher price for the franchise, but believed that McGinnity's proposition was the best for baseball in Tacoma.

M'GOORTY-GIBBONS DRAW.

Former More Aggressive, but Gibbons Balanced It With Cleverness.

New York, Dec. 5.—After boxing ten rounds that bristled with much cleverness, although little or no harm was done, a big crowd in Madison Square Garden held a divided opinion as to the respective fighting ability of Mike Gibbons of St. Paul and Eddie McGoorty of Oshkosh, leading American middleweights. Many persons thought that McGoorty had a slight advantage because of his persistent aggressiveness and heavier hitting, but others were equally positive that Gibbons because of his fine boxing had the better of the ten round mill.

Weighing all of the rounds carefully, an unprejudiced spectator or perhaps the referee would have called the bout a draw rather than rob either man of his former prestige. All things considered, it was an even scrap, which drew more than $25,000, of which the boxers divided $12,500.

FOOTBALL PLAYER HAS BRAIN CONCUSSION

John Caulfield, of Holy Cross Eleven, Hurt in Game, is Confined to His Bed.

John Caufield, the star right tackle of the Holy Cross football team, is laid up at his home 453 West Front street, with concussion of the brain as the result of an injury sustained in a game Saturday, November 23, when his team defeated the Vikings of Bayonne, by the score of 7 to 0.

Following a scrimmage play toward the end of the game, Caulfield was carried from the field in an unconscious condition, and was revived after five minutes hard work by his fellow players. He gamely continued in the contest however and has taken his mishap lightly.

Tuesday night he suffered greatly and Dr. C. B. Lufburrow was called in who ordered him to remain in bed for several days. When seen today by a Daily Press reporter, Caulfield laughted when questioned regarding his injury. "Oh, that's nothing," he said, "I'll be in the game again Saturday."

JACK MARTIN'S SHOWING IN INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE

Jack Martin, the popular local baseball player, who was a member of the Rochester team, runner-up in the International League, for part of last season, and who also played with the New York Americans, had a fielding average of .906 for 34 games in the minor aggregation, according to the records just made public. Martin played shortstop with the International League team and in the 34 games made 71 put outs, 93 assists and 17 errors. Purtell, of Montreal, leading the shortstops with an average of .982 in 118 games.

In team fielding Toronto, the league leaders, excelled with an average of .960. Newark was second with .958.

TWO SPILLS MARKED RIDE AFTER HOUNDS

The riding members of the Watchung Hunt Club met the pack at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Plainfield Horse Show grounds, where the hounds were thrown in. The chase led over the Terry, Krug, Tietz, Glaser, Maier and Lambert farms, a check being made at Mt Pleasant. Casting in again on the Tappan estate, the run continued over the Kelly, Spier, Ellis estates and the Geary and Runyon farms, a second check being made on the Ingraham farm.

William Palmer Smith, Jr., and Jesse Metcalf were among the croppers, the latter losing his horse. The animal was not caught until late last night. The following rode:

Rufus C. Finch, M. F. H.; William Palmer Smith, Jr., Miss Marjorie Dana, Miss Adelaide Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. O'Donohue, J. Schuyler Casey, F. D. French, R. H. Towne, and Huntsman Harrison.

POOL TOURNAMENT.

An elimination pool tournament to decide the champion of Plainfield is the plan of Manager Stites, of West Front street. The games are to be played at Stites' parlors and many of the crack local performers have promised to enter. Among the local players who will be seen in action are George Gates, C. Johnson and the boy phenom, Harry Stites. Young Stites holds many prizes secured in local and suburban matches. A suitable trophy will be given to the winner of these elimination games.

QUAKER CITY'S DOG SHOW.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 5.—With an entry list larger than at any previous bench show in this city, the first annual exhibition of the new Kennel Club of Philadelphia opened in Horticultural Hall today and will continue until the end of the week. The show embraces a large display of virtually all of the breeds known to the dog fancier. The benches contain exhibits from all sections of the country, even as far west as San Francisco.

ARE DISAPPOINTED OVER PATRONAGE DISTRIBUTION

Elizabeth, Dec. 5.—Union County Assemblymen-elect are disappointed over the distribution of patronage in the Democratic caucus in Trenton when only two jobs were alloted to the county. These two are an assistant sergeant-at-arms and a doorkeeper, the former paying $500 for the session and the latter $350.

The Assemblymen-elect believed that they would have the disposal of at least three jobs. Mercer county, with only one Democratic Assemblyman, was given patronage amounting to $1,300. There are at least six persons looking for the two positions which were alloted to Union county. They are Frank J. Pfaff, Joseph Coll, Michael Battersby, Charles McCrann, Joseph Guinee and John Carroll.

PLAN EFFICIENCY RALLY FOR THE ENDEAVORERS

Union County Union to Hold Meeting at Elizabeth on Friday Night, Dec. 13.

All preparations have been made for the Christian Endeavor Efficiency Rally to be held Friday, December 13, in the Greystone Presbyterian church, Elizabeth avenue and Florida street, Elizabeth. The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union, with the efficiency campaign committee in charge, and Chairman Miss Nellie K. Foote presiding.

As speakers for the evening the committee has been fortunate in securing Rev. Clarence G. Reynolds, D D., of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, and the Rev. Edgar Whitaker Work, D. D., of the Fourth Presbyterian church, New York city.

Dr. Reynolds will give a ten minute talk on "Endeavorers and Evangelism," showing the young people how they may become efficient in reaching other young people for Christ and the church.

The more extended address of the evening will be on "Bible Study." The Rev. Dr. Work speaks authoritatively on this subject, for he has wide experience as a teacher and preacher. He is both scholarly and eloquent, and is always heard with pleasure and profit.

"Bring the Book" will be the subject of Dr. Work's address in Elizabeth. It was heard at the State C. E. Convention in New Brunswick in October by a large and appreciative audience.

At the close of the program in the church those present will adjourn to the entertainment room for refreshments and a few minutes of sociability.

The State president, John T. Sproull, and the county president, George W. Mingus, will be present.

The meeting will start promptly at 8 o'clock. Elizabeth avenue cars pass the door of the Greystone church and it is but a fifteen minute ride from the Elizabeth station.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF REV. A. J. HAGEMAN

Obsequies of Well Known Minister Held at Somerville This Afternoon.

Somerville, Dec. 5.—The funeral services of the late Rev. Andrew J. Hageman were held at the Second Reformed church at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Interment was in the new cemetery here. He died at his home early Tuesday morning of an affliction of the throat and from which he had been a sufferer for many years.

Rev. Mr. Hageman was born at Roycefield, near this place, in 1837, and was the son of the late James Hageman and Phoebe Brokaw, his wife. He was graduated from Rutgers College with the class of 1860 and from the New Brunswick Theological Seminary in 1863. His first charge was at Hagaman's Hills, N. Y., where he preached from 1863 to 1887, resigning his charge on account of throat trouble, which rendered it impracticable for him to preach longer in the northern climate. He then had charge of the Reformed church at St. Thomas, Danish West Indies, where he preached three years. This was his last regular charge, after which he returned to Somerville.

Since then Rev. Mr. Hageman has resided here or at Roycefield, going to Florida almost every winter, where he was usually able to supply pulpits through the whole season. He was married three times. His first wife died soon after their marriage. In 1888 he married Mrs. Smeallie, the widow of a minister of the United Presbyterian church, who died here in December, 1891. In October, 1898, he married Mrs. Gertrude A. Cox, of Somerville, who lived but a few years afterwards.

Mr. Hageman was a man highly respected in this community, and a man who will be missed by the many friends.

PRIEST BECOMES EPISCOPALIAN.

The Rev. William Walsh, until recently a Roman Catholic priest, has been received as a clergyman of the Protestant Episcopal church by Bishop Greer. The formal reception was Nov. 18 in the chapel at the Diocesan House, 416 Lafayette avenue, New York City, the official witness being Canon George F. Nelson and the Rev. William Walker Smith. The Rev. Mr. Walsh is engaged in Chautauqua lecture work. He has been a lay reader in the Episcopal church since last May. His name appears in the Catholic Directory for 1911 at 415 West Fifty-ninth street, the Paulist Fathers' home.

MARKED INTEREST IN JUDGE'S TRIAL

Impeachment Proceedings Against Archbold Under Way at Washington.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5 (Special).—Official Washington is interested in the trial of Judge R. W. Archbald, of the Commerce Court, under impeachment proceedings brought by the House of Representatives. Judge Archbald is being tried before the Senate, sitting as a court of impeachment. Public interest in the proceedings is easily accounted for, when it is recalled that in the entire history of the nation there have been only eight previous cases in which the Senate has been called upon to act as a court of impeachment.

Judge Robert W. Archbald, the defendant in the proceedings, is a native of Pennsylvania and a graduate of Yale. After leaving college he studied law at Scranton and then entered on the practice of his profession. He was appointed additional law judge of the Pennsylvania district court in 1885 and served in that capacity until 1888, when he was made presiding judge, which position he held at the time of his selection by President Taft in the early part of last year as an associate justice of the new Court of Commerce.

Soon after Judge Archbald's appointment to the Federal bench some sensational allegations relating to his judicial acts in Pennsylvania were filed with the President and the department of justice. After an investigation of the charges the House of Representatives adopted and presented to the Senate articles of impeachment against Judge Archbald.

The charges on which the impeachment proceedings were based related to business transactions with railroad companies at times when the railroads were litigants before the Commerce Court and before the Interstate Commerce Commission. It was alleged, specifically, that Judge Archbald had a conference in New York with George E. Brownell, vice president and general counsel of the Erie Railroad Company. That following the conference one Williams, an associate in interest with Judge Archbald, entered into negotiations with a subsidiary coal company of the Erie for the purchase of a large amount of soft coal, cast aside as useless some years previously, but subsequently found to be valuable. The price fixed for the coal is said to have been $3,500. It is alleged that following these negotiations the purchasers arranged to sell the coal to an electric railroad of Pennsylvania, the price fixed being $30,000. Other charges equally serious and of similar nature are set forth in the thirteen articles of impeachment.

On July 29 last Judge Archbald filed with the Senate formal answer to the charges against him. In answer to the impeachment articles he denied that he ever undertook for a consideration to compromise litigation before the Interstate Commerce Commission, that he ever wrongfully used his position to obtain credit from litigants before him, or that he had undertaken to carry on a general business for profit or speculation in coal properties as charged in the House indictment.

To each of the thirteen articles of impeachment Judge Archbald has replied that none, even if true, constitues an impeachable offense, a high crime or a misdemeanor as defined by the constitution. Many statements contained in the allegations were not disputed in Judge Archbald's answer, while others were totally disregarded and annullment of others was asked on the ground that they were too vague to admit of proper defense.

In his answer Judge Archbald admitted his participation in the noted Katydid culm bank deal, with Edward J. Williams, of Scranton, and the Hills Coal and Iron Company, a subsidiary of the Erie Railroad, which then had cases pending in his court, but he denied that he wilfully or unlawfully or corruptly took any advantage of his position to induce the railroad officials to deal with his partner. He further denied that he had any time sought wrongfully or otherwise to obtain credit from any persons interested in any court over which he presided.

Soon after the impeachment proceedings were begun by the House Judge Archbald requested Chief Justice White, of the Supreme Court of the United States, to temporarily relieve him from duty and since that time he has performed none of the duties of a member of the Commerce Court.

HOW TO PREVENT FIRE

Do not allow the formation of rubbish heaps. Attics and cellars should be kept free from combustible accumulations. Too frequently are hot ashes heaped against fences or other combustible surfaces. The householder should exercise great care in the disposal of waste material. Many homes have been destroyed because of bonfires. Exercise care in avoiding those conditions which tend to the origin of fire. It will repay you.

Underwood stated that at present the Ways and Means Committee was undecided as to whether it would present its tariff revision in one or in several bills.

BICKEL LOCKED UP AT POLICE HEADQUARTERS

Asst. Prosecutor and Police Chief Bring Back From Florida Man Wanted.

Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and Chief of Police Patrick S. Kiely, who went to Jacksonville, Florida, to bring Clair Bickel back to this city to answer to the charge of desertion, preferred by his wife, succeeded in getting Governor Gilchrist, of Florida, to grant the requisition papers, and brought the indicted man to this city last night. As has been previously told in these columns, the local authorities had difficulty in securing the necessary requisition papers. The prisoner, who was held to await the coming of the Plainfield police, was released from custody when Governor Gilchrist issued his first order, that requisition papers be refused.

When Chief Kiely and Prosecutor Hetfield had been heard by the Governor, however, the executive reversed his decision but in the meantime Bickel had left the city. Through good detective work, he was located in St. Augustine and he decided to accompany the local officials to this city without further trouble. He will be tried before Judge E. S. Atwater in the Union County Court, having been indicted on the charge of desertion by the last session of the Grand Jury. When seen at police headquarters by reporters today Bickel refused to make any statement. The prisoner is locked up at police headquarters.

GUIDES FOR YOUTH GIVEN BY INSTRUCTOR

Miss Addie Parker Jackson's Suggestions at Lincoln Parent-Teacher Assn.

Correct ventilation, nutritious food supply, sanitary clothing, uninterrupted study hours, and sufficient sleep were the five guides to the good health of a child as given yesterday afternoon by Miss Addie Parker Johnson in her speech on "Physical Culture," before the Lincoln Parent-Teacher Association at the Lincoln School Auditorium. She is supervisor of Physical Education in the Plainfield Schools and her address was delivered before a large audience. The meeting was the first regular one of the quarter and after the serving of coffee and wafers the speaker went to the platform.

Miss Jackson said that although the marvels of toy and joyland had passed for the grown-ups a great deal ought to be done in the interests of that younger generation to whom the joys and delights of taking part in sport while in robust health is ever bubbling over. Too many people have left the physical development of the child for the growth of the mental faculties, she stated. They do not realize, she asserted, that without a good body and good health a youngster cannot do justice to himself in his studies. The present system of public playgrounds and gymnasiums has gone a great way in making the life of the school children more happy and carefree and as a result of this the child is taking a stronger hold upon its studies. The proper care of the body should be taught every child as early as possible and the sooner that this is done the sooner will the child succeed in its school work.

Parents and teachers should show by the example that they set guide the boys and girls over the roads to perfect moral, mental and physical development, stated Miss Jackson. "As the child lives each day, so it will grow." Robust health is absolutely essential to the life success of the child.

A CIVIL CEREMONY ONLY.

The wedding of Miss Bessie Flanney and George Woodland, which took place a few days ago, was not performed at St. Mary's church here as the bride is alleged to have told her friends. Recorder Collins, it is now stated, made them man and wife at his office in Westfield. It was reported today that Mrs. Woodland would go to see Father Bogan this afternoon to get his permission to officiate at a religious ceremony, some of her friends being displeased because she had gone through only a civil ceremony.

FOR MRS. STEVENSON.

Mrs. E. Vicars Stevenson, wife of the rector of Grace church, was the guest of honor yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. S. Hanson on Carlton avenue. A pleasant afternoon had been arranged by Mrs Hanson for the twenty guests present. They brought their sewing and needlework and an enjoyable afternoon was spent.

GOOD FELLOWS ARE MOBILIZING

Cheerful Givers Join Movement to Make Poor Little Boys and Girls Happy.

RECRUITS ARE GROWING

Third Year of Popular and Novel Way of Seeing That All Poor Children Have Toys for Xmas—Read Good Fellow's Letter.

The Good Fellows are mobilizing. An army of them will be ready soon—a Santa Claus army to fill the stockings of the poor little children.

The announcement of the Daily Press that, for the third successive year, in co-operation with the Charity Organization Society, it would direct the Good Fellows' Christmas work, brought favorable comment from every quarter. Another bundle of letters was received today by Good Fellow.

All the old Good Fellows are going to help and there will be many recruits to the cause.

Have you enrolled among the Good Fellows and thereby signified your intention and desire to provide a full stocking for some Plainfield youngster at this Christmastide?

Santa Claus is mighty busy these strenuous days and needs many willing workers and assistants. He with Good Fellow, pleads that you become one of the Royal Order of Good Fellows and insure a merry Christmas to some hungry-hearted boy or girl.

Tuesday, through the Daily Press, Chief Good Fellow issued his annual call for volunteer Santa Clauses. He asked his old supporters to rally to his aid this year and he sends forth an invitation for every man, woman and child who can, to join the order this year.

He sounds the assembly call for all friends of children to come to the PHYSICAL DIRECTOR FOR THE Y. W. C. A.

Miss Elizabeth Wetherell, of Syracuse, to Succeed Miss Mary Bradshaw.

Miss Elizabeth Wetherell, of Syracuse, N. Y., has been engaged as the new physical director at the Young Women's Christian Association, and will enter upon her new duties tomorrow. All the gymnasium classes will be resumed at the association next week with Miss Wetherell in charge.

The new physical director is especially well fitted for her work, being a graduate of the Posse Normal School of Gymnasium, of Boston, where she had one year's experience. She was also in charge of the physical department of the Y. W. C. A. at Springfield, Mass., and more recently has had additional experience by being an attache at the New York headquarters of the Camp Fire Girls, this experience fitting her for taking up that branch of the work here. The officers of the association feel much pleased in securing Miss Wetherell for the reason that she is so highly recommended for the position she has taken.

Miss Wetherell succeeds Miss Margaret Bradshaw, who resigned about a month ago to take a position at Oberlin College.

TWO PHYSICIANS PLAN TO STUDY IN EUROPE

Dr. Meyer D. Moledezky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Moledezky, and Dr. Max W. Golstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Golstein, of Orchard place, leave tomorrow on the Steamer President Grant for Hamburg. The doctors will spend about a year in Berlin and then go to Vienna for several months, where they will take up post-graduate work along special lines in their profession. Both have just completed a year of hospital interneship in Chicago and propose to put the finishing touches to their professional career by study abroad.

It is the intention of the doctors to visit the principal European cities before returning home. They have been showered with messages of good wishes from friends, a large number of whom will be at the pier tomorrow when the steamer leaves to wish the physicians bon-voyage.

BETTER LIGHTING IN CITY'S CENTRE

TO NAME COMMITTEE

Real Estate Men's Association Granted Use of Chamber's Rooms—Resolution Passed Concerning School for Netherwood Section.

At a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting of the Chamber of Commerce last night better lighting facilities for the business section was urged. Recently at a meeting of the East Front street merchants an offer was made to bear the cost of a better lighting system in that locality. A few storekeepers present last night carried their opinions and beliefs into the Chamber of Commerce meeting with the result that a resolution was adopted to appoint a committee to arrange for this much needed improvement throughout the business section.

Stanley E. Gunnison, chairman of the educational committee of the Netherwood Residents' Association, spoke on the need of a public school in that district. A resolution directed to the Board of Education for that purpose was passed.

The members adopted a new set of by-laws to replace the old ones, which had grown inadequate. The president of the Vitaphone Company, C. B. Repp, was elected to membership. The recently organized Plainfield Real Estate Brokers Association were granted the use of the Chamber of Commerce meeting rooms. Another association composed of insurance men will soon be formed and at the request of Director George M. Clark, the rooms will also be used for the purpose of forming this new body. It will be known as the Insurance Men's Association of Plainfield.

Among those taking active part in the discussions were Paul H. Burns, H. M. McMemimen, Peter J. McDonough, D. W. Littell, Captain J. E. Curtis, Charles H. Hand. S. E. Gunnison, Lloyd L. Osborn, Daniel F. Dugan, Winfield S. Angelman, J. J. Varley, J. C. Hanson, Hugh A. Todd and George M. Clark. President P. J. McDonough was in the chair.

BUSY BEE CLUB'S SALE FOR CHARITY

Young Girls Net $25 for the King's Daughters Day Nursery Fund.

Under the auspices of the Busy Bee Club, composed of young girls recently oragnized for the purpose of helping the Day Nursery and other worthy charities, a successful Christmas sale was held in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church, yesterday afternoon. The sale receipts were about $70 and the profits, $25 will be given to the Day Nursery.

There was a large collection of fancy and plain articles, including aprons, bags, paper dolls and countless other articles all made by the girls, and in addition there was sold cake, candy and ice cream and tea was served. The whole affair was liberally patronized.

These are the officers of the club: President, Miss Katherine Borden; vice president, Miss Winifred Eaton; treasurer, Miss Margaret Stout; secretary, Miss Elizabeth Benton. The other members are the Misses Dorcas, Celia and Kate Bomann, Dorothy White, Florence Huntsman, Katherine Stout, Jane Stout and Carol Benton. Those in charge of the tables were as follows:

Fancy, Miss Dorothy White, Miss Florence Huntsman, Miss Winifred Eaton. Cake, Miss Elizabeth Benton and Miss Margaret Stout. Candy, Miss Katherine Bomann and Miss Katherine Stout. Miss Margaret Eaton had charge of the sale of Christmas cards. Miss Dorcas Bomann served the ice cream and Miss Aubury Eaton, assisted by pouring tea.

Miss Hope Irene Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson A. Miller, of Washington avenue, has taken the position of contralto soloist at Trinity Reformed church, and will begin her work on Sunday. Miss Miller was one of a number of applicants for the position, and the music committee decided to engage her as a successor to Mrs. Charles Tazewell Hutcheson, who resigned recently.

FOWLER TALKS TO DUNELLENITES

Former Congressman Discusses Banking Reforms at Banquet.

OTHER GOOD SPEAKERS

Assemblyman Kirkpatrick and Burton, Prosecutor Pope, and Mayor Richards Are Head, E. M. Jones as the Toastmaster.

Former Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of Elizabeth; Assemblymen John T. Kirkpatrick and George L. Burton, of Middlesex county; Prosecutor F. J. Poue, of Somerset county, and Mayor Charles E. Richards were among the speakers at the second annual banquet of the Dunellen Board of Trade last night. E. M. Jones acted as toastmaster. The banquet hall was tastily decorated with flags and bunting, and also with numerous red, white and blue incandescent lamps.

Former Congressman Fowler said that he could say of that town what he couldn't say of many others and that was that when he first came to Jersey it was his choice to live in Dunellen. "I came here and picked out a house, but when Mrs. Fowler saw it she was not satisfied and that settled it. We moved to Elizabeth, where she found a house that did suit her. Everyone here is old enough to remember when I first went into public life. In 1895 I went to Washington, when the Republican majority was 132, I found but two men who agreed with me on the gold standard. We were alone in force but we were a multitude in faith. From that day to this there has been a gradual and a steady fight going on to make a reform that is of more public importance than any other fight held in Washington. It is to institute the National Banking System. A thing

Mrs. Henry Placed in Morris Plains' Institution Does Not Realize Her Crime.

Elizabeth, Dec. 6.—Sheriff William H. Wright yesterday afternoon took Mrs. Maud Henry in an automobile to Overlook, the hospital for the insane in Essex county, to which she had been committed after an examination in the Court of Common Pleas some time ago. She was adjudged insane on the testimony of Dr. Britton D. Evans, medical superintendent of the State Hospital for the Insane at Morris Plains; Dr. Horace R. Livengood, jail physician, and Dr. Victor Mravlag, all of whom had made several examinations of Mrs. Henry's mental condition.

Mrs. Henry has been in the county jail since July 20 on a charge of slaying her 3-year-old daughter, May Louise, in their home at Lyons Farms. It was alleged that she made a confession to Prosecutor Swift and several others the day after the tragedy. At the examination into her sanity it developed that she might have made the confession while in the condition which followed the hystero-epileptic seizure to which she has been subject.

In the county jail she did not seem to realize for what she had been incarcerated and did not appear to know that she killed the child. She has appeared indifferent to her surroundings throughout and has seemed satisfied with her life in jail.

SPECIAL JURY DRAWN TO TRY LOCAL MAN

Sheriff Wright yesterday drew a special panel of forty-eight jurors for the present panel to try the case against Charles Robinson, colored, of this city, in the Court of Common Pleas Monday morning. The man was arrested and indicted on charges made by a number of boys from 12 to 14 years of age.

MISS DENTON DIES AT AGE OF 86 YEARS

Elderly Resident Passes Away After an Illness of But Two Weeks.

Miss Clarissa Denton, aged 86 years, a resident of Plainfield for more than fifty years, died this morning at her home, 316 West Sixth street, following a two weeks illness of a complication of diseases. During her long residence here she was an active member of the First Baptist church and for many years a teacher in the Bible school.

Miss Denton was a descendant of Richard Denton, an American colonist, and was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Denton. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Bliss, of Washington, who has been here during the past two weeks.

The funeral service will be held at the late home Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend.

BOOM FOR MAYOR MOY FOR THE PROSECUTORSHIP

Friends of Mayor George W. V. Moy are booming him for the prosecutorship of Union county, which becomes vacant when C. Addison Swift's term expires early next year. While he is a Progressive, his friends say that there is a chance for him although under ordinary conditions the office would go to a Democrat. The hot race in the Democratic party is what they count on in his favor for to settle the controversy without extra hard feeling they argue that the Governor might decide to name one who has been inclined to be an Independent.

Robert H. McAdams, chairman of the Union County Board of Elections, and Mayor Albert Stein, both of Elizabeth, are being groomed for either the judgeship or the prosecutorship and it is said that their names will be presented to the Governor without recommendations for either berth.

THE TEMPERATURE.

STOLEN SILVER IS FOUND HERE

Suspect Brought Back to His Boarding House Where $1,000 of Loot is Located.

THEFT IN WASHINGTON

William Hunter, Arrested in Elizabeth, Had Lived Here—Major Sylvester, of Capitol Police, to Take Prisoner Back With Him.

In charge of two detectives from Elizabeth, William Hunter, arrested at the county seat on Sunday night as a suspicious character and who it was learned later has a long police record, was brought to this city yesterday afternoon. He was taken to the home of Mrs. Infrasia Boutes, of 175 East Front street, where he had boarded, and there were found in the room he occupied two suit cases full of silverware, valued at about $1,000. The goods were afterwards identified as stolen from the homes of wealthy persons in Washington, Major Sylvester, the Washington police chief, coming here for that purpose.

During his stay in this city Hunter had told Mrs. Boutes that he was a salesman for a medical house and gave the name of Harvey Henderson, and his address as 236 N. W. First street, Washington, D. C. He was well dressed and appeared to be a person of refinement and education. When his board bill was due, however, he did not appear to have the money to meet it. Suddenly he skipped out, leaving the bill unpaid; also the $1,000 worth of silverware which it is believed he planned to recover later.

When Hunter was arrested he was acting in a suspicious manner about West Jersey and Chilton streets, Elizabeth. The police gave chase and after an exchange of pistol shots the man was finally captured and landed in jail. "Third degree" questioning brought out the information that the prisoner had a long police record. Police Chief Richard Sylvester, of Washington, was notified and he visited Elizabeth, yesterday. He was satisfied that Hunter was the man wanted in the Capitol City for numerous burglaries. The finding of

Do not wait until after the contest and then say, "I wish I had been in it." The race for the three valuable prizes offered by the Daily Press is now on. The competition is certainly warming up, and all the candidates are out hustling for new subscriptions and renewals, for it is the subscription vote that will win in the end. The next count of votes will be made tomorrow night, and it is again suggested that all candidates turn in their subscriptions and votes as early as possible, so as to make a good showing in that count to be published Monday. By doing this one will show his or her friends and supporters that he or she is in earnest and by so doing will receive many a subscription and vote from unexpected sources.

After tomorrow, the contest will have but two weeks to run. Of course a fortnight isn't very long, but it will be well to realize that much can be accomplished in that time. And those in the contest should keep in mind that there is plenty of time for the "dark horse" if there be one, and there usually is in contests of this kind. It is well to anticipate that because of any wide acquaintanceship or personal popularity that one's friends are going to rush to him or her. They will help all right, but are apt to be forgetful, and need to be reminded that now is the time their aid is needed. Be aggressive, go after them, show that the effort is a determined one and emphasize the fact that their help and support is counted on. Most times in such cases they have expected a call, and will readily enter into the serious spirit of one's candidacy, and will give splendid help.

The McWilliams Bible class, of Hope chapel, is another one of the organizations to be reckoned with in the contest. This body of young men have entered the campaign in the right spirit and are determined to be counted among the winners at the finish. A new piano would be most acceptable just now and the ten per cent. commission will be a welcome addition to their treasury. They have the support of all the members of Hope chapel and will no doubt make a splendid race.

Think what the offer of this newspaper means to an organization or individual, nearly $1,000 worth of high class musical instruments, and a ten percent. commission on all business turned in. Could a fairer or more liberal offer be made and all this for a little effort to increase the circulation of this paper. The player-piano, valued at $525, and the piano without the attachment, valued at $275 may be seen at the salesrooms of Joseph Sattels, on North avenue. The cabinet vitaphone, valued at $100, is a product of a home concern. It is the third prize.

STYLE AND SR RELIABILITY

Shooting the "Dough" At the Sky,

This game is becoming more popular every day. Here are the directions for playing it:

You take a pay-envelope full of hard-earned currency; then you get a desire to be well-dresst; you take your coin into the first clothesorium you run into; and haphazardly choose a suit or overcoat, paying more than you SHOULD, or getting less than you OUGHT.

Personally, I see no sense in the game, but man has always played it—doubtless he always will.

"Dough" aimed at the sky never reaches the mark—remember that.

GOOD FELLOWS MOBILIZING

fore and to be genuine Good Fellows by starting early in the movement to prevent the empty stocking and make the Yuletide a gladsome time to some of the unfortunate kiddies of the city.

The Christmas season is the time when more hearts are wrung, and more childish eyes are dimmed than most persons have any conception of. The stores are beautifully decorated. Big dolls, shining skates, sleds, and the thousand and one toys dear to the hearts of all youngsters are displayed in all their allurement.

Little girls, with all the mother love their baby hearts know, and with intense longings to clasp one of those dear dollies, press their wistful faces on window glass and wish and wish for just a chance to hold the beauty a minute.

Boys, full of the inventive and mechanical genius that is the dower of almost every American lad, cast yearning eyes toward some toy that would gladden their hearts to the utmost.

Will you help one of these youngsters to realize a little of the dream of the "kind fairy" and "Santa Claus" they invariably indulge in, after their gazing into the Christmas-dressed shop windows?

There cannot be too many Good Fellows. There is so much woe and want in the cities even at the best. The great thing about the Good Fellow plan of giving a full stocking to a youngster at Christmas time is that the Good Fellow, Santa Claus or whatever you choose to be called, does not have to do his or her good work to be "heard and seen of men."

Just a request for the number of children you will care for, their sex and age, and Good Fellow and his assistants will send the required addresses to you and gladly enroll you as a member of the best Christmas order for the supplying of cheer that is existent.

Remember, there are less than three weeks from now until Christmas is here. Shall there be empty or full stockings for the babies, and the older children of prosperous Plainfield?

There are only 18 days to work. Get busy all you Good Fellows. Send your names and requests in soon. Remember requests will be kept secret. Read the letter of Good Fellow published today on the editorial page.

NEW OCEAN SERVICE.

According to the terms of a contract already signed the steamship company is to be given the free use of the pier on condition that it establishes a regular passenger service between Hamburg, the Channel ports and Boston on or before May 1 of next year.

FOWLER TALKS AT DUNELLEN

that I advise the men of the country to do is to learn the fundamental principles of the financial system now in existence in the country and then compare it to the system that I am advocating. From February 25, 1863, down to this hour, a period of almost fifty years, there has not been a single amendment to the National Bank Act worth mentioning. We have dotted an 'I' and crossed a 't' here and there and that is all. Actual changes we have made absolutely none.

"Commercially speaking, this has been the most marvelous period in the history of the human race, and the most surprising and surpassing period of this most marvelous period are the years between 1890 and 1912. The banking resources of the world in 1890 were a little less than $17,000,000,000, of which the United States furnished a little less than $7,000,000,000, or forty-per-cent., or two-fifths of the banking power of the commercial world. Today the banking power of the world is estimated at $55,000,000,000, of which our part is $25,000,000,000, or more than forty-five per cent., nearly one-half the banking power of the world. Our banking resources have increased during the four years preceding July 11, 1912, by $5,493,000,000, or we have gained in the last four years almost as much in our banking resources as we accumulated from the settlement of this continent in 1607, during 283 years down to 1890, when our banking resources were as stated less than $7,000,000,000.

"This prosperity of the country is a sure guarantee of a panic. Don't you think that we had better get to work and study the fundamental principles of the new bill that was introduced on Monday, December 2? The business men of this country are the only ones that are going to settle this question. The bankers won't do it. They're on the inside of the counter, you are on the outside of it. They are reaching out for you and are trying to do you. The place where this question will be settled will be at the firesides of the men in the hills of Vermont and New England, the hills and farms of Jersey and upon the long and lonesome stretches of the rolling prairie by the men that sit by the firesides and think to pass away the long winter nights. That is the place where the bill will get its foothold and grow. Men get down to the A, B, C's of the community and see if they don't ask for the 'gold standard' as a measure of value."

Assemblyman John T. Kirkpatrick made a few remarks in which he touched upon the subject of the work done by the Assemblymen at Trenton. He asked the people of the county to get in closer touch with their representatives at Trenton this winter and tell them what bills they want passed. "They will appreciate it, and will know that they are working for the people that they represent. See them before the act comes up before the house not after. They will meet you and will consult with you what good or harm a bill will do your community and then they will try to do what is right by both you and the community." He then closed his talk with a few reminiscences and was followed by a song, "Silver Threads Among the Gold," by all the guests.

Assemblyman George L. Burton spoke on the same theme that Kirkpatrick discussed and added the motto used by the Brunswick Board of Trade in its boom week held in the spring. It was "Boost, don't knock," and asked those present to use this motto in reference with the men that have been chosen to represent them in the various meetings of the country.

Mayor Charles E. Richards was introduced to the guests immediately after the toastmaster and was called upon to make a speech. He said, "The demands of the occasion are too great for me and I am unworthy of the compliments paid to me by the Board, who asked me to say a few words to you. The Board of Trade through its enterprises has made these gatherings possible. It is one of the live and energetic organizations of this town. If they find out that the mayor is not doing his work properly they come after him and make him do it. Most of the time we are friendly. Other places on the railroad are expanding and growing rapidly and I think that this town is sharing in it too. People that come here speak of the town as the most beautiful spot they have seen and hunger for more of it." He then went on and told about some of the improvements that have been made during the past year, about the gap that was made by the resignation of Wilson Frederick from the School Board and said that the gap could never be filled. He then extended to Mr. Harrington the thanks of the Board for placing the building at the disposal of the committee in charge.

Among the other speakers were Walter Van Sickle, assistant county prosecutor for Middlesex county; Edward J. Dusel, and Frederick K. Pope, Somerset county prosecutor.

The banquet was brought to a close early this morning with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by all the guests.

The committee in charge of the affair were E. B. Latham, acting chairman; C. M. Ryan, Frank Bennett, Dr. T. J. Hogan, Louis T. Snyder and William Deering, who were ably assisted by the entire Board.

The music for the evening was furnished by Paroubek's orchestra, and the excellent catering was done by Neighbour, of this city.

PRESIDENT TAFT RIGHT.

When the news reached Manila that Woodrow Wilson had been elected President, there was great rejoicing among the native leaders in the Philippines for they took his victory as an indication that the American government would grant them independence. Naturally, they put their faith in the Democratic campaign utterances in the years when Bryan was that party's candidate for the Presidency, autonomy for our newest possession in the Far East then being strongly advocated by him and his followers.

Since Wilson is a Democrat, the Filipino has an idea in his head that his country will surely be granted complete independence at an early date. There have been some reports in the public print that might give the Filipino some reason for arriving at his conclusion, but we have too high an opinion of the President-elect to believe that he even contemplates advocating such an absurd action.

Hundreds of millions of dollars and innumerable lives were given by the United States to free Cuba from the tyranny of Spain and after that was done, our country took charge of its government until such a time as the Cubans could demonstrate their ability to rule themselves. On more than one occasion since autonomy was granted that island, the United States Government has had to intervene at no small cost to itself. Cuba is not yet fit to be governed by its own people.

By the treaty of peace with Spain, we gave twenty millions of dollars for the Philippines, our intention being to turn over the government to the Filipino as speedily as he demonstrated his ability to conduct a free government. Since then hundreds of millions have been spent by us in the conduct of the Philippines' affairs. Today the Filipino is even not as well fitted to rule as is the Cuban. In fact, the indications are that it will be many years before it will be quite safe to grant independence.

It is therefore encouraging to read in President Taft's special message to Congress today that he is opposed to turning over the reins of government in the Philippines to the natives. The President speaks with authority. As Governor General of that possession under the administration of President Roosevelt his career was most brilliant and today is regarded as one of the brightest chapters in his remarkable life as a public servant. Demagogues and cheap politicians may rant against him for his views as expressed, but he shows that he is a wise statesman in his generation.

GARBAGE AND ASHES.

Among the matters of real importance discussed at the Chamber of Commerce meeting last night was that pertaining to the proposed municipal system for the collection and disposal of ashes and garbage. An improvement of this sort has been a crying need for years as any householder or real estate agent will say. Every now and then, the city fathers have considered the proposition but no final results have been obtained.

The chief obstacle appears to be the cost, but it does seem that it should be possible to have the work done at a reasonable figure. In many, many cities, the municipal system has proven practical and in the long run economical. Why is it that in Plainfield there could be an exception?

It is a disgrace to the community to allow the present method of gathering and disposing of refuse to be tolerated. Old, dilapidated wagons, uncovered at that, are used by the ashmen who eke out a living in this way. To introduce a modern system would not be robbing these men of their present means of livelihood, they could be given employment on the city's carts. Surely something ought to be done, and we sincerely hope that the Chamber of Commerce will be able to furnish a feasible and practical solution.

On each succeeding Saturday some representative citizen acts as contributing editor for the Daily Press. That task will be assumed by Chas. Arthur Reed, former president of the New Jersey State Senate and erstwhile acting Governor, one of the shrewdest and ablest of New Jersey's lawyers. Of course, you will want to read what Editor Reed has to say; so watch out for tomorrow's paper.

Princeton's faculty has adopted resolutions congratulating its former President, Woodrow Wilson, on his being chosen to fill the highest office in the gift of the American people. Such belated recognition only makes the faculty look ridiculous and makes its sincerity open to serious question.

TO THE "GOOD FELLOWS" OF PLAINFIELD

Just about this time last year I told you my story. You listened to it—you did more—you followed its spirit out in a bang up style. Bless your hearts, you made over 600 poor little tots know the real meaning of a joyous Christmas. I'm not claiming any credit for my story; I'm claiming credit for knowing that there are many Good Fellows in this fine old town of ours—royal chaps, who don't do much preaching, but when it comes to doing a good turn, well, they're there with the goods. This is no sermon that I'm handing you, it's a heart to heart talk with men with red blood in their veins, and here it is off last year's reel.

On Christmas and New Year's eve you and I went out for a good time and spent from $10 to $200. Christmas morning hundreds of children awoke to an empty stocking—bitter with the pain of disappointment that Santa Claus had forgotten them. That's the way it used to be. Perhaps it wasn't our fault. We had provided for our own; we had also reflected in a passing way on those less fortunate than our own, but they seemed far off and we didn't know where to find them. Perhaps in the hundred and one things we had to do some of us didn't think of that heart sorrow of the child over the empty stocking.

Now, old man, here's a chance. Just send your name and address to the Daily Press—address Santa Claus—state about how many children you are willing to protect against grief over that empty stocking, inclose a two-cent stamp and you will be furnished with the names, addresses, sex and age of that many children. It is then up to you, you do the rest. Select your own present, spend 50 cents or $50, and send or take the gifts to those children on Christmas eve. You pay not a cent more than you want to pay—every cent goes just where you want it to go. You gain neither notoriety nor advertising; no record will be kept; your letter will be returned to you with its answer. The whole plan is just as anonymous as old Santa Claus himself.

This is not a newspaper scheme. The Daily Press will preserve the anonymous character of this work. The responsibility of finding the children and sending you their names will be assumed by this paper and it guarantees that whatever you bestow will be deserved.

Neither you nor I get anything out of this, except the feeling that you have saved from sorrow on Christmas morning. If that is not enough for you then you have wasted time in reading this—it is not intended for you, but for the good fellows of Plainfield.

Perhaps a twenty-five cent doll or a ten cent tin toy wouldn't mean much to the children you know, but to the child who would find them in the otherwise empty stocking they mean much—the difference between utter disappointment and the joy that Santa Claus did not forget them. Here is where you and I get in. The charitable organizations attend to the bread and meat, the clothes, the necessaries; you and the rest of the good fellows furnish the toys, the nuts, the candies, the child's real Christmas.

GOOD FELLOW.

"Good Fellow" is not a professional philanthropist, he takes a drink, and even goes out at night with the boys for a mild good time—but he has taken care of some poor little ones each year in Plainfield. He says he wishes he had always curtailed his holiday joy-making with the good fellows even more than he did, so that he might have had more money to gladden childish hearts.

The Worthy Grand Master of the lodge of Good Fellows has laid his plans for securing names through the Charity Organization Society.

This is how you can joint the lodge of Good Fellows. Write a letter to "Santa Claus," care of the Daily Press, something like this:

I live at No.....street. I will be Santa Claus to 6 children.

JOHN JONES.

The letter will go to Santa Claus. He will indorse on your letter the names and addresses of six children. That letter will be remailed to you. Then you get busy. That's all. Come on in, good fellows.

MRS. CHAS. H. DETWILLER GIVES CHARMING "AT HOME"

Mrs. Charles H. Detwiller, of East Seventh street, gave a charming "at home" yesterday afternoon, which was attended by about two hundred society people from New York, Philadelphia and this city. The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion green and white being the prevailing colors in the parlors and reception room, while pink was used with admirable effect in the dining room.

Mrs. Detwiller received the guests, asisted by her mother, Mrs. James Hazell. Those who poured in the dining room were Mrs. B. VaaD. Hedges, Mrs. Edward V. Cox, Mrs. C. Wesley Holland and Mrs. George L. Babcock. A large number of young women assisted in serving.

The receiving party and others who asisted, including the young people retired in the evening to enjoy dancing and cards. Mrs. Detwiller was a delightful hostess, and the affair was marked by many pleasing features.

VAN DOREN VAN FLEET HAS BECOME A BENEDICT

Miss Mary A. Giles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac R. Giles of Fairview avenue, and VanDoren Van Fleet, who has been clerking this house at the Giles residence for some time, were married at the parsonage of the Park Avenue Baptist church, Wednesday night, by Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire. Only a few friends witnessed the ceremony. After a short wedding trip the couple will reside in this city.

The bride is an active member of the Park Avenue Baptist church. Mr. VanFleet formerly lived in Somerville. He is now general manager for Lawrence C. Whitall, wholesale produce dealer in this city.

FELLOWSHIP BANQUET ATTENDED BY 250 MEN

Somerville, Dec. 6.—The Men's Bible Fellowship of the Second Reformed church held its fourth annual dinner last night in the Second Reformed chapel, which was attended by about 250 of the men, the limitations of the room preventing many more from being present who would otherwise have been there, the fame of this annual event making it a red-letter day in each year. The dinner was provided by the women of the church, under the supervision of Mrs. F. W. Miller, and was all that could be desired.

The after-dinner speaking was excellent. There were by former Mayor C. C. Kervon, president of the Fellowship, the Rev. A. A. Pfanstiehl, pastor of the church, who was the toastmaster; Rev. Dr. Herbert F. Randolph, of Montclair, on "Building the Brotherhood," Rev. George E. Archer, of Philadelphia, on "The Genius of Genuine Success," and Rev. Oscar Mathaus, of Manhasset, L. I., on "The Religious Significance of the World-wide Trend Toward Democracy."

DR. RICHARDS' GEMS COMPILED IN VOLUME

"The Truth In Love," a handsome volume containing a series of extracts for each day in the year from the sermons of the late beloved Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, for many years minister of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, has made its appearance. The book was arranged for daily readings by A. V. D. Honeyman, editor of the New Jersey Law Journal and other publications, and is attractively printed. Only a small edition has been issued and copies may be secured at the publisher's office, 131 North avenue, or at Ball's book store on Park avenue.

In the introduction Mr. Honeyman pays tribute to Dr. Richards' sterling qualities, and after telling of the privilege he has had of examining hundreds of Dr. Richards' sermons delivered in the three parishes in which he preached the compiler says: "In one cannot study these sermons without observing that two of the important truths which constituted the basis of his preaching were that wonderful conception of the Apostle John, that 'God is Love,' and the correlated aphorism (his own), that 'loving men is the Scriptural rule for knowing God.' It is because he always spoke 'the truth in love,' as Paul would it should be spoken, that the title for these extracts has been chosen."

Rev. Frederick J. Hubach, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, will preach at the First M. E. church Sunday morning in exchange with Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson. In the afternoon and evening special services will be continued at the Monroe Avenue church.

SHOP-KEEPERS MAKE REQUEST

Christmas Rush Has Already Started and Early Buying Means a Whole Lot.

With Christmas less than three weeks off, preparations are already beginning in the store, home, and church for the observance of the greatest feast day in the year, and on every hand is heard the trite but still appropriate expression, "Do your Christmas shopping early!" Making a round of the stores of this city, one finds peeping forth from shelf and counter every indication of the approach of the holiday season the Christmas displays have burst forth in full splendor in show windows and the interior of the retail shops.

Because of the unusually mild weather that has prevailed so far this season local merchants assert that people have postponed shopping for winter goods and a big rush is expected following the first real cold snap, which can hardly fail to come soon. For this reason business men anticipate more than the ordinary amount of regular shopping in December, and they therefore give emphasis to the caution to shop early. Practically every store in the city has laid in a stock of gift articles in preparation for the holiday trade, and extra help will shortly be put on to handle the increased business which everyone is hoping will set a new record this year, notwithstanding the high cost of living.

It is becoming more and more the custom every year, declare the retailers, for people to select useful articles as gifts in place of giving presents of merely temporary value as in past years. Although most of the shop proprietors will keep open their stores in the evenings during the two weeks before Christmas, as in other years, they expect to experience some trouble this season because of the law limiting the employment of female help to ten hours a day. To overcome this they will have to arrange the working hours of their employes in shifts.

While mother and father are worrying over what to get for this one and that one of the family, the youngsters will get lots of amusement out of the numberless features that always precede Christmas. Little tots just learning to write are already beginning to pen their first messages to Santa Claus or Kris Kringle, whichever name the patron saint of the day is called in their respective households, and in a short time Uncle Sam will discover many such missives in his numerous mail drops. Soon, too, many types of Santa Claus will appear in the streets and in stores, easily known by his shaggy white hair and beard and his disposition to make friends with the children. Greens for the season are making their first appearance in the flower shops, and it will not be long before the first trees will begin to be displayed.

Churches and Sunday-schools are also thinking of making ready for the religious observance of the day, with special services and entertainments, in which the coming of Christ is told in song and story. The approach of Christmas always signifies, too, a more prevalent spirit of good cheer and charity for the less fortunate, resulting in liberal donations to church and non-sectarian charitable organizations, which see that the poor and unfortunate get a good Christmas dinner, and in some instances provide presents for the little children.

COL. MOSBY'S BIRTHDAY.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—Slowly recovering from a severe illness Col. John S. Mosby, the famous Southern cavalry leader of the Civil War, today quietly celebrated the birthday anniversary which leaves him only one year short of the mark of four-score years. Born at Edgemont, Va., Dec. 6, 1833, Col. Mosby was practicing law at Bristol when the war began. He was one of the first to enlist in the Confederate army, and with the exception of a short time when he was disabled by a wound, he served continuously until Lee's surrender, when he disbanded his famous troop and gave himself up, and upon the recommendation of Gen. Grant was released on parole.

CHARLIE AND TOM.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 6.—Two of the most distinguished sons of the Hoosier State, one a former vice president of the United States and the other vice president-elect, are to be among the guests at the annual dinner of the Chicago Indiana Society tomorrow night. The two are Charles W. Fairbanks and Governor Thomas R. Marshall. Mr. Fairbanks has announced that he will deliver an address at the banquet advising Governor Marshall on "How to Be a Vice President."

ELECTED OFFICERS.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, at its annual meeting yesterday afternoon, elected these officers for the coming year: President, Mrs. Theodore Van-Pelt; vice president, Mrs. Frederick Wenzel; secretary, Mrs. John Pread; treasurer, Mrs. William Stine. It was decided to hold a sale in January. After the business meeting, Rev. Frederick J. Hubach, pastor of the church, addressed the society, giving the members a helpful talk on the subject of "Aid to the Pastor."

PRESIDENT URGES MONEY REFORM

Improved Banking and Currency System Demanded Says Taft.

STRONG ARMY NEEDED

Recommends Three More Battleships and Vigorously Opposes Independence for the Philippine Islands

Washington, Dec. 6.——President Taft, in a message to Congress today, says that the most crying need this country has is a proper banking and currency system. The existing one is inadequate and it is the business of the National Government to provide a medium automatically contracting and expanding in volume to meet the needs of trade. Discussing the National Reserve Association plan the President says that in general it seems to furnish a basis for proper solution of our present difficulty. Past objections to a central bank would not apply to an association such as this. He urgently invites attention of Congress to the proposed plan and report of the commission.

The President recommends larger garrisons in our insular possessions, home army reorganization, provisions for a force of national volunteers and appropriations for three battleships to make up for the refusal of Congress to provide for more than one.

The President opposes the Philippine independence bill and urges continuance of present policy of developing the islands and fitting them for self government.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS FEASTED ON THEIR PIES

The committee in charge of the social were Alfred P. Everitt, chairman, the Misses Louise and Emma Windham, Ida and Edith Wheeler, Bertha Hoagland, Mrs. Gibson Smith and George Hoagland.

At that time Mayor Moy and Mayor-elect Stewart will speak on issues of municipal interest and William Jeffery will make an address on "Civic Associations and Their Duty." To make the event even more enjoyable a program of music will be rendered by an orchestra under the direction of Allen Squier. The meeting is opened to the general public.

The executive board is composed of the officers and chairmen of the various committees. They are: President, Thomas E. Vail; vice president, Thomas M. Muir; secretary, E. P. Fuller; treasurer, William Boyd; chairman of the laws and legislature committee, John J. Carroll; tax and assessment committee, John J. Praed; school and library committee, Joel Pennington; health committee, Dr. P. B. Cregar; membership and entertainment committee, B. K. Davis; park and railroad committee, Charles O. Pearson; water, gas and electricity committee, Frank G. Wyckoff.

REWARD YOUNG MEN FOR SPRAYING TREES

Henry C. White, of Rockview avenue, head of the shade tree committee of the borough, entertained a company of a dozen young men at his home, last night, and as a reward for their interest in securing orders for spraying shade trees in the borough, gave each one a dollar. This plan was adopted some time ago, Mr. White making the offer to the young men as an incentive to improve shade tree conditions.

The young men spent a pleasant evening at Mr. White's home, the program being an informal one. Before the affair was concluded refreshments were served. Mr. White has been very active in pushing the shade tree work and much good has resulted, it is said.

TWO CLAIMS ARE FILED WITH THE FREEHOLDERS

Elizabeth, Dec. 6.—Two residents of Plainfield submitted claims to the Board of Freeholders yesterday, demanding the payment of small sums due them from contractors who built the Bonnie Burn Sanatorium at Scotch Plains. Mrs. J. R. Van Ness sought to recover from the Fanwood Lumber and Supply Co. for sand alleged to have been furnished the firm. James M. Morrison claimed payment for a bill alleged to be due from Metzgar & Wells. The bills were referred to the Sanatorium Hospital committee.

The Board decided to meet again on Monday, December 30 to wind up the year's business and its own affairs.

WILL IT BE TAFT AND WITCHER? UTAH WOMAN CANDIDATE FOR VICE PRESIDENT

Mrs. Margaret Zane Witcher, of Salt Lake City, Utah, may be the first woman in the United States to receive the votes of a great party for the office of vice president. Mrs. Witcher is one of Utah's four Republican electors and is a candidate for the vice presidency. She expects to receive the votes of the Utah delegation, which constitutes one half the Republican strength in the electoral college. The other half comes from Vermont. The Green Mountain state electors have been requested to vote for Mrs. Wichter and make it unanimous, but they have not yet announced their position.

Mrs. Margaret Zane Witcher.

FOR BETTER HIGHWAYS.

State Grange Goes on Record For Improvement—Ask Senators' Help.

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 6.—The New Jersey State grange went on record against the purchase of the Wharton tract as a watershed and also opposed the present reciprocity automobile legislation. The grange favors the passage of the Lever agricultural extension bill now in the United States senate and wired Senators Briggs and Martine asking them to vote for it.

The convention declared itself unalterably opposed to a constitutional convention or the bringing of farmers under the employers' liability act. While favoring improved highways, the grange is opposed to spending money on ocean boulevards and the Delaware river drive, but wants the roads "improved so farmers can get their goods to market."

NEWARK ALLEY BOYS PLAINFIELD RIVALS

Corking Good Game of Soccer Promised for Tomorrow Afternoon.

The soccer football game scheduled for tomorrow between the Plainfield Association Football Club and the Alley Boys, of Newark, will be played on the Clinton avenue grounds at 2:45 o'clock. This should be one of the best contests of the season, as the Alley Boys are at present leading in the Inter-City League. The team has played eleven games in this series and have won nine, drawing one and losing one.

The Alley Boys has also the credit of winning the Junior cup for two successive years, and they were entrants for this season's American cup. They claim that their success is entirely due to the fact that their men have stuck together, having played the same team with the same lineup for three seasons.

The local eleven is now in a position to annex second place in the Inter-City League, but they will have to trim their opponents tomorrow to do this. However, they are in fine fettle and the fact that they are going up against the leaders in the league has only spurred them on, and they feel that they can hand the visitors a defeat tomorrow. A record-breaking crowd is expected to witness the contest, as the Newarkers are one of the best drawing cards here

Manager Conger is making arrangements to take the Temple Baptist Sunday-school league team south the first part of next season (as far as Roselle). He says he will not announce any more of his waivers or contracts either.

A scoreless tie is going some for a girls' game of any kind. The feminine athletes generally take pleasure in humiliating their opponents with double century figures at least. Not so with the P. H. S. field hockey team, however, for they let Cranford down with a 0 to 0 count.

P. H. S. basketball will be ushered in at Passaic tomorrow afternoon. Pretty tough trip for the initial game hust last year it was Yonkers, so cheer up, the worst (Yonkers) is yet to come.

Although the local High Schools have always contended that Barringer High School, of Newark, was out of their class, the Y. M. C. A. Ajax have signed up a game with that quintet and it is now assured that the largest High School in the State will be represented on the local association floor this season.

Manager Doyle, of the Holy Cross eleven, has decided not to schedule any more games this season. The team it was hoped to get for tomorrow were unable to come and with Caulfield's injury putting him out of the game it has been decided to stop.

P. H. S. BASKETBALL TEAM AT PASSAIC

Although No Definite Lineup Has Been Announced Material is Forthcoming.

Basketball will take the place so recently vacated by football in Plainfield High School athletic circles tomorrow afternoon when the five from the local institution lines up on the Passaic High School court. Material is abundant at the local school and the daily practices, which have been held under the supervision of Coach George W. Wriston, have brought to ight a number of players who are bound to shine before the season is very old. Prominent among the candidates for the school team have been the members of the Y. M. C. A. Ajax quintet, and although no definite ineup has been announced, it is possible that four of the five players wearing the red and the blue against Passaic will be players drafted from the association team. All of the Ajax have been striving for places on the school team and those eligible as far as scholarship efficiency is concerned, are Hetfield, Peacock, Brynarski and Buckle. All of these players have taken a prominent part in the practice work and will probably land berths as regulars.

Among the surplus material available are Johnny Heron, captain of the Hope chapel team; Guy Snyder, Monroe Good, Joseph Carty, Edison Woodhull and Arthur Grisley. Of this group Heron, Carty and Good have displayed the best form and will more than likely be selected to complete the seven to make the Passaic trip.

Final practice was held at the High School gym this afternoon but the team played?m-boitaoinaointaoinaot Ajax payers were absent as that team played Battin High School at Elizabeth this afternoon.

TOY DOG SHOW OPENS.

New York, Dec. 6.—Several hundred dogs, each boasting a line of blue-blooded canine ancestors, were admired and petted by society at the Waldorf Astoria today at the opening of the tenth annual show of the Toy Spaniel Club of America. Tiny Pekinese spaniels, haughty blenheims, Japanese spaniels, and English and French bulldogs of the smaller varieties, some of them worth their weight in gold, were included in the display. The show will continue tomorrow afternoon and evening.

PRESIDENT LYNCH TO SHIFT UMPIRES

National League Shakeup is Due Before the Coming Season Opens.

A shake-up in National League umpires is promised for next season. It is almost certain that Jim Johnstone, of Newark, will be dropped. He is persona non grata with Lynch, and besides it is rumored he has made a formal statement in Fogel's behalf in which he charges that Lynch seldom or never assigned him to important games at the Polo Grounds. Bill Finnernan probably will come back to the International League, and Bush already has been released. Al Orth made good and will be re-engaged at a good salary.

Another newcomer is Guthrie, formerly of the International League. Bill Byron, also of the International, may get a job in the big show. If Byron is engaged the umpiring teams probably will be coupled as follows: Klem and Byron, Rigler and Guthrie, Brennan and Eason and Owens and Orth. Klem usually breaks in a new partner every season. Brennan and Owens may stick together, but the chances are that Lynch will split up that team for the good of the service, if two or three new men are engaged.

GOV. TENER LEADS A PHILLY SYNDICATE

Reported That Team Will Change Hands—He's Some Ballplayer Himself.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 6.—Governor John K. Tener, of Pennsylvania, is said to be the man about to clear up the confusing situation into which the Philadelphia National League Club was dumped by Horace Fogel.

The governor, according to a report discussed at the Pittsburg ball club headquarters, is at the head of a syndicate that tomorrow will take over the Quakers. The information comes from an authoritative source and is generally believed.

Governor Tener was pitcher for the famous old Chicago team that went around the world with Cap Anson. He pitched later for the Pittsburg team in the early '90's. Governor Tener is a better business man than politician. He amassed a fortune within ten years after he quit baseball and is considered one of the best "big" business men in this end of the State.

His interest in baseball has never abated, and it is looked upon here as natural that with his love for the game and his business acumen, he should take this opportunity to get control of the Phillies.

SYNDICATE WILL BUILD A YACHT

San Franciscans Plan Construction of Boat to Meet Lipton's Shamrock.

Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars will be raised in San Francisco by the syndicate organized to finance the construction of a yacht to contest in 1915 against the Shamrock to be sent to this country by Sir Thomas Lipton.

According to the announcement made by Thomas L. Miller, who heads the syndicate, Captain Frank Stone, a yachtsman and shipbuilder, at San Francisco, will sail the vessel, which will be of the twenty-three meter class, 120 feet overall, seventy-five feet on the water line, twenty-two feet beam and twenty feet draft. It will be sloop rigged, and in most respects similar to the Shamrock, which, however, is ninety feet on the water line.

Captain Stone will go East to obtain data, as a yacht of this class is an innovation on this coast.

COLLEGE LEAGUERS IN TWO FINE GAMES

Harvard Defeats Princeton and Pennsylvania Wallops Yale.

Two fast games were played yesterday afternoon on the Y. M. C. A. floor in the Boys' College League. Harvard defeated Princeton in a close game by a score of 6 to 4 and in the last fight Pennsylvania had little trouble in winning over Yale, 12 to 6. In the opening encounter Rosenson starred with a pair of difficult baskets. His guarding was also of a sensational order. He dumped the Tiger forwards in their attempts at goal-shooting and in the final Shering, playing guard on the Quaker quintet, dropped in three shots from the center of the floor. The lineups of the teams follow:

HARVARD		PRINCETON
Krauss	right forward	Rider
Adams	left forward	McDonald
Karney	centre	Jones
Marsh	left guard	Earl Marsh
Rosenson	right guard	Brower

Baskets—Rosenson 2, Marsh, McDonald, Rider.

YALE		PENNSYLVANIA
Hyland	right forward	Stout
Beekman	centre	Stover
Alpaugh	left guard	Shering
Causbrook	right guard	Broderick

LOCAL SOCCER CLUB'S BILLIARDS TOURNEY

Game for 1,000 Points up at the Association Rooms Tonight.

The members of the Plainfield Association Football Club, at their meeting, last night, appointed a committee and preparations were made for a billiard tournament to be held at the club tonight. The match for tonight has been arranged between Thomas B. Douglas and William Crawford.

The game will be 1,000 points up, and Douglas will start 250 back, being obliged to make 1,250 to win, while Crawford will have to score 1,000 to win. Both of these players have won several tournaments in the club, and have a fine record for this style of game. While the handicap of 250 points seems a good deal to overcome, those who have watched the players feel sure that this handicap will put the contestants on a par, and the game will be a close one from start to finish.

Considerable enthusiasm is being shown in tonight's contest, as the players are in fine form and have a large following of lusty supporters. All club members and friends are invited. Bernard Eglinton will referee the game which will begin at 7 o'clock at the club's rooms in the West End.

SOMERSET'S CRACK TEAM ROUTS OLYMPIA PONIES

The Olympia Ponies fell down before the pin men of the Somerset Bowling Club on the Plainfield alleys last night. The Plainfield men were defeated after one of the hardest scraps of the season.

The match game between the Ponies and the Raritan team, which was postponed from last Wednesday night, will be played on the local alleys on Friday, December 13. The jinx, "Friday, the 13th," is going to "get" some one on that night and it is to be hoped that it will "get" the visitors.

Manager W. F. Walters, of the Plainfield Bowling Club, will throw his alleys open to women on Wednesdays between the hours of 1:30 and 4:00. Walters is also arranging a two-man pool tournament in which many of the local cracks will enter. The Second street manager asks the entry of every good pool player in Plainfield. The winner will be presented with a handsome prize commemorative of the occasion.

Y. M. C. A. BASKETBALL.

The attendance of the senior class of the Y. M. C. A. was another record breaker last night. Thirty-five members attended and joined in the basketball games held at the close of the class work. The teams that played were the Red against the White and Oranges against Green. The Reds were easy victors over the Whites the score being 16 to 6, and the Greens beat the Oranges by a score of 22 to 10. The total standing of the teams in the contest are Orange 233, Red 223, Green 189 and White 178.

PLAYING BASKETBALL.

Among those to remain on the Columbia University basketball squad after the first sorting out by Coach Fisher is L. R. Beatty, a graduate of Leal's Academy, this city. Beatty is out for the guard position and stands an excellent chance of getting into the game against Maryland University tonight. This is not Beatty, the shot putter, but a younger brother who is also taking an active part in athletics.

STUDY, THEN ATHLETICS.

All Plainfield High School basketball aspirants are anxious concerning their study marks for the month of November. The rule reads that a member of any athletic team in the school must be carrying at least four subjects, and that he must be up to a grade of "C" in three and not lower than "E" in the fourth.

IDA ST. LEON CAPTIVATES IN "FINISHING FANNY"

Ida St. Leon, who will be remembered for her clever work as the star in "Polly of the Circus," appeared at the Plainfield theatre last night in her new play, "Finishing Fanny," a comedy drama in four acts by Leo Wilson Dodd, and both the star and the excellent supporting company scored a decided hit. From the rise to the fall of the curtain there was one surprise after another, and the audience was convulsed with laughter. The play affords Miss St. Leon an opportunity to display her real talent and at last night's performance she had her audience with her from the start.

The play, which is presented by A. S. Stern, is mounted in a lavish manner and it was the opinion of the critics present last night, which included many newspaper men from New York, as well as producers, that the cast could not be improved upon. Miss St. Leon, as well as every member of the cast came in for a generous share of applause, including repeated curtain calls.

AVERT COLLISION.

While bowling along at a great rate of speed a Fourth street trolley car narrowly missed colliding with one of the Marshall Laundry Company's wagons at Grant avenue and Fourth street early this morning. The colored driver of the laundry wagon, unconscious of the fast approach of the car, attempted to turn his vehicle around and crossed directly in the path of the car. Passengers in the car rushed for the exits but by a quick application of the emergency brakes the speed was lessened in time to avoid a nasty collision. As it was, the wagon escaped destruction by a foot as the car rushed by the frightened driver.

NEED SILVER FOR CHURCH.

A committee was appointed to look into the matter of purchasing silver for the Netherwood Reformed church at the regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society held at the home of Mrs. H. J. Martin on Leland avenue yesterday. It was decided that nothing should be done until after the holidays. After the regular routine business was transacted light refreshments were served by Mrs. Martin.

A DINNER PARTY.

Mrs. Erwin B. Leland will be hostess at a dinner party to be given at her home, No. 85 Westervelt avenue, on Saturday night, Dec. 14, in honor of Miss Edith Summers and Frederick Moore, of New York City.

LINDEMAN PLAYER-PIANO

$395. First Payment Only $20

THE people who need a player-piano most are those who can least afford it,—

¶ Families in which there are children and young people, who are too busily engaged in acquiring an education or establishing themselves in business, to learn to play a piano; and whose source of entertainment is limited.

¶ What a blessing the player-piano to these!

¶ A good player-piano.

¶ Beware the bad ones—the hastily constructed, temptingly priced, short-lived instruments put out by certain dealers to take advantage of the people's needs.

¶ The LINDEMAN is a piano with a prestige of 75 years, with a tone famous for sweetness, purity and lasting quality, with a record of 100,000 sales, with a player mechanism that is simple, satisfactory, and—safe.

The John Wanamaker Store Stands Back of It

The Lindeman Player Piano plays the entire range of the keyboard—88 notes; it is easy to pedal and easy to control.

Only one or two trials are necessary to enable any one to render any selection without any suggestion of the mechanical quality so noticeable in the operation of some player pianos.

Do you wish to play loud? Simply press a lever.

Do you wish the music to go faster or slower? Another lever regulates that. All you need do is to press it one way or the other.

Do you wish to vary the expression, now soft, now growing in volume, then back again to soft? Here is a lever which makes it easy.

The weather has no effect on the tracking device around which the music roll winds while playing.

Have you been waiting to buy a first class player-piano?
Would you like to have one in the home for Christmas?
Come and hear the LINDEMAN and have its wonderful qualities explained to you—NOW, while special Christmas terms are in force.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

When "School Days" comes to town there will be a general rejoicing among the young of well as the old and from all indications there will be a general rush to the box-office for kiddies know that when "School Days" is slated to appear, there is a gala day gambol and that they are sure to have the time of their lives. The management of "School Days" this season has added a lot of new songs that are of the whistly sort and that come to stay forever. The production is an exact reproduction of the original Gus Edwards' performance that took place in New York, and caused thousands and thousands to laugh during the past three years. This is the first time that this famous play that pertains to the days when we were school kids, has toured in anything but the week stands, the reason being that the three companies that have heretofore played this unexcelled piece have been booked solid for the entire season and the demand had been so great that it was impossible even to reach the towns of less than 100,000. The owners having no desire to endanger a play that bids well to live forever did not place small inefficient companies on the road that would be called after this production yet not even resemble it. They had a greater aim and believed that theatregoers will appreciate their object when they stop to think. The men and women that attend the theatre can now say, "Well even if we had to wait for three seasons we know that we are seeing the same that they had in New York and that the play is not old and stale." This season finds new wardrobe and scenery but an exact reproduction from the plates and models as they were when first produced. The date for the attraction here is tomorrow afternoon and evening at the Plainfield theatre.

While strong-minded men and women are credited with the power of influencing the minds of others by mental transmission, psychologists in general deny that the mind of a child is sufficiently commanding in its strength to bear influence upon others. It is, therefore, interesting to note that the mind of Cristeta Goni, the juvenile Spanish violin virtuoso, developed amazing strong in one particular direction—music, has a powerful influence upon other children who might listen to her artful playing. Her soulful rendering of the most difficult compositions by old masters now dead is so mightily inspiring that it acts encouragingly upon youngsters, and there are several cases on record where her brain has awakened in other children musical gifts and talent which hitherto lay dormant in their tiny bodies. The consequence was that they have entreated their parents to have music lessons given to them and in other cases of such children who have already had the advantage of musical tuition, their desire to become as proficient as is Cristeta Goni has spurred them to harder study and greater perseverance. Cristeta Goni will appear in recital at Plainfield theatre on Monday, December 16, matinee and evening.

The funniest farce in the world is all that anyone needs to say to have every theatregoer understand that he is talking about Henry W. Savage's production of Rupert Hughes' travel farce, "Excuse Me," which comes to the Plainfield theatre, Tuesday night, December 10. "Excuse Me" ran at the Gaiety theatre, New York, for one solid year, the longest engagement ever recorded by a farce and since that time three companies have been playing to the most extraordinary receipts in the history of theatricals in various parts of the country. The company which will be seen here is headed by Willis P. Swreatman, who originated the role of the Pullman car porter, and the supporting company is without exception the same players who appeared during the New York run.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

CANDIES FOR SANTA CLAUS.

NO doubt Santa Claus feels the high cost of living and will be glad if thoughtful mothers lighten his expenses by acting as first aids to his department in preparing simple candies for the Christmas stocking.

These wholesome candies will please the little ones quite as well as those bought in the shops.

Nut Sweetmeats.

Cocoanut Balls.—Take a pound of loaf sugar and boil it in a gill of water until it hardens when tested in cold water, then flavor with rose or orange flower water and stir into it sufficient grated cocoanut to make it quite thick. Shape it into balls, place these on an oiled dish and leave them till hard, when they should be quite firm outside, but soft and semifluid inside.

Marzipan.—Take a pound of sweet almonds and blanch these, adding two or three bitter almonds if liked. Pound them in a mortar till smooth, adding drop by drop a little rose or orange flower water. Then stir this mixture over a slow fire with one pound of sugar till it forms a smooth paste which will not stick to the fingers when touched. Dust a board with powdered sugar, spread the paste thinly on this and cut into any shape or size desired.

Seasonable Sweets.

Christmas Kisses.—Beat the whites of six eggs until stiff. Stir in one-half pound of powdered or confectioner's sugar. Drop this in teaspoonfuls on oiled paper and dry in a slightly warm oven for about forty minutes. Lift from the paper and stick together in pairs with a bit of white of egg.

Some of the kisses may be made by adding a little melted chocolate to the beaten egg and others by using a little melted red jelly to give them a pretty rose tint.

Ice Cream Candy.—Take eight cupfuls of sugar, two cupfuls of hot water, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar, dissolved in cold water, a lump of butter the size of an egg and two teaspoonfuls of vanilla. Put the water and sugar on the fire in a saucepan. Stir until dissolved. When it begins to boil add the cream of tartar and let it boil twenty minutes without stirring. Add the butter at the last minute. When it hardens in cold water it is done. Pour on buttered platters, sprinkle with vanilla and let it cool. Pull, drawing it out into sticks and cut with sharp scissors the desired length.

YULETIDE PLANS IN OLD ENGLAND

London, December 6.—Notwithstanding the threatening clouds upon the political horizon, the war in the Balkans which threatens to involve all Europe into a bloody conflict, and the uncertainty of the domestic situation, complicated as it is by the Home Rule problem, the woman's suffrage agitation and the unsatisfactory economic conditions, the people of "Merrie Olde England" are busy preparing for the coming Yuletide, the annual season of cheer, charity and happiness. The streets in the shopping districts are daily crowded early and late with throngs of people, some merely sightseers, others prospective purchasers and still others, those who, loaded down with mysterious looking bundles, eagerly strive to reach their homes by motorbus, taxicab, underground or railway.

The shops, particularly those offering toys and Christmas goods, are crowded from morning till late in the evening and seem to be doing good business. The shops, almost without exception, are gayly decorated with evergreens, festoons of colored paper and attractive tinsel and the displays of holiday goods are unusually elaborate and artistic. Especially interesting are the toy shops which, this season, carry a larger and better grade stock than ever before. In view of the fact that many of the visitors of these shops are merely sightseers who do not intend to make any purchases, the owners of many of these shops charge a penny admission with the understanding that the price of admission will be returned if a purchase is made.

Many mothers of the poorer classes bring their whole families of youngsters to these shops, to give them an opportunity to see the thousands of wonderful things which delight their hearts and appeal to their childish imagination, although they wistfully realize that these beautiful things are not for them, not for the children of the poor, side by side with the children of the wealthy, these less fortunate youngsters wander through the aisles, stopping here and there to admire some particularly attractive toy which especially appeals to their youthful imagination.

The time of the provision markets has not yet arrived. The busy season of the provenders of victuals, as a matter of course, does not begin until a few days before Christmas, but in the meantime the trade in fruit, spices and the scores of different things that enter into the making of plum pudings and other holiday delicacies increases from day to day. The little stalls in which toys and other cheap holiday goods are sold, are reaping their harvest and will continue to do good business up to Christmas day.

There was a time when the plum pudding, which forms the piece de resistance at the Yuletide celebration in every English home, no matter how humble, was the exclusive culinary product and the pride of every housewife. Now, however, many thousands of families buy their plum pudding ready made from one or the other of the manufacturing bakers, who annually sell more than one million and a half of plum puddings, weighing from one to five pounds. These puddings which are carefully prepared of good material, clean and well packed so as to withstand atmospheric influences and the more or less rough usage of transportation, may be and are often sent thousands of miles to cheer the heart of distant friends or members of the family.

The royal court is actively preparing for the coming Yuletide celebration, always the most religiously observed festival of the year. The last Queen Victoria usually celebrated Christmas at Windsor, where she was joined by her whole family until her eldest son, the late King Edward was married and had his own establishment at Sandringham. King George and Queen Mary intended to celebrate Christmas at Windsor this year, but abandoned the plan and will spend the holidays at York Cottage, their beautiful and greatly improved estate near Sandringham, where Queen Alexandra, in accordance with her custom, will spend Christmas, entertaining her household and bestowing gifts upon the men, women and children upon her estate.

The King, the Queen, the Prince of Wales and other members of the Royal family have already sent out their Christmas cards, attractive works of the etchers' or engravers' art and highly prized by their recipients. The celebration by the royal family will be quite simple and entirely confined to members of the family and the most intimate members of the household. Both the King and Queen have arranged to send out thousands of charitable gifts and remembrances to pensioners and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Cooney, who were recently married, left yesterday on their honeymoon. They will return in March and occupy their new home on West Fifth street.

J. M. Clinton Tells Probasco Bible Class Not to Judge Nation by Laundrymen.

The monthly meeting of the Probasco Bible Class was held last night in the boys' rooms of the Y. M. C. A. building. The program, arranged by the entertainment committee, was an especially good one, as it included Hugo Brandt, formerly of Germany now of this city, and J. M. Clinton, a Christian worker and missionary in China and Japan.

In the absence of President Randolph Candler, Vice President Carlson Smith presided over the meeting. The principal business was to consider the resignation of Arthur Dunning, class secretary. Mr. Dunning explained that business would prevent him from attending further meetings, but that he would be able to attend on Sundays. Unwilling to lose Mr. Dunning as secretary, the class unanimously decided to have George Church and Mr. Dunning change offices. Mr. Church was secretary of the Sunday meetings, while Mr. Dunning held that office at the monthly gatherings.

The choosing of a committee for the yearly dinner was postponed until a majority of the members could be present.

On the piano, Hugo Brandt rendered the "Slavic Dance," (written by himself); "Music Box," and "Polonaise." Joseph Sattels, Jr., a member of the Probasco Bible class, then played "Love is Straying Ever Since Maying," by Nevin. Later in the evening in duet Messrs. Brandt and Sattels played two waltzes by Moszkowski.

Mr. Clinton's theme was a "Plea for China." He has been a Christian worker in China and Japan for the last eight years, and is back in the United States for a short vacation. Mr. Clinton said that as the average American sizes up the situation, all the Chinese race is like the laundrymen we see in our own city at the preesnt time. This is a false idea, he states, for nine out of every ten Chinamen we see in America are from the working class. He claims "there are the same feelings, hearts and temptations in Chinamen as there are in Americans." He added that although "China is based on tips or graft," there is not a more polite nation, as a whole, on the face of the earth. There are at the present time 877 Chinese students in American colleges, and in China, over 5,000 Chinese graduates of western universities are holding the highest offices in the land. He closed by telling his audience how strongly he realized the great opportunity for work in that eastern country, and how anxious he was to return to his never finished duties.

After the talk the speaker showed many fine views and snapshots of China taken mostly by himself.

At a late hour refreshments were served, and after a little "ragging" by Herbert Hinman, on the piano, and James Manning, on the violin, the gathering dispersed, feeling that it had been one of the most successful meetings the class has ever held.

The entertainment committee in charge of the affair was: George Church, chairman; Archie Gilbert, Hamlet Luckey and Ernest Conover.

Mrs. Augusta Lissignolo, of East Front street, has returned from her summer home at Belmar, where she has been living for several months.

Christmas Umbrella Sale
(FIRST FLOOR—MARKET STREET).

Buy Christmas umbrellas now. Buy them in the big sale at Bamberger's Saturday. Not only will you save a third or more, but you will select from the most complete line of gift umbrellas ever seen in Newark. We went to a lot of trouble to make this umbrella sale the success it is. First, we found several makers of high-grade handles who sold us their surplus and sample stocks at less than cost of manufacture. And such beautiful handles! Sterling, rolled gold trimmed, ivory mounted—you never saw prettier! Then we bought a big lot of strong frames under price, and had fine wearing covers put on at a special price. We save considerably on each transaction. Therefore we offer:

$2.00, $2.50 and $3.00 Umbrellas, $1.29.
$3.75, $4.00 and $5.00 Umbrellas, $3.00.
$6.00, $7.50 and $12 Umbrellas, $5.00.

(THIRD FLOOR—MARKET STREET).

If you have put off buying the needed coat until a "drop in prices," you have waited long enough. Lowered prices, yes, greatly reduced prices are in force at Bamberger's. Buy now while the assortment is at its best.

RETURN REPORT ON ASSESSMENT

Borough Council Not Satisfied With Findings of Committee.

AFTER LONG ARGUMENT

Councilman Buttfield's Statement Tells of General Reduction in Assessments on all Property—Building Permits Are Granted.

The report of the committee appointed by the North Plainfield Council to levy assessments on the macadamizing of Steiner place as submitted several weeks ago for approval, was returned to the committee by the Council last night for further consideration as the assessment had been levied on the basis of a certain amount per front foot, and not according to the "benefits received," as specified by law.

John P. Emmons, J. V. E. Vanderhoef and George White, who comprise the committee, asserted they had levied according to law and in their opinion each property owner assessed would receive benefits to the amount of the assessment, or more.

The discussion, which was followed by the adoption of the resolution to order the committee to reconsider its findings, was the outcome of a complaint against the amount levied on the Winckler property, which has a frontage of 25 feet on Linden avenue and a depth of 100 feet running along Steiner place. William Debele, who entered the protest in behalf of the property owner, claimed this tract was not being benefited to the extent that an assessment should be placed on the whole 100 feet at a similar ratio to the properties in the middle of the block. The tract being a corner lot, the side of which faces Steiner place, the rate of the assessment per foot should be less than that placed on properties whose frontage was on the newly improved street, Mr. Debele claimed.

Acting as spokesman for the assessment committee Mr. Emmons said, "I would be willing to have Justice Bergen investigate the assessments we have made, and our contention is that the Winckler property is increased in value $44.44, the amount of the assessment, by the macadamizing of the street, and if such is the case our method cannot be questioned."

All the committeemen admitted that the assessment had been made on the basis of a certain rate per front foot, but said they had considered every property after deciding the amount, and felt sure that each owner was receiving benefits to the full amount. Councilman Julius Stahl stood firmly by the committeemen in the argument. Councilman W. J. Buttfield took the initiative in protesting against the alleged improper assessments.

The unsafe condition of the bridges in North Plainfield again came up for consideration and a resolution offered by Councilman Alexander Milne was adopted, to notify the Board of Freeholders of Somerset county that the approach to the West End avenue bridge was dangerous and that "wing walls" should be erected as protection to pedestrians. At previous meetings resolutions have been adopted authorizing the clerk to notify the Freeholders of the alleged unsafety of the bridges in the borough, and new and more modern structures have been urged in some cases.

Appropriations were made to the overseer of the poor to the amount of $150; to the Board of Health, $100, and to the street department, $100. Another resolution was adopted authorizing the expenditure of $100 to pay the cost of having the accounts of Borough Treasurer and Collector George F. Brown audited.

The report of Councilman Buttfield, reviewing the work of the Defeated Assemblyman Hints P. S. C. is Back of Petition and Former Mayor Asks Ancerson if He's Really Dead Politically.

The North Plainfield Township Committee held a public hearing in the town hall, Watchung, last night, on the application of the Smalley Stone Company for a franchise to erect, maintain and operate a surface railway from the stone crusher to the terminus of the Somerset street trolley line. No action was taken. The trolley line is desired to transport stone from the quarry to the Public Service Railway's cars. Assemblyman W. dela R. Anderson, chairman of the Township Committee, presided, and former Mayor Newton B. Smalley, president of the stone company, appeared in his interests.

Mr. Smalley said he wanted to build this trolley line to aid his business, and that he was long a resident and large taxpayer in the township. Assemblyman Anderson, acting as spokesman for the township, asked some questions, which eventually developed into a small political argument. The questions and answers as reported by Mr. Anderson follow:

Q. "Is the Public Service back of this project, Mr. Smalley?"

Ans. "No; I personally want it."

Q. "Would you be willing, if the Township Committee, through a friendly feeling to you personally, granted the franchise with a provision that should the Public Service Corporation ever purchase the road on completion, the franchise would then lapse? Are you willing to accept the franchise under those conditions?"

Ans. "I would not."

Q. "Will you explain then, if the Public Service has no interest in the matter, why when I met J. J. Burleigh, second vice president of the Public Service Corporation, at the Trenton Fair, he asked me if I was going to be elected and come back to Trenton this year and when I told him I thought I was, he said to me, 'Well, are you going to grant the franchise to the Smalley Stone Works for that little railway?' I told him 'no,' as the people of my township did not desire it and he said, 'Then you might as well go home as you are already dead.' Will you explain why he took this interest?"

Ans. "I don't know. Why don't you ask him. He was right, wasn't he? You are a dead one, aren't you?"

"But they had to get a Bull Moose in the field to do it," the Assemblyman replied.

A suggestion was made that the Public Service might be willing to extend the passenger service of the Somerset street line as far as the old Hermann dam and Mr. Smalley said he would take this matter up and report at the next meeting of the Township Committee, Thursday, December 12.

RECITAL CHARMS MUSIC LOVERS

SECOND IN THE SERIES

Joseph McIntyre's Offering Fully up to the Standard of His Concerts—Celebrated Artists Are Heard At Feast of Music.

The concert by the Flonzaley Quartet, at the Plainfield High School Auditorium, last night, Joseph McIntyre's second offering in his series this season, was an occasion of the highest possible musical enjoyment here. It is a treat of the highest order to hear such superb artists in such a program on such a pleasant evening and amid such pleasant surroundings.

The program was wisely planned and beautifully performed. To hear masterpieces by the greatest of quartet writers, Mozart and Haydn, given so exquisitely is a rare event. It was a program more than perfectly played—it was inspired. The artists evidently felt from their first number that their audience was in the proper spirit and attitude of mind to respond to their best efforts, and they eagerly and generously poured out their feelings through their magical instruments. After each number the applause was an ovation. Recall after recall brought the artists to bowing acknowledgments.

If encores were not absolutely out of order the program would have been doubly prolonged. The Reger "Scherzo" was particularly chosen for the audience's approval. It was a dainty, humorous sprightly mischievous gem of a thing, played faultlessly. It is hard to find words to fit properly the finish, the perfection of ensemble, the delicacy and blending of tone of this Flonzaley Quartet. Last night was an occasion which will be long remembered by music lovers.

The next concert of the series will be give on December 16. The program will be given by the McIntyre Trio, Alexander Saslavsky, concertmeister of the Damrosch Orchestra, violinist; Paul Kefer, solo 'cellist of the Damrosch Orchestra, 'cellist, and Joseph McIntyre, pianist. The assisting artist will be Miss Laura Combs, of New York, soprano. Mr. Saslavsky will be the soloist. More details of the concert will be given later.

HEALTH BOARD NOTES

Mayor-elect Attends Meeting and Hears Board Decide to Renew for Eleventh Time Request for Garbage Disposal System.

Mayor-elect Percy H. Stewart attended the monthly meeting of the Board of Health last night and showed interest in the report that there is no adequate provision in Plainfield, at Muhlenberg Hospital or elsewhere for the treatment of diphtheria and scarlet fever cases A committee was appointed to confer with the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg on the matter.

The question of a system of municipal collection of garbage was also discussed and the board decided to send a strong recommendation to the Common Council early next year, urging the adoption of a sanitary system.

The reports showed 18 cases of communicable disease during the past month, divided as follows: Measels, 5; typhoid fever, 1; whooping cough, 6; chicken-pox, 2; diphtheria, 2; tuberculosis, 1; scarlet fever, 1.

There are no houses under quarrantine at present. There is one case of scarlet fever in the hospital, the disease evidently being contracted out of the city. Eight houses were disinfected, three by request. The isolated ward at the hospital was also disinfected.

During the month 18 cultures were examined, seven for tuberculosis and eleven for diphtheria. The board decided to make a charge of $1 for examination of cultures from persons living outside of Plainfield, the money to be used toward covering the expense of maintaining this department.

Samples of milk from various dealers were analyzed, as usual. These records are open to the public for inspection. Permits to allowing dumping of ashes were granted as follows: Henry Liefke, rear of 800-816 West Front street; R. Moore, house, 760 Woodland avenue; Peter McDonough, Randolph road, near near Rose street; H. C. Compton, extension of Myrtle avenue.

The health officer was authorized to have the isolation hospital on Rock avenue put in condition to be ready for any small-pox cases that might develop.

Complaint was made against the Collins property on Oakland avenue, near Belvidere avenue, and the health officer was instructed to take steps to abate the nuisance. Tony Flusch, of New Market, was given a permit to collect garbage.

The following number of inspections were reported: General work, 273; milk supply, 130; plumbing, 173. The following returns were made during November: Marriages, 21; births, 52; still-births, 1; deaths, 21.

COURT'S PRAISE FOR PLAINFIELD

In Sentencing Humphries for Violating Liquor Laws Judge Compliments City.

SCORES THE OFFENDER

Denounces Prisoner's Plea for Leniency and Sends Him to Jail for 3 Months and Fines Him One Hundred Dollars.

New Brunswick, Dec. 7.—Judge Peter F. Daly yesterday paid a high compliment to the excise regulations of Plainfield, and emphasized his opinion by sending John Humphreys to the Middlesex county jail for three months for selling liquor without a license on the Middlesex borders of that city.

Humphreys was tried last week jointly with his wife for illegal selling and was convicted, the jury acquitting Mrs. Humphreys. He was arraigned for sentence yesterday, his counsel, Walter Van Sickle, making a plea for mercy, stating that Humphreys has a wife and children who would be injured by his imprisonment.

"In nine cases out of ten," said Judge Daly, "the plea is made, and properly that punishment by the court will affect the innocent more than the guilty. But if every offender is to be allowed to go unpunished for this reason, all a man would do would be to commit his crime, then come into court with his baby act.

"The decent and reputable hotelkeepers of this county pay a big license fee for the privilege of selling. In this case there is another element. The men who pay a license fee cannot sell on Sunday. The evidence in this case shows that the sales of which complaint was made, took place on Sunday.

"The sales took place just outside the city limits of Plainfield, which is justly reputed for the splendid way in which it conducts its excise affairs. And this sort of thing must be stopped. You, Humphreys, are saved from a State prison sentence only because of your family. The sentence of the law is that you be confined in the county jail for three months and pay a fine of $100 and stand committed until the fine is paid.

THIEF CONFESSES TO CHIEF KIELY

Hunter, Captured in Elizabeth, Owns up to at Least 20 Burglaries.

WANTED TO REFORM

Prisoner, Who Left Loot in Plainfield, Says While He is a Crook He Worships God and Claims to Be a Victim of Circumstances.

Declaring that he had been driven to crime by dire financial straits and that although he was a crook, he still worshipped God, William Hunter, alias Harvey Henderson, the thief held at Elizabeth on a charge of ransacking several Washington, D. C., homes, told a wierd story to Chief Kiely yesterday afternoon when the Plainfield police department head questioned him as to his activities while in this city. Part of the booty Hunter is alleged to have secured from the capital city was discovered a few days ago at the home of Mrs. Ingrasia Boutes, 175 East Front street, where the accused man lived after disappearing from Washington, and Kiely was anxious to learn whether Hunter had plied his trade here.

The story was that typical of a thief who, after being caught flat-footed with "the goods," craves for a chance to "turn over a new leaf" and make amends for his lawlessness. The chief got the man into his confidence and the prisoner confessed to at least twenty robberies during his stay in Washington. He denied, however, any connection with local burglaries and seems possessed of an idea that the police throughout the country are hounding him and refuse to try him justly. If released from the county jail, he says, no place in the world will invite him because, as he pleads, he is a crook. He refused to call himself a thief and declares that for all his crime he is still an honest man.

In his talk he told of an incident which happened to him while he was in the act of carrying away valuables from the residence of a wealthy Washington man. While "packing up" an electric flash suddenly illuminated a sign on the wall which read, "This is the House of God." He left the house without his haul, he alleges, and coming north that night determined to reform; but the police nabbed him before he had a chance to attend a revival meeting, he asserted.

The second count of votes will be made tonight in the Plainfield Daily Press contest for the three musical instruments to be given to the individual, club, organization, or Sunday-school winning first, second and third places respectively. The office will be open to receive votes and subscriptions until 9 o'clock. It is surprising the number of inquiries received as to the standing of contestants. Numerous friends are interested and are willing to help, but the old saying about "help those who help themselves" applies to this contest. Don't wait. There is always danger of a "dark horse." Remember only two weeks more and some club, Sunday-school, organization, or individual will receive three of the best musical instruments that money can buy. The piano-player valued at $525 goes to the one receiving the largest number of votes; the upright piano valued at $275 to the second highest, and to the third the cabinet Vitaphone, valued at $100. Think what it means to have one of these instruments in the home of one's favoriate organization or friend; something that will last a life time and will be a comfort and joy forever. And it is all for a little work and spare time.

Remember, whether club, organization, or individual each gets paid for the work done, as ten per cent. cash commission will be awarded at the end of the contest to everyone turning in five or more yearly subscriptions. Would it not be nice, a few days before Xmas, to receive from the Plainfield Daily Press a check for $5 or $250 or more to buy Xmas presents? And think what a comfort it would be to know that one has aided to help win one of these magnificent instruments, by giving a subscription to any favorite contestant. These handsome instruments may be seen at the piano warerooms of Joseph Sattels, 108 North avenue, at which place a young lady in charge will be pleased to give a demonstration on any of these instruments to anyone calling.

SOME STRAY ONES FROM NEW YORK

Timely Topics Among the Live Ones Who Frequent the Ave of Discussion.

New York, December 7.—It is not an infrequent occurrence that foreign swindlers of aristocratic manners and distinguished appearance come to this country, obtain entree in exclusive social circles by posing as members of the higher nobility of some European country and fleece their hospitable friends out of thousands of dollars before they hit the trail once more. As a rule these swindlers, even when finally found out, are not molested but permitted to leave, because their victims are not anxious for a public exposure of their simplemindedness and gullibility and wish to avoid anything resembling a scandal. It is rather a novelty, however, if society is taken in and the general public fooled by an American, descended from a noted and respected family, who poses as a Servian prince and collects funds for the "Balkan Allies." Fortunately the deception did not last long in this case, for the incognito of the bogus "prince" was disclosed before he had succeeded in getting money out of more than a few of the most credulous members of society.

When President-elect Wilson is inaugurated as President of the United States at Washington next year, the occasion will be graced by the presence of Mayor Gaynor and every one of the honorary Mayors of the East Side of Manhattan. Under the presidency of Simon Steingut, Mayor of Second Avenue, the Mayors of the East Side held a meeting the other day and decided to attend Mr. Wilson's inauguration in corpore and garbed in full dress of the most up-to date style. Remembering his experience of last winter, when some miscreant cut off the tails of his dress coat while he was on his way to a ball in Little Hungary, Mayor Steingut has decided to keep his new dress suit in his safe until he is ready to start for Washington.

Only a few weeks ago the hotel men of New York—a tribe who keep pretty close together through their association—took a sort of census of the business. They found in Manhattan alone 225 hotels of fifty rooms or more, with a grand total of 53,000 rooms. Which means, according to the usual rush business way of counting, that in a pinch the hotels of Manhattan—the real hotels, not including little fellows, apartment houses and such—could take in and give beds to 100,000 visitors. Pretty careful studies show that the hotels of the three greatest cities of Europe could not together give accommodation to so many people.

A woman, accompanied by a boy who looked to be about twelve years old, came to the Plaza the other afternoon.

"Is the Harmonica Society here?" asked the woman, and the room clerk answered that he had never heard of that society.

"Why, sure, you must have heard of it. It's the New York 'Something Harmonica' Society," the woman explained.

"You don't mean the New York Philharmonic Society?"

"Sure, that's it. Is it here? You see, here's my little boy," presenting the youngster, who carried a large double-barreled mouth organ in one hand. "He plays the harmonica somethin' grand, and I thought if the society heard him they would take him in."

It took the clerks all the rest of the afternoon to explain to the woman that the Philharmonic Society had nothing to do with harmonicas.

What's the use of being Oil King and the possessor of uncounted millions if one cannot prevent the erection of a tuberculosis hospital on the ground adjoining one's own estate. There seems to be a definite prospect of the erection of a tuberculosis hospital on the J. Romaine Brown farm adjoining John D. Rockefeller's magnificent Pocantico Hills estate in Westchester county. Judging from reports the Old King is not particularly excited over the prospect of having a tuberculosis hospital for next door neighbor.

The passengers and employes at the Grand Central Station subway station on Forty-second street are at present deriving a great deal of amusement out of an experiment which the company is trying at that point with phonographic train announcers. Several companies manufacturing phonographic announcers are competing for the job of equipping the various subway stations with their instruments and their instruments are tried out at the Grand Central Station. The effect of the canned voice emanating from the box, high up near the ceiling, is by some considered uncanny, while others, with a more highly developed sense of humor consider it extremely ludicrous. So far the experiments have not been successful, however, as the canned voices could not be heard above the noises of the station beyond a radius of a few feet from the announcer.

It would seem to require either considerable determination of a combination of quite exceptional circumstances to make it possible for a man to drown in 2½ inches of water. Yet a man drowned in this city the other day in 2½ inches of water neither of his free will nor under sensational circumstances. He was bailing water from the bottom of the elevator shaft in a garage on Amsterdam avenue, became suddenly ill, fainted and fell face down into two and one-half inches of water. He was dead from drowning when he was found an hour later.

The misfortune of the man who drowned in a few inches of water merely because insensibility prevented him from arising from the ground, forms a strong contrast to the remarkable cause of Mrs. Ida Radt, wife of one of the vice presidents of the Greenwich Bank, who fell from a height of eight stories and escaped with a few bruises. She drempt the other night that the Hotel Orleans, on the ninth floor of which she lives with her husband, was on fire and so vivid was the dream, that she jumped out of bed, opened a window and jumped out into the light shaft, landing on the wire netting protecting the glass roof of the hotel office. There was great excitement and doctors and an ambulance were summoned, but an examination of Mrs. Radt showed that no bones were broken and she had suffered no injury beyond a few scratches and bruises.

Breed, secretary of the Congregational Home Mission Society; Dr. C. C. Coleman secretary for foreign missions of the Southern Baptist Convention, and Dr. R. T. Justice Holmes is the senior member of the highest tribunal in point of age, being in his seventy-second year, but he is still hale and vigorous, and not likely to retire for some years to come. IN MEMORY OF GALLAUDET.

New York, Dec. 7.—A $30,000 parish building for deaf mutes, in connection with St. Ann's church in West 148th street, was dedicated this afternoon with interesting exercises. The building was erected as a memorial in honor of the late Rev. Dr. Thomas Gallaudet, who was rector of St Ann's church when he began his work among the deaf mutes of this city in 1854. He was the son of Dr. Thomas M. Gallaudet, founder of the first institution for teaching deaf mutes in America, and a brother of Dr. E. M. Gallaudet, who founded Gallaudet College for deaf mutes in Washington, D. C.

RESULTS TELL.

There Can Be No Doubt About the Results in Plainfield.

Results tell the tale.

All doubt is removed.

The testimony of a Plainfield citizen.

Can be easily investigated.

What better proof can be had?

Mrs. S. Driscoll, 1009 S. Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "There was a dull pain across the small of my back and in my sides that clung to me constantly and any hard work made my condition worse. I was subject to headaches and dizzy spells especially when stooping or lifting and I felt weak and run down. I tried plasters and various other remedies but nothing helped me until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Drug Store. They did such good work in correcting my trouble that I heartily recommend them." (Statement given August 25, 1908.)

Mrs. Driscoll was interviewed on January 29, 1911, and she added to the above: "I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills just as highly today as I have been for the past five years. They made a lasting cure in my case."

TO THE "GOOD FELLOWS" OF PLAINFIELD

Just about this time last year I told you my story. You listened to it—you did more—you followed its spirit out in a bang-up style. Bless your hearts, you made over 600 poor little tots know the real meaning of a joyous Christmas. I'm not claiming any credit for my story; I'm claiming credit for knowing that there are many Good Fellows in this fine old town of ours—royal chaps, who don't do much preaching, but when it comes to doing a good turn, well, they're there with the goods. This is no sermon that I'm handing you, it's a heart to heart talk with men with red blood in their veins, and here it is off last year's reel.

On Christmas and New Year's eve you and I went out for a good time and spent from $10 to $200. Christmas morning hundreds of children awoke to an empty stocking—bitter with the pain of disappointment that Santa Claus had forgotten them. That's the way it used to be. Perhaps it wasn't our fault. We had provided for our own; we had also reflected in a passing way on those less fortunate than our own, but they seemed far off and we didn't know where to find them. Perhaps in the hundred and one things we had to do some of us didn't think of that heart sorrow of the child over the empty stocking.

Now, old man, here's a chance. Just send your name and address to the Daily Press—address Santa Claus—state about how many children you are willing to protect against grief over that empty stocking, inclose a two-cent stamp and you will be furnished with the names, addresses, sex and age of that many children. It is then up to you, you do the rest. Select your own present, spend 50 cents or $50, and send or take the gifts to those children on Christmas eve. You pay not a cent more than you want to pay—every cent goes just where you want it to go. You gain neither notoriety nor advertising; no record will be kept; your letter will be returned to you with its answer. The whole plan is just as anonymous as old Santa Claus himself.

This is not a newspaper scheme. The Daily Press will preserve the anonymous character of this work. The responsibility of finding the children and sending you their names will be assumed by this paper and it guarantees that whatever you bestow will be deserved.

Neither you nor I get anything out of this, except the feeling that you have saved from sorrow on Christmas morning. If that is not enough for you then you have wasted time in reading this—it is not intended for you, but for the good fellows of Plainfield.

Perhaps a twenty-five cent doll or a ten cent tin toy wouldn't mean much to the children you know, but to the child who would find them in the otherwise empty stocking they mean much—the difference between utter disappointment and the joy that Santa Claus did not forget them. Here is where you and I get in. The charitable organizations attend to the bread and meat, the clothes, the necessaries; you and the rest of the good fellows furnish the toys, the nuts, the candies, the child's real Christmas.

GOOD FELLOW.

"Good Fellow" is not a professional philanthropist, he takes a drink, and even goes out at night with the boys for a mild good time—but he has taken care of some poor little ones each year in Plainfield. He says he wishes he had always curtailed his holiday joy-making with the good fellows even more than he did, so that he might have had more money to gladden childish hearts.

The Worthy Grand Master of the lodge of Good Fellows has laid his plans for securing names through the Charity Organization Society.

This is how you can joint the lodge of Good Fellows. Write a letter to "Santa Claus," care of the Daily Press, something like this:

I live at No.....street. I will be Santa Claus to 6 children.

JOHN JONES.

The letter will go to Santa Claus. He will indorse on your letter the names and addresses of six children. That letter will be remailed to you. Then you get busy. That's all. Come on in, good fellows.

CIVIC PRIDE IN SUBURBAN COMMUNITIES.

Why is it that civic pride is so much more apparent in cities of the old world than in those of America? And why so much more apparent in smaller American cities, distant from any metropolis, than in those near one? Parks, playgrounds, squares, statues of prominent men and decorative monuments commemorating local historical events, are numerous in almost every small European city; and in many American towns, distant from any large city are not entirely wanting. But in communities like Plainfield, close to New York, they are almost unknown. This in our case cannot result from lack of means for, as is well known, Plainfield possesses more wealth than most towns of its size wherever situated. Can it be because some of our influential and more prominent men, many of whom do business in New York, regard Plainfield as a temporary abiding place only, and not as "Home" in that broad sense which means "Where we live is home, home that our feet may leave, but not our hearts"?

A few years since a resident of Plainfield, a successful New York merchant, influential in our social and civic affairs and whose children had been born, brought up and married here, remarked that he intended "going down home tomorrow." "Home," he was asked, "do you mean that after living here for a quarter of a century you still do not regard Plainfield as your home?" "Yes," he replied, "home still means to me Long Island, where I was born and to which, down in my heart, I have always retained an intention sometime to return. I came to Plainfield shortly after my marriage because it seemed to me the most convenient and at the same time desirable place in which to spend an indefinite number of years while attending to my business in New York. I like Plainfield and its people immensely and am very happy here, but my 'home' is on Long Island."

How many of those who set the pace and influence the trend of Plainfield's development are, perhaps without realizing it in the least, influenced by similar ideas? If there be many would not that tend to direct Plainfield's expenditure for public improvements to those things only which are purely utilitarian, which will benefit chiefly the citizen of today? Would it not also explain a tendency to postpone any improvement which perhaps only posterity could enjoy?

It seems undeniable that Plainfield needs for the future, if not for the present, a reasonable system of public parks and recreation grounds. These unquestionably can be acquired for far less now than years hence. A public recreation ground, other than the children's play grounds already furnished by the munificence of a private citizen,—to which those of adult years less favored with this world's goods than they who enjoy the privileges of our golf, tennis and country clubs, could resort for baseball, football, hockey and similar sports, would be of inestimable physical and moral benefit.

A beautiful little park greatly enhancing the attractiveness of both City and Borough and affording great pleasure to many could so easily be made now of the low ground along Greenbrook below Sycamore avenue, that it seems a pity it should be utilized for the building of cheap and unsanitary houses. A statue of that fine rugged old gentleman, Mayor Job Male, whose enterprize and public spirit did so much to start Plainfield on its road to importance, would be both a fitting tribute and an incentive to future endeavor.

One cannot contemplate that great thoroughfare, one of ths finest of its kind in the world, Broad Street, Newark, without being thrilled with the thought that some one man conceived and carried out the idea. Laid out when Newark was but a hamlet, it was expensive and unnecessary at the time. Doubtless the man who forced it through met many obstacles and much adverse criticism, but today it remains a lasting monument to his sagacity and public spirit as well as perhaps the most valuable asset of a great city.

Beyond doubt the spark of civic pride burns as brightly in the hearts of many of Plainfield's citizens as in those of any similar town. To all appeals for charity or benevolence they respond most generously. This has been demonstrated too often to require illustration now. The present plea is not for charity, but for public action at public expense. A suggestion that a small part of our taxes be used for objects which in the first analysis may produce only pleasure or perhaps encourage patriotism; that material expression be given to that charming sentiment which responds to the old ballad "Home Sweet Home." It may seem easy to accomplish such an end, but history proves it difficult. It is hard to overcome inertia. Opposition is like the east wind. It is impalpable and yet it penetrates, chills and discourages even the most enthusiastic. If any appreciable proportion of our population regards Plainfield as a mere temporary stopping place their attitude is unquestionably potential.

Yet crystalization of public sentiment against this view will overcome it. The Common Council, always susceptible to well defined public demand, can be depended upon to respond to any reasonable wish of the community if definitely expressed. It needs then only a leader to insure success. Who will volunteer?

WITH but a brief time in which to perfect their arrangements, one can readily believe that Christmas with our Southern-born President-elect will be just as simple and just as old fashioned as Woodrow Wilson, his charming wife and their three delightful daughters said it would be. Just prior to their departure for Bermuda, where they went in search of rest and quiet for Mr. Wilson following his arduous campaign, each remarked: "Christmas in our home will be just as simple as we can make it. But as we are Southerners it is only natural that we cling to the customs of the South which prevail at Yuletide."

Simplicity is the keynote of the Wilson menage. A visit to their Princeton (N. J.) home is not only an event, but to many of us who were compelled to be there throughout the weeks ante-dating the election, it was an epoch. A family which had lived all its life in retirement; cultured to the highest degree and with the bluest of blood coursing through its veins, one can readily understand how it shrank from being suddenly cast into the limelight with not less than one hundred news hungry reporters constantly camping at its very threshold. Yet never for an instant did a single member of this household shrink from the responsibility thrust upon them, nor did they indicate by word, or look that they were being hunted down, (and they were), nor did they fail at any time to make every effort to lighten the burdens of the overworked army of reporters who were there through the orders of exacting city editors who insisted upon probing the innermost thoughts and lives of those whose accession to the White House was looked upon as a conceded fact months before the battle of ballots was waged.

A case in point might not be out of place here, for it but tends to shed a more intimate light on that delightful family whose home we are about to invade on that most sacred and joyous of all seasons—Christmas. It was the night of the Baltimore Convention when the whole nation breathlessly awaited news from Baltimore, eager to learn whether bossism was to prevail or whether the voice of the common people was to be heard and heeded and the nomination of Woodrow Wilson—the people's candidate—effected. The night was cool—far cooler than one usually experiences at Sea Girt, N. J., at that season of the year. Two score newspaper correspondents were shivering in a tent which had been erected on the lawn, within a stone's throw of the house, for their convenience and comfort. Many of Mr. Wilson's advisers were with him and the telephone and telegraph wires leading to New Jersey's summer capital were kept alive with messages and reports from the seat of war. Finally word came that Mr. Wilson had been nominated. Of course every reporter there wanted, and at the earliest possible moment, a statement from the successful candidate. Before a delegation could be appointed to go to the Wilson residence and express this wish, a messenger came to the tent to say that Mr. Wilson's statement was then being prepared and he would have it expedited as he realized "the boys were tired and worn out and wanted to get a good night's rest as soon as possible."

The statement came and in less time than it takes to tell it; it was being clicked off to every big news gathering agency in the country, as well as to the offices of those newspapers who had correspondents on the scene. At eleven o'clock a woman sped from the governor's mansion to the tent and thrusting her head inside the tent folds said: "I know you poor, overworked men are both freezing and starving. Come to the house and get warm."

Into the Wilson spacious living room, the little regiment trooped. Of course each one warmly and eagerly congratulated the nominee. Then all sat down to an al fresco supper prepared by Mrs. Wilson and her three daughters, and served by them. The servants had retired some time earlier as it was long past midnight, and the steaming coffee and dainty sandwiches and salads constituting the pickup supper were as charmingly dispensed as they were eagerly partaken of. For upwards of two hours Governor Wilson, his wife and their daughters sat and informally chatted with the correspondents, and that little supper did more towards giving the reporters a real insight into the Wilson home and into the character of each and every member of it than any episode connected with the campaign.

From then on the reporters knew just what they might expect in the way of news and just how futile it would be to attempt to drag from members of that household expressions on this or that subject which the yellow journals so love to deal in. Here was a family of gentle folk. Three daughters in this household whose portraits had never adorned a "society page," and not likely to if the wishes of father or mother could be respected! Yet every member of the family had been reared in an atmosphere of good breeding and culture which well fitted them for the exalted place each held in the most exclusive circles of society in the world without having to resort to lavish expenditure and bizarre effects to attain it.

Mr. Wilson, his wife and two of their daughters are in Bermuda now enjoying to the fullest the sunshine and out of door life they have chosen since they disembarked from the steamship that bore them from the United States. The eldest daughter could not spare the time from her musical studies to take the voyage, and she will have the household in readiness for the voyagers when they return to enter upon their Christmas festivities.

This may be the last Christmas the Woodrow Wilsons will spend in the Princeton home they have learned to love so well. While not the same residence occupied by them when Mr. Wilson was president of Princeton University, nevertheless it is within the same cultured environment and became their choice of a home as soon as Mr. Wilson was chosen governor of New Jersey—his first step into public life.

In this most comfortable but unpretentious home in Cleveland Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and their daughters will spend their Christmas. Born in Virginia and reared and educated in North Carolina and then going to Georgia where he practiced law for awhile, Woodrow Wilson's memories take him back to days that were fraught with suffering and hardships for those in his beloved Southland, for his boyhood was of that period when the South was at war with her sister states, and, following her defeat, waste and want stood forth as a naked truth and an ever living reminder of those terrible days of strife.

"Christmas in my boyhood," said Mr. Wilson, "was not the joyous season of mirth and plenty it was in the days before the war. Yet those with whom I made my home endeavored valiantly, with their limited means, to make it as nearly alike those earlier yuletide seasons as possible and we were just as content with our little gifts, and the preparations made for our pleasure, as those that had gone before. Christmas means much to us this year. In fact more than ever before, for has not a great nation invested its confidence in me and could any man ask for a more magnificent gift? The grave responsibilities that rest upon me, of course, are paramount, and each day I live I regard this trust as more sacred and I know that I must struggle and strive to make myself worthy of the confidence reposed in me.

"I can think of no more ideal Christmas than the one we expect to spend here. Surrounded by my little family we shall endeavor to give ourselves up to the joys of the season and in our own way celebrate it. Of course we will attend services in the morning. Christmas dinner will be served at mid-day, as nearly all Christmas dinners are, and in the afternoon we shall do whatever fancy dictates. Just what Mrs. Wilson and our daughters have arranged for the day I don't know, but I have no doubt the annual surprises will be forthcoming."

And no doubt they will, for above all Mrs. Wilson is intensely domestic and the crowning joy of her life is to see her three daughters bud into womanhood, each with a set purpose in life and each mentally and physically equipped to carry that undertaking through to a successful fruition. An insight into her character is vividly portrayed by a remark she made once to a woman magazine writer who implored her for a photograph of herself with which to adorn the page interview she had just obtained from the coming First Lady in the Land.

"I prefer this portrait of me," said Mrs. Wilson, "because it is more maternal."

The portrait in question was severely plain, yet its very simplicity best reflected the motherly instinct of this gifted and talented woman who had devoted the best years of her life to the education of her three daughters, for be it remembered all were educated by their mother from the very beginning.

"My earliest recollections of Christmas," said Mrs. Wilson, "take me back to my old Georgia home. If the hardships entailed by the war were still felt I wasn't aware of it then, for it was a day given over to the children and every member of the household joined in to make it as happy and joyous as could be. Ours was just such a Christmas as every child reared in the South knew and loved. The day began at dawn when we crept from our beds to peer into the suspended stockings to see what Old Kris Kingle had brought us. There were few, if any, disappointments and if there were I can't recall them now. What we had most ardently hoped for was always forthcoming, and just as dawn was streaking the east we night-robed little ones scampered through the house unable to conceal the glee that consumed us while we extended the compliments of the season to others of the household.

"There was no more delightful feature of these old time Christmases than that which had to do with the old colored servants who invariably came in for their share of tokens from each member of the household. The celebration lasted not only through the day, but throughout the week and the Christmas season was not looked upon as ended until after New Year's Day, although the observance of this day was an event in itself.

"As we grew older there came a round of festivities—dances and parties—in which all the young folk of the neighborhood participated. And then, too, the arrival of the Christmas season was invariably the signal for a family reunion, and all who were able to come assembled at the home of the head of the family and these households swelled to proportions that would strike terror to the heart of the average housewife of today. But in those days we were not troubled with the servant question, nor was the larder as grave a problem as it is in this era of high prices. The dinners consisted of those delicacies peculiar to the Christmas season—with roast turkey and English plum pudding as the pieces de resistence. No doubt each of these will play a prominent part on our table this Christmas, together with other things that will make that dinner as nearly like those of olden times as possible, although these are details that will be arranged by our youngest daughter, for she manages our household and none disputes her authority on such matters."

Mrs. Wilson occupies a place in her husband's household that must appeal strongly to every wife and mother. In the first place she is her husband's constant companion; his adviser and his helpmate. While he is known to be an authority on constitutional government, there is no problem that confronts him in affairs of state that he does not thoroughly discuss with Mrs. Wilson before he finally passes on it. Mrs. Wilson is a woman of high intelligence and believes that the intelligent woman of today owes a duty to both the home and the community. While she has been all that a good and loyal wife and devoted mother could be, she does not believe that in order to be these things a woman must necessarily bury herself in her home and pay no attention to the outside world. Although not what might be termed a society woman, Mrs. Wilson is a delightful hostess and one in every way fitted to become the mistress of the White House. In the Wilson home there is nothing to call forth the admiration of visitors more spontaneously than a number of beautiful paintings adorning the walls. These are from the Studio of Mrs. Wilson, who is an artist of rare ability and one who could have readily earned a handsome living by her art. Even after coming to Princeton to live Mrs. Wilson had expected to make painting her life work and devoted a great deal of time to the study of art, but as the children came she soon realized that in their training her real mission in life lay and this she diligently pursued.

When Woodrow Wilson became a member of the Princeton faculty twenty-one years ago, politics was his theme. That subject he took up as his life's work and he has never deviated from the course he first laid out for himself. Mrs. Wilson constantly works at her husband's side and she believes that her greatest aid to him lies in her power to keep alive his interest in the beautiful things of life, and making it impossible for him to become too exclusively the student, the statesman, or the politician. Her tastes have ever run to art, poetry and nature. Milton, Shakespeare, Wordsworth and Browning are her favorites, and in the old days she and Mr. Wilson read together constantly. She had grown up among books as her father was a Presbyterian minister, cultured, liberal and one who believed in instilling in the minds of his children all that was good and beautiful in literature. While she met Mr. Wilson at her father's home it was not until she came to New York to study art at the Art Student's League, that their friendship ripened into love and it was while in New York that he persuaded her to become his wife.

It was on June 24, 1885, that the marriage of Woodrow Wilson and Ellen Louise Axson was solemnized at the beautiful old home of the bride at Rome, Ga. Very soon thereafter Mr. Wilson became a member of the faculty of Bryn Mawr College and from there was called to Princeton, his alma mater.

His nature is as truly dual as it is striking. While he is a sturdy pioneer—eager, enterprising, with a love for being in the midst of action and not in the least dismayed by the prospect of a good stiff fight, yet on the other side he is shy, loving quiet Days and reflection and the refinements of poetry and chaste prose. And in his wife he found one ever adaptable to any mood that might beset him, for she had schooled herself to attune her mood to his in all things, and that more than anything else accounts for the truly ideal and beautiful existence their marriage made possible.

The three daughters of the Woodrow Wilsons each embody the best traits and talents to be found in their parents. Margaret Woodrow Wilson, the eldest, is a singer of rare ability; she is exceedingly fond of the classics and her favorite composers are Schumann, Schubert and Wagner. At present she is pursuing her musical education in New York and she will not let it drop when she goes to the White House with her father. Margaret Wilson, despite her studious turn of mind, is devoted to out-of-door life and is the real athlete of the family. She is a splendid tennisplayer, pulls a strong oar and excels at golf. She is a good swimmer as well, and knows all the fine points of football and baseball as intimately as the most ardent undergraduate now at Old Nassau.

When asked what her plans for Christmas were, Miss Wilson unhesitatingly replied that she was looking forward to the day with the keenest interest, inasmuch as it would be the last of its kind in Princeton, which to her is a hallowed spot. While fond of society and all that it implies, Miss Wilson has no sympathy with the butterfly existence of those young women who from the day they are brought forth as debutantes spend the succeeding years in a mad whirl and constant pursuit of the pleasures attendant upon a life of gayety and entertainment. There are more serious problems in life for her and these she has entered into with the full determination to do well those tasks she has set for herself. Miss Wilson is keenly interested in Young Women's Christian Association work and for a time it was seriously thought she would make this work her life's vocation and that she would choose New York as her field of endeavor. Whether she has abandoned this intention few know, and it is a question she will not commit herself on.

Jessie Woodrow Wilson is the second daughter and she is the suffragist of the family, although not of the militant type. She is a firm believer in the right of women to vote, but she does not believe that breaking windows, mobbing Congress, or wrecking the homes of our statesmen will bring nearer the day when all states will have given suffrage to its women. She is tall, lithe, and her face possesses softer lines than those of her sisters. Her talents lie in several directions, for she is a good musician and paints and draws well too, although she has not elected either as courses to adopt as a profession. On the other hand she became deeply interested in settlement work when a student at the Woman's College in Baltimore, and since then she has plunged into this work with ardor and determination.

It was while attending college that she gave serious consideration to work among the poor and hard working residents of the congested centers and soon thereafter joined Mrs. R. K. P. Bradford at the Light House, a big social center in Kensington, in the textile district of Philadelphia.

There she plunged into the work with all sincerity and her worth was soon demonstrated, for it was proven that she had intelligently solved those problems which all beginners find a handicap when first entering this noble field.

Her work in the slums, however, has not lessened her appetite for out-of-door life and sports at which all college bred women excel. Like her sister, she is an expert at golf and tennis, she is a good horsewoman too, and frequently accompanies her father and sisters when they sally forth for a canter.

Miss Jessie Wilson has no intention of abandoning her settlement work when her parents remove to Washington. Of course she will spend much time with them at the White House, but these stays will be regarded in the light of visits for she is wedded to her work and will continue in this field of usefulness.

Her Christmas will be what the others make it, she told the writer not long ago.

"So long as I can spend the day at home with the family it will be an ideal one for me," was the way she put it.

Eleanor Randolph Wilson is the baby of the family and has inherited her mother's love for art and all that that implies. She has manifested decided talent and this is being developed at the Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia, where she is enrolled as a student. It is highly probable that she will finish her course there and not take up her permanent abode in the White House until she has rounded out the task she has set for herself.

Miss Eleanor Wilson is a splendid horsewoman and a good walker, and more often than her sisters is her father's companion when he sets out afoot for a tramp over the hills and through the lanes about Princeton.

The President-elect is a firm believer in the old saw that too much work makes Jack a dull boy. When he settles down to work he can get through an amazing volume of it and seemingly without weariness. But the long tours he made during his campaign told heavily upon him and when he set out for Bermuda he looked forward to his vacation with all the eagerness of a schoolboy. It was really his first vacation since he became Governor of New Jersey, and he remarked that he had had no idea how really tired he was until he had left the care of states behind and was face to face with days which meant only relaxation and pleasure.

As the steamship ploughed her way down the New York Bay the governor, while lolling in a steamer chair on the after deck, sighed and exclaimed, "The throb of this ship's screw is sweetest music to my ears, for with every pulsation I know I am that much further from things politic and all that that implies."

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

Emma Trentini's new comedy opera, "The Firefly," which is now running at the Lyric theatre, New York, presents the gifted and tireless singer in the role of a street singer. While singing for pennies near a New York pier, where a yachting party is about to sail for Bermuda, she attracts the attention of the guests, one of whom, a young man, becomes infatuated with her to such an extent that he offends a young woman to whom he is engaged. The playgoer can easily see why Trentini has been referred to as "the little devil of grand opera," while she is playing this part. She shows so much life and sings so sweetly in the opening scenes that she captivates her auditors as well as the young man in the play. Disguising herself in men's clothes, the little waif is taken aboard as a cabin boy, and the next act finds her with the party in Bermuda, where she is making life miserable for the woman and pleasing the men by her pranks. She is detected and ordered back to New York. An old German musician, however, realizing the possibilities in her voice, defends her from the verbal assaults of the women. The young man who has admired her is forced to give her up on account of his engagement to the girl in the party. In the last act, Trentini presents herself as an opera singer who has returned from unusual successes abroad. She is brought to a New York mansion to sing by the German musician, now a prominent impresario. She is recognized by the young man who had fallen in love with her a few years back, and since his engagement has been broken, he is free to return the love that the former street singer held for him since he met her, dirty and ragged, on the streets of New York. Prominent in the cast are Roy Atwell, Melville Stewart, Henry Vogel, Craig Campbell, Sammy Lee, Audrey Maple, Katherine Stewart, Ruby Norton and Vera De Rosa.

Of all internationally famous actresses Mme. Simone, who is in her second New York season at Wallack's theatre in Linus N. Parker's new play "The Paper Chase," is perhaps least given to the display of temperamental idosyncracies. Being a woman of great wealth, sometimes mentioned as one of the ten wealthiest women in the world, and a social favorite, she acts purely for the love of her work. Though "The Paper Chase" is written in an ultra-modern comedy vein, it is laid in that most picturesque and exciting period during the latter days of the reign of Louis XVI., when the French court was given to the wildest extravagances. Moreover it is a play that shoud win a decided popular vogue, quite independent of the art of its celebrated star. It deals, as its title indicates, with the intrigues resulting from the disappearance of a bit of paper on which an indiscreet nobleman of high rank has written things that will lose him and several others the favor of the King were it ever to come under the latter's observation. The heroine, combining the charm and fascination of her sex with the ingenuity of an eighteenth century Sherlock Holmes, takes a hand in the little game of Paperchase, and cleverly outwits police spies, revolutionists and petty court intriguers.

FREEHOLDERS' TERMS TO EXPIRE ON JAN. 6

There is a question as to the time the terms of appointed office holders of Union county expire, and County Attorney William R. Codington is now investigating the matter. He will give an opinion to the Board of Freeholders at its meeting December 19.

The present freeholders' terms will expire on January 6 next, when the new board goes into office, but it is said under a new law appointed officers of the county will serve out their terms where they extend beyond January 1. Dr. F. W. Westcott, county physician, is said to be one of those who will hold-over. Attorney Codington's term expires January 6.

GIFT OF BIBLE CLASS TO GEORGE H. BEISER

George H. Beiser, director of music at Hope chapel, was the recipient of a beautiful brass reading lamp at the "ladies' night" entertainment given in Hope chapel last night by the McWilliams' Bible Class. President Ben Evans presided over the evening's festivities. Mrs. Robert Bailey sang several pleasing numbers and Rev. Frederic Lincoln Greene, James Penny and Ben Evans spoke. Long colored streamers hung from the corners of the assembly room and after the singing and speechmaking refreshments were served by the members of J. B. Lindsley's "Loyal Daughter" class.

BENEVOLENT BAND'S CHINESE LAUNDRY PAYS

The members of the Benevolent Band of The King's Daughters conducted a cake sale and "Chinese laundry" yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. W. Myers, 1106 Watchung avenue. All the members of the band assisted. The "Chinese laundry" idea was the feature. Articles of every description, wrapped in purple paper and bearing quaint characters, were fastened to a long line, and the patrons of the affair purchased them for different prices. Mrs. F. S. Martin, Mrs. E. B. Shoemaker and Mrs. Osborne Halsted were in charge of the laundry.

There was also a sale of cake and candy, the different members of the band all assisting at these tables. The affair will net about $80 for the King's Daughters' work. The officers of the band who had general supervision of the sale are: President, Mrs. Emerson E. Parvin, vice presidents, Mrs. Elizabeth Craft, Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman; secretary, Mrs. F. L. Holt; treasurer, Miss Mary L. Storrs.

BIRD CONSERVATION WILL BE HIS THEME

The Men's Club of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church has secured T. Gilbert Pearson, secretary and executive head of the National Association of Audubon Societies, as a speaker for its meeting to be held in the church parlors on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. He is an accomplished speaker and was one of the after-dinner talkers at the dinner given to Commodore Peary on his return from the Pole. For many years he was forest, fish and game commission of North Carolina, and is called upon to speak from one end of the country to the other on the subject of bird conservation. His talk will be illustrated by stereopticon slides in color.

Those interested in the subject, whether members of the club or not, are invited to attend this talk and women are especially invited in view of the fact that the subject is one of as vital interest to them as to the men.

REPORT ON ASSESSMENT

Council in securing a reduction on the 1912 taxes was submitted. It stated that the property owners of North Plainfield had saved $7,843 this year as a result. The communication also included a recommendation that the Mayor and Council annually appoint a special committee on taxation to co-operate with the Council in all matters relating to taxation to prevent an excess amount of taxation in the future. This suggestion will be carried out.

The estate of Susie Rafferty, which paid excess taxes for 1911 on the property at Sycamore and Willow avenues to the amount of $12, applied for credit, which will be allowed on next year's tax bill. The property mentioned was assessed at a valuation of $7,300 and the amount was paid. The valuation was later reduced to $6,700, which made the amount of the bill $12 less.

The following building permits were granted:

Four dwellings on Chatham street, two and one-half story; frame construction; owner, Andrew H. Wilson.

Two dwellings on Chatham street, two and one-half story frame construction; owner, Allen Coddington.

Two dwellings in Watchung avenue, two and one-half story frame construction; owner, Augustus Mobus.

Carpenter shop at 174 Grove street, one story frame construction; owner, T. J. Freeman.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

CHRISTMAS NUT CAKES.

AMONG the many small cakes suitable for Christmas parties or for children's delight nut cakes are always popular.

Fairy Nut Cakes.—Take half a cupful of butter and cream it with a cupful and a half of sugar. Add the yolks of two eggs and beat all together. Sift two cupfuls of flour into which has been stirred a teaspoonful and a half of baking powder. Add to the butter, sugar and eggs a cupful of milk and then the flour. At the last stir in a cupful of chopped pecan or hickory nuts and fold in the whites of the eggs whipped to a stiff froth. Bake in small pans. Ice and sprinkle chopped nuts thickly over the icing.

Nut Medleys.

Walnut Cakes.—To one pint of the nuts, measured after they are shelled, allow one cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of butter, three eggs, a pinch of salt, one fourth cupful of sweet milk and flour enough to make a dough. Beat the batter to a cream and mix thoroughly with the sugar. Add the well beaten eggs, the milk and the salt with a little of the flour. Then stir in the nuts, which have been shelled and passed through the meat chopper and mix in the remaining flour. Roll out lightly, cut into shapes, sprinkle with granulated sugar and bake in a moderately hot oven.

Hickory Nut Wafers.—To each egg allow one-quarter cupful of butter, one cupful of sugar and one cupful of the chopped hickory nuts. Beat the butter and sugar to a cream, then add the well beaten eggs and the flour with a pinch of salt. Stir in the hickory nut meats, drop in small spoonfuls on buttered paper, flatten a little with the back of the spoon and bake in a moderate oven.

To Keep Indefinitely.

Pepper Nuts. These keep indefinitely and so may be made in quantity. Cream together one cupful of butter, one of lard and two of brown sugar. Add three eggs one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Now add the spices—one grated nutmeg, two teaspoonfuls of cinnamon and two of anised, one teaspoonful of ground cloves, four spoonfuls whole coriander, one cupful chopped almonds and an eighth chopped citron. Next add four cupfuls of molasses with which has been mixed two teaspoonfuls of soda dissolved in a little warm water and four teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar, using flour to make a stiff dough. Bake in a quick oven to a light brown.

Anna Thompson.

Every Red Cross Christmas Seal is a bullet in the fight against tuberculosis.

How did the Christmas stamp originate is a question frequently asked of anti-tuberculosis workers. This is its history. On a letter received five years ago from Denmark Jacob Riis discovered a new and unknown stamp, which aroused his curiosity. Inquiries brought its story which he related a few months later in the Outlook. The secretary of the Delaware Red Cross branch read this story, and asked permission to use a similar stamp for the benefit of anti-tuberculosis work. The Christmas stamp was tried for the first time that year, 1907, in Delaware, and it proved so successful that it has since become a national stamp. However, no one could discover how the Danish stamps had come into use, whether the idea was original with the workers in Copenhagen or had been copied from some other work, and true origin did not come to light until the Tuberculosis Congress, when the report on Swedish tuberculosis work read, "The honor of having invented the Charity Stamp must be given to America—that land of inventions. In the year 1862 the first Charity Stamps were sold at a great charity festival in Boston. These stamps which were called 'Sanitary Fair Stamps' were sold to benefit the wounded in the war then proceeding between the northern and southern States. The idea was not adopted in Europe until thirty years later, when in 1892 Portugal produced the first Charity Stamps (private stamps for the Red Cross Society). Since then almost every country in Europe has used them, and several hundred different types have been called into existence." So after all the honor of having first thought of such a splendid scheme for raising money for charity is due to our own great Sanitary Commission.

No package too big to carry the Christmas Seal and none too small to be without one.

In view of the decision of the Plainfield League to establish an open-air school for children in Plainfield, the following statistics are especially interesting. With the opening of the school term this fall over 200 open-air schools and fresh air classes for tuberculous or anaemic children began operation in various parts of the United States. All of these schools have been established since January, 1907, when the first institution of the sort was opened in Providence, R. I. On January 1, 1910, there were only 13 open-air schools, and a year later the number was only 29. Thus, the real growth of this movement has been within the last two years. Massachusetts now leads the States with 86 fresh air schools and classes for anaemic, tuberculous and other school children, Boston alone having eighty. New York comes next with twenty-nine and Ohio is third with 21. Altogether such schools have been established in fifty cities in 19 different States.

Based on figures of population and mortality furnished by the U. S. Census Bureau, it is estimated that not less than 100,000 children now in school in the United States will die of tuberculosis before they are eighteen years of age, and that about 7,000 of these children die annually from this one disease. Estimating that on an average each child who dies from tuberculosis has had six years of schooling, the aggregate loss to the country in wasted education each year amounts to well over $1,000,000. This loss and much of the incident suffering could be materially decreased if open-air schools or classes for these children and for all those who are sickly and anaemic were provided. The National Association estimates that there should be one such school for every 25,000 population, sepecially in cities.

PRIEST CONDEMNS 'GATE SWINGERS'

Father Dietrich Makes Vigorous Speech at St. Joseph's Parish Entertainment.

Condemning all gossipers "gate-swingers," as he called them, Father William F. Dietrich, of Bound Brook, made a stirring speech last night to the members of St. Joseph's parish in Debele's Hall. He branded them as a detriment to the progress of the human race. The speaker's rebuke to those who spend one-half of their lives in telling Mrs. Jones what terrible things they know of Mr. Brown and Miss White was an incident of an appeal to the parishioners to contribute to the fund being raised by the Woman's Club of the church for the silver jubilee to be held in honor of Father Miller in the near future.

The Bound Brook priest paid great tribute to Father Miller and the work he has done during the last twenty years. He said that in his many years of experience as a churchman, he had never met a nobler and more perfect character than that possessed by the North Plainfield priest. He has done wonderful work throughout his career, said Father Dietrich, never having a thought for himself and thinking always toward the betterment of his parish. He had often gone to extremes, the speaker asserted, in order to save a little here and there, and it is the opinion of his fellows that his present ill-health is due in large part to his utter unselfishness; therefore he was deserving of a substantial as well as a verbal appreciation of his work. "He's so chuck full of enthusiasm that you can't keep him down," was one of the characteristical remarks of Father Dietrich in reference to his brother priest. The speaker appealed as a life-long friend to do their duty in their work for Father Miller and he told the audience that never could it repay the pastor who has worked so unselfishly and loyally for his people.

Father Dietrich's address was the last number on a program planned by the reception committee, headed by Mrs. A. E. Kenney, of the Woman's Club. For variety and excellence it was superb. A quartet composed of Mrs. Harry DeMeza, soprano; Miss Justinian Smith, alto; Alfred E. LaPorte, tenor, and James E. Bailey, bass, gave two delightful selections. Master Charles Paguler contributed a song and clog dance. The youngster did well. Dr. O'Sullivan, of New Brunswick, sang "Just a Song at Twilight," and finished his efforts with a rousing song entitled "Mother McCree."

Between four and five hundred persons enjoyed the program. The event was given in honor of the men in the church and they turned out for the evening's festivities in large numbers. A bevy of pretty girls assisted in serving the refreshments and in making the evening the more joyous. Palms and evergreens decorated the large assembly room.

The treasurer of the Women's Club reported that there was $275 available at the present time to cover the expenses of the coming jubilee.

PLEA FOR PROHIBITION BY SWACKHAMER

Urges Support of Bill to Prevent Liquor Being Shipped into "Dry" Territory.

The baneful effects of the drink habit on the human race the dire need of prohibition legislation were pointed out by former Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer last night in a speech delivered before the Men's Association of Warren chapel. The subject that he was to speak on was "The Functions of the Courts in the Republic," but did not keep to his text.

"A world movement for the extermination of the drink evil," he said, "is at this moment in progress and an international prohibition conference and Anti-Alcoholic Congress is set to be held at Milan, Italy, in nineteen hundred and thirteen. On the fifth of November last, in West Virginia, an election was held and the voters of that State went ninety one thousand majority for State wide prohibition. In the fall elections Woman Suffrage carried in four States of the Union against the beak and claw opposition of the saloon interests, and now comes the Attorney General of the State of Kansas with a statement which must put to death and utterly annihilate the false and groundless contention of the liquor interests that probibition does not prohibit. Here is a cold blooded bill of particulars from a cold blooded officer of the law.

"On the sixteenth of this month a bill to amend the Inter-State Commerce law so as to prevent manufacturers and wholesale dealers from shipping their liquors into dry territory will be the special order of the United States Senate and pressure from all parts of the country will be brought to bear in furtherence of this measure. If this bill is passed the fight against the rum power in America will be two-thirds won.

"If public spirited citizens promptly appeal by letter or telegram to their representatives including the President of the United States, there will be enacted at Trenton and at Washington this year legislation that will set the people free and enable them to protect the boys and girls from the blithing, withering curse of the traffic in strong drink. There should be imperative demand for a local option law at Trenton and the Kenyon-Shephard Law at Washington. It is needless to point out the duty of the Christian church at this junction."

RUTGERS SOPHOMORES HELD ANNUAL DANCE

Harry B. Jackson, of this city, is chairman of the sophomore hop committee at Rutgers College, which gave its first dance of the season last night in the Ballantine Gymnasium at New Brunswick. In connection with last night's affair all of the college fraternities will hold house parties until tomorrow morning.

Many of the chapter houses will hold informal dances this evening. The major part of the New Brunswick Opera House has been engaged for this afternoon. A number of young people from this city will be guests of the fraternities during the week-end festivities.

E. A. OVERTON DYING; FAMILY AT BEDSIDE

Edward A. Overton, of Rockview avenue, North Plainfield, is critically ill at his home on Rockview avenue, and the physicians give no hope for his recovery. Mr. Overton was taken ill about three weeks ago and since then has been unable to leave the house. All of the members of the family have been summoned to his bedside.

Mr. Overton has been a resident of the borough for many years, and for the past fifty years has been engaged in business as a Custom House broker, the firm name being E. A. Overton & Co. He has always taken an active interest in borough affairs and has served as a member of the Board of Education.

ANOTHER JUDGEMENT AGAINST C. B. BROKAW

In addition to the judgment for $2,500 awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Noble Beatty, of Elizabeth, against Clarence B. Brokaw, of the Brokaw Automobile Company, this city, another judgment of a smaller amount has been secured against Mr. Brokaw in the District court, Elizabeth, by the Diamond Rubber Company, and Constable Oliver Conin yesterday had an order restraining him for a year from satisfying the judgment by making a sale on acount of the proceedings.

The $2,500 judgment was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Beatty as a result of injuries Mrs. Beatty received when run down in Elizabeth by Mr. Brokaw's automobile last February. Recently the company, of which Mr. Brokaw is a member, went into bankruptcy.

New York, Dec. 7.—Just one minute after the stroke of 12 tomorrow night nearly a score of sturdy-limbed cycle riders will start on their weekless grind around the saucer track in Madison Square Garden. Pat Powers and Harry Pollock, who conducted the 6-day event for more than 15 years, have retired from the game, but the new manager, John M. Chapman, the Newark promoter, has succeeded in bringing together as fast a lot of pedal-pushers as ever competed in this city. The well known teams included in the entries are Eddie Root, of New York, and Paddy Hehir, of Australia; Frank Kramer, of New Jersey, and Jimmy Moran, of Boston; Joe Fogler, of Brooklyn, and Walter Rutt, of Germany; Oscar Egg, the long distance champion of Europe, and Andre Pertchicot, the champion sprint rider of France; Maurice Brocco, of Italy, and Marcel Berthet, of France; Alvin Loftes, of Sweden, and Angelo Gardellini, of Italy, and the Suter brothers, of Switzerland.

The race this year is to be contested under harder conditions than ever prevailed before. Through various changes that have been made in the rules, there will be 142 hours of riding and no time taken out for accidents to riders or wheels. Riders who "stall" for a rest when the going is hard and they are tired will be penalized for every lap they lose while off the track.

Johnny Dundee has been offered $1,200 to meet George Kirkwood in New York Dec. 10.

Champion Willie Ritchie's real name is Geary Stoffen. He is of German descent and is 21 years old.

Boxing promoters in Paris are finding it a hard job to sign a scrapper to meet Bill Papke.

A majority of the fight fans are of the opinion that Ad Wolgast never will be able to regain the lightweight championship.

Fritz Holland, the clever Spokane middleweight, is having more trouble with his hands, forcing him to remain idle for some time.

For the second time Willie Ritchie's manager, Billy Nolan, has produced a lightweight champion. Nolan was formerly the manager of Battling Nelson.

All arrangements have been completed for the 20-round bout between Owen Moran and Jim Driscoll, scheduled to take place in London, Eng., January 27.

Boxing was resumed in Grand Rapids the other night for the first time in five years, or since the Harry Lewis-Mike Ward bout, when Ward died.

Tom Sharkey, who used to exchange wallops with the best of the heavyweights, is about to forsake New York for San Diego, Cali., where he will open a hotel.

PUNTS AND PUNCHES

Eddie McGoffty, of Oshkosh, Wisconsin, looks like the final choice for first place in the middleweight circles as a result of his clean point victory over St. Paul Gibbons.

Champion Johnny Kilbane wants to eliminate the whole Attel family from pugilistic endeavors. The other night he mussed up Abe's kid brother Monte so badly that the little fellow quit in the seventh round of a scheduled ten round bout in Cleveland.

C. Webb Murphy is still a National League magnate. They had better punish him "a la Fogel."

We wonder that ex-Champ Wolgast realizes in his persistent efforts at securing a return match with King Willie Ritchie that he himself refused absolutely to accommodate Bat Nelson after their fiasco two seasons ago?

Russell Lawrence Beatty, former Leal's star, is one of the dozen men retained by Manager Harry Fisher on the Columbia University basketball squad.

Walter Camp seems to have overlooked Gillette, the wonderful little Wisconsin quarterback who made such a sensational showing in the Western Conference. Gillette was one of the best open-field runners and defensive players on the American gridiron during the past season.

FOOTBALL "GRITS"

Once again the Vanderbilt University eleven wins the football championship of the South.

After getting away to a miserable start the Pennsylvania eleven "came back" and defeated Michigan, Carlisle and Cornell.

Brown defeated Pennsylvania 30 to 7, Pennsylvania stung Carlisle 34 to 26 and Carlisle smothered Brown 32 to 0. What's the answer?

The Penn State eleven has not been beaten in the last two years, its nearest approach to defeat being the 0-0 game with the Navy last season.

Citizens of Everett, Mass., the home of Charley Brickley, of Harvard, will honor the clever football player with a complimentary banquet Dec. 17.

The chances are that the last football game has been played on the old Yale Field at New Haven. Next year the Elis will perform in the new $500,000 stadium.

In case Michigan returns to the Western Conference games with Penn, Cornell and Syracuse will have to be cut out of the Wolverines' schedule, on account of the Conference rule against intersectional games.

Just an even dozen Harvard men have scored touchdowns against Yale since touchdowns counted in the score. The list includes: "Bert" Holden in 1886; C. A. Porter in 1887; Dudley S. Dean and James P. Lee in 1890; J. J. Hayes in 1894; W. T. Reid twice in 1898; Ben H. Dibblee in 1898; Crawford Blagden, A. W. Ristine and Tom H. Graydon in 1901, and Bob Storer and Charley Brickley in 1912.

AJAX BASKETBALL SCHEDULED TONIGHT

Two Speedy Games on the Card at the Association Gymnasium Tonight.

Another double bill of basketball is booked for the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium tonight and both of the games are due to be the kind that keeps enthusiasm at a high ebb from start to finish. In the preliminary bill the Mohawk A. C. will line up against the Company K five and as these teams have both established formidable records on the court this season, the outcome is watched with no little degree of interest by the followers of the two contestants.

In the main attraction, the Ajax will play their old rivals, the Grace church five. A game was scheduled between these two teams earlier in the season but because of some misunderstanding on the part of the church aggregation it was deferred to a later date. Both of the contestants are in the best of condition for the game and barring any accidents at Passaic this afternoon where three of the Y. M. C. A. are playing with the High School team the game ought to be a close one. Grace will lineup as follows: Clarke, Ricketts, forwards; Lidgate, center; H. VanZant, E. VanZant, guards. The Ajax will present their regular lineup as follows: Peacock, McNamee, forwards; Dunning, center; Brynarski, Hetfield, Glover, guards.

PLAINFIELD TEAM WINS QUOIT SERIES

Local Pitcher's Take all of the Seven Games Played With Columbia Lodge.

The annual quoit tournament held under the auspices of the several lodges of the Ancient Order of United Workmen was started on its season's routine last night at the Exempt Firemen's Hall. The contestants in the initial contest were the Central and Columbia Lodges, the former winning all of the seven games played. Although the winners secured a clean slate for the evening they had to exhibit their best form in most of the sets in order to overcome the consistent pitching of the Columbia team.

L. D. Spicer and E. M. Mosher composed the winning aggregation, while John Calder, William Lambert, Warren Townley, Richard Kinney and Peter Doeringer upheld the colors of the Columbia fraternity. The following scores were made, all in favor of Central: 22 to 6, 21 to 4, 21 to 4, 22 to 6, 21 to 3, 21 to 10, and 21 to 10.

December 12 is the date scheduled for the next series of games and the Elizabeth team will play the Centrals in this city.

AJAX SCORE DEFEAT OVER BATTIN HIGH

Rough Game on the Elizabeth Court Gives the Ajax Their Seventh Win.

Playing the kind of basketball that is seldom seen on a Y. M. C. A. court the Ajax quintet of the local association defeated the Battin High School on the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. court yesterday afternoon by the score of 39 to 32. After the first few minutes of play the Ajax, who have not met with a reverse this season, were brought to realize that they had a stiff proposition on their hands as the county seat aggregation set the pace for the greater part of the way. Taking the lead at the jump off the home five never relinquished their advantage until the second period was well under way and then the Ajax came through with one of their famous spurts that swept the leaders into the rear.

Battin High had played but one previous game to the one with the Ajax, but the quality of basketball they are capable of displaying can be fully determined from the fact that they defeated the Hasbrook Institute team, of Jersey City, to the tune of 30 to 15 last week. Nor was their playing yesterday of the slow variety, for they proved unusually fine aggressors and had the Ajax not displayed their bewildering attack at the eleventh hour, the final count might have been very different. Battin is accustomed to a mixture of college and Amateur Athletic Union rules and the style of play which was allowed by the Battin officials made it exceedingly difficult for the Plainfield basket cagers to gain any kind of an advantage without scrapping for it tooth and nail. Fouling was resorted to by both contestants although the home team plainly assumed the role of instigator and displayed the fact that they were well used to putting up a scrappy article of basketball, particularly so after their opponents took the lead.

During the first half the only Plainfield men to cage field goals were Peacock and Glover, the former getting two and the latter one, and these, together with a brace of foul goals by Brynarski brought the score up to 12 to 8 in favor of Battin at the end of the first half. Peacock put up an excellent game for the association lads and besides bearing up a large portion of the scoring burden he did some excellent guarding and passing. For the losers Heileck played the star part and seemed to be all over the floor at the same time.

CHAPEL QUINTETS WIN TWO GAMES

Junior Chapelites Come Out Ahead in a Pair of Closely Contested Games.

Two speedy games of junior basketball were decided on the Hope chapel court last night, the Hope Cubs defeated the Jefferson School five by the score of 18 to 14, and the Hope Boys Club handed out a 27 to 18 beating to the Whittier School five, of Dunellen. Both games proved to be close and exciting exhibitions of junior basketball skill and the outcome of each was in doubt until the final whistle sounded.

In the Cub contest the score stood 13 to 13 at the end of the second half, and the captains agreed to play five minutes overtime in order to secure a decisive score. During the extra period "Midget" Heron dropped in a brace of goals from the foul line and a field goal which in the end spelled victory for the Chapelites.

COMPANY K BASKETBALL TEAM AGAIN VICTORIOUS

In a game featured by some rapid team work and classy shooting the Company K basketball team defeated the Mt. Pleasant A. C. at the armory last night by the score of 39 to 3. Although the score was decidedly in favor of the home team the visiting guards put up a good game although handicapped by the condition of the armory floor which is not particularly adapted to the indoor game.

TEAM TO REPRESENT P. H. S, AGAINST PASSAIC

Among those picked to represent the Plainfield High School on the basketball court at Passaic this afternoon are three members of the Y. M. C. A. Ajax basketball team and one Hope Chapel player. A quartet of the Ajax have been trying for positions on the scholastic five but because of ineligibility in scholarship only three will be taken to Passaic. Hetfield, Brynarski and Peacock. Johnny Heron, of the Hope Chapel team, will hold down the forward berth with Hetfield as his running mate. Good will play center, and Peacock and Brynarski have been assigned to guard berths

BASKETBALL AT HOPE CHAPEL.

As their opponents on their home court tonight the Hope chapel basketball team will have the strong Scotch Plains Baptist quintet. In the former meeting of these two amateur fives the chapelites nosed out ahead after the stiffest kind of a struggle and the Plains aggregation is out to avenge the defeat at this meeting.

AJAX, NOT HIGH SCHOOL.

An error on the part of the Barringer High School basketball manager caused the publication of the Plainfield High School team as an opponent to the Newark High School in their opening court battle. It is the Y. M. C. A. and not the High School team that will line up against Barringer on December 16.

BOWLING CONTESTS.

Sam Rothberg's Haberdashers will bowl against the Westfields on Wednesday night, on the Theatre alleys in Westfield. The Plainfield pin men will oppose an all-star aggregation on Friday, Dec. 20, selected by Manager Walters, of the Plainfield bowling alleys. The Plainfield lineup will be as follows: Thompson, Evans, Miller, Radin and Britton. Montross and Handerbelt will be carried as reserve men.

AN ORDINANCE

To Amend an Ordinance Entitled, "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield, with Permanent and Durable Macadam Pavement, and to Provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," Approved May 10, 1912, and to Ratify the Sale and Delivery of $18,000 Street Improvement Bonds of the City of Plainfield.

WHEREAS, by an Ordinance entitled "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of certain streets and portions of streets of the City of Plainfield, with permanent and durable macadam pavement, and to provide the necessary funds in advance of the collection of assessments for benefits," approved May 10 1912, the Common Council of the City of Plainfield authorized the issuance of $18,000 coupon bonds of the City of Plainfield of the denomination of $1,000, to be dated June 1, 1912, payable three years from the date thereof, and to bear interest at the rate of five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, with the option to the City to redeem or pay off said bonds or any one or more of them at any time after one year from the date thereof and before three years from the date thereof; and

WHEREAS, by resolutions adopted by the Common Council on August 5, 1912 and approved August 12, 1912, it was provided that said bonds should be dated July 1, 1912, and said bonds were offered for sale on September 3, 1912, and sold and delivered pursuant to said resolutions;

NOW THEREFORE the Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

"Section 3. That for the purpose of obtaining money by the sale of bonds hereinafter specified for the permanent improvement of said streets and parts of streets as aforesaid, in advance of the collection of assessments for benefits, to an amount not exceeding fifteen dollars per capita for each of the inhabitants of said City according to the last official census, but not for more than the amount limited by law, the Common Council of said City do hereby, pursuant to the Act of the Legislature of said State entitled "An Act to authorize the Improvement of streets and highways in cities of this State, and to provide for the payment of the expense of the same, and for the assessment of the benefits of such improvements upon the land and real estate benefited thereby," and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, authorize the issuing of eighteen coupon municipal bonds of the City of Plainfield of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000) each, and amounting in all to Eighteen Thousand Dollars ($18,000), which bonds shall be dated July 1, 1912, and shall bear interest at the rate of five per centum (5 per cent.) per annum payable semi-annually, and be payable three years from the date thereof, with the option to the City to redeem or pay off the said bonds, or any one or more of them, at any time after one year from the date thereof and before three years from the date thereof, giving personal notice to said holders of said bonds or thirty (30) days' notice by advertisement in the official newspapers of the City of the intention to make such redemption or payment, which bonds shall be signed by the Mayor and bear the corporate seal of the City and be attested by the City Clerk, and may severally or collectively when ordered by resolution of the Common Council be sold for an amount not less than par value; and there shall be raised by tax in each year hereafter such sum of money as may be necessary to pay the interest on all outstanding bonds and the principal of such bonds as may mature during that year, and the money derived from the assessments upon the property benefited shall, when collected, be held as a fund toward the payment of said bonds."

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

The good old days are vividly brought to mind by a visit to see "School Days," where the exuberance of youth is realistically portrayed in divers manner by a company of juvenile artists who are said to possess more than ordinary talent. There is no lamp so cheering to the benightened traveler as that shed by the mirth of Nonnie, Biff and Josy as they cavort merrily around the stage, with the feminine peaches laughing at the trio of funmakers and joining them in the music and mirth making at the Plainfield theatre this afternoon and evening.

Laugh and the world laughs with you is an old adage and its truth has been exemplified time after time during the career of "Excuse Me," the farce of the "Pullman Car," written by Rupert Hughes which Henry W. Savage will offer at the Plainfield theatre Tuesday night, December 10. There are ten laughs a minute in every performance and as there are one hundred and fifty minutes of actual playing time in every performance that means that every audience who see "Excuse Me" laugh fifteen hundred times. "Excuse Me" is now three years old in which period the three companies who have played it most of that time have given nearly three thousand performances to more than three million people which makes a total of four billion five hundred million laughs which have been caused by Mr. Hughes' farce. The company which will be seen here is almost without exception the players who originated the roles of "Excuse Me" and played them for over one solid year at the Gaiety theatre, New York. Of course, Willis P. Sweatnam as the porter of the Pullman car in which all the scenes of the play are laid heads the cast and every one who has ever seen him in this role, or as "Sassafras Livingston" in George Ade's famous comedy "The County Chairman" will immediately begin to chuckle in anticipation of the laughing he will cause in a part with such possibilities.

If the object of all amusements is to please the eye and delight the ear, these objects are completely realized in the marvelous production known as "The Miracle," which will be on exhibition in the Plainfield theatre on December 13 and 14. There is swift and rapid action interspersed with an exquisite and noble gallery of pictures, all of which were secured by holding the cameras up to nature and to nature alone. Not a single scene has been taken in a studio. The story is extremely pathetic and touching and the different episodes strung together on a strong dramatic thread are everyone of them triumphs of the film maker's art. A special prologue before the pictures open and a remarkable and impressive musical score form the added features of this production.

The merry musical importation, "Alma, Where Do You Live?" is scheduled to appear at the Plainfield theatre on Christmas Day, afternoon and evening. The piece is said to be one of the most exquisite musical farces that was ever brought to this country, and its melodies are of the humming and whistling kind. The book is by Paul Herne, the music by Jean Briquet and the English translation was made by George V. Hobart. The most alluring waltz runs through the entire play, in fact the whole city of New York has been whistling the catchy music of the piece for the last year where the play has a record run of 500 nights.

Al H. Wilson, the German dialect comedian and singer, who will soon appear here, has composed four new songs for his latest comedy which is called, "It Happened In Potsdam," and they are said to be the most tuneful this pleasing artist has ever presented. The titles are "Loves Me Loves Me Not," "My Lady Fair," "Loves of Bygone Days," and "The Twilight Call." And in addition he introduces several of his old time favorites. The play also is new and follows original lines in the unfolding of a clever mirth-provoking story. The company includes such well-known artists as Laura Lemmers, Marjoria Dalton, Jessie Lansing, Jeannette Carroll, W. A. Howell, and a host of other talented players.

HONOR BARONESS VON SUTTNER.

New York, Dec. 7.—The New York Peace Society has completed elaborate preparations for a dinner to be given at the Hotel Astor on Monday evening in honor of the Baroness Bertha von Suttner, of Vienna, recipient in 1905 of the Nobel Peace prize. Among those who have accepted invitations to speak at the dinner are Andrew Carnegie, Joseph H. Choate, President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University, and Mrs. Anna Garlin Spencer.

FAMOUS RESORT AT AUCTION.

New York, Dec. 7.—The Lakewood Hotel at Lakewood, N. J., one of the best known hotels in America, was put up for sale at public auction today as a result of a dissolution of partnership. The hotel was built about fifteen years ago by a group of New York capitalists headed by Nathan Straus. More than $1,000,000 was expended on the building and furnishings. It is rumored that the State of New Jersey may acquire the structure for a school or other public institution.

The Christmas of the Player-Piano

RID your mind of any prejudice it may harbor against the player-piano because of fancied mechanical limitations.

This is going to be the Christmas of the player-piano—the greatest of modern accomplishments in the musical field..

There are signs that people are awakening to a proper appreciation of its wonderful possibilities.

The light of Christmas morning will uncover fewer silent pianos in the home than ever before.

The instrument that has wrought this tremendous change in the public attitude is

The Angelus

It does not seem as if there remained anything for the world to invent in the field of music to improve upon the 1912 ANGELUS.

While piano-players constructed in imitation of the ANGELUS—the original piano-player—have remained automatic or are inconveniently involved, the ANGELUS makes it easy for any one to play any music just as he or she would like to hear it played.

A touch of one finger—and the melody is brought out clear and distinct from the accompaniment.

A touch of another finger—the music grows fast and faster.

A touch of another finger—and the music instantly slows down.

The ANGELUS is you.

The finer portion of your life—of the life of your home.

The incarnation of your conception of music.

Ready to do your bidding, instantly, exactly as you wish it done, upon the slightest indication, instinctively expressed through your finger tips, of just what it is you want it to do.

The final seal of approval of the ANGELUS was set one year ago, when the piano of greatest age and honor in America, the CHICKERING—which up to that time had refused to associate itself with any piano-playing mechanism—joined hands with the ANGELUS as a piano-player "worthy of the trust" of its priceless heritage.

Prior to that, the ANGELUS had been chosen as the best of all playing mechanisms, by the SCHOMACKER, the piano of Presidents; the "sweet-toned EMERSON," the LINDEMAN, and the celebrated KNABE, four of the six oldest and most honored pianos in America.

And now we have the

CHICKERING-ANGELUS
EMERSON-ANGELUS
LINDEMAN-ANGELUS

SCHOMACKER-ANGELUS
and the celebrated
KNABE-ANGELUS

the greatest player-pianos, each in its class, the world has yet produced.

This is going to be the Christmas of the player-piano—of the ANGELUS. Come and learn the reason why.

ALL THE CITY'S ILLS ARE NAMED

Rev. Mr. Goodrich Reads Answers to Questions He Asked Business Men.

ONE WRITER ALARMED

Conditions, He Says, Are Tending to Make Plainfield Dive and Saloon Center—The Commuter as a Municipal Fault.

Asserting that if conditions go on unchecked in ten years it will be impossible to elect a reform mayor in Plainfield, and that, as a result, the city will slowly make of itself a dive and saloon center, a prominent citizen of this city has appealed to the business men through the medium of a letter addressed to Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church, to unite and prevent the possibility of such a state of affairs. The letter was one of many sent to Rev. Goodrich in response to questions put by the minister to prominent local business men regarding the "faults, felicities and future" of the city.

It was read with the others yesterday afternoon before the Men's Club of the church. Some of the answers were humorous but many of them challenged serious thought by citizens.

In reply to the query as to what were the city's chief faults, prominent among the answers was "absence of men of parts"—men of exceptional ability and character. Replies of a general, political and spiritual nature were received. One man declared that there were too many golf enthusiasts; another, too many automobiles, and a third, that bridge whist parties were consuming too much valuable time and thought. The writer who condemned bridge observed that there were more people holding "good" than "helping" hands.

Almost every letter voiced a desire to drive out the saloons, terming liquor selling a most serious blot on a city aiming at good government. One prominent pessimist declared that the city finances were not properly administered; that the fire, police and building departments were under very poor management; that the educational system was rank, and that taxes were too high. All were vigorus in their denunciation of the lack of unity and civic organization. Plainfield, some writers wailed, was divided into two castes. One went to New York city, and the other stayed here. Between the two classes was a dire lack of respect and esteem. They would not unite and were continually "knocking" each other. The New York commuter was self-important, said one writer; he belonged to a certain social class and saw no need for improvement in civic affairs.

One of the crying needs as expressed in many of the communications was the awakening of interest by the New York business man in the needs, affairs and interests of the city.

To the question as to whether Plainfield had an aim, the writers were unanimous in stating that there was an aim here, but very few knew what that aim might be. Some said that the city stood for a clean, constructive, law-abiding community; others, that it stood for a good home and school center. One humorist replied to this question, "Ask Pat Reilly;" another that it ought to be a place of rest and refreshment for New York business men.

Among the suggestions presented for the improvement of the city were the following: Tunnel connection with New York, a more perfect system of sewerage, the installation of a sewer system in the borough, advertisement of the city in New York papers, a Common Council that would administer to the needs of the populace, economy in city expenditures, and last, but oh, far from least, was the need of a greater number of desirable people.

The meeting was attended by a large number of local business men who were interested in the plans of improvements offered in the letters.

A plan for the federation of the city Men's Clubs which was adopted last week at a union meeting was accepted by the Congregational Men's Club through a motion presented by Dr. Frank L. Clawson.

MISS DORTHY BECOMES MRS. ALBERT GLASER

Couple Wedded in New Home—Leave on An Extended Trip.

Miss Helen May Dorthy, daughter of Mrs. Ella Marden Dorthy, of this city, and Albert Julius Glaser, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Glaser, of New York, were married at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the new home of the couple, 1243 Lenox avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, in the presence of about fifty relatives and friends.

The bride was gowned in white messaline, trimmed with chiffon. She wore a tulle veil and carried a bouquet of bride roses. Miss Marian J. Dorthy, sister of the bride, was the bridemaid. She wore a gown of pink crepe de chine, trimmed with chiffon and she carried a shower bouquet of Killarney roses. The best man was Charles Johnson, of New York City. The wedding march was played by Miss Elsie Knowlton, an intimate friend of the bride.

Following the ceremony a reception was held. Supper was served. The home was decorated with Southern smilax. One corner of the parlor, where the ceremony was performed, was banked with palms and smilax.

Early in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Glaser left on an extended wedding trip, during which they will stop at Atlantic City, Washington, Old Point Comfort and other points of interest in the south. They will be at home after January 1 at 1243 Lenox avenue. The bride received a large number of gifts, including silverware, cut glass and china. Mrs. Glaser is a graduate of the Plainfield High School, class of '08. Mr. Glaser is the purchasing agent of the Levgar Structural Steel Works.

An interesting feature was the presence of the bridegroom's four brothers and two sisters, all of whom are married, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Glaser, Sr. Mrs. H. J. Marden, of Newton, Mass., grandmother of the bride, was present. Mr. Glaser's sisters and brothers are Mrs. W. O. Akerstrom, of New York; Mrs. Charles Kellner and George Glaser, of Jersey City; William Glaser, Jr., of Dumont; Henry Glaser, of Bayonne, and Arthur Glaser, of Long Island.

BABY SHOW WAS HOWLING SUCCESS

Forty-eight Entries Challenge Skill and Courage of the Judges.

EIGHT PRIZES AWARDED

Exciting Popular Contest to Demonstrate Which is the Most Popular Baby—Jeanette Claussen Is a Big Point Winner.

Forty-eight entries were judged Saturday afternoon in Plainfield's first baby show, held at the Congregational church. The show was held under the auspices of the Women's Guild and when the final aspirant for first honors had passed from under the judge's hands and eyes all present voted it a "howling" success. Mrs. H. V. Hubbard, chairman of the committee in charge, handled the afternoon's entertainment like a high experienced show director.

When the call sounded for the opening class at 3 o'clock the spectator's stands were crowded with the enthusiasts. A few mothers exhibited their offspring in decorated stalls while the rest were content to hold the infants in their arms until the various numbers were called by the announcer. As each number was megaphoned, the babies were carried by the stand of the three judges, Mrs. Phillip Suffren and the Misses Ethel Miller and Myra Emmons, whose decisions were the final choices in all but the "most popular" baby class. That was the feature event on the program and was decided by the vote of those present. The ballots were sold at one cent apiece.

When all of the slips were counted it was discovered that Miss Harriet Billington Hubbard, number 11 on the card, had title to the first prize, a sterling comb and brush set. The total vote cast for the winner in this event was 1,352. Second prize went to Miss Jeanette Clawson. Incidently Miss Clawson was the big point winner of the afternoon, carrying away prizes in the "most popular," "most attractive," and "largest under one year" classes.

Eight valuable trophies were awarded the winners of the published six events. Entries closed on Friday and as a result only thirty-five names appeared on the program, the remaining thirteen registered after the time limit. The system of balloting for the most popular baby was fraught with liveliness because the votes were secured by purchase. At the start competition was intense in this classic, but Miss Hubbard finally pulled away and won by over five hundred votes.

After the closing of the ballot box at 4 o'clock a program of songs and recitations was presented by the Misses Elizabeth Martin, Pauline Gates, Amanda Van Tassel, Edith Bechtel, and Ethel Van Zandt. This was followed by the awarding of the show prizes.

The rooms were decorated with baby pink and blue crepe paper and vases of white roses. A sale of baby articles was held in conjunction with the show. The tea room in which the things were sold was decorated in blue and green. The proceeds were for the benefit of the church and the amount secured exceeded all expectations.

The prizes were awarded as follows:

1st prize for most popular baby—Won by Harriet B. Hubbard, comb and brush set.

1st prize for most attractive baby—Won by Jeanette Clawson, gold studs.

1st prize for the smallest baby—Won by Donald Wilfred Davis, record book.

1st prize for the youngest baby—Won by Donald Wilfred Davis, Sterling rattle.

NO ONE IS SLATED FOR POSTMASTERSHIP

Martine and Tuttle So Wire Setting at Rest Rumor.

A report gained circulation on Saturday that former Assemblyman Calvin E. Brodhead was slated for the postmastership, to succeed Elias H. Bird when the latter's term expires a year and a half hence. The story went that United States Senator James E. Martine and Congressman William E. Tuttle had agreed to send in the name of Brodhead to Woodrow Wilson when he takes his office as President. The wise-ones among the local Democrats were sure that it was "all fixed" and that thereby the hopes of P. J. Reville and a score of other candidates for the job were blasted.

The Daily Press today wired Senator Martine and this is the reply sent by him from Washington:

"Plainfield Daily Press:

"No one is slated for postmastership at Plainfield.

"JAMES E. MARTINE."

A flash was also sent to Congressman Tuttle and this afternoon this reply was received:

"Plainfield Daily Press:

"Present postmaster's term expires in April, 1914. There has been no consideration of candidates yet. I haven't heard of Brodhead's candidacy.

"W. E. TUTTLE."

MRS. CRONEY SUES UNDER LIABILITY ACT

Asks That Mosquito Commission Be Directed to Pay $5 Weekly.

Mrs. Victoria Croney, widow of George Croney, the former employe of the Union County Mosquito Commission who died on November 11, following injuries received on September 30, while working for the commission, has, through her counsel, filed papers with Judge E. S. Atwater in a suit against the commission to recover under the provisions of the Employers' Liability Act, on the basis of $5 a week for 300 weeks. The hearing is set for Friday, January 3.

Mrs. Croney has petitioned the compensation at the rate set forth in the Employers' Liability Act, and unless there should arise a question of the liability of the commission, there will be no suit. Mr. Croney lived in this city and the accident which resulted in his death occurred in New Providence.

AFTER SMALL BOYS WHO SET CAT-TRAPS

S. P. C. A. Agent and Game Warden Join in Search for Offenders.

The attempt of small boys and others to bring about a wholesale destruction of cats through the use of steel traps, has aroused Mrs. S. G. Van Hoesen, the local agent for the S. P. C. A. During the past few days she has confiscated eight traps. In one case a pet cat owned by Mrs. Van-Hoesen herself, which she intended exhibiting at the cat show in New York, was held a prisoner by one foot. The cat dragged the trap a considerable distance to a point near its home, where Mrs. Van Hoesen found it in a state of great suffering.

Another trap was found on Evergreen avenue and a third one on Leland avenue. In the former a cat had been confined for two days. Neighbors after considerable difficulty located it and released it. The setting of such traps is against the law and a penalty of $20 is imposed for every trap found. Under certain conditions a person is allowed to set steel traps along brooks for catching muskrats and mink, but on one is permitted to set such a trap anywhere else.

Mrs. Van Hoesen in company with William Hoblitzel, of Rahway, the game warden, made a tour of inspection in Plainfield this morning and steps will be taken to prosecute violators of the law.

E. A. OVERTON IS DEAD AT SEVENTY

For Many Years a Member of North Plainfield School Board.

CUSTOM HOUSE BROKER

Came to the Borough in 1888—Veteran of the Civil War—Funeral Tomorrow Afternoon at Five O'clock.

Edwin A. Overton, aged 70 years, died this morning at his home, 81 Rockview avenue, following an illness of three weeks from a complication of ills. Although Mr. Overton had been in poor health for some time, it was not until three weeks ago that his illness became acute. For several days prior to his death he had been in an unconscious condition.

Mr. Overton was born in New York, where he lived until 1888, in which year he removed to North Plainfield, continuing his residence there until his death. At the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted in Co. B, Twenty-second Regiment, N. Y. Vols., and served throughout the conflict. He afterward became a member of the regimental association and always retained his interest in the progress of the association.

Mr. Overton had a long and successful business career in New York, as a Custom House broker. He was a member of the firm of Overton & Co., of 12 Broad street, which was founded by his father in 1839. After removing to North Plainfield, Mr. Overton became greatly interested in educational affairs, especially in the public schools and for many years was a member of the Board of Education; also serving as its president. He retired because of ill health. While Mr. Overton held no other public office, he always displayed a lively interest in borough affairs. He was an ardent Republiman and a great admirer of President Taft.

He was a member of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and a regular attendant at the services. He possessed a genial disposition, always had a kind word for everyone, and had a decided faculty of making friends.

Surviving beside the widow are three daughters, Miss Katherine W. Overton and Miss Marion Frances Overton, who live at home; Mrs. Alfred Jerome Brown, of New York, and two sons, Fred S. and Edward W. Overton, who also live in Plainfield.

The funeral service will be held at the home at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie officiating. The burial will be in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn, Wednesday morning.

"EXCUSE ME" IS A LAUGH FROM START TO FINISH

Tomorrow night at the Plainfield theatre, the attraction will be a particularly appropriate entertainment for it will be Henry W. Savage's production of Rupert Hughes' famous farce, "Excuse Me," than which there is no funnier play in the world as thousands and thousands of theatregoers have testified at each of the theatres at which it has ever played.

The company is headed by Willis P. Sweatnam, who as a delineator of negro parts is superbly in a class by himself. No one who has seen him as the Pullman car porter in "Excuse Me" can forget the paroxysms he provokes.

"Excuse Me" is a farce made with the sole idea of making people laugh. All its scenes are laid aboard a Pullman car attached to the Overland limited en route from Chicago to Reno, Nevada.

FINGER POISONED.

O. P. Crane, of Westervelt avenue, manager for the Endress Company, is at Muhlenberg Hospital, under treatment for an infected finger. Last week Mr. Crane cut the knuckle of the finger, and not giving the matter prompt attention, blood poisoning developed. On Saturday an operation was performed, and the physician does not expect any further trouble.

CITY CAN'T OBTAIN WATER PLANT BY CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS

In Setting Aside Appointment of Commissioners, Supreme Court Says That One Municipality Cannot Acquire Source of Supply for Several Municipalities and Thereby Create a Monopoly.

Trenton, Dec. 7.—Upon the ground that the city of Plainfield has no right to condemn a water supply which is already devoted in part to the public use of other municipalities, the Supreme Court, today, in an opinion by Justice Swayze, set aside the order appointing commissioners to condemn a portion of the water works of the Plainfield-Union Water Company.

The city of Plainfield sought to condemn a portion of the works of the company formed by the consolidation of the Plainfield Water Supply Company and the Union Water Company, and a portion of the plant of the Plainfield Water Supply Company, as it exists prior to the consolidation including, however, the source of supply.

The Plainfield Union Company, after the condemnation commissioners had been appointed, brought certiorari proceedings to review their appointment. The syllabus of Justice Swayze's opinion, is as follows:

"Contracts between a private water company and municipalities pursuant to statutory authority, not only give the municipalities a right to a supply of water, but create a public duty on the part of the company to supply consumers under proper regulations to be enforced by mandamus by one not already supplied, or by injunction against cutting off a supply already begun.

"The Legislature may authorize one public agency to condemn property already devoted to a public use by another public agency, but the intention to grant such authority must be manifested in express terms or by necessary implication. The Act of April 21, 1876, was not meant to authorize the condemnation either in whole or in part of a water supply plant supplying several municipalities."

The municipalities supplied with water under contracts by the consolidated company are Plainfield, Cranford township, Westfield township, Union township, Roselle borough, Fanwood borough, Garwood borough, Fanwood township, North Plainfield, town of Westfield, Roselle Park borough and Kenilworth borough.

TEMPERATURE REPORT.

After today, the Daily Press contestants will have but twelve business days in which to put forth every effort to secure every vote possible to increase their standing in the list for the three valuable musical instruments offered by this paper, as every ballot must be deposited at this office before 8 o'clock on Saturday night, December 21, to be counted. Many thousands of eyes are watching the race for these splendid prizes, the player-piano, the piano without the player attachment, and the cabinet vitaphone, and to those candidates who secure the necessary results will be awarded these high class musical instruments.

Contestants are urged to report subscriptions as soon as received. Do not hold back subscriptions, as there will positively be no extra votes given or extra prizes offered. Each candidate should make a list of his friends, and as fast as he has seen them, mark them off. But make it a point to see them all.

Don't talk; hustle. Don't believe every fairy tale; there are many such in circulation. Don't expect to get any benefit over a competitor by an interpretation of the rule regarding old and new subscribers which one thinks ought to obtain. All are treated alike in this, as in all other respects. Don't neglect to keep busy. Don't procrastinate, but work. Don't miss one person, for if he does not he will take the Daily Press. Don't get careless or indifferent, but put in the votes and subscriptions as they are gotten and hustle for more. Don't get discouraged, for there are many homes in and about this and nearby towns that no candidate has visited. Get after each one. In short work! work!! work!!! "Say nothing and saw wood." Don't miss the pleasure of being counted in on the finish.

PHILADELPHIA IS AWAITING ARRIVAL OF PETITION TWO MILES LONG ASKING THAT LIBERTY BELL BE SENT TO SAN FRANCISCO

Philadelphia, Dec. 9.—The city authorities of Philadelphia are wondering what they will do with the monster petition that the school children of San Francisco have started in this direction asking that the Liberty Bell be sent to the Golden Gate city for the Panama-Pacific exposition of 1915. Signatures to the petition were obtained by the school children, and when pasted together the strip was two miles long. It was wound on a ruge reel made of California oak and after a parade through the streets of San Francisco was started on its transcontinental journey. The Philadelphia authorities had decided some time ago that the Liberty bell was too precious to be trusted to the dangers of shipment and should never leave Independence Hall again.

Government Jobs Now Open Without Politics

MORE government jobs are open, and the civil service board at Washington, of which General John C. Black is president, has its work cut out for it. This time it is to fill positions that require special training along scientific lines. Radio research, scientific housekeeping and practical dairying are three of the fields of endeavor opened by this latest call to men and women who want to work for Uncle Sam.

Also the bureau of mines needs an assistant versed in radio-activity and kindred chemical research, and in the southwest there are a number of other positions to be filled which require a special knowledge of sanitation and hygiene, home management, laundry, domestic supplies, cooking, care and feeding of children, home nursing and plain and fancy sewing.

The announcement, as is always the case, is published broadcast over the country and leaves in its wake, as usual, a furor of excitement among men and women who have long had their hearts set upon working for Uncle Sam.

Stir In Washington.

In Washington, the home of the civil service board, the announcement means increased activities all down the line.

Perhaps a better understanding of the work can be obtained when one stops to consider that over 23,000 persons in different sections of the United States were examined and admitted to places through this commission during the last year. It is true that Washington is simply one of twelve stations throughout the country, yet it is the most important one in that practically all the actual work of preparing and rating the papers is done there.

The commission does not have the power to make appointments, as many people imagine, but determines what persons shall be considered for different kinds of employment in the government service. Its work, when the examinations are over, is to keep lists of eligibles from which the various departments draw when they wish to make appointments.

In fact, the first step in a civil service test is taken by the government departments. Those in charge send word to the commission stating just what kind of work they want done and the salary they are willing to pay. After this the commission sends notices broadcast, announcing that an examination will be held and setting forth all details.

Next comes the examination, then the correcting, and from the rating lists of applicants are prepared. They are drawn on until the list is exhausted, after which the same plan is followed again.

Every possible effort is made on the part of those directing this work to bring notices of examinations to the attention of the public in every part of the United States. Besides announcements made in the newspapers and by posting signs through the different districts, the commission keeps on hand a mailing list of the principal educational institutions and perodicals, to which notifications are sent prior to the examinations.

Drumming Up Applicants.

In some cases where applicants are unusually scarce or where it is a difficult matter to obtain qualified persons posters are sent out calling attention to the salary offered and other inducements that the government affords. Many times in order to obtain applicants for special scientific work word is sent to schools that lay particular stress on the desired subject or to clubs or societies where the members are especially interested in the science on which the examination is based.

When the questions have been decided upon they are sent in sealed packets by special messengers to the government printing office, where they are put in printed form. The strictest secrecy is maintained at the big printery, and in no way is it possible for the questions to become public until they are distributed to the applicants in the various examination rooms.

REFORMATORY SHOP BURNED; LOSS $10,000

Rahway, Dec. 9.—Several buildings at the State Reformatory and a large quantity of lumber, paint and iron were destroyed by fire on Saturday. Starting, it is believed, from spontaneous combustion in the paint shop, the flames did $10,000 damage before they were extinguished.

Perfect discipline was maintained among the inmates of the institution. At no time were they in any danger, the wing of the reformatory being several hundred feet from the scene of the fire.

The blaze was discovered about 3 o'clock by Night Guard Fox as he was making his rounds. An alarm was sounded on the institution whistle, word being sent at the same time to the Rahway Fire Department. Before the arrival of that organization the buildings were gutted, and the efforts of the firemen were directed to prevent the spread of the flames.

While responding to the alarm Truck No. 1 was delayed by an accident at Main and Cherry streets. As the team attempted to turn the corner one of the horses slipped on the pavement and fell, dragging down its mate. The sudden stop caused the apparatus to overturn, scattering ladders and equipment over the street. All of the men escaped injury. The horses were badly cut and bruised. The harness was broken and the truck somewhat damaged.

DEATH SEPARATES LIFELONG FRIENDS

Jamesburg, Dec. 9.—Born in the same house and room, living in the same household for the last forty-four years and dying in adjoining apartments thirty-six hours apart, Mrs. Emma B. Brooks and Mrs. Margaret A. Webster will be separated in death by interment in different cemeteries. Mrs. Brooks was buried Saturday afternoon and the funeral of Mrs. Webster was held yesterday.

The two women were of about the same age, Mrs. Webster having lately completed her eighty-first year. During their illness, each inquired almost hourly as to the condition of the other and showed unfavorable symptoms whenever the other had a turn for the worse.

Dr. H. D. Zandt, who attended both, declared that the death of Mrs. Brooks had hastened by at least a month the death of her friend.

The two women were both born near Kingston and were girlhood friends. Following the death of Mr. Webster, three years after she had married him, Mrs. Webster continued to live at the old homestead for several years, until she came to Jamesburg to reside at the home of Borough Clerk William H. Brooks.

Funeral services for Mrs. Webster was held at the Brooks home, where both women died, and interment was in Penn Neck cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Brooks was held at the Jamesburg Presbyterian church, with interment in Fernwood cemetery, Rev. Samuel J. McClenaghan officiating. The same minister conducted the services for Mrs. Webster.

ACCUSED OF POISONING HUSBAND

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 9.—That she killed her husband of less than a week with poison to prevent him from changing his will, in which all of his propety was left to her, is the theory that will be advanced by the prosecution in the case of Mrs. Frieda Trost, who, with Edmund Guenkel, her alleged accomplice, is to be placed on trial here tomorrow on a charge of first degree murder. William Trost, the victim of the alleged murder plot, died on August 7 last. Mrs. Trost and Guenkel, who was a bartender employed in Trost's saloon, were arrested a few days later on the finding of the coroner's jury that Trost had died of arsenic poisoning. Testimony was introduced at the preliminary hearing to show that Mrs. Trost had purchased arsenic and also that she had been very friendly with Guenkel.

TO THE "GOOD FELLOWS" OF PLAINFIELD

Just about this time last year I told you my story. You listened to it—you did more—you followed its spirit out in a bang-up style. Bless your hearts, you made over 600 poor little tots know the real meaning of a joyous Christmas. I'm not claiming any credit for my story; I'm claiming credit for knowing that there are many Good Fellows in this fine old town of ours—royal chaps, who don't do much preaching, but when it comes to doing a good turn, well, they're there with the goods. This is no sermon that I'm handing you, it's a heart to heart talk with men with red blood in their veins, and here it is off last year's reel.

On Christmas and New Year's eve you and I went out for a good time and spent from $10 to $200. Christmas morning hundreds of children awoke to an empty stocking—bitter with the pain of disappointment that Santa Claus had forgotten them. That's the way it used to be. Perhaps it wasn't our fault. We had provided for our own; we had also reflected in a passing way on those less fortunate than our own, but they seemed far off and we didn't know where to find them. Perhaps in the hundred and one things we had to do some of us didn't think of that heart sorrow of the child over the empty stocking.

Now, old man, here's a chance. Just send your name and address to the Daily Press—address Santa Claus—state about how many children you are willing to protect against grief over that empty stocking, inclose a two-cent stamp and you will be furnished with the names, addresses, sex and age of that many children. It is then up to you, you do the rest. Select your own present, spend 50 cents or $50, and send or take the gifts to those children on Christmas eve. You pay not a cent more than you want to pay—every cent goes just where you want it to go. You gain neither notoriety nor advertising; no record will be kept; your letter will be returned to you with its answer. The whole plan is just as anonymous as old Santa Claus himself.

This is not a newspaper scheme. The Daily Press will preserve the anonymous character of this work. The responsibility of finding the children and sending you their names will be assumed by this paper and it guarantees that whatever you bestow will be deserved.

Neither you nor I get anything out of this, except the feeling that you have saved from sorrow on Christmas morning. If that is not enough for you then you have wasted time in reading this—it is not intended for you, but for the good fellows of Plainfield.

Perhaps a twenty-five cent doll or a ten cent tin toy wouldn't mean much to the children you know, but to the child who would find them in the otherwise empty stocking they mean much—the difference between utter disappointment and the joy that Santa Claus did not forget them. Here is where you and I get in. The charitable organizations attend to the bread and meat, the clothes, the necessaries; you and the rest of the good fellows furnish the toys, the nuts, the candies, the child's real Christmas.

GOOD FELLOW.

"Good Fellow" is not a professional philanthropist, he takes a drink, and even goes out at night with the boys for a mild good time—but he has taken care of some poor little ones each year in Plainfield. He says he wishes he had always curtailed his holiday joy-making with the good fellows even more than he did, so that he might have had more money to gladden childish hearts.

The Worthy Grand Master of the lodge of Good Fellows has laid his plans for securing names through the Charity Organization Society.

This is how you can joint the lodge of Good Fellows. Write a letter to "Santa Claus," care of the Daily Press, something like this:

I live at No.....street. I will be Santa Claus to 6 children.

JOHN JONES.

The letter will go to Santa Claus. He will indorse on your letter the names and addresses of six children. That letter will be remailed to you. Then you get busy. That's all. Come on in, good fellows.

AGAINST THE CITY.

The adverse decision of the Supreme Court in the proceedings instituted by the city to condemn the Plainfield-Union water plant may occasion little surprise, though the basis for the opinion handed down does set a precedent. Each succeeding move has been marked by shrewdness on the part of the private concern battling against losing its plant to the municipality. Before the Councilmanic water committee knew it, the company had retained the best legal talent in the State, although it already commanded the services of one of the most learned and resourceful members of the profession in the person of its president, Frank Bergen. Gilbert Collins, of Jersey City, and R. V. Lindabury, of Newark, had both accepted a fee as counsel by the time the city woke up, and Plainfield was put at a great disadvantage with such an imposing array of legal talent opposing it. The cunning of the defendant concern was also revealed when it quietly acquired title and began to sink wells in the locality favored in the miority report of the Councilmanic committee as a site for the proposed publicly-owned plant Taking the tip, the water company bought up the property out on Park avenue and found, just as Councilman Holt surmised, an abundant supply of good water.

But all this is part of history that has cost the taxpayers a pretty penny. What's more important just now, however, is the decision of the Supreme Court rendered this morning which is not reversed by a higher tribunal, sounds the death knell to the ambition to obtain control of the company's plant. The decision, which we are informed is unanimous, establishes a new principle. In effect, the court holds that one municipality cannot condemn the water supply of other municipalities. That is, where one water company is supplying several municipalities from the same source, one of these municipalities cannot acquire the source of supply and thus monopolize it. The principle applies to the facts in the local concern's case for the water company not only supplies Plainfield, but North Plainfield and many towns along the line of the Jersey Central in Union county.

While the apparently futile attempt is being made to get a municipal plant, the cost is piling up. There is the highly paid expert, Mr. Fuertes, for instance, who got a large sum for his investigation and report which afterwards counted for little, as the Councilmanic committee decided to make an effort to get control of the private company's plant. Since then, as we understand, he is to receive $50 a day for all the days he has actually spent in assisting the committee. Then there is the fee of the special counsel, Albert Wall, of Jersey City, and goodness only knows what he is to receive.

And it should be borne in mind that the commissions virtually reported that the consumers could not expect any reduction in rates should a municipal plant be put in operation

The princely sum of $4,600 has been paid for the autograph of a Declaration of Independence signer. That beats Roosevelt's rate of a dollar a word "to a frazzle."

PNEUMONIA.

In calling attention to the number of deaths from pneumonia, the Philadelphia Board of Health has issued a list of seven "don'ts" which, if followed, would be a prevention against contracting the disease. Just at this season of the year, more especially in January, there is a large increase in the number of cases in this climate and it is well to guard against such impairment of health. To do this, the Quaker City health board gives this advice:

Don't poison yourself with dirty air by staying in overheated, crowded, foul-smelling places.

Don't gormandize during the holiday season.

Don't sleep with the windows closed.

Don't indulge to excess in alcoholic liquors.

Don't be afraid of fresh air.

Don't let any one who has pneumonia pass it on to you. Treat pneumonia as a catching disease.

Don't forget that good, general health is the best possible safeguard against pneumonia or any other infectious or contagious disease.

Celebrated Englishman on the occasion of his eightieth birthday yesterday at London compiled a set of rules for those who wish to reach a ripe age. There are six of them in all, and here they are: Don't think about your health; enjoy yourself as much as possible; ignore dietary tables; eat whenever you feel inclined; learn by experience what suits you; be happy; look on the bright side of things.

Surprise is expressed by the Wilsons because there are only seven rooms in the White House. Well Washington has some good hotels.

There were fifty-two births as against twenty-one deaths in Plainfield during November. That's about the average monthly record here.

Many have responded to the appeal of "Good Fellow" but many more recruits are needed for his army. Read his letter on page 3 today.

The Republican party will survive. —John W. Griggs.

Let's all go back to work.

A letter addressed to Armageddon would probably be delivered in Chicago this week.

And again we say, do your shopping now.

Pile on the coal.

COUNTY TAX BOARD HERE.

The Union County Board of Taxation is in session at the city building on North avenue, this afternoon, disposing of about twenty cases of appeal, which were filed within the past week.

POLICE COURT WEDDING AS RECREANT SWAIN REPENTS

The arrest of 18-year-old Richard Sutton, of 45 Pearl street, North Plainfield, Saturday on a charge of breach of promise, culminated in a wedding in the City Court this afternoon, when the defendant and Miss Mabel Perrine, the complainant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Perrine, of 519 East Sixth street, were married by City Judge DeMeza. The ceremony was witnessed by Mrs. Catherine Sutton, the youth's mother, Charles Feiler and Charles Moffet.

SEEKING A PLACE FOR DEFECTIVE BORO PUPILS

Negotiations are under way between the North Plainfield Board of Education and the proprietors of several halls in the borough to secure a suitable place to convert into school rooms for the special class of backward and deficient pupils. The place selected will also be used as a gymnasium and basketball court by the High School.

Debele Hall has been suggested but William G. Debele, the owner, will not lease the enclosure for a shorter term than five years, whereas the Board would like to rent a place for a year, at the end of which time the proposed new school may be a fact. Saengerbund Hall is also being considered.

An informal meeting of the Board of Education is scheduled for tonight at which some action may be taken.

HIS UNSMILING SMILE.

But Mr. Wilson Has Another Real One Full of Sunshine.

President Elect Wilson has strong, healthy teeth, like Colonel Roosevelt, and, like those of the bull moose leader, they may show prominently, even when he is not smiling as this photograph shows. The snap shot was taken at Hamilton, Bermuda, just as he had entered a carriage of the committee of welcome. Some one had indicated the cottage he and his family were to occupy, just across the bay, and, with the sun in his face, he looked in that direction.

JUST AFTER MR. WILSON ARRIVED AT BERMUDA.

Mr. Wilson's unsmiling display of his teeth is cold, taking on the nature of his severely scholastic face. But when he does smile it is illumined by the effulgence of a sun of genial good nature which the former president carries within him. Some one has described it "like brilliant, invigorating sunshine on a clear, frosty day." But it is more than that. While it lacks the unction of Mr. Taft's, it gives just as sincere an impression.

SUCCESSFUL SALE.

Mrs. Adam Hill, president of the guild, acted as general chairman, and was assisted by Mrs. W. R. Townsend, Mrs. Stuyvesant, Mrs. C. L. Bogardus, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Coles and Mrs. Hoxie. Mrs. Vail in Miss Miller.

MRS. HUIE KIN TO SPEAK.

Mrs. Huie Kin, wife of the pastor of the Chinese church in New York will address the union prayer meeting of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies of the Crescent Avenue church in the parlors of the church at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. She will speak on "The Orient in the United States."

TOO COLD FOR SCHOOL.

Two class rooms in the primary department are the only rooms in session in the Somerset School building, North Plainfield, today, because of the cold weather and the unfinished condition of the new heating plant. The contractor promises to have the new system which will supply ample heat throughout the whole building in the coldest of weather running tomorrow. The ventilating system will not be completed for some time.

HABITUAL DRUNK LIST COMPILED BY JUDGE

"My Own Experience in the Treatment of Criminals" was the subject of a talk by City Judge William G. DeMeza delivered before the Baraca class of the Temple Baptist Sunday-school yesterday afternoon.

"What is wanted in this State," said the Judge, "and in fact every State in the Union is a place something like the tuberculosis pavillions where drunk victims can be sent.

"Since I have been on the stand as judge the present Mayor and myself got together and made what is known as the blacklist. This list is sent out to the various saloons of the city with a notice to the keepers or owners that if they sell liquor to any of the men whose names appear on the list that they are liable to lose their license. In this way we are cutting the list of habitual drunkards in half."

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

THE JUICY RABBIT.

HERE are some suggestions for cooking rabbits. They are now in season and their preparation often taxes the resources of the housewife.

When rabbits are abundant and cheap, as at present, it is desirable to know how to serve them in a number of different ways.

Attractive Dishes.

Rabbits En Casserole. Clean and cut up the rabbit, then place the pieces in a long casserole dish, surround with sliced onions and potatoes, place a bay leaf with the vegetables, season with salt and pepper, moisten with melted butter and place in the oven for a half hour or more.

Fricasseed Rabbits.—After cleaning cut into joints. Fry these in fresh beef drippings, turning constantly, so that they do not brown. Take out each joint as soon as it is cooked on the outside and keep hot. Pour a pint of milk into the stewpan, thicken it with flour, season with a blade of mace, pepper and salt and let it boil. Replace the rabbit in the pan and, if you have it, add a little lean ham and simmer slowly for about two hours.

To serve, set the meat on a hot entree dish and strain the sauce over it. Garnish with curls of fried bacon and croutons of bread.

Tender Young Rabbits.

Stewed Rabbits.—Tender young rabbits are best for this dish. Cut them into joints. Take one pint and a half of milk, one blade of mace, one dessertspoonful of flour, a little salt and cayenne. Mix the flour very smoothly with four tablespoonfuls of the milk and when this is well blended add the remainder. Put the rabbit into a stewpan with the milk and other ingredients and simmer gently until quite tender. Stir the contents from time to time to keep the milk smooth and prevent it from burning.

Roast Rabbits.—After the rabbits have been cleaned fill the inside with stuffing made of breadcrumbs and butter; season with pepper, salt and a little sweet marjoram, rubbed fine; put it in a good oven and while roasting baste it with plenty of butter and dredge it occasionally with flour. Thirty-five minutes' roasting will be sufficient.

Boil the liver with a dozen sprigs of parsley, when quite tender chop up fine and add them to melted butter as a sauce.

HERE AND THERE.

Little Change In Muff Styles From Those of Last Year.

Muffs are as large as ever, flat and supple and little changed from last year's styles. A ruby rose on a moleskin muff looks bright and smart.

Sleeves made of soft flowing material show decided change. The bell sleeve is popular, but it is much modified and not nearly so baggy as formerly.

NEW SKIRT WITH FLOUNCE.

Some of the newest suits consist of a coat of striped taffeta and skirt of velvet.

Very pretty waists are made of tucked net, alternating with broad inserts of lace.

New medici collars usually have vest-like jabots of net or shadow lace.

Here is a skirt that may be made of two materials or carried out in one fabric, as in the present illustration. The flounce may be left out altogether if desired. JUDIC CHOLLET.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 34 to 42 inches bust measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 7671, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

Milady's Mirror

A Little Beauty Talk.

Headache is often the result of indigestion. No woman, however perfect of feature, can be truly beautiful when a racking pain draws her face full of fine lines and dulls the expression of the eyes. The next time you are suffering with headache try drinking a half glass of cold water into which have been put the juice of half a lemon and a half teaspoonful of soda. The drink is not unpleasant, and in many cases it brings almost immediate relief.

A woman whose hair is always soft and glistening has disclosed the secret of her attractive coiffure. She buys a package of absorbent cotton from the druggist. Next she strips a layer from it and places the layer over the bristles of a wire hair brush, pushing it well down until the bristles penetrate the cotton, which should lie close to the back of the brush. Then she strokes the hair, beginning near the scalp and giving a vigorous stroke to the ends. A few of these firm strokes will reveal how large a quantity of dust and smoke can be taken up by the cotton, the result being the same as the cold cream bath to the face at the end of the day.

The cotton stroke should be administered every night just before retiring, an open window being the ideal place for the beautifying process.

Every woman has known the misery of needing a shampoo after a journey and not being able to have it at once because of lack of facilities. The hot and cold water may be handy, but not the shampoo medium. So prepare this before you leave home and carry it along in a tightly stoppered bottle—a three ounce vial will do.

Boil castile soap shaved to a powder, about two heaping teaspoonfuls in a little water, putting in about two salt spoonfuls of washing soda. When getting ready to wash the hair, massage a wee bit of cold cream into the scalp, then slightly wet the hair and work in the scalp jelly or liquid into the scalp, of course.

Rinse as usual, trying to keep the successive waters at an even temperature. It is the sudden change from hot to cold water that makes the hair harsh, as it is so often found to be after the most careful shampoo.

The reason given by beauty people for boiling the soap used in shampoos is that this preparation makes it still more bland. If the hard cake is rubbed directly upon the hair it is bound to be harsh and less bright than if the head is washed by a regularly prepared soap as directed.

Toothbrush Wisdom.

Tooth powders containing charcoal have the effect of whitening the teeth as well as purifying the breath. An excellent idea is to rub a little dry charcoal powder into the crevices between the teeth upon retiring at night, then brush it away in the morning. Charcoal absorbs all impurities, either solid or gaseous, leaving the teeth white and glistening and the gums clean and rosy. Any stray particles of charcoal that might be carried into the stomach would act as an aid to digestion rather than as a detriment. Bicarbonate of soda (common baking soda) has much the same effect, being a benefit both to the teeth and to the stomach.

A Toilet Water.

A good toilet water may be made in the following way: Take six ounces of deodorized alcohol and two ounces of powdered Florentine orris root. Put the powder in a china basin and pour the liquid on gradually until the whole is well mixed. Then add six drops of essential oil of violets, and pour the whole into a bottle and cork it.

This should be kept three weeks. When it is wanted, a little of the fragrant water should be poured into the bath.

It's Good For Insomnia.

An entire milk diet is an excellent thing for the woman who is troubled with insomnia. It is also good for the one who is so nervous that when she does go to sleep she has the sensation of falling and wakes with a terrific start. When these conditions exist it is well to subsist on milk alone for some time. A grown woman should take a pint of milk as a meal, but to keep her strength she should take four meals a day instead of the usual three.

Practice This Stunt For Grace.

To correct the stooping that so often comes with age practice walking with a load on the head. When shoulder blades become too obtrusive stand with the back against the wall and stretch out the arms with the backs of the hands against the wall. Keep this position for a few minutes, then lower the arms and repeat the movement.

The Normal Training Class of the First Baptist church will hold its monthly social at the home of the president, Miss Marguerite Lee, 50 Grove street, tomorrow evening. There will be a program of interest.

Oathe, Kan., Dec. 9.—Women are going to get their share of the appointive officers, according to George H. Hodges, governor elect of Kansas.

The woman's suffrage amendment to the Kansas constitution carried by a large majority at the late election. "In the matter of appointments," Mr. Hodges stated, "I may as well say that I am going to give the women of the State recognition. The men of the State have given them their ballot, and I will start by giving them some of the offices."

MAIMED BY TRAIN, TO PREACH.

Ross MacClements, pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, that he will return to his pulpit to preach a Christmas sermon December 22. FAST TIME IN SIX DAY GRIND

Record for Fourteen Hours Hung up by Riders in Garden Today.

FIFTEEN TEAMS TIED

At Ten O'clock This Morning Six Miles Had Been Added to Previous Record Made in Nineteen Ten—"Big Bill" Devery Started the Race

Madison Square Garden, New York, Dec. 9.—Four miles ahead of the world's record, which was hung up in 1910, the riders in the six-day bicycle race had gone a distance of 319 miles, and 0 laps at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The teams at that time had the following standing:

Kramer and Moran, 319; Clark and Hill, 319; Grendo and Pye, 319; Rutt and Folger, 319; Root and Hehir, 319; Ryan and Thomas, 319; Perchicot and Egg, 319; Suter and Suter, 319; Bedell and Mitten, 319; Walthour and Cameron, 319; Drobach and Collins, 319; Lawrence and Magin, 319; Loftes and Carmen, 319; Bocco and Berthert, 319; Waller and Wells, 319. Walthour was leading.

At one minute after midnight this morning "Big Bill" Devery, former Chief of the New York police force, raised a revolver above his head, pressed the trigger, and started fifteen riders, representing as many teams, on the long 142-hour journey around the saucer-shaped track.

The following riders were the starters for the different teams:

Moran, Clarke, Grenda, Fogler, Root, Thomas, Perchichot, Berthet, Paul Sutor, Loftus, Bedell, Cameron, Drobach, Magin, Wells.

The parade of the riders, an old-time feature which did not take place in the races of the two years previous to this, was held last night. The riders, after being introduced, rode twice around the big bowl just before the race began.

From the time the pistol flashed its signal until 10 o'clock next Saturday night the cyclists, comprising the long-distance stars of every country where the pedal game flourishes, will vie for honor and gold, the latter incentive reaching the extent of about $24,000. Of this sum about one-quarter will be distributed in prizes to the teams finishing in the first nine positions, and $18,000 will go in bonuses to the riders. Every starter in the long race has been declared in on a bonus of at least $300. Frank Kramer tops the list with $1,800.

Up to 9 o'clock the riding had been steady and lively all of the early morning hours, and at that time all fifteen of the teams had made the same distance—211 miles, 6 laps, as compared with 207 miles and 6 laps for the same number of hours in 1910, the previous record. Ryan was leading the field at the time. At 10 o'clock the riders had covered 235 miles and 8 laps, as against a former record of 229 miles and 4 tenths. This means that in the hour a gain of two miles and four laps on the record had been made, indicting that a strenuous grind is in progress.

The effect of the grueling race during the previous hour were shown in the riding between 10 and 11 o'clock, for the lead of 6 miles on the record was cut down between those hours to a little better than three miles, with Hehir leading the field at the time, and all fifteen teams tied at 254 miles and 5 laps.

The first spill of the race occurred shortly after eleven o'clock. Gordon Walker's front wheel collapsed at the back stretch on the Twenty-seventh street side of the garden. Marcel Berthert, of the Italian-French team, went down together with Lloyd Thomas, of the Irish team. Berthert was slightly injured about the head and was relieved by his partner, Brocco. Thomas and Walker continued in the race and lost nothing as the result of the accident. About this time Fogler, partner of Root, punctured a tire but was handed a new wheel and continued the grind with the other teams. Fans all over the garden predict that the previous records will be smashed.

At twelve o'clock the teams were still tied, all having made 275 miles and 8 laps.

At 1 p. m. the distance covered by all teams was 297 miles and 6 laps.

LARGE FIELD OUT AFTER HOUNDS AT WEEKLY HUNT

The run with the Watchung Hunt Club hounds on Saturday was enjoyed by a large field of riders. The chase led over the Watchung mountains into the valley. The hounds were met at the Poultry Farm at Scotch Plains. Here they were cast in, going along and up the mountainside with the first check made on the Pearsall estate. They were taken up and over the first mountain, being cast in for the second line in the valley. The line led straight to the Fullerton farm, a distance of about eight miles, where the second check was made. The fencing was continuous in this check.

H. Stuart Hollis and W. H. Wildey became croppers, each falling at a fence. They were able to finish. The last line led straight back to the Netherwood water tower, where the chase ended, crossing A. D. Shepard's estate, "The Gables," at Scotch Plains and numerous farms.

Among those in the saddle, almost all of whom finished, were:

R. C. Finch, M. F. H.; L. B. Smith, Mrs. Brown Rolston, Miss Gertrude Noe, Fred Alpers, H. L. Finch, Brown Rolston, W. H. Wildey, R. H. Towner, H. S. Hollis, Edward R. Finch, J. J. O'Donohue, F. D. French, C. W. Holland, Beverley Brown, J. S. Casey, Miss Marjorie Dana, C. S. E. Bellows Hart S. Farlee and Huntsman Harrison.

HOLY CROSS GAME OFF.

Owing to the serious injury sustained by John Caulfield in a recent Holy Cross football game, his teammates voted to call off their game for last Saturday afternoon and that was the reason the football followers who journeyed to Cricket Field found that rendezvous deserted. The lid has been put on tightly and the 1912 season has been curtailed.

ODD POINT WINS EXCITING GAME

Ajax Defeat Grace Church Basketball Team by One Point Margin.

AJAX'S EIGHTH VICTORY

Score 29 to 28—Grace Team Composed of Former Scholastic Court Stars—Both Teams Play Hard Games—Third Game in Two Days.

Forty minutes of the most gruelling basketball that has ever been witnessed in this city was displayed to a gallery full of enthusiasts at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Saturday night when the much deferred meeting of the Ajax and the Grace church five was pulled off. After much dickering on the part of both managers the date for the great contest was finally set for Saturday night, although most of the Ajax played with High School against Passaic in the afternoon and against Battin High the day before. A pretty fagged out squad of basketball players returned from Passaic on the 8:15 train and ten minutes later had donned basketball togs once again to go against Grace. Because of the over worked condition of the Y. M. C. A. team, popular odds favored the church boys and the association quintet went into the game with defeat predicted on every hand. Had it not been for their consistent playing against the heavier team their eighth game would have turned out to be a lost cause and their clean slate would have been treated to its first blot of the 1912 season.

Festivities began at the shriek of the referee's whistle and never let up until Clarke dropped Grace's final basket the last half minute of play, bringing the Grace score up to 28 against the Ajax 29. A field goal and a foul in the last three minutes of play spelled victory for the association team and fate decreed that the foul goal should win the game. Because of the intense rivalry and what the outcome represented to both contestants, the playing was hard and fouling frequent though unintentional. Had either team had a man in the lineup who could turn the fouls called into point scores from the foul line the final score would have been vastly different. Captain Brynarski's usual keen eye failed him and as in the afternoon he missed goal after goal from the fifteen foot mark. So close was the guarding on the part of both teams, that the forwards had little chance of caging baskets and those that they made good on generally came from difficult angles.

In the final period of play the score was tied up at three different intervals and the game was anybody's until the last chirp of the whistle. In this half time was called frequently for different members of the opposing teams to pull themselves together and the over work which the players had been subjected to in the two preceding days began to assert itself strongly. Captain Brynarski had to leave the game in this half and the shining light of victory nearly flickered out in the hearts of Ajax rooters when he retired. But it was Hetfield who took his place, and he hung so closely to Clarke that that slippery individual could do no more than get one field goal, which by the way, made the score look interesting as it resulted in the final count standing 29 to 28.

For the losers, Lidgate easily carried off the all around honors while Ricketts and Clarke were close runners up, particularly along the scoring line. Both Van Zandt boys played a steady game and their guarding spoiled many a well directed shot. Peacock and Dunning stood out foremost in the glory of victory, both in the passing and shooting departments.

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL LOSES TO PASSAIC

P. H. S. Five Puts up a Good Passing Exhibition but Cannot Shoot.

Playing on a foreign court that could easily be transformed into three of the size that the Plainfield High School players are accustomed to practise on, the basketball representatives from that institution yielded a victory to the Passaic High School five in their initial game of the season Saturday afternoon, by the score of 27 to 7. Putting up the article of basketball that is ticketed to win games and playing for all that was in them, the local basket cagers completely swept the Passaic five off their feet in the first period and although the score stood 8 to 5 in favor of Passaic at the end of the half the score in black and white fails to depict how big an advantage the Plainfield players had over their opponents. Superior passing but inability to shoot when they got the sphere safely in their grasp spelled defeat for the Queen City crowd while the home team's familiarity with the spacious court proved a decided advantage to them.

The second period began with a rush and the home team dropped in field goal after field goal with practically no effort. Their masterful display of basket shooting plainly showed the kind of coaching they have been treated to and they could cage goals from any angle. Plainfield, on the other hand, was unable to get a single basket in this half and although Woodhull got two from the foul line many more could have counted in this manner if P. H. S. had anyone who could make the shots count for anything.

PLAY FOR CLUB'S BENEFIT.

William H. Conger, president of the Young Men's Athletic Association, has made arrangements with William F. Richards, general manager of the Oak Dramatic Club, to give the play, "The Old New Hampshire Home," at the Park Club on Thursday evening, December 19, for the benefit of the association.

LAST MINUTE GOAL DEFEATS PLAINFIELD

Soccer Team Falls Before the Alley Boys in Sensational Wind-up.

With the score tied and but two minutes remaining to decide the game the Alley Boys, of Newark, scored a sensational goal Saturday sending the Plainfield Association Football aggregation down to defeat for the fifth consecutive time of the season. The contest was played on the Cinton avenue grounds before a large crowd which gathered to see the game, despite the cold weather.

By winning this game, the Alley Boys secured a firmer grip on the first rung of the Inter-City Amateur Soccer League ladder, although they are being closely pressed by the Eurekas, the three-time champs.

The game started with Plainfield defending the east goal, having the benefit of the strong wind which swept down the field. The locals started out with a rush and threatened to make quick work of their opponents. Their play was full of vim and snap, virtues sadly lacking in recent games. After several attempts at scoring, which was only prevented by the goal work of Tintle, the Alley Boys' goal, Crawford shot the sphere between the uprights for the first and only tally the Painfielders enjoyed. The play was made after Heaume, who played a brilliant game, throughout the contest, had dribbled the ball almost the entire length of the field.

At this point the visitors settled down and showed true championship form. On a pass from Lawles, O'Rourke suceeded in booting the ball between the posts, ending the scoring for the first half.

In the second half, the locals again outplayed their enemies but could not score, due partly to the queer actions of the wind, and the superb article of play Tintle was displaying. While the attacking squad of the locals was doing good service, the Plainfield backs done great work in preventing scores by the Alley Boys. Time and again they would steal the ball from one of the visitors and send it soaring down the field in an attempt to score, only to be disappointed.

As the time for the whistle to sound grew near, everybody had practically decided that the game would end in a tie. But after the locals had been prevented from scoring by Tintle, the latter toed the ball far into the air and down the field, which was helped decidedly by the wind in its progress. Lawles received the ball and quickly passed it to Bannon, who with a hefty boot, sent the sphere past Gardner, and directly between the uprights for the final and winning score.

Although the locals protested the goal, claiming there was a man "offside," the referee Frank Smith, of East Newark, declared the visitors the winners.

The lineup:

COLLEGE BASKETBALL.

Dr. Raycroft Succeeds Hyatt as President—Changes In Rules.

Several important changes have been made in the Intercollegiate Basketball league preparatory to what promises to be the most successful year in the history of the league. Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft of Princeton university succeeds R. B. Hyatt of Yale as president. The withdrawal of Hyatt is only temporary and due to the reorganization of sports at Yale. The newly elected president has devoted much time to college basketball, having been its leading exponent in the west prior to his leaving Chicago university and entering Princeton.

The league rules have been simplified for the coming year, and the game, in addition to being spectacular, will be better understood by the spectators. The one hand dribble will prevail this year, as last, with the idea of developing more team work and less individual play.

Dartmouth, which was admitted to the league last year, has been given a place on the executive committee, thereby entitling it to a full voice in the league.

The furnishing of officials by the league for all the games was so successful last year that it has been made permanent, and officials for this season's games will be selected by the excutive committee. The schedule follows:

Dec. 14, Pennsylvania at Princeton; 19, Princeton at Dartmouth; 21, Columbia at Cornell.

BACON CLEVER QUARTERBACK

Wesleyan Field General Has Played Brilliant Game This Year.

Bacon, the Wesleyan quarterback, one of the very few high class quarters of the season, is a fine punter in addition to his other claims to gridiron greatness. He has outpunted everybody who has been stacked up against him. His long, spiral punts average, it is declared, over forty-five yards. That's a cracking good average.

Just how good it is may be judged from a comparison with the punts of Felton of Harvard recently. Felton is rated about the best punter on the Atlantic seaboard, but good as his booting was against Princeton it didn't average forty-five yards. The averages were thirty-eight yards in the first half and forty-two in the second. An average of forty-five yards is great punting sure enough.

YALE QUITS HOCKEY LEAGUE.

Wants More Freedom and Chance to Play Its Game at Home.

Yale will be among the missing when the college hockey teams begin their annual battles for supremacy in the Intercollegiate Hockey league early in 1913 in New York.

At the annual meeting of the league held in New York recently the Bulldog tendered his resignation. The reason assigned was that at New Haven, right under their noses, the Yale men have a fine rink. In the past it has been used mainly for practice. Those interested felt that as a free lance the Yale seven would have a wider scope.

With Yale out of the league only four teams remain—Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth and Princeton.

BROOKE A CAPABLE COACH.

Former Gridiron Star Mentioned as Handler of Penn Next Season.

George Brooke, who is being mentioned prominently as the next coach at Pennsylvania, was a player of the first magnitude in the early nineties and since then has met with much success coaching Swarthmore. He was one of the best kickers football ever has known and an All America back.

Bull, Woodruff, Wharton, Gelbert and Knipe were team mates. Since they have been coaching Brooke and Hollenback the Penn State coach, have been very active in humbling their alma mater. However, that's part of the game. George Foster Sanford did it to Yale when he was coaching Columbia, and there have been other cases.

BRESNAHAN ASKS $40,000 FROM ST. LOUIS MGRS.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

New York, Dec. 9.—Roger Bresnahan's claim against the St. Louis Baseball Club for $40,000 in satisfaction of his broken contract was discussed today by the directors of the National League. Both the club and Bresnahan were represented by counsel. Bresnahan is still considering an offer of $10,000 a year to manage the Pittsburg team.

KOHLEMAINENS, RUNNERS, ARE VEGETARIANS.

Here's something about the two famous Kohlemainen brothers, Bill, the professional, and Hannes, the simon pure, that many followers of sports perhaps don't know—the pair are vegetarians. Neither one has eaten any meat for more than four years.

Bill got the vegetable habit from Gusta Ljungstrom, the Swedish professional, who ran some sensational races here in 1908. Bill induced Hannes to become a vegetarian, and the pair are ardent devotees of the so called fad.

When Martin Sheridan heard the Kohlemainens were vegetarians the great all around athlete chirped, "Pegorre, I wonder how fast they could run if they ever had a square meal under their belts."

GOTCH OUTLINES IDEAL LIFE.

Wrestling Champion Says He Will Grow Oranges In California.

Frank Gotch, world's wrestling champion, has come out with his regular cut and dried annual announcement of retirement from the game he helped make famous.

astonish the public by actually retiring to his little old vine and fig tree, or, to be perfectly accurate, his lemon and orange farm, and pass the remainder of his career in peace and quiet instead of cavorting around the country destroying would be champions' ambitions for fame.

Doubtless it was with some thought of this day when he would have tucked the title away permanently in some safety deposit place, where he could take it out on state occasions and recall the many pleasant experiences he had undergone incident to its acquirement, that inspired Gotch to ruminate as follows and to wit:

"Now, I've had unpleasant things come up in my life, and later on when I think of them I try to think that it wouldn't be so hard to go through them again. That's the way with most of us, I guess. But with training it is vastly different. The tortures of training never will be erased from my memory.

"People say I got my money easy because it was just natural for me to wrestle well and I have all of the natural qualifications. I wish these people knew the truth. It's the hardest money men ever got.

"Soon after Christmas we are going out to California. In the southern part of the state I'm going to pick out a little patch of land that isn't too expensive, and I'll buy it for a winter home. Mrs. Gotch is wild about orange and lemon trees and wants them in the front yard. That's the kind of place I'll get.

"I'll have somebody run it the year round, because in the summer we'll return to Iowa and attend to business there. That's what I call an ideal arrangement.

"Wrestle again and again? Ouch, but it makes me shudder!"

Stahl Real American Leaguer.

Jacob Garland Stahl, manager of the champion Red Sox, is the only manager of German extraction to lead a major league club to a world's championship. Stahl has still another distinction. He is the first pennant winning leader of the American league developed entirely within the American league. Since being graduated from Illinois university he has performed in no other league.

LOVER OF ROMAN CANDLE IS CLAY

Likes Safe and Sane Fourth But Candles and Pinwheels More.

BLOW AT ORDINANCE

Sent Back for Amendment—Councilman Holt Regards Action as Slap—Tells Council Changes Uncalled for and Wrong

The three years' work of Councilman Frank L. Holt in behalf of a "safe and sane" Fourth of July all went for naught last night, when Councilman George S. Clay succeeded in having the ordinance which had already been passed on two readings, advertised and was ready for a third and final reading, referred back to a second reading for amendments of a minor character. This action of the Council makes it impossible for the passage of the ordinance this year, and as Mr. Holt retires January 1, there is some question as to whether the "safe and sane" Fourth will have a champion in next year's body.

That Mr. Holt felt deeply grieved over the sudden fate that overtook his ordinance, was plainly manifest. He consider the action of the Council in the nature of a direct slap.

The motion to refer the ordinance back to a second reading was passed by a seven to four vote. Those voting in the affirmative were Councilmen Clay, Endress, Dunn, C. C. Randolph, Reville, Wilson and Tolles, and those voting in the negative being Councilmen Gloak, Holt, Mygatt and Taylor.

The amendments proposed by Mr. Clay had to do with the size of Roman candles, placing the limit at fifteen balls, and increasing the size of mines and pin-wheels to be permitted. He said that while he favored a "safe and sane" Fourth, he thought perhaps the ordinance was too strict and that other fireworks not considered dangerous should be allowed.

Mr. Holt said there were no good, sound reasons why such amendments should be made. The ordinance had been drafted on the lines of those in force in other cities of the State and had been accepted generally. He said that he had received letters from sixteen doctors in the city, as well as a number of other people, favoring the ordinance and he felt sure that public sentiment was strongly in favor of it.

In the opinion of Mr. Holt it was either wrong or right to allow the use of Roman candles, whether they contained four balls or fifteen, and if it were right to allow their use the limit might as well be twenty-five balls. He could not see any sensible dividing line, and he thought that the Council, if it does not want to pass the ordinance as drawn, should go on record as opposing the "safe and sane" Fourth. There is no real call for the amendments suggested by Mr. Clay, Mr. Holt contended.

Councilman Mygatt called attention to the fact that if the ordinance should be referred back at this time it could not be passed on third reading this year, as it would have to be advertised for ten days in the amended form. He favored the passage of the ordinance in its present form and then, if it was thought best, amendments could be made next year. A majority of the members did not agree with Mr. Mygatt or Mr. Holt and the ordinance was accordingly sent back.

HIGH PRAISE FOR NEW CIVIC ASSN.

Mayor and Mayor-elect Join Chorus Acclaiming West End Organization.

STEWART ON SCHOOLS

Advocates Erection of Statue to Dr. Stillman—Everybody, Including Dr. Maxson, Pleased at Idea of Using Schools for Meetings.

Plainfield will be signally benefited by the organization of the West End Civic Association and citizens in other parts of the city will soon form similar clubs, said all the speakers with much positiveness at the first public meeting of the association last night in the auditorium of the Washington School. Owing to the presence of a number of the West End residents at the Common Council meeting to protest on Sewer Assessments, the audience at the civic association meeting was not as large as was expected.

President Thomas E. Vail introduced the first speaker, Mayor G. W. V. Moy. The Mayor said he had long recognized the need of a body like the West End Civic Association and was sorry he did not have the assistance it was sure to give the coming administrations. He praised the idea of using the public schools for any cause that would benefit the progress of the city and said men and women had as much right to the privileges of the public buildings in the evening as the children have in the daytime.

With a tribute to the life and accomplishments of the late Dr. C. H. Stillman, the founder of the Plainfield public school system, to whom, he said, there should be a monument erected in the city, Mayor-elect Percy Stewart spoke at length on general educational matters.

He told of city government among the ancients, citing Athens and Rome. In complimenting the association on its interest in the affairs of the city he told the members one of their strongest assets was the force of public opinion and the power of the public press. He warned them against the danger of holding petty views or seeking personal gain through the association.

William Jeffrey, former president of the Board of Trade, spoke on "Civics."

"Plainfield is fortunate indeed," he said, "in having the West End Civic Club. It will have to be real, however, to produce results. With such a good name you should do good for your section of the city and encourage other sections to follow your example. It becomes necessary at times to differ in opinion with others, it does not follow, however, that we should on that account belittle the ability or doubt the sincerity of those who hold different views from us."

The closing address of the evening was made by Dr. H. M. Maxson, superintendent of schools. He said he believed the time would come when the school building would be used every night in the week by the citizens and older people of the municipality.

The addresses were interspersed with musical selections by an orchestra under the direction of Allen Squier. All of the speakers were elected honorary members.

GOLD BADGES FOR NEW ROUNDSMEN

Patrolmen Honor Three Members of Association Who Won Promotion.

AT THE ANNUAL DINNER

Mayor Moy Makes the Presentations—Flynn, Saffron and Keller Make Speeches—So Do Other Eloquent Bluecoats.

The presentation of gold badges to Charles A. Flynn and Andrew L. Saffron, of the police department and Charles Keller, of the North Plainfield department, were features of the fourth annual banquet of the Plainfield Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, held at the Waldorf Hotel, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Moy said that he was pleased at the opportunity to be present. He expressed his regret that all present could not be Mayor, although he added that being Mayor was not all pleasure.

WILMERDING HEADS NETHERWOOD ASSN.

Officers Are Elected and Plans Made to Form An Auxiliary.

The Netherwood Residents' Association at its annual meeting last night in the auditorium of Truell Hall elected these officers for the ensuing year: President, A. C. Wilmerding; vice president, Lloyd L. Osborn; secretary, Edwin L. Allen, treasurer, F. W. Carlisle. Resolutions looking toward a more active campaign for improvements during the coming year were adopted and among others a proposal for the establishment of a Woman's Auxiliary, the scope of the latter's activities and the basis of its co-operation to be determined later.

While the growth of the organization and its accomplishments during the past year was the subject of favorable comment and congratulation by several members, the sentiment was expressed that the usefulness of the association could be greatly enhanced by the creation of a larger fraternal feeling and a stronger realization of identity of purpose; and to that end it was decided to hold at Truell Hall in January an informal stag dinner and smoker at which men qualified to discuss modern methods of effecting consistent and desirable civic improvements would be invited to speak. The matter is now in charge of the entertainment committee from which much may be expected.

CITY HAS NO MONEY FOR A SKATING POND

Corporation Counsel Says It is Too Late to Act This Year.

Corporation Counsel William M. Stillman appeared before the Common Council last night and gave as his opinion that the Council could not appropriate $900 for the purpose of establishing a skating pond at Parker Field, as desired by the Playground Commission. He said that it was too late in the year to incorporate that amount in the tax budget and there are no other funds available for the purpose. There is no money in the contingent fund, Mr. Stillman said, that could be appropriated for the purpose.

In accordance with an order from Justice Bergen directing the Council to pay the claim of $92.50 on account of the vanHerwerden-Gunnison recount in the Second ward, Mr. Mygatt, chairman of the finance committee, offered the necessary resolution and it was adopted.

Councilman W. W. Wilson, chairman of the license committee, presented an opinion from Corporation Council W. M. Stillman, furnished at the request of the former, stating that according to the law and the city ordinance, it is not necessary for old applicants for liquor licenses to obtain signatures to their applications. It is only in the case of new applicants that this is required. A copy of the opinion was ordered sent to the applicants.

The street committee having investigated a bill of John Keely for street sprinkling to which objection was made by Councilman P. J. Reville, and finding it all right, the bill was ordered paid. The bond of Constable George York was presented and referred to the corporation counsel, and if found all right will be filed.

Assessments for Southern Sanitary Sewer Are Termed Grossly Unfair.

MANY AT THE HEARING

More than 100 taxpayers residing in the southern part of the city who are affected by the sanitary sewer assessment levied by Commissioners Edward A. Laing, H. B. MacDonald and Howard C. Tracy, appeared before the Common Council last night to protest against what they consider a most unfair assessment for the installation of a sewer. Many petitions were in protest received at a previous meeting, and others were received last night in writing from the Hartridge School, and the Woodland Realty Company.

The hearing accorded the property-owners, among whom were not a few women, was granted after the regular session of the Council, when the body went into a committee of the whole. Councilman George S. Clay was made chairman of the meeting.

Directions For Starting a Gasoline Engine In Cold Weather.

Crank awhile, then tickle carburetter. Crank some more. Open petcock in all cylinders and drop a little gasoline into each. Tickle carburetter and spin engine violently for five minutes. Next wrap a flannel cloth tightly around carburetter, saturate with hot water and crank awhile, always remembering that if you crank long enough friction will warm up your engine. Should engine remain stubborn, waste saturated with gasoline and plugged into air intake, may help. Now try cranking. Do it again. If too tired to keep at it, probably some by-stander will volunteer—let him go to it—it will rest you and afford you some amusement. If engine hasn't started, examine your switch—perhaps it wasn't turned on. Crank some more—stand and look at machine—cuss a little—that may help. Now if it won't start, 'phone Thompson Auto Co. to install a Thompson self-starter and self-lighter. It will eliminate your cold weather cranking troubles, start your engine at any time, any place, instantly and surely, just by a push of a button, and light your lights in the same way. ***

DANCE HALLS ARE VIOLATING LAWS

Charities Society Agent Says Liquor is Sold at Two Resorts.

SCORN CLOSING HOUR

All Freak Dances to Be Seen Here—Miss Phillips Tells Suffrage Association Council Should Protect Young People.

Miss Mabelle Phillips, agent of the Charity Organization Society, in a speech delivered yesterday afternoon before the members of the Equal Suffrage Association of Plainfield and North Plainfield at Cedarcroft, said that two dance halls, one in Plainfield and the other in North Plainfield, were violating the 11 o'clock closing law and the regulations governing the sale of intoxicants. The speaker asserted that the turkey-trot, the bunny hug, the Texas-tommy, ocean-roll, the shiver-dance, turn-over-sal, and the snaky-wiggle were danced in the city

Dance hall inpsectors, said Miss Phillips, ought to be provided by the City Council to superintend activities in Plainfield's pleasure resorts and lessen juvenile crime. Young children frequent the halls, she said and become imbued with the bad tendencies found in such centers.

Miss Harriet Daniels, of the New York Probation Association, in a speech on some aspects of the social evil in New York asserted that there are at present 72,000 wayward girls in New York between the ages of 14 and 18 of whom the New York Protective societies have no trace. The statement was one of a series of interesting statements as to the conditions of the New York working girls, 188,000 in number.

The speaker told of the efforts that are being made to find the apparent victims o fevil conditions and how many of them have been discovered through the work of the Protective League composed of girls who are employed in factories, department stores, and officers who are trying to rescue their fellow workers who have fallen into the hands of the White Slave traffickers.

HARRISON'S FATE IN JURY'S HANDS

State Insists Dunellen Autoist Was Responsible for Woman's Death.

DENIAL BY DEFENSE

Says Mr. Van Arsdale, Whose Buggy Was Struck, Was Guilty of Contributory Negligence — Witness Says Car Was Speeding.

New Brunswick, Dec. 10 (Special).—The jury in the cast of Oscar Harrison, of Dunellen, who has been on trial before Judge Daly, on an indictment for manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Anna Haslyn, near Dunellen, on August 18 last, went out at noon today, the lawyers finishing their summing up about 11 o'clock.

That Harrison drove his automobile recklessly, crashed into a runabout and that his companion, Mrs. Anna Haslyn, thereby met her death on the Bound Brook-Dunellen road, was declared by witnesses for the State. The defendant, represented by Russell E. Watson, of this city, made a general denial of any intent, claiming that there was contributory negligence on the part of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur VanArsdale, of Plainfield, into whose runabout the automobile crashed. When they were called in rebuttal, both Mr. and Mrs. VanArsdale denied being careless, asserting that Harrison and his companion had plenty of room to pass in the roadway.

Edgar Fitch, whose house is near the scene of the accident, testified that he was sitting on his porch on the day of the accident, and while he did not see the collision, said that before that time he noticed Harrison driving up the road in a two-passenger car at from 35 to 40 miles an hour. The car was going from one side of the road to the other and Mrs. Haslyn was bracing herself and seemed frightened.

There is a saying that "it is never too late" and the Plainfield High School Athletic Assn. firmly believe in it for they have just started in on a campaign to win the player-piano, the first prize in the Daily Press contest. They figure it out that a whole lot can be accomplished in two weeks and as the contest has that long still to run they have begun a vigorous fight for subscriptions, ballots and coupon votes. Down at the High School they have a reputation of doing a thing right when they do it at all and as "well begun is half done" it would not be at all surprising to see P. H. S. score a victory over its lively opponents.

But "there are others" as some have observed and it's no cinch for any particular contestant. It's not how many friends one has, it's how hard one works and how well one works that really counts. There are a number of hustlers in this unique contest and as contests go there is always a big chance for the "dark horse." To guard against any such disagreeable surprise it behooves the really ambitious candidate to keep everlastingly at it. None knows what the result will be and the only policy of insurance to take out to protect oneself is systematic and persistent effort.

And there is real joy in working for all. As Kipling says somewhere "each for the joy of the working." Don't only keep the telephone busy calling up friends, it's better to go and have a personal talk with them. First learn if they do not take the Daily Press and in the event of their not having it in their homes each afternoon, point out to them what they are losing in the way of the real news and all the news accurately and properly presented. If they are in doubt, see that the Daily Press is sent to their homes for a few days. They'll read it through each day and on each succeeding day will be more eager to get it for where is there a man in an intelligent community who does not want to keep abreast of the times; who does not want to keep informed as to what is going on in his home town day by day?

While all the struggling for one of the three grand prizes, the player-piano, the piano without the automatic attachment and the vitaphone, there will be no losers for each bona fide contestant, one turning in at least five new yearly subscriptions, will receive a bonus amounting to ten per cent. of all the money turned in.

4,000,000 CHRISTMAS TREES TO FILL YULETIDE DEMAND

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—About $2,500,000 is expected to change hands in the Christmas tree industry during the two weeks beginning today. Recently the baby pine tree was placed under a Federal ban because of the devastation of the "gypsy" moth, but Uncle Sam made the provisions of the quarantine so generous as not to interfere with the Christmas tree trade.

The United States consumes about 4,000,000 Christmas trees every year and the demand is steadily increasing, according to the officials of the Forest Service, who have been studying the subject with a view to determining whether the use of trees for this purpose is likely to affect the interests of the forests of America seriously.

The total cut of Christmas trees each year yields the owners of the lands from which the trees are taken about $200,000, it is estimated. For the same trees, the "consumers," who purchase them in the cities, pay about $2,500,000. The great differences in these two prices represents the joint profits of the shippers and dealers, minus transportation charges.

According to the official reports, New York city and the New England States make holiday use on Christmas of 1,500,000 trees. The chief supply comes from eastern Canada, Maine, New Hampshire, the Berkshire Hills, the Adirondacks, and Catskills, for Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. The middle West gets its trees mainly from the swamp lands of Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin. The South contributes many trees and also the largest supply of holly and other choice varieties of evergreens.

ARBITRATE CANAL ACT, URGES GREY

British Foreign Minister's Protest Against Law Presented to Knox.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Great Britain's formal protest against the provision of the Panama Canal act, which exempts American coastwise vessels from paying tolls, was presented by James Bryce, the British Ambassador, to Secretary Knox last evening at Mr. Knox's residence.

The document sums up the strong objections of Great Britain to the exemption clause and presents a suggestion that the differences between the two countries on this question be arbitrated if the United States does not see fit to remove the alleged discrimination.

After the protest has been given, careful consideration by the President and the Secretary of State it will be laid before the Senate and House of Representatives.

In the protest, which was in the form of a communication to Ambassador Bryce, from Sir Edward Grey, British Minister of Foreign Affairs, a general argument is based on the Clayton-Bulwer and Hay-Pauncefote treaties, that equal treatment of British and American ships was guaranteed.

Sir Edward then proceeds to argue that the exemption of American coastwise vessels is discrimination, and therefore violates those treaties.

HANDS OFF POLICY, WILSON'S POSITION

President-Elect Says He has No Idea of Interference With Congress

Hamilton, Bermuda, Dec. 10.—President-elect Wilson has been much annoyed by statements concerning his alleged purposes toward Congress that were made in some New York papers of Dec. 1, which arrived here yesterday.

Once for all he wishes it to be understood that he has no idea of interference with the National Legislature. This applies to the proposal to change the date of the inauguration parade as well as to the House squabble over committee assignments.

He declares with emphasis that he has never expressed any opinion on either subject and wants the House of Representatives to go its own gait.

SAY G. O. P. BOARD HAS PLANNED COUP

Democrats Scent Scheme to Keep Freeholder Appointments From Them.

Elizabeth, Dec. 10.—That the Republican members of the present Board of Freeholders are planning to take advantage of the fact that they do not go out of office until January 6 and are planning to reelect all of the Republicans now holding office under the board for full terms, is the rumor which is gaining currency in this city today. The appointive officers' terms expire January 1. It is understood that the Republican members are planning to take advantage of this and to appoint all the old officers in the time between January 1 and 6.

They contend that there is nothing to prevent them filling the offices as they see fit and that the new board will have nothing to say about the matter. tI is understood that the members-elect will fight the attempt on the part of the Republican members.

Ever since the Democratic members announced the slate the Republicans have been using every means to hold on to the advantage which they have held for years, and this new move is but part of the general fight to retain the hold.

AS TO SHOPPING.

Thousands of workers in every city have been taught by bitter experience to look forward to Christmas with dread. Every shop girl knows that the coming Christmas season will mean to her an immense amount of extra work, of nervous strain and exhaustion. The great army of workers whom you do not see—the bundle wrappers, drivers and errand boys—look forward to Christmas as a hateful time of undeserved effort and hardship.

Is this your conception of the day? A very little unselfishness on your part will greatly lighten the burden of these working people Merely do your Christmas shopping early—early in the month, and early in the day. By so doing, you will not only relieve the shop girls and errand boys of the necessity of serving you at the last moment, but you will escape the annoyance of finding that the very gifts you most desired have already been sold.

Carry this message on to your friends and let them see how much a little prompt action on their part will mean to a great many people less fortunate than they. When you are making your Christmas plans do not forget the patient workers in the shops. It may help you to help them if you will remember these words: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto Me."

THE NEXT SPRING MAID.

The Spring maid of 1913 is to be straight front, straight back, hipless and curveless. If fashionably attired, she will look like a straight line, with an oblique line at the top, said oblique line being her hat.—Chicago Fashion Letter.

All bosh! Chicago girls may look like that if they want to, but the girls of Trenton couldn't, even if they wished. The Trenton Spring maid of 1913 will look no more like a straight line than does a rose. She will have lips that curve in frequent, flashing smiles; eyes that gleam with health and happiness; cheeks that dimple and glow; hair that trembles with the caress of every breeze and a figure that is all suppleness and activity and grace. What chance would a straight-line girl have among such lovely rivals.—Trenton Trip American.

Gad! the Trenton girl's a beauty!
Yet seems a bit too perfect—out of reach.
The Plainfield girl is willing to be won.
All her lines are curves—she's a peach.

THE NEWSPAPER MAN.

The Manchester Union has sized up the lot of the newspaper man—his trials, his tribulations, his joys and his instinct for scenting the news. If he is honorable, the newspaper man might be the best hated man in the community in which he lives for he should show neither fear nor favor—he should print the news as he finds it whether it detrimentally affects him or his neighbor and friend; he should suppress nothing. "All the news that is fit to print" should be his aim to publish, but at all times he should be accurate and unbiased.

Of the newspaper man, the Manchester Union has to say:

A friend who sat in the office the other evening remarked that the newspaper business was the most wonderful business in the world. And he was right. There are so few people who know what it is to be a newspaper man and live to be a good old citizen. They generally get along to the "good" part quite early in life, but don't reach the "old" part, because the work is too hard. Now, every man probably thinks his work is the hardest, and the newspaper worker is no exception to the rule. But just think what it means to see news items coming from all parts of the world—dumped upon one's desk as fast as the telegraphs and cables can dump it there—constantly assimilating other people's joys and sorrows.

Then there are the interruptions, the startling emergencies, the sudden obstacles, the hurly-burly and then the intense stillness—the crazy patchwork of odds and ends that are all nicely ironed out by the time the paper goes to press. Often, in the mixup of getting the news, there are men who try their hardest to suppress the facts. Then there are others who want to give the editors basketsful of facts. There is one thing that the average newspaper worker gives up quite early in the game—and that is the attempt to please everybody. It can't be done. It is futile. And the lesson the newspaper men learn is that of marvellous patience. They learn that nothing in human nature is utterly horrible. They school themselves not to be taken by surprise by any big turn in history.

The best newspaper man wouldn't lose his breath at all if a volcano should suddenly erupt in the area at the north of his office. He'd first get the salient features of the earthquake. Well, the men who work in a boiler factory have much excitement and learn to get used to it. The story of newspaper life is the story of almost any other rapid business.

But the story of a newspaper man is really an exception to that of a man in other lines of business. The newspaper is a public utility. It should at all times and in all events be independent, honest and fearless. So should the newspaper man himself, no matter how much he may earn the enmity of those who crop into the news column.

You profited by reading the contributed editorial of Charles Arthur Reed in last Saturday's issue just as we supposed you would. Mr. Reed told the truth about the lack of genuine civic pride. He has the habit of driving the truth home no matter how much it may hurt, and generally some good comes out of it. He told the man of Plainfield his duty and told it in his own peculiar and forcefull way. Now, next Saturday we will read what another distinguished Plainfielder has to say on another topic of interest to not only Plainfielders but to Jerseymen generally. And again we say, read the contributed editorials each and every Saturday. If we had to pay for them, they would be beyond our financial reach for the contributors are men who have gained both fame and fortune in their chosen fields and their time is valuable.

Possibly that earthquake disturbance noted by a Washington, D. C., scientist occured when T. R. boarded the train at the Grand Central for Armageddon, otherwise known as Chicago. Let's blame it on him at any rate; that is the fashionable thing to do nowadays.

TO THE "GOOD FELLOWS" OF PLAINFIELD

Just about this time last year I told you my story. You listened to it—you did more—you followed its spirit out in a bang-up style. Bless your hearts, you made over 600 poor little tots know the real meaning of a joyous Christmas. I'm not claiming any credit for my story; I'm claiming credit for knowing that there are many Good Fellows in this fine old town of ours—royal chaps, who don't do much preaching, but when it comes to doing a good turn, well, they're there with the goods. This is no sermon that I'm handing you, it's a heart to heart talk with men with red blood in their veins, and here it is off last year's reel.

On Christmas and New Year's eve you and I went out for a good time and spent from $10 to $200. Christmas morning hundreds of children awoke to an empty stocking—bitter with the pain of disappointment that Santa Claus had forgotten them. That's the way it used to be. Perhaps it wasn't our fault. We had provided for our own; we had also reflected in a passing way on those less fortunate than our own, but they seemed far off and we didn't know where to find them. Perhaps in the hundred and one things we had to do some of us didn't think of that heart sorrow of the child over the empty stocking.

Now, old man, here's a chance. Just send your name and address to the Daily Press—address Santa Claus—state about how many children you are willing to protect against grief over that empty stocking, inclose a two-cent stamp and you will be furnished with the names, addresses, sex and age of that many children. It is then up to you, you do the rest. Select your own present, spend 50 cents or $50, and send or take the gifts to those children on Christmas eve. You pay not a cent more than you want to pay—every cent goes just where you want it to go. You gain neither notoriety nor advertising; no record will be kept; your letter will be returned to you with its answer. The whole plan is just as anonymous as old Santa Claus himself.

This is not a newspaper scheme. The Daily Press will preserve the anonymous character of this work. The responsibility of finding the children and sending you their names will be assumed by this paper and it guarantees that whatever you bestow will be deserved.

Neither you nor I get anything out of this, except the feeling that you have saved from sorrow on Christmas morning. If that is not enough for you then you have wasted time in reading this—it is not intended for you, but for the good fellows of Plainfield.

Perhaps a twenty-five cent doll or a ten cent tin toy wouldn't mean much to the children you know, but to the child who would find them in the otherwise empty stocking they mean much—the difference between utter disappointment and the joy that Santa Claus did not forget them. Here is where you and I get in. The charitable organizations attend to the bread and meat, the clothes, the necessaries; you and the rest of the good fellows furnish the toys, the nuts, the candies, the child's real Christmas.

GOOD FELLOW.

"Good Fellow" is not a professional philanthropist, he takes a drink, and even goes out at night with the boys for a mild good time—but he has taken care of some poor little ones each year in Plainfield. He says he wishes he had always curtailed his holiday joy-making with the good fellows even more than he did, so that he might have had more money to gladden childish hearts.

The Worthy Grand Master of the lodge of Good Fellows has laid his plans for securing names through the Charity Organization Society.

This is how you can joint the lodge of Good Fellows. Write a letter to "Santa Claus," care of the Daily Press, something like this:

I live at No.....street. I will be Santa Claus to 6 children.
JOHN JONES.

The letter will go to Santa Claus. He will indorse on your letter the names and addresses of six children. That letter will be remailed to you. Then you get busy. That's all. Come on in, good fellows.

NO QUARTER FOR G. O. P. SAYS T. R.

"Irreconcilable Fight to the Bitter End" Slogan of Progressives.

NO 'LIP LOYALTY' NOW

Wavering Adherents to Progressive Party Must "Show up or Back up" —Roosevelt's Busy Day — He Meets Jane Addams.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 10.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, in making here yesterday his first public utterance on political matters since the election, outlined his program for the next four years as follows:

1—An irreconcilable fight with the Republicans to the bitter end.

2—No "trafficking or dickering" with either of the old parties in the Legislatures of the States which have elected Progressive members.

3—An uniform program of legislation, embodying all the pledges of the Progressive National platform, to be submitted to every Legislature in which a Progressive member will have a seat.

4—Continued and unceasing assaults on the Republican party as an "organization of such a character that no honest man can be in it."

5—An immediate "smoking out" of all Republicans who profess a "lip loyalty" to the Progressive cause. "Either make them show up or back up," said Mr. Roosevelt.

6—The writing into the laws of all States of a provision for the recall of judicial decisions.

Col. Roosevelt and the Eastern delegation arrived at the Park Row station at 1:20 o'clock in the afternoon aboard the "Bull Moose Special" on the Michigan Central Railroad. Five hundred admirers, led by Medill McCormick, greeted the Colonel at the station and escorted him to the Hotel La Salle. In the party were also Oscar Straus, Gov. Robert P. Bass, of New Hampshire; Charles Sumner Bird, of Massachusetts; Dr. Walter E. Weyl, Charles H. Thompson, of Vermont; George L. Record, of New Jersey, and other Eastern leaders.

Beside attending the conference of the Illinois lawmakers, Col. Roosevelt took part in the meeting of the Executive Committee of the National Progressive Committee, went for a spin around the city with Medill McCormick, was the guest of honor at a private dinner given by Mr. McCormick at the University Club, and later attended a performance at Hull House by the Hull House players and held a conference with Miss Jane Addams.

AUTOIST FINED $1,000 FOR KILLING BABY BOY

Elizabeth, Dec. 10.—George S. Mawhinney, of Port Richmond, Staten Island, was yesterday fined $1,000 by Judge Edward S. Atwater in the Court of Common Pleas on a charge of manslaughter in causing the death of Vincent Budd Hauck, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Hauck, of 572 Cherry street, Sunday, October 20. The fine was paid.

Mr. Mawhinney was indicted by the October Grand Jury and pleaded not guilty. Yesterday, through his attorneys, the plea was retracted and a plea of non vult was allowed. Prosecutor Swift moved for immediate sentence and Judge Atwater imposed the fine.

Mr. Mawhinney was driving an automobile south in Morris avenue near North avenue when another car, owned and driven by Dr. T. E. Bleick, of Newark, rounded the corner of North avenue into Morris avenue. In trying to avoid a collision Mr. Mawhinney swerved sharply to the right and ran upon the sidewalk, where Mr. Hauck and his son, Vincent, were walking. Mr. Hauck was wheeling a baby in a carriage. The machine hit Vincent, knocking him to the ground, fracturing his skull and killing him almost instantly.

GOOD FELLOW TO GET SANTA CLAUS LETTERS

Postmaster E. H. Bird has received an official copy of the order issued yesterday by Postmaster General Hitchcock authorizing postmasters to turn over to charitable organizations all mail addressed to "Santa Claus," and in conformity with that order he will deliver such mail received at the local postoffice to the "Good Fellow" who will see that they are properly taken care of.

According to the Postmaster General's order, postmasters are authorized to deliver such mail upon which postage is prepaid, arriving at the respective postoffices between December 16 and January 1, inclusive, which are addressed plainly and unmistakably to "Santa Claus," without any other terms or expressions identifying the person for whom such letters are intended. Letters without adequate postage will be sent to the Dead Letter office at Washington.

CYCLE CLUB MEMBERS GIVE PERCY HABERLE A SURPRISE

Percy Haberle, of 72 Linden avenue, was surprised last night by fellow-members of the Plainfield Cycling Club in honor of his twenty-second birthday. He was presented with a bathrobe and slippers by Jack Horner in behalf of the club, following which cards and other games occupied the evening. Supper was served.

FOR DEFECTIVES' SCHOOL.

The Board of Education of North Plainfield is still trying to secure a hall or building suitable for use as classrooms for backward and deficient children, and as a gymnasium and basketball court for the High School pupils. Although a conference with the management of Saengerbund Hall was held yesterday, and William G. Debele, owner of Debele's Hall, has submitted a proposition for consideration, no action has been taken. A decission may be reached at the next meeting of the Board, Monday, December 16.

FREE LECTURE.

The third lecture in the free public school course will be given in the Washington School auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock. The speaker is Frederick B. Wright, of Washington. His subject will be "The Glacial Period of the World."

NEW SECRETARY.

At the meeting of the Young Men's Club of the First Presbyterian church last night, Arthur W. Dunning resigned as secretary, owing to pressure of business and Orlando Lounsbury was elected to succeed him.

MRS. SWEENEY'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Mrs. Hattie Sweeney, who died at her home on West Front street, Sunday, was held at St. Mary's church this morning at 8:30 o'clock. The mass was conducted by Father Bogan. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Elizabeth, Dec. 10 (Special).—The petit jury for the January term of court was chosen this morning. Those from Plainfield are John F. Phillips, Charles Keller, George Doty, Percy Ransome, Peter M. McDonough and Robert Jackson. William Traynor, was chosen from Fanwood. A. E. Force, of Plainfield, was selected as one of the jurors, but for some reason his name was omitted.

GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL BANS ROLLER TOWELS

Washington, Dec. 10.—Provision against the furnishing by all Interstate carriers of roller or public common towels to the traveling public was made in a regulation issued by Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh late yesterday. Individual towels must be furnished, he ruled. The regulations cover railroads, vehicles, steamship vessels and hotels and waiting rooms.

New Brunswick, Dec. 10 (Special).—Judge Freeman Woodbridge sitting in the Middlesex County District Court, returned a verdict of non-suit in the case of James F. Fleming, a Plainfield real estate agent, against Frank Stout, of Central avenue, whom hes ued for agents' commission on the selling price of some property owned by the defendant. Councilman-elect Francis J. Blatz represented the deefndant.

SAVED HIS HAND.

Joseph Noonan, of West Seventh street, who was threatened with the loss of his right hand through blood poisoning, is now able to be out again and expects to return to his position in the Custom House, New York, within a short time. The trouble was caused by a scratch from a rusty nail three weeks ago.

MAINE MINISTER, HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW AND BROTHER-IN-LAW ON TRIAL CHARGED WITH KILLING THE WOMAN'S HUSBAND

Houlton, Me., Dec 10.—The Rev. Charles Emelius, a minister of the Lutheran church; Mrs. Annie Jacobson, his mother-in-law, and the latter's son, Edgar J. Jacobson, of New Sweden, are on trial in the supreme court of Aroostook county for the murder of Augustus Jacobson, a prosperous New Sweden farmer, on June 11, 1911. Emelius was pastor of the Lutheran church at New Sweden at the time of the crime. A few months after the death of Jacobson Emelius married Jacobson's daughter, Mrs. Belle Gabrielson, who had been a widow only a short time. Jacobson's body was found by his wife in a lane between his home and a pasture. Beneath the body was an old rifle. On a fish pole which rested against a nearby tree was a note purporting to have been written by Jacobson, in which he said he was about to take his own life. On a physician's report to a coroner that it was a clear case of suicide an inquest was thought unnecessary, and Jacobson was buried the next day. Two months later County Attorney Brown became suspicious and ordered the body exhumed. The autopsy then showed that the man had been shot four times—twice through the left breast and twice through the head. The inquest which followed developed the fact that buttoned about the body when found were an overcoat and an undercoat, in neither of which was there a bullet hole. Detectives working for the attorney general asserted they had learned that the minister's suit for the hand of Jacobson's daughter was opposed by the father. Emelius was arrested on June 12, a year after Jacobson's death.

WATER IS POOR IN SOMERVILLE

Council Gets No Answer to Request to Supply Company to Better Quality.

POLICE WANT A RAISE

Bids to Be Asked for Construction of Sanitary Sewers on Three Thoroughfares—A Contractor Balks on Bid Submitted.

Somerville, Dec. 10.—The marshals at a meeting of the Borough Council last night presented a petition to have their pay raised from $70 to $80 per month. The matter was referred to the police committee. It was also expected that a successor would be appointed in place of Marshal Koch, who died last month, but nothing was done. Special Marshal Ramsey has been filling Koch's place.

A report was read from the special engineer engaged in making weekly analyses of the water furnished by the Somerville Water Company for drinking purposes. The last report from the engineer showed the supply to be in a highly contaminated condition, and the clerk was directed to send a copy of the report to the company, with a request that the contract with the borough in the matter of furnishing a pure supply of water at all times be complied with. The engineer claims that the filtration plant of the water company is entirely inadequate, and should be materially enlarged. Last month the Borough Council was directed to communicate with the water company and request that its contract with the borough, in the matter of enlarging is distribution system and also in its hydrant pressure, be complied with, but nothing has, as yet, been done in the matter.

A report was received from the borough engineer as to the probable cost of the new sanitary sewers on Warren, East High street and North Gaston avenue, which is estimated at $2,467.36, and it was decided to advertise for bids for the construction of the work. It was also stated that the successful bidder, William Hardgrove, for the construction of the storm drains on Eastern and Gaston avenues, demurs at signing a contract to do this work at his bid of $2,532.70, because of a 10 per cent. increase in the price of sewer pipes since he submitted his bid, which was last June. The matter was referred to the sewer committee for investigation.

Elton Giles, of Verdon street, has recovered from a slight illness.

John Bremble, of East Seventh street, was in Trenton yesterday on business.

New Player-Pianos from $395 to $1650

Especially is this the opportunity to exchange your silent piano—whether old or new—for a player-piano which by a touch of the pedals becomes a living, breathing instrument ready at all times to pour out the most exquisite music.

Any one—even a child—can operate a Player-piano.

A mother who brought home her Christmas Player-piano ahead of time tells us that even her four and five-year-old children are already learning the names of some of the musical rolls; that they are beginning to sing with the Player-piano; and that these little children actually operate the Player-piano, learning music in this simple way.

Later on when these children want to take up the study of music the Player-piano can be played just as an ordinary piano and they will have the advantage of having their ears and minds already tuned to music, making much easier the mechanical training of the fingers in actually playing on the key-board.

promotions with which I had something to do, were well earned, and I am sure they leave no heartburning among you patrolmen. I am sure that you are glad of the success of the men promoted, for they are well worthy of the honor."

City Judge De Meza in a short speech, congratulated the roundsmen, as well as the association, adding that they were all his friends. He felt sure that the newly-appointed men would "make good and fill the bill." Roundsmen Flynn, Saffron and Keller each responded with short speeches.

John J. Ohrenberger, secretary of the Elizabeth association, congratulated the roundsmen and urged all the men to stand together. He told the patrolmen to treat their superiors fairly and not try to take advantage. In this way the association and the superiors could co-operate effectually.

William G. Messler, former president of the local association, reviewed briefly what the association had accomplished during its four years, securing shorter hours for the men, tenure of office, additional pay, daylight work for the men in turn. He urged the men to stand shoulder to shoulder for their rights. If they did that, he said, they would never have any trouble in getting their rights in the future.

Among others called upon for speeches were Captain Christian Frederickson, Detective - Sergeant John J. Flynn and Richard Birmingham. Among the guests in addition to the members of the association, were Mayor G. W. V. Moy, City Judge W. G. DeMeza, former President Jas. J. O'Brien and John J. Ohrenberger, secretary of the Elizabeth association; Policeman McNeelly, of Westfield; Policeman Hanlon, of Somerville; Policeman Logan, of Scotch Plains; Captain Christian Frederickson, Detective-Sergeant John J. Flynn, Roundsmen Charles A. Flynn, Andrew L. Saffron, Charles Keller; William G. Messler, Thomas McCue, a retired member of the department; Martin Flatley, Martin Welsh and Roland McIntyre, who will join the association at its next meeting.

The committee in charge of the affair comprised Tobias W. Nolan, chairman; Cornelius McCarty, Fred Bader, Richard Birmingham, Frank Sweeney and Arthur McGinley.

PROTESTS FROM TAXPAYERS

ed the property-owners that their complaints would be taken up at once and a decision announced as soon as possible.

William R. Codington, the first speaker, reviewed the history of the installation of sewers in Plainfield. He said that the original cost was $160,000, $36,000 of which was paid by individual property-owners, and $124,000 by the city at large. In that case the proportion was less than 25 per cent. for approximately twenty-three miles of sewer. The present three and a half miles represent a cost of $51,000, of which the city is to pay $15,000 and the petitioners $35,000. In his opinion there was a wide discrepancy.

Referring to two later installments of sewers, in 1905 and 1909, Mr. Codington said that the property-owners had been assesssed on a 35 or 33 per cent. basis, but there evidently had been a mistake in the present assessment. Deducting $8,000 for a pumping station, Mr. Codington said that the property-owners had been assessed on an 80 per cent. basis, which he did not think was the original plan. He also called attention to the fact that a majority of the protesting owners had not received any benefits from sewers for which they have been paying since their installation.

Mr. Codinton cited one case where a property-owner was assessed $1,000 for a 900 foot frontage, and yet that owner may not get any benefit of the sewer for ten years to come. He believed that new buildings which are to be erected in the future should help pay for the improvement.

Mr. Daniel said that it was interesting to compare the cost of the original sewers and the present one on a mileage basis. He thought the original plan of assessment on a basis of about 30 cents a front foot was equitable, but in the present case it had been fixed at about $1.10 a front foot. He wanted to know what had brought about such a change in the method of assessment. Mr. Daniel said that if the cost of the pumping stations is deducted the present assessment would be in excess of the cost of construction.

Mr. Daniel cited several instances where in his opinion there had been an erroneous assessment, especially in cases where owners who will have no benefit of the sewers were assessed.

John Green protested because he had been assessed for a sewer which does not come near his property. At this point Councilman Gloak admitted that Mr. Green's assessment was a mistake and would be corrected.

L. W. Serrell called attention to the fact that property-owners in the southern section of the city have had to pay for the maintenance of cesspools for many years, which cost, he thought, equal to the maintenance of sewers. He said that he would be willing to pay his present assessment if the city would refund him what he had paid for the maintenance of cesspools.

Alfred Johnson and E. S. Elliott also protested on the ground of an excessive assessment, the latter especially because he will get no benefit from the sewer.

Perhaps one of the most striking protests was that of Miss Hartridge through her counsel, Asa F. Randolph. He showed that Miss Hartridge is assessed a total of $1,593 on Stillman, Sherman and Plainfield avenues, and his client thought that the asssesment was not only unjust, but entirely out of reason.

SEWER CONTRACT NOT READY FOR COUNCILS

For the reason that the contract for the joint sewer proposition, which are being prepared by Lindabury, Depue & Faulks, of Newark, are not yet ready for presentation to the councils of Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen, the Plainfield Council at its adjourned meeting, last night, was obliged to continue the consideration of all sewer matters until the next meeting. In this connection, it was voted to adjourn the meeting to Monday, December 16, in the hope that the contracts may be ready by that time.

MRS. EMMA A. CHAPMAN CONVICTED ON TWO COUNTS

FASHION'S FADS IN GAY GOTHAM

What's the Correct Thing Among the Best Dressed in the Ultra-set.

New York, Dec. 10.—The recent opening of the social season which was ushered in by the horse show and, close upon its heels, the opening of the operatic season, has given ample opportunity to study the present types of evening costumes as worn at the opera, the theatre and at various other public and social functions. One of the most striking features seems to be the great vogue of costumes in combinations of white and silver and white and crystal.

The white frocks vary greatly in character. Some of the handsomest are in white and silver brocade trimmed with silver lace and fur. One stunning frock seen the other night was of white velvet brocade on a silver foundation, an amazingly supple material draped in clinging lines and showing a petticoat of fine lace where the narrow pointed train dragged away from the slashed sides. The bodice was almost entirely of the fine lace laid over flesh color tulle, but the sleeves were mere wisps of silver tulle.

Crystal trimming, or at least crystal in the popular form of brilliants set on in single lines or in chains, is more often used upon the toilettes of young women than upon the elaborate costumes of maturer matrons. The brilliants used in motifs of loose chain effect are at their best made double. That is, two brilliants are set together back to back and the result is a greatly enhanced effectiveness. Embroideries of tiny crystal bugles are used extensively. Net bands and trimmings of crystal beads are also popular, and one sees some crystal fringes, although only occasionally.

The crystal beaded tulle, which both in white and in black is well liked, figures very considerably in one way or another among the opera frocks. Most often the black and white are combined after the fashions exploited by Worth and Drecoll and there are some handsome and practical frocks in which the drapery and train are of black velvet embossed or silver gauze or black chiffon, while the underskirt is of the thickly beaded tulle, black or white or black and white.

Perhaps the msot distinctive feature of the new evening frocks, aside from occasional vagaries of skirt drapery and train, is the free use of flowing sleeves draperties, akin to the angel sleeves of olden times. This idea is developed in innumerable ways, though ocassionally the designer bungles the thing and achieves a sleeve drapery quite out of tune with the other lines of the frock.

Often this so-called sleeve drapery covers the front of the arm not at all or merely lies like a soft shadow across the shoulder point and a few inches of the arm below it, but back of the shoulder line the lace or tulle falls gracefully, forming a background for the arm and giving long, gracious lines to the back of the frock. Sometimes it descends only to the girdle, sometimes it falls almost to the floor or looses itself in some clever way among the skirt draperies.

The idea of sleeves contrasting in material is not new this season, but one finds new expressions of it in some of the opera gowns. One beautiful gown of black velvet and rare old lace, for example, had the left side of the bodice and close short sleeve of the lace plainly and clingingly fitted, while on the right side the velvet ran up diagonally to a point from under which rose a drapery of black tulle that crossed the shoulder and fell in a loose flowing drapery over the arm. This drapery was bordered by a single line of brilliants. A great rose of black velvet with brilliant crest was posed on the corsage, where velvet and black tulle met.

The very general use of the transparent bodice has made necessary all sorts of versions of the bib skirt continuation. A bodice of color and texture contrasting with the skirt, the line of demarcation being directly at the waist line or even at a high girdle top is distinctly ungraceful and inartistic.

Broad back panels are extensively used on dresses made of heavy weight materials. The skirt of the dressy model often shows a drapery suggestion. These skirts have crossover drapery tapering off to the back, where it is lightly caught up and brought under the back panel, near the skirt edge.

Other models have a broad panel effect in the back, the skirts having pleated inserts at the side or the suggestion of drapery produced by an arrangement of pleats in the side front seam and effected by drawing up the lengthened skirt. The sides of these models are plain and finished off at the back with a panel arrangement.

Some panels are pleated. They generally run all the same way instead of being reversed toward the center. They appear in the back or front, and in some cases in a panel effect on one side of the skirt. Gathered panels are also used, but in every case this section is stitched to the skirt all the way down. The panel finish is more becoming to the average figure than the perfectly plain back, and it also makes a desirable finish when the drapery is of a material contrasting with the dress fabric, as the panel of self-material makes a good finish for the drapery at each side.

The old style corset cover has become almost unknown in fashionable circles, for the woman who dresses smartly realizes the necessity of a firmer figure support under loose gowns than the corset cover of yore. Brassieres of linen and fine embroidery and perhaps an edge of Irish or Clunny lace are worn with the petticoat, over the corset, a separate culotte drawer being worn also over the corset if desired. Most women, however, dispense with this pretty culotte drawer in the interests of slenderness, and wear the corset over a combination chemise-drawer of batiste, or an ordinary combination garment of glove silk, which clings closely to the figure.

Lace is not used on petticoats now except in the form of insertion above the flounce of embroidery, and in narrow frills under the edge of the embroidery scallops.

The street petticoat is of tub material and has a six-inch flounce, no deeper, set on under an embroidery beading.

Dancing petticoats and those intended for evening wear often have flounces to the knees, the handsome embroidery flounce not being gathered where it joins the petticoat top, but having a few groups of pin tucks to lend fullness without lumpiness.

Velour hats are in great favor and milliners usually trim them with picot-edged faille ribbon.

Cameos in Wedgwood blue and shell pink are seen on hats and used for the fastenings of evening cloaks.

Smart waists of white voile have groups of fine tucks alternating with rows of tiny rhinestone buttons.

The oriental influence is seen in Persian-shaped toques and Persian embroideries.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

FASHION WHIMS.

A Little Talk About the Vagaries of the Tailor Made.

There should under all circumstances be included one good looking tailored costume in the wardrobe. This should be cut with simple but becoming lines and should be of one of the rough materials—ratine, wool eponge, boucle, a diagonal—or, if it is to fulfil the functions of two suits, of velours de laine, corduroy or even velvet. When there are to be two tailored suits in the wardrobe a rough material for this trotteur costume is advisable.

The skirt is plain, and for the tailored suit, to be used for walking, shopping, etc., this is advisable. There are various ways of breaking the severeness of such a skirt which are quite permissable in even the strictest of tailor made costumes—the fold or lap over plaits at the side of the front and back panel or inlet in clusters at the bottom, straps, touches of braid, panels, etc. The straight, narrow skirt, however, is still very much in favor, and if it is not too tight it is very youth producing and pretty.

Nothing ever takes the place in a girl's wardrobe of the simple shirt waist in mannish style. The waist illustrated is one of the most modish designs of the season.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

THE CHRISTMAS PLUM PUDDING.

THE Christmas plum pudding may be prepared as much as two months in advance. It is better for being allowed to ripen. By making it thus the labors of holiday week may be much lightened.

A Delectable Pudding.

Plum Pudding.—A reliable recipe for a plum pudding is this: Take three-quarters of a pound of suet, chopped very fine. While chopping mix with it a tableblespoonful of flour, three-quarters of a pound each of seeded raisins, currants, sugar and fresh breadcrumbs, the grated skin of one lemon, one-quarter of a pound of candied orange peel and citron, cut into thin shavings; one-half teaspoonful each of ground cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg and allspice.

Mix the dry materials together and then add six eggs, one at a time, and one-half cupful of brandy. Add another egg if too stiff and more breadcrumbs if too soft.

Wet a strong cloth in cold water, wring it dry, butter it and dredge it with flour. Turn the mixture into the center and draw the cloth together over the top, leaving room for the pudding to swell a little, and tie firmly.

Put it into a pot of boiling water, having it completely covered. Cover the pot and boil for five hours.

After it is removed from the water let it rest in the bag ten minutes to harden a little. Then cut the string and turn it carefully into a dish.

Before serving pour a little brandy over the pudding and touch a match to it just before carrying to the table. Serve with a brandy or vanilla sauce.

Delicious Sauces.

Brandy Sauce.—To make the brandy sauce put into a saucepan two cupfuls of water with one cupful of sugar. When the sugar is dissolved and the water boils add slowly a heaping tablespoonful of cornstarch, diluted with a little cold water. Stir until the corn starch is clear, then remove from the fire and add two tablespoonfuls of brandy. Serve hot.

Vanilla Sauce.—Another sauce suitable for plum pudding is as follows: Take one-half cupful of butter, one cupful of powdered sugar, one teaspoonful of vanilla, one-quarter cupful of boiling water, two tablespoonfuls of sherry, the white of one egg. Cream the butter and sugar, add the vanilla and wine and beat them well. Just before serving stir in the boiling water, add the whipped white of one egg and beat until frothy.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The football picture will be taken sometime this week. Manager Janke announces that all members of the squad are eligible.

Manager Grisley, of the basketball team, received the new uniforms for the members of the school quintet Saturday morning, so the boys were able to "flash" the equipment on the Passaic team, Saturday afternoon. The jerseys are a navy blue with a red band about the middle and with blue "P's" on the red bands.

The Junto Club, a school organization, is fast gaining in popularity. It now has twenty-five members. Last year's and the charter members are Ernest Higgins, president; Donald Updike, vice president; Adelber Whitford, secretary; A. B. Buttfield treasurer; George Block, Charles Johnson, Curtis B. Dall, Nicholas Zelmas, Leroy Ellis, William Vail, Roger Cockburn, Payton Schenk, Morris Mann, Robert Moyer, Bonsal Stover, J. Frank Carey, Edward Sachar, Morris Cantor, Edward B. Ryder, Albert Huelson, Benjamin Rosenson, Anthony Denny, Benjamin Cooley, George Gray and Randolph Stelle.

The members of the senior class have at last received the class pins and rings they ordered the first part of the school term, but all are now satisfied.

Monroe Good was elected temporary basketball captain by the team Saturday, while at Passaic.

EXTRA SESSION, MAYBE, TO BEGIN ON MARCH 15

Washington, Dec. 10.—Tariff hearings will be begun by the Ways and Means Committee on January 6. It has not yet been decided which schedule will be taken up first. The committee was in conference today. It is understood that Chairman Underwood favors March 15 for the extra session.

Chairman Underwood said later that the committee would take the schedules up in alphabetical order beginning with chemicals. Opportunity will be offered manufacturers and importers to present their views during January.

SIX-DAY GRIND IS STILL SPEEDY

Contestants Are Nine Miles Ahead of the Best Previous Record.

FAIL TO GAIN A LAP

Every Effort Made So Far to Leave the Field Behind Has Simply Resulted in Hanging up New Records —One Sprint.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Madison Square Garden, New York, Dec. 10.—Now nine miles ahead of the best previous record, having covered 792 miles since starting yesterday morning, the riders in the big six-day bicycle grind are today plugging away, and each of the fifteen teams is tied for the lead. Several efforts to gain a lap made since the race started have only resulted in the hanging up of new records for the number of hours the race has been ridden, and in tiring the contestants out much more than has been the case during the first days in previous contests of the kind.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon the standing of the teams was as follows:

	Miles.	Laps.
Kramer and Moran	792	0
Clark and Hill	792	0
Grendo and Pye	792	0
Rutt and Folger	792	0
Root and Hehir	792	0
Perchicot and Egg	792	0
Sutes and Suter	792	0
Bedell and Mitten	792	0
Walthour and Cameron	792	0
Drobach and Collins	792	0
Lawrence and Magin	792	0
Loftes and Carmen	792	0
Bosco and Berthet	792	0
Walker and Wells	792	0

The former record is 788 miles for the same time. Hill was leading the riders at 2 o'clock.

At 9 a. m. all the teams were still in the race and tied at 695 miles, 3 laps, with the best previous record for the same time 684 miles and 3 laps. Hehir was leading.

Grendo was leading at 10 a. m., with all teams having covered 713 miles and 3 laps, against a former record of 704 miles and 5 laps.

The riding was a little slower in the hour between 10 and 11 and when the scores were hung up the teams were less than eight miles behind the record, all having covered 732 miles and 3 laps, against 724 miles and 7 laps.

At noon the distance covered was 752 miles and 1 lap, and at 1 o'clock 772 miles and 8 laps.

INSERT TO COME.....wtes..

Last night's crowd was rewarded with one real sprint. It was started at 10:30 by Alf Grenda, the big Australian, who is riding his first six-day race at the Garden. His jump carried him about thirty yards ahead of the rest of the field, and he was gaining steadily when relieved by his partner, Ernie Pye. Lap after lap the two Australians set a dizzy pace for the field of stragglers, and in a minute practically every rider in the long race was on the track to relieve his partner. The "jam" was finally brought to a sudden close after three minutes of fast riding, when Joe Fogler and Clarence Carmen collided on the Twenty-seventh street side of the track.

Up to 11 o'clock last night, the close of the twenty-second hour of the race, nothing like a sustained effort to capture a lap had been attempted by any of the riders. Now and then one of them shot to the front, and for a lap or two hit up a clip that threw the crowd into an uproar and caused a scurrying of sleepy riders from the various camps, where the non-riders were trying to tear off a little sleep. But never did these "jumps" go more than a half mile, or five times around the saucer. There was relieving of partners on the part of the team which started the sprint, as is the case in all determined efforts on the part of one team to lap the field.

It was this condition of affairs that was responsible for the steady breaking of old records, the lack of accidents, the survival of all the fifteen teams which started, and their keeping on even terms throughout the day. The speedy clip set by the pacemakers—generally the foreigners—kept the riders going so fast that none of them had a strong desire to put on extra exertion, such as the effort to steal a lap would entail. Brocco, the Italian rider, who has an apparently chronic fondness to lead the field, lived up to the reputation in this respect which he established two years ago, and to him more than any individual rider the credit must go for the steady run of new records. His partner, Berthet, was also prominent in the speed sprints.

It was rumored last evening that three of the riders—Frank Kramer, Jackie Clarke, and Eddie Root—were much disturbed over the happenings of the first day and were anxious to retire from the race. The extreme speed, with no prospects that it would diminish, had affected this trio more than any of the other riders. All are noted for their sprinting ability, but the steady grind at the unexpected record-breaking speed had put them in anything but a good humor. They found it impossible to get in the expected periods of rest after periodical bursts of speed, and were outspoken in their ideas about the record breakers. It was reported that several other veterans were far from enthusiastic over the speed mania which the first day developed. But all were plugging away at midnight, showing enough speed to keep with the field whenever any speed was shown.

Great excitement took place late yesterday afternoon when the first attempt to steal a lap was made by Pat Hehir, of Melbourne, Australia. The best sprint of the race took place when Hehir in being relieved by his partner, Eddie Root, dashed out in front and beat it around, getting about a quarter of a lap when the rest of the teams started after him. Hehir could not sneak ahead. This sprint sent the bicycle bugs on an edge and they whooped things up when the short sprint was started. The foreign teams did not let up on their hot pace and when the score was posted at the next hour they were five miles and one lap ahead of the record made by Georget and Pouchois in 1910. There were no spills reported up to that time other than the one recorded in yesterday's Press.

DOGS OF FASHION THAT COMPETED FOR PRIZES AT NEW YORK SHOW

New York, Dec. 10.—Look at these aristocrats of the canine world and the little mistress of one of the pets. The dogs are the very noblest of dog nobility. The pictures were made while the dogs were on exhibition at the bench show in the Waldorf-Astoria. The show was conducted by the Toy Spaniel Club of America, but the dogs on view were not all of the toy spaniel type. Indeed, of the 403 dogs on exhibition only fifty-five were of the toy type. But the dogs were all of small varieties, the solemn looking dachshunds being the largest shown.

OAK PARK HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL PLAYERS ARE CHAMPIONS OF THE INTERSCHOLASTIC WORLD

The West triumphed over the East in the principal interscholastic football game of the season this year when the Oak Park High School team of Chicago, pictured above, defeated Everett High School of Boston, 3[illegible] to 14. Strong offensive work, combined with the inability of the Everett team to fathom a triple pass play gave the Chicago school boys the game. Time and again, using the triple pass, Oak Park backs went around Everett's end for gains of from one to forty yards. The forward pass was used successfully by both teams. The game was played at Boston before a crowd of 6,000.

TESREAU HAS NOTABLE RECORD AS A PITCHER

Fewer Earned Runs Were Scored Off Him—New Rating.

Secretary John Heydler, of the National League, has issued a table of pitchers' averages, based on the actual number of earned runs for which each pitcher was responsible. According to this new manner of rating the pitchers, Big Jeff Tesreau, of the Giants, allowed fewer earned runs by his opponents than any other pitcher. Mathewson was second in the list and Nap Rucker, of Brooklyn, third.

Tesreau's record is interesting inasmuch as only 1.96 runs were earned off him per game. He pitched 243 innings and 1,005 batsmen faced him. He allowed 177 hits, hit 10 batsmen, gave 106 passes, struck out 119 batsmen, and had six wild pitches. Ninety runs were scored off this pitcher, of which he was responsible for only 53.

Claude Hendrix, of Pittsburg, with 24 games won and 9 lost, leads the League pitchers in games won and lost. His percentage of victories is .727, and only five points behind comes Cheney, of Chicago, who won 26 and lost 10 games. Five of the first nine men are members of the Giants. Tesreau, Marquard and Ames stand third, fourth and fifth respectively. After Richie and Leifield, Chicagoans, next in order, comes another New York pair, Mathewson and Crandall. Mathewson's standing is eighth, with 12 games lost to 23 won, and a percentage of .657. Rucker, Brooklyn's left-handed star, pitched the greatest number of shut-outs—six.

FIRST HOME GAME FOR P. H. S. QUINTET

Woodbridge Five to Be Their Opponents—In Better Shape.

Plainfield High School students will be offered their first opportunity to get a line on their basketball representatives for the coming season when the P. H. S. players meet Woodbridge High School in the local gym tomorrow afternoon. Although the initial contest which was played at Passaic proved rather disastrous to the local players, Coach Wriston has been busily engaged all the week polishing the rough spots and a first-class quintet will line up against Woodbridge.

Because of an injury he sustained at Passaic Woodhull will probably be out of the game, but there is a strong second string, anyone of whom can fill his shoes. Although no definite lineup has been announced, the following will likely start the game: Hetfield and Heron, forwards; Good, center; Peacock and Brynarski, guards. No captain has been chosen to lead the team permanently but Good is at present acting in that capacity and will do so tomorrow.

PREACHER WARNS GIRLS NOT TO BECOME FLIRTS

Declaring that although a girl's natural inclination is to be attractive and charming, she should never let it lead her into flirtation, the Rev. C. F. Herring, pastor, spoke before the congregation of the First Presbyterian church Sunday night on "Girls in Their Teens." This sermon was supplement to that preached last Sunday when the pastor spoke on "Boys in Their Teens."

He said in part:

"The natural virtue of a young woman is to be attractive and charming. She should never let that power degenerate into flirtation. As she grows older, she should never lead a man into declaring his love for her that she may, as soon as he has committed himself, send him away bewidered by her refusal. I have read of a famous beauty who had on her list twenty proposals and was on the war path for the twenty-first.

"What was it in Jenny Lind's singing that charmed the hearts of her audiences and made her name immortal? It was not simply the lyrical quality of her voice but the fact that she was seeking for enough money to build an orphan's home. Here is an epitaph over the grave of a young girl that is a beautiful ideal for the girls of today, 'A young girl of whom her friends said it was easier to be good when she was around.'"

"AMEN," A PRAYER IN ITSELF, SAYS PREACHER

"Amen" was the subject of an interesting sermon by Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong at the First Baptist church Sunday morning. The preacher characterized it as "one of the most interesting words in Holy Writ, in which is to be found strength, solidity, substance, truth and everlasting endurance." He said that it is used synonymously with the name of Christ as in Rev. 3-4 and elsewhere. Even if one leaves out the word "Jesus" from his prayer, the word "Amen" brings it in. Indeed the word "Amen" intelligently, reverently, devoutly said to God is a whole prayer in itself, a prayer as long as eternity itself.

"In more sense than one," said Dr. Strong, "the word 'Amen' has a backward, a present and a forward look. It sets a seal of authority upon what preceded when used as a conclusion in numerous places in the Bible; it gives personal assent to statements made at the present time; it looks forward in that it means 'so let it be' or 'so make it to be' in the future when it is affixed to a petition.

"Very thoughtful should one be in uttering any prayer after which he says 'Amen.' For instance, no one who does not heartily endorse and support the great cause of missions, could consistently pray 'The Kingdom Come—Amen.' Neither could he pray 'Forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors, Amen,' unless he actually has freely forgiven all who have wronged him, for he is asking his God to forgive him in just the way he forgives others.

"In a still more interesting sense does this grand old word 'Amen' apply in the past, the present and the future. Amid the changes along every line of thought and expression through perhaps forty centuries, this one word in all literature has remained practically unchanged. Were David to step in among a Twentieth Century congregation, while he could not understand another word of our praise and prayer, he would recognize the word 'Amen.' Not only that but the word 'Amen' is very much the same in all languages of the world at the present day. And in that Heavenly Kingdom 'ten thousand times ten thousand and thousands of thousands' round about the throne shall sing 'Amen: Blessing and glory and wisdom and thanksgiving, and honor and power and might be unto our God forever and ever, Amen.'"

SAN FRANCISCO'S NEW PLAN.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 10.—San Francisco's plans to place the municipal government on a business-like basis, to which end her best energies have been bent since control of the city affairs was wrested from the "graft" ring some years ago, took another step forward today, when the citizens, at a special election, voted on a proposed charter amendment providing for radical changes in the organization of the department of public works. The proposed change represents the new theory of municipal government, the centralization of important offices in one responsible head. It calls for the abolition of the present board, consisting of three members, and the substitution of one executive head, to be called the director of public works, appointed by the mayor and to hold office during the pleasure of the mayor. The director of public works is to receive a salary of $15,000 a year.

The best weavers in Belfast, Ireland, have sent cloths and napkins, and Germany and Austria have joined in sending satin finished scalloped hemstitched cloths and sets. The beautiful Flemish Raye Aiull linens came from Belgium; centrepieces from France and Austria, while exquisite hand embroidered cloths, napkins and scarfs were gathered on the Madeira Islands. It is all our own importation. By placing orders as far back as last February, we now quote prices from 10 to 15 per cent. lower than most stores would charge. The Washing on street linen section is indeed ready for the housewife. Let her come and choose her Christmas linens with that feeling of security which goes with all purchases made at Bamberger's. STILL HAS FAITH IN DOCTOR COOK

Public School Lecturer Thinks He Reached "Same Place as Peary."

TRAVELLED WITH HIM

Mr. Wright Made a Journey to the North With Discredited Explorer in 1893—Lecture on Glaciers and Mountains.

Belief in Dr. Frederick Cook, the discredited explorer, is still held by Frederick B. Wright, of Washington, D. C., who gave an illustrated lecture on the "Glacier Period," in the Washington School Auditorium last night, the third of a series of free public lectures arranged by the Board of Education.

Mr. Wright, who is a charter member of the Arctic Club, accompanied Dr. Cook on a trip of exploration to Greenland in 1893, and many of his illustrations of the North exhibited last night were photos he had taken on that voyage.

He was asked after the lecture whether he thought his friend, Dr. Cook, or Admiral Peary had reached the Pole. He said:

"I believe Dr. Cook and Peary both reached the same place."

That the giant glaciers which passed over this section of the country during the glacial period were responsible for the geographical formation of this State, and that the stone and gravel so plentiful in this city were left here by the huge mountain of ice and snow as it passed over this section of the continent, were some of the interesting statements made by the lecturer.

Mr. Wright showed by stereopticon views that the giant glaciers were partly responsible for the land formation, lakes, rivers and landscape effects on the northern States of the Union. He said in its long journey the large "continent" of ice and snow passing over the country deposited huge boulders, as well as sand and gravel as it passed on its way melting inch by inch. He asserted that observations had proven that the glacier travelled as far south as Kentucky. Many large boulders were left in the fields of this State. By the shape of the stones it has been determined they traveled over thousands of miles.

Incidental to his lecture Mr. Wright showed views and spoke on the snow capped mountains of the Northwest, Alaska, Greenland and Siberia; on the icebergs of the North; on the life and habits of the Eskimos and gave illustrations of animals that existed prior to the glacial period, the remains of which have been unearthed by scientists and are now mounted in the various museums of New York and cities of Europe.

He told in graphic detail the trials, adventure and hardship of a trip of exploration to the North. On one journey his party was shipwrecked. The steamer designed and constructed to stand the hardship of Arctic trips was thrown upon a huge rock while going through a dense fog. Those who survived the wreck were taken home on an old fishing schooner.

SUSPECT IN TRENTON ASSAULT CASE CAUGHT

North Plainfield Police Hold Colored Man for Mercer Detective.

In the custody of the North Plainfield police is a colored man giving his name as Spencer Braxton, who is being held on suspicion of being the assailant of Miss Luella Marshall, of Trenton, who was assaulted last Tuesday and died yesterday.

The Trenton authorities have been notified by Roundsman Weller, and the prisoner will be held pending the arrival of a detective from that city.

Braxton was arrested late last night in Greenbrook road by Marshal Pope and when questioned regarding himself told conflicting stories. In his pockets were several pairs of stockings, a number of hair ribbons and some handkerchiefs, such as are carried by women of refinement.

Questioned as to his home and what city he came from he said he was going about the country working on farms. He suspiciously avoided any knowledge of Trenton and said he had never been in that city. He is six feet tall, and very black.

December 11, 1912.

To the Editor of the Daily Press:

Dear Sir:—I was greatly surprised to read in the issue of December 10th your account of a meeting of the Equal Suffrage League held at Cedarcroft Monday afternoon. My surprise was caused particularly in connection with the report of my own remarks to the league. Every sentence of your account was incorrect and some highly fictitious. Moreover the general purpose of my talk was entirely misunderstood.

Catagorically, I did not say that dance halls were violating laws. I did not say that the closing hour was scorned. I did not say that liquor was sold on the premises. I did not refer to the various freak dances, nor say that they were danced. I never heard the names of those you mention. In short the only sentence in your article approaching the truth was that in which I am reported to have said dance hall inspectors ought to be provided by the City Council. I did not mention City Council, but I did say that there should be an inspector, either a volunteer or a trained worker.

My purpose in addressing the league was to suggest that information should be secured regarding the condition of young girls in the city before any measures were urged. The league appointed a committee to take up the subject and that is all there was to report apropos of my very brief remarks.

Doubtless your sense of fairness will insure as conspicuous a place for this correction as was given the original article.

Yours sincerely,
MABELLE C. PHILLIPS.

THREATEN WILSON THREE ARRESTED

Federal Officers Trap Morris Co. Woodchoppers Who Attempted to Extort $5,000.

DEMAND IN A LETTER

"We Are Death to Presidents and Will Shoot You Before You Get in Office," They Wrote—Prisoners in Essex County Jail.

Newark, Dec. 11.—Three men were arrested yesterday for threatening the death of Woodrow Wilson should he refuse their demand for $5,000. The arrests by Federal officers, following the receipt by the President-elect of a letter containing the assassination threat, was made at Ford Mine, a mining settlement near Wharton, Morris county. The prisoners are Jacob Dunn, his brother, Warren Dunn and Seeley Davenport. All are woodchoppers. Jacob Dunn is charged with having been the actual writer of the letter and the others are charged with having aided in his composition.

The officers found Jacob Dunn chopping wood near the log hut in which he and his brother live. When informed he was under arrest he raised his axe as if to strike the Marshal, whereupon two revolvers were pointed at his head and he was ordered to drop the axe. He complied and was led down the hillside to another hut, where were Warren Dunn and Davenport, who had been arrested previously.

The three prisoners were arraigned before United States Commissioner Stockton here and held by him in $2,000 bonds to await a hearing next Monday. Warren Dunn is said to have charged his brother Jacob with having written the threatening letter. The letter was received at the Governor's office in Trenton, on November 11, and in the upper left hand corner of the envelope was written: "If not delivered in five days return to R. F. D., Route 2, Box 43, Wharton, N. J."

It read:

"Mr. Woodrow Wilson I am now agoin to warn you of what we are agoin to do to you as we did not want teddy or McKinley eithey they got shoot just the same say Wilson you have got the office as president yes and we are death to presidents so no Wilson if you have got $5,000 in gold for this party we will spair your life but if not we will shoot you before you get in the office as sure as your name is Wilson so we give you time to think the matter over so we will know what you are doing right or wrong.

WILL THE CITY APPEAL WATER CASE DECISION?

When Frederick E. Mygatt, chairman of the special water committee of the Common Council, was asked today whether the city would take an appeal from the decision of the Supreme Court on the municipality's right to condemn the Plainfield-Union Water Company for its own uses, he stated that until he had carefully studied the opinion rendered he could not discuss it.

No one else in a position to speak authoritatively seemed to be able to say whether there is a possibility that the city would go to the Court of Errors and Appeals.

HOODLUMS BRING ABOUT SERIOUS TROLLEY WRECK

Rahway, Dec. 11 (Special).—Felix Chargeois, motorman, of this city, was cut about the head with flying glass, and more than a score of passengers were injured in a rear-end collision between two trolley cars on the Picton line, in Clark township, at 6 o'clock last night. No one was seriously injured.

Thomas Carroll, of Lafayette street, Rahway, had his foot crushed. Edward Scheuer, also of Rahway, was severely injured.

The accident was the result of the dangerous practice of hoodlums who work in the factories in Garwood and live near Rahway. They crowded the back platform of the first car last night and some of them pulled the trolley pole off the wire, leaving the car in total darkness. Before the conductor could replace it, the trailer going at good speed crashed into the car ahead.

SOMERVILLE PEDDLER IS KILLED BY TRAIN

Somerville, Dec. 11 (Special).—David Epstein, aged 38 years, was struck by a westbound passenger train on the New street crossing of the Central Railroad at 5:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and instantly killed. Mr. Epstein, who lived with his family on Hamilton street, had been peddling through the borough all day, and started to go to Washington place to continue his work.

He did not notice the oncoming train, but the horse became frightened and started to run away just as the wagon struck the railroad, throwing Mr. Epstein in front of the engine. Besides his wife he is survived by four children.

SCOTT POST HAS LIVELY ELECTION FOR COMMANDER

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., at its meeting last night elected officers for the coming year. There was considerable rivalry for the office of commander, but Captain William Hand was finally chosen. The installation will take place Tuesday evening, January 14, at which time Department Commander T. J. McDonald, of Jersey City and staff will be present. The Women's Relief Corps will also install its officers that night.

These officers were elected last night:

Commander, Captain William Hand; senior vice-commander, H. B. Green; junior vice-commander, T. B. Titsworth; chaplain, Nathan C. Pennington; officer of the day, I. L. McVoy; officer of the guard, Edward Vanderweg; sergeant, Josiah Unangst; trustees, William C. Smith, William Hand and I. L. McVoy; delegates to department encampment, John Naylor, Edward Vanderweg and Job Coddington.

COMEDY CLUB PLANS TO BROADEN ITS SCOPE

Officers were elected and plans for the coming year discussed at the annual meeting of the Park Comedy Club held at the Park Club, last night. It was decided to reorganize the club so as to broaden its scope, both in membership and dramatics. An executive committee was appointed which will take immediate steps for the presentation of the annual play to be given at the Plainfield theatre some time after Easter.

This play will be given for the benefit of the club, either in whole or part for the purchase of scenery and stage properties and for the financing of all future productions. The club feels that inasmuch as it has always given the proceeds of past performances to charity that the coming production should be for the benefit of the church, at least such a percentage as will permit the purchase of needed equipment.

These officers were chosen at the meeting: President, Brown Rolston; vice president, William T. Pelletier; secretary, Dr. F. E. DuBois; treasurer and business manager, Alson M. Abbott. The name of the coming play and the date will be announced in the near future.

NEED ANOTHER ISOLATION WARD

Hospital Governors Awake to Diphtheria and Scarlet Fever Lack.

CONFER WITH B. OF H.

Isolation Ward at Muhlenberg Now, But Both Diseases Can't Be Treated There Together—Another Ward May Be Built.

The fact that there is no provision either at Muhlenberg Hospital or elsewhere in the city for the treatment of cases of diphtheria and scarlet fever at the same time and place, has aroused the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg as well as the Board of Health to action. At the recent meeting of the Board of Health the question was discussed and Stephen H. Voorhees and William M. Wherry, Jr., were appointed a committee to confer with the Board of Governors of the hospital.

The Board of Governors of the hospital at its meeting this week considered the subject and the executive committee was appointed to confer with the committee from the Board of Health.

There is now an isolation ward at the hospital, but it is impossible to treat cases of scarlet fever and diphtheria there at the same time, owing to the nature of the diseases. A patient suffering from one disease might contract the other ailment should there be a patient there suffering from it. This problem has been a perplexing one for the health authorities.

The two committees will confer and consider the question carefully, after which some recommendation will be made to the two bodies. At present the only way to solve the problem is to build another isolation ward, and it is possible that this may be done. The cost, it is believed, would not be very much. So far as known, no provisions for meeting this situation has been made in the plans for the new buildings now under construction at the hospital, but it may not be too late to include such an arrangement before the work is completed.

PLAINFIELDER FOUNDED AUDUBON ASSOCIATION

T. Gilbert Pearson, secretary of the National Association of Audubon Societies and for many years Forest, Fish and Game Commissioner of the State or North Carolina, spoke on the conservation of bird and animal life, before the Men's Club of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, in the church parlors, last night. Many slides were shown.

William Dutcher, of Park avenue, founder and head of the National Association, was unable to attend on account of illness. In his talk Mr. Pearson spoke in high praise of the Plainfield founder and his work.

TWO NEW ARTISTS FOR NEXT M'INTYRE CONCERT

At the next McIntyre concert, which takes place on Monday night in the High School Auditorium, two artists new in these concerts will be introduced. The violinist, Mr. Saslavsky, who is the concert meister of the Damrosch orchestra of New York, will appear as soloist, playing the beautiful "Serenade Melancholique," by Tschaikowsky, and the "Caprice Viennoise," by Kreisler.

Mr. Saslavsky has numerous friends in Plainfield and his reputation as a great violinist will arouse much interest. The singer on this occasion will be Miss Laura Combs, one of New York's foremost sopranos—a beautiful voice and a beautiful woman. She will sing in one of her numbers the song which Alma Gluck sings with Mr. Zimbalist's obligato, "Le Nil," by Leroux. Miss Combs will sing this song, but with obligato by the cello (Mr. Kifer).

The trio (piano, violin and cello) will play Mendelssohn's Trio in D and Mozart's lovely Trio in G major.

Over one hundred seats have been marked off in the hall to be sold at half rates to encourage music lovers of moderate means and students of music to avail themselves of these concerts. The plan of the hall is at Armstrong's.

P. A. B. RALLY MEETING.

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire will conduct a big rally meeting tonight in the Park Avenue Baptist church for the purpose of discussing the secular and spiritual welfare of the people residing within the vicinity of the church. Speeches will be made by those "who know" and an interesting and instructive meeting is planned.

UNGUARDED GASOLINE MENACED TENEMENT

Chief Doane Finds 3 Barrels of Touchy Fluid in Cellar.

The lives and property of four families housed in the dwelling at 319 Liberty street have been endangered for several weeks by the presence of three barrels of gasoline in the basement of the structure. The gasoline is the property of Isaac Bloom, who was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning on the complaint of Fire Chief Doane, who charged him with unlawfully selling and keeping gasoline without a license. Sentence was suspended.

Chief Doane had been notified by neighbors that Bloom was keeping gasoline in unprotected receptacles and he went to the Liberty street address in a hurry. He was almost overcome by the fumes as he entered the cellar. One of the barrels had sprung a leak and the fluid had formed small puddles around the cellar, much of it, however, becoming absorbed in the dirt floor.

In his defense Bloom said he was having an underground tank made to store the gasoline, which he had recently received from a New York concern, but that the excitable fluid had been delivered sooner than he had anticipated.

MOURNER IN COURT.

Abraha Gunsberg, of 235 Arlington avenue, arrested yesterday and charged with being intoxicated, told the court when arraigned this morning that drinks taken following the expiration of a period of mourning and semi-fasting, in accordance with the Hebrew custom when a member of the family dies, was responsible for his condition. Sentence was suspended.

HARRISON JURY COULDN'T AGREE

Dunellen Autoist Charged with Manslaughter to Be Re-Tried Next Week.

VOTE STOOD SIX TO SIX

Deadlock Over Question as to Whether Harrison Was Reckless or Merely Sought to Avoid Running into Carriage—Not Drunk.

New Brunswick, Dec. 11 (Special).—The jury in the case of Oscar Harrison, of Dunellen, who was tried for manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Anna M. Haslin, failed to agree yesterday after three hours' deliberation. After the jury was discharged by the court, it was announced that Harrison would again be placed on trial next week. Throughout the three hours' consideration of the case by the jury the vote stood 6 to 6, and no amount of argument would persuade either side to change its opinion.

The jury deadlocked on the question as to whether Harrison was guilty of reckless driving or was merely trying to avoid hitting the rig in which Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Van-Arsdale were riding, and it could not reach any satisfactory conclusion either to convict or acquit the defendant.

In charging the jury, Judge Daly, before whom the case was tried, said that the question to decide was whether Harrison ran down the vehicle of Mr. and Mrs. Van Arsdale deliberately or recklessly and, if so, did that cause the throwing out and killing of Mrs. Haslin. He said that it didn't make any difference if the Van-Arsdale runabout pre-empted more than its share of the road, Harrison had no business to run it down. But if Harrison's account was correct, that he pulled out to one side and the machine skidded in the grass and overturned, then he was not responsible.

Harrison's denial that he was intoxicated was supported by Dr. R. G. Savoy, a physician, who happened along soon after the accident. Dr. Savoy said he saw no signs of intoxication on Harrison, nor was there any trace of liquor on his breath.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Van-Arsdale, of Plainfield, who were called in rebuttal, made a favorable impression while giving their testimony, in which they denied absolutely that their wagon got in Harrison's way. They said that Harrison bore down on them so suddenly that they did not have time to escape a collision.

The battle for votes in the contest for the pianos offered by the Plainfield Daily Press in their contest is now on. The battle cry is "Forward" and from all accounts, a lively battle is being waged for votes. Do not be defeated. Do not be outgeneraled by opponents. Make one's mind up to win. The time is now short; only ten days more of fighting and some individual, club or organization will win one of the best piano-players that could be purchased. Try and win the chief battle, that for the player-piano. Do not get discouraged. If defeated, remember there are two more battles to be fought,—one for the piano without the automatic attachment and last, but not the least, the cabinet vitaphone with its most matchless human reproduction of songs, speeches, band selections—a most welcome member to any family. The honor of winning any of these three prizes will amply repay any contestant, but do not lose sight of the grand prize, the player. Go in to win and certainly one of the three will be the reward of hard and industrious work. See friends, relatives. Make a systematic canvass for subscriptions and it will be surprising how easy they will be obtained. Don't wait for them to come. Get out and hustle and in addition to the instruments to be won, think of the ten per cent. cash commission paid for five or more yearly subscriptions,—surely compensation enough for a little extra work. Think of the pleasure, the experience gained and the number of friends made by inducing them to make the Plainfield Daily Press a daily caller at their homes; a paper with clean news, absolutely fearless and truthful; one that originates and does not imitate, and if unfortunate enough to lose, congratulate the winner and say, "I have fought a good fight."

The Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Dunellen, at an enthusiastic meeting last evening, reported progress and is working hard for the first prize and it behooves all organizations, clubs and individuals to work, as the final vote will be large and if defeated, don't say, "I wished I had worked a little harder." Make the motto "Work."

The bid of Mr. Hardgrove was submitted last June, since which time the cost of the drain pipe needed has advanced over 10 per cent. SICKLES IS REMOVED; HE IS $27,000 SHORT

New York, Dec. 11.—Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, who lost his leg at the battle of Gettysburg, and has been one of the living monuments of that battle ever since, has been deposed as chairman of the New York Monuments Commission, which has received some $500,000 in appropriations from the State in the twenty-six years of its existence for the purpose of setting up monuments on battle fields throughout the country where New York soldiers fell.

Gen. Sickles' deposition from this post, which he had held throughout all these twenty-six years, was coincident with a demand made upon him by State Controller Sohmer, and more recently by State Attorney General Carmody, for an accounting of a shortage of between $27,000 and $29,000 in the funds of the commission. He has been given until December 20 to make the amount good.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

What kind of moving pictures do you believe in, the old, old kind showing rides and cowboys and china-smashing comedies or the new moving picture, which deals with great subjects and not only delights the eye but also satisfies the intelligence. The first and foremost of the latter variety of moving pictures is undoubtedly the Miracle, which will form the attraction at the Plainfield theatre on the 13th and 14th of December. The Miracle is, in the best sense of the word, a spectacular production. It pleases the eye, it absorbs the attention and sustains the interest through every inch of the film. An old legend that of the Miraculous Madonna furnishes the frame-work for the splendid settings and the superb acting of this unique and unparalelled production. The pictures are accompanied by wonderfully impressive music specially composed for the occasion. The opening scenes of the first part are particularly striking and at once take a powerful hold on the spectator. There is no abatement of interest and the high standard of the first scenes is maintained throughout. A prologue is given to tell the audience in a general way of the legand of the Miraculous Madonna.

Cristeta Goni, the juvenile Spanish Violin Vitruoso, who comes to the Plainfield theatre on Monday night, December 16, is the proud owner of five of the most costly violins. They aggregate in value over seventeen thousand dollars. The collection consists of one Stradivarius, one Galeo, one Amati and two Cremonas, not counting a splendid Steiner of fine tone. Papa Goni ,who travels with his little prodigy daughter, has appointed himself guardian of both child and instruments and being a connoisseur he divides his affection between the two. Mama Goni confines herself to teaching the little girl all that other children are being taught at school.

Al H. Wilson, he of the "German Dialect" and "Golden Voice" will soon be with us again in a new song-adorned comedy entitled, "It Happened in Potsdam," and as Potsdam is where the present Kaiser Wilhelm has his summer Palace, the location of the story is at least interesting. As the title suggests, it is a rollicking comedy, overflowing with many complications that serve to cause almost continuous laughter. There is a love story of course, but in this instance it takes on a peculiar twist and shows how Metz Von Klatz, a rather erratic roving German, starts in by being very much offended with his failure to carry his first love affair to a successful conclusion, and then winds up by being quite eager to repeat his romance with an altogether different woman, because in matching wits she appears to have the best of it. During the action Mr. Wilson will sing his new songs and they are gems entitled, "Loves Me—Loves Me Not," "My Lady Fair," "Loves of Bygone Days," "The Twilight Call."

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

Mrs. Fiske, who is accustomed to make off with the intellect of her audience, at the Hudson theatre, New York, carries away with her the hearts as well. The play "The High Road," is by Edward Sheldon, the playwright Mrs. Fiske brought to prominence when she produced his "Salvation Nell." Mr. Sheldon is well known to the society set of Plainfield, having been responsible for the sucess of several amateur performances given here for local charity. The new play is valuable—oh, very valuable!—despite its preachments and its uplift passages and its plea for the girls that work in tobacco factories. It is valuable because it gives Mrs. Fiske an opportunity to take the character of a woman, live it and uphold it from the bud to the full blossom. None save a great player can do it at all. Mrs. Fiske, utilizing all the wonderful resources of her art, draws a character even greater than the play—a figure distinct, clear, sympathy compelling, ennobled and admirable.

WILSON MAIL DELUGED BY FRIENDS OF BRYAN

President-elect Spends Hours on Letters Defending W. J. Bryan.

Hamilton, Bermuda, Dec. 11.—When it was suggested that the three time candidate for President, W. J. Bryan, might be selected as Secretary of State in President-elect Wilson's cabinet, the mail steamships bound for Bermuda were loaded with letters of protest. When this became known the friends of Mr. Bryan rushed to their typewriters and fountain pens, and the letters are beginning to arrive now.

For four hours Governor Wilson was reading letters from friends and defenders of the Nebraskan, and he was evidently pleased at the way Mr. Bryan's friends had defended him against the attacks of those who are now and have always been opposed to him.

Governor Wilson has finished his message to the New Jersey Legislature and is confident that before he retires as Chief Executive of the State there will be written on the statute books reforms he has advocated and which were held up in the first two years of his term.

He spoke highly today of the qualifications of State Senator James F. Fielder, who will succeed him as Governor, and said that Leon R. Taylor, who will be Speaker of the Assembly, also is able and efficient.

"Senator Fielder is one of the highest type of men in our public life," he said. "He has always stood for progress in New Jersey and is admirably equipped to carry on the work as Governor."

Plainfield, N. J., December 11, 1912.

COUNCIL'S PRESIDENT.

Three names have been prominently mentioned in connection with the choice for President of the Common Council to succeed Ralph I. Tolles, who has filled the place for many years. As Mr. Tolles will cease to be a member of the governing body on January 1, the men who will effect the organization for 1913 will come together tonight to agree upon one of their number in his stead. The three spoken of for the position are Frederic E. Mygatt, William L. Gloak and George S. Clay.

Both Clay and Mygatt are lawyers and have an experience which would be very valuable should either be selected. We understand that Mygatt does not seek the office. Some of his friends assert that he would decline it. We do not mean any reflection when we say that Gloak is not endowed with the gifts of the ideal presiding officer. We think he believes it himself and that although he would be well supported should he desire the honor it seems unlikely that he will be chosen. As for Clay, friends of the public affairs committee chairman say that should there be an unanimous call for him he would respond. It is quite needless to go into any explanation as to why Clay would fill the position acceptably. We hope that he will be named.

AMEND THE LAW.

The Trenton True American finds fault because an attempt will be made during the coming session of the Legislature to amend the Walsh Commission Government law. The intimation is made that politicians are aiming to thus wreck the model plan for municipal government. Be that as it may, however, there are some changes necessary to be made before many cities, which would otherwise do so, will adopt the Walsh method of administering public affairs.

Right here in Plainfield the chief objection to the act seems to be the provision as to salaries to be paid the five commissioners. It must be confessed that it would be no easy matter to get properly qualified men to serve as governors for so small a recompense for their services, particularly as they would be expected to devote their entire time to the duties. Why should not the Legislature allow the voters of a given municipality to say when deciding at the polls whether to adopt the law what salaries should be allowed? This, it strikes us, would be better all around, for while in one municipality the people might be satisfied with a servant who would willingly accept $1,500 a year, it would be impossible to obtain the right sort of man in another community for less than double that figure.

As for experience of municipalities having adopted the law, the Trenton paper correctly says:

The new system has proved a boon to many a city and has practically an unbroken record of success, not only in New Jersey, but throughout the United States. Unquestionably other cities in New Jersey will be trying very soon to break away from the old and to adopt the new system.

Commission Government has been adopted in 205 cities, representing 33 States. These 205 cities have a combined population of 4,756,000, and they represent practically every phase and station or municipal life, from great municipalities like New Orleans and St. Paul, down to mere villages. The movement, as everybody knows, started in Galveston, Texas; but outside of that State it received little attention until Des Moines, Cedar Rapids and Leavenworth adopted it in 1908. The one great fact to commend it is that in not one city where it has been adopted have the people even considered a return to the old style of government. In every city it has given great satisfaction, particularly to the honest business and political interests.

TO THE "GOOD FELLOWS" OF PLAINFIELD

Just about this time last year I told you my story. You listened to it—you did more—you followed its spirit out in a bang-up style. Bless your hearts, you made over 600 poor little tots know the real meaning of a joyous Christmas. I'm not claiming any credit for my story; I'm claiming credit for knowing that there are many Good Fellows in this fine old town of ours—royal chaps, who don't do much preaching, but when it comes to doing a good turn, well, they're there with the goods. This is no sermon that I'm handing you, it's a heart to heart talk with men with red blood in their veins, and here it is off last year's reel.

On Christmas and New Year's eve you and I went out for a good time and spent from $10 to $200. Christmas morning hundreds of children awoke to an empty stocking—bitter with the pain of disappointment that Santa Claus had forgotten them. That's the way it used to be. Perhaps it wasn't our fault. We had provided for our own; we had also reflected in a passing way on those less fortunate than our own, but they seemed far off and we didn't know where to find them. Perhaps in the hundred and one things we had to do some of us didn't think of that heart sorrow of the child over the empty stocking.

Now, old man, here's a chance. Just send your name and address to the Daily Press—address Santa Claus—state about how many children you are willing to protect against grief over that empty stocking, inclose a two-cent stamp and you will be furnished with the names, addresses, sex and age of that many children. It is then up to you, you do the rest. Select your own present, spend 50 cents or $50, and send or take the gifts to those children on Christmas eve. You pay not a cent more than you want to pay—every cent goes just where you want it to go. You gain neither notoriety nor advertising; no record will be kept; your letter will be returned to you with its answer. The whole plan is just as anonymous as old Santa Claus himself.

This is not a newspaper scheme. The Daily Press will preserve the anonymous character of this work. The responsibility of finding the children and sending you their names will be assumed by this paper and it guarantees that whatever you bestow will be deserved.

Neither you nor I get anything out of this, except the feeling that you have saved from sorrow on Christmas morning. If that is not enough for you then you have wasted time in reading this—it is not intended for you, but for the good fellows of Plainfield.

Perhaps a twenty-five cent doll or a ten cent tin toy wouldn't mean much to the children you know, but to the child who would find them in the otherwise empty stocking they mean much—the difference between utter disappointment and the joy that Santa Claus did not forget them. Here is where you and I get in. The charitable organizations attend to the bread and meat, the clothes, the necessaries; you and the rest of the good fellows furnish the toys, the nuts, the candies, the child's real Christmas.

GOOD FELLOW.

"Good Fellow" is not a professional philanthropist, he takes a drink, and even goes out at night with the boys for a mild good time—but he has taken care of some poor little ones each year in Plainfield. He says he wishes he had always curtailed his holiday joy-making with the good fellows even more than he did, so that he might have had more money to gladden childish hearts.

The Worthy Grand Master of the lodge of Good Fellows has laid his plans for securing names through the Charity Organization Society.

This is how you can joint the lodge of Good Fellows. Write a letter to "Santa Claus," care of the Daily Press, something like this:

I live at No.....street. I will be Santa Claus to 6 children.

JOHN JONES.

The letter will go to Santa Claus. He will indorse on your letter the names and addresses of six children. That letter will be remailed to you. Then you get busy. That's all. Come on in, good fellows.

WANTED—$900.

If some wealthy Plainfielder or Plainfielders could afford it, there is an opportunity presented to make hundreds of boys and girls happy during the real winter season. The Playground Commission, of which that splendid type of citizen, George P. Mellick is chairman, says that for $900 ice skating can be provided for all during the frigid season. It is too late for the city to appropriate for the purpose, and moreover, it could not well afford it just now when there are so many demands for its money. Here is a chance ror a genuine philanthropic act, one to make all the little men and little women in the community as happy as they can be. If any of our citizens feel inclined to financially help such a movement, we suggest that they telephone or personally see Mr. Mellick. Why not start a fund?

The order issued by Secretary McVeagh, of the Treasury department, abolishing the common towel from railroad cars, vessels and all other interstate vehicles as well as from stations means much for the sanitary protection of the traveler. His action follows closely an order abolishing the common drinking cup on all interstate vehicles. The only bad feature of it all is that there are some miserly railroad and steamship managements who will not introduce in their place the individual towel and drinking cup.

Woodrow Wilson must feel like a real Santa Claus with the loads of plums he has to distribute now as Governor and a little later on as President. But we'll wager a red apple that his is no pleasant job.

Spare a few moments to read the appeal of Good Fellow published today on this page.

BEDMINSTER WATER FRANCHISE GRANTED

Pays $100 for 50-Year Privilege—Boro Bridge Complaint.

Somerville, Dec. 11 (Special.) The Somerset County Board of Freeholders yesterday granted a franchise to the Bedminster Water Company for a period of 50 years. The company is allowed the use of the county roads for the purpose of supplying its customers in Bedminster Township, and for this privilege will pay to the county $100 and also sign a bond in the sum of $1,000 to insure the county against any loss by reason of the laying of its mains.

A reward of $250 was offered for the arrest and conviction of the person who assaulted Miss Julia Garretson three weeks ago on her farm at Griggstown, and from the result of which she has become insane and been committed to the Morris Plains asylum.

A resolution was passed authorizing Freeholder Smith to expend $50 to replace a culvert under Talmage avenue, at Middle Brook, with a larger one.

A complaint was made that a land improvement company had placed a bridge over the gutter on their property at Green Knoll which obstructed the flow of water during heavy rains and caused considerable damage to the county road. If the company does not remove the obstruction at once the county will charge the expense up to the corporation.

Complaint was received from the Borough Council of North Plainfield of the condition of the West End avenue bridge. The bridge is declared unsafe because of the absence of wing walls. The Board decided to meet there on Friday, December 20, at 10:30 a. m., in order to view the structure and decide what action to take.

A letter was received from Judge Case, stating that he had increased the pay of Miss Mary Laughton, of the County Clerk's office, from $5 to $60 per month on the recommendation of County Clerk A. G. Anderson.

The finance committee reported the following amounts as having been paid to date: Courts, $15,949.67; county jail, $3,411.02; county buildings and grounds, $8,018.90; lunatics, $9,597.27; coroners, $873.64; stationery, $2,012.86; salaries, $17,913.43; incidentals, $3,780.72; soldiers' burials, $425.05; county superintendent and schools, $919.47; bridges, total, $45,755.58; per diem and salaries, $6,474.27; interest, $10,947; surplus interest to schools, $2,869.09; elections, $11,821.71; Somerset Hospital, $1,500; road repairs, $25,683.21; new roads, $115,548.82; total expenditures, $276,532.35.

The Borough of North Plainfield is reported to have used $8,410.80, and the Borough of Somerville, $2,346.2 of the bridge funds.

FIVE NEW YORK MEN CONTROL $368,000,000

Washington, Dec. 1.—The phenomenal rise of the Bankers' Trust Company, of New York, in the financial world through a "voting trust" of three men closely identified with the Morgan interests to the control of $168,000,000 of deposits was developed by the Pujo Money Trust Committee yesterday by the testimony of Walter E. Frew, a director in that institution.

It was also shown how the Guarantee Trust Company, of New York through another "voting trust" of three men, likewise identified with Morgan interests, has control of $200,000,000 in deposits.

The six trustees of both institutions—in reality five men—have control over an aggregate of $368,000,000 worth of deposits in the two concerns.

Pre-Christmas Sale of Discontinued Models of DOMESTIC SEWING MACHINES

434 Machines that were $30
394 Machines that were $35
86 Machines that were $40
Now for $25 Each

This splendid opportunity comes "just before Christmas" because we discovered that the Domestic Sewing Machine Company were going to change their case styles next year on three models, and we secured their permission to sell the entire stock of these particular models NOW, when so many husbands are looking for sensible Christmas gifts for their wives.

Every Woman Knows---As Well as Our Mothers Knew--- That There Is NO Better Sewing Machine Than the Famous "DOMESTIC"

In TWO MILLION HOMES, the "Domestic" is the prize of thrifty women, who do their own sewing, or have the dressmaker come in to do it. The "Domestic" will do all that any other machine will do, and much that others will not. Mothers will have no other, because it not only SEWS LOCK-STITCH when they are doing sewing for themeselves, but it also SEWS CHAIN STITCH when they are sewing clothing for the little folks, who require seams that can be "let down" when they grow.

Splendidly made, in every detail, DOMESTIC SEWING MACHINES not only do the BEST SEWING and the FINEST WORK, but THEY LAST FOR A LIFETIME.

Throughout the country, where agents sell the "Domestic," they get from $40 to $80 for them. These three models are sold regularly by us for $30, $35 and $40. While this selling lasts—which will be until all are sold, or until December 30th, the price will be

$25 Each, $2 Cash and $1 Weekly

Delivered prepaid to any station within 500 miles of New York; or to your door, if within our regular delivery routes.

Of course, it will pay to COME EARLY, and get one of the 86 $40 Machines. Both the $35 and $40 models have the automatic lift, and all are in the convenient "drop head" style.

This is the BEST Sewing Machine opportunity that has appeared this season

We SUPPLY PARTS for ANY DOMESTIC Sewing Machine, as well as for all other makes of sewing machines, at moderate prices. Fifth Floor

CONTRACT LEADS TO CITY COURT

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

At the meeting of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield held at Cedarcroft on last Monday, the program committee outlined some of the work and the interesting events it is planning for the season immediately following the holidays. On the second Monday of each month an afternoon meeting of a more or less informal sort will be held usually at the residence of the president, Mrs. C. L. Riley, 7 Myrtle avenue. The business of the club will then be transacted and tea will be served by the entertainment committee. One or more excellent speakers along civic, educational or philanthropic lines will always be provided and the latest suffrage news presented. Suffrage literature, circulars, pamphlets, books and the Woman's Journal will be brought to these meetings by Mrs. A. B. Jones and her committee members and can be obtained then or at any time from Mrs. Jones at her residence.

On or about the fourth Monday of each month a formal open meeting at some public place is planned with such speakers as Mary Eastman, Mrs. Raymond Robbins, Mrs. James Lus Laidlaw, Miss Katherine Ryen, W. L. Saunders, Mrs. Maude Parks Wood and others with whom negotiating are now pending. These meetings will be fully advertised and notice of them will be sent the members but for the informal meetings on the second Monday of each month no notice will be sent. It is gratifying to the Equal Suffrage League to note that other organizations of both men and women are more frequently asking for speakers on the subject of Equal Suffrage. It is proposed to have a corps of excellent speakers always in readiness for demand.

The league wishes to express its earnest desire to co-operate with the Mothers' Clubs, Parent-Teachers' Associations, Charity Organizations, Civic Club and all welfare workers in making their open lectures and other meetings a success and asks for a like co-operation from them. To be open-minded and unprejudiced, eager to know how to serve, is surely the desire of all public spirited citizens.

At the meeting on Monday the feeling was strongly expressed that in order to protect our boys and girls in Plainfield from the temptations and evils so graphically depicted by Dr. Kelley, of Baltimore, in his recent lecture and by Miss Daniels, of New York, that day, it was important to privide suitable recreation places for them both winter and summer in and out of the schools, and that a careful supervision should be made at all times of the theatres, moving picture shows, dance halls and other resorts so enticing to the young. In this connection an earnest plea was made by Mrs. Dorr and by one of the teachers that there be no cutting down of funds for the proposed swimming pool and enlarged, up-to-date gymnasium in the High School addition, and by Mrs. Cowperthwaite for the proposed skating rink for which the City Council was asked to appropriate $900.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Offered by Mrs. Dorr:

Resolved, That the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield heartily endorse the request of the Board of Education for a larger appropriation for the proposed addition to the new High School as based upon the recent report of Supt. Maxson, and earnestly pleads with the Common Council that its request be granted.

Offered by Mrs. Cowperthwaite:

Resolved, That the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield heartily concurs in the effort to establish a public skating rink and urges the Common Council to make the needed appropriation.

Of all the arguments in favor of Woman Suffrage, the fact that the movement is world-wide is the strongest. Mrs. Chapman Catt's remarkable reports of her tour of the world show how the Chinese women helped in the Revolution, how their "Dare to Die" clubs were transformed into suffrage societies because after a successful war they understood that the next step was to take their share in the improvement of peaceful government. The women of Portugal who were active in the campaign which resulted in the Portuguese Republic have formed a great organization in behalf of votes for women, and their appeal has been approved by the Legislature. The women of Persia, of Turkey, of India, of Russia, of South Africa, of every country in the world, are demanding an extension of rights and the Parliaments of the nations have begun to give the question their serious consideration.

Miss Julia C. Lathrop, chief of the Federal Children's Bureau at Washington, in her address before the National Suffrage convention in Philadelphia last week, said: "Suffrage for women is not the final word in human freedom, but it is the next step in the onward march of equalizing the rights and balancing the duties of the two types of individuals who make up the human race."

ECONOMICAL FRUIT CAKES.

If you wish to reduce the cost of the Christmas feast without modifying its completeness substitute for the ordinarily rich and costly fruit cake one simpler in composition. The recipes given here are designed for the purpose of providing cakes that are delicious, yet comparatively inexpensive.

A Handsome Cake.

White Fruit Cake.—Stir together one cupful of sugar and half a cupful of butter. Beat until very light the whites of four eggs and mix with the sugar and butter; then add one cupful of stoned and chopped raisins and half a cupful of citron cut in small shavings and rolled in flour. Stir two teaspoonfuls of baking powder through two cupfuls of flour. After adding to the mixture one cupful of sweet milk stir in the flour and bake in moderate oven.

Fruit Cake Without Eggs.—Take two cupfuls of sugar, two cupfuls of buttermilk, one pound of seedless raisins chopped fine, four cupfuls of flour, one-half cupful of butter, one tablespoonful of soda dissolved in a little hot water and spices to taste. A cupful of rich preserves of pears or strawberry jam adds to the fruit taste liked by many. Bake in a slow oven.

Simple Recipes.

Coffee Fruit Cake.—Take a cupful each of molasses, brown sugar, butter, raisins, currants and cold coffee, together with one egg, one teaspoonful each of soda, cloves, cinnamon and allspice and four cupfuls of flour. Mix and bake one hour in a slow oven.

Frugal Fruit Cake.—Take one-third cupful of butter, one cupful of brown sugar, two cupfuls of whole wheat flour, one cupful of seeded raisins, one cupful sour milk, one teaspoonful each of powdered cinnamon, cloves, allspice and one-half teaspoonful of soda. Cream the butter and add sugar, then beat until creamy. Add the spices to the flour. Take one-half the flour and the raisins washed and dried. Mix well. Then add milk, in which the soda has been beaten, and the remaining flour. Bake in a moderate oven until a broom straw put in the cake will come out dry.

If sweet milk is used take a little less and substitute one tablespoonful of baking powder for the soda, sifted in the flour.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

RECORDS HAVE GONE TO SMASH

Six-Day Riders Have Been Twenty-three Miles Ahead of Former Figures.

SPILL INJURES MAGIN

He and Lawrence Compelled to Drop Out as Result—In Early Morning Sprint Suter Brothers Lose Lap, But Others Holding Their Own.

Madison Square Garden, New York, Dec. 11.—Continuing at a pace fully as fast as any maintained during the first two days, the six-day bicycle race riders were well ahead of the record at 2 o'clock this afternoon and there is every indication now that all former figures for the big grind will be eclipsed. Each day the gains on the record have been greater, and at one time today had exceeded twenty-two miles.

During the morning the riders slowed up materially, and although at 9 o'clock they were nearly 23 miles ahead of the record, at 2 o'clock this afternoon they had dropped back to but a little over twelve miles ahead of the former high figure for sixty-two hours.

The 2 o'clock score was:

	Miles.	Laps.
Kramer and Moran	1251	8
Clark and Hill	1251	8
Grenda and Pye	1251	8
Rutt and Hehir	1251	8
Ryan and Thomas	1251	8
Perchicot and Egg	1251	8
Walthour and Cameron	1251	8
Drobach and Collins	1251	8
Loftus and Carmen	1251	8
Brocco and Berthet	1251	8
Walker and Wells	1251	8
Suter and Suter	1251	7

The former record was 1239 for the same time. Grenda was leading.

As the result of the best sprint of the race which occurred at 6:18 this morning, Jake Magin, of Newark, who is teamed with Lawrence, of California, is in the Polytechnic Hospital with a fractured collarbone. The trouble occurred on what is termed "dead man's curve," on the Madison avenue side of the Garden. The sprint started when Drobach and Grenda shot away from the bunch like a streak of lightning, and gained about fifty yards on the field. It was not long before other teams were going around at a mad clip. Then Magin collided with Berthet on the high curve and went down with a thud. It was found his collarbone was fractured and he was removed to the hospital. Berthet went back in the race but his face is badly cut. The big sprint put Suter brothers, of the Swiss team, one lap behind the leaders.

At 9 o'clock, Lawrence and Magin were out of the race as the result of the accident and Suter and Suter were still a lap behind. The distance covered by the leaders was 1169 miles and 2 laps. This was three laps short of 23 miles ahead of the record. Thomas was leading. An hour later Hehir was at the head of the bunched riders, and 1187 miles had been covered, as compared with 1165 miles and 1 lap in the former record.

All the fifteen teams were in the race and on even terms at midnight last night, and the 1,000-mile mark was passed by the entire field shortly after that hour, which established a new record to be added to the twenty-four new-hour records hung up during the day. It was the fastest time for this distance in the history of six-day races as well as the most remarkable in the point of endurance by the contestants and lack of accidents.

The speed mania has proven the biggest kind of an attraction to the sport lovers, and last night's crowd will rank with the largest that has ever turned out to witness a six-day race, not excepting the last-night crowds which have gathered for the closing sprints. Every seat in the big amphitheatre was crowded throughout the evening, and standees filled to capacity every other section of the Garden which furnished a view of the track. Inside the track the tanbark arena also held a crowd that seemed one solid mass of humanity. Along the promenade outside the track travel was slow and arduous.

As was the case during the first twenty-four hours, there was plenty of speed, but only one big "jam." This was started by Jimmy Moran about 9 o'clock last evening and taken up in turn by Clarke and Root. All were relieved by their partners and the terrific pace was kept up for seven minutes before the leaders were overtaken.

The fastest riding of the twenty-four hours, which ended at midnight, occurred between 9 and 10 o'clock last night, when the riders circled the oval bowl 223 times, or 22 miles and 3 laps. In each of the two hours previous the riders had traveled more than 21 miles. There was the usual falling off of speed between daylight and noon, when the crowd is smallest, thus furnishing less incentive to the riders to hit up a fast pace.

HOPE CHAPEL GIRLS WIN A CLOSE CONTEST

Miss Saffron's Accurate Shot Breaks Tie and Brings Victory.

The fast Dunellen girls' team, of the First Presbyterian church, Dunellen, met defeat at the hands of the Hope Chapel girls' aggregation last night by a score of 10 to 8, on the Dunellen court. At the close of the second half the score was a tie. To decide the winner of the game, it was carried on until one side or the other scored points to put them in the lead. After ten minutes of fast playing Miss Helen Saffron, of the Hope quintet, succeeded in making a field goal that gave her team the victory.

Misses Mary and Jessie Duncan were the stars for their team, while the Misses L. Stryker and M. Bennett excelled in speed and accuracy in shooting baskets for the home five.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL OUTLOOK AT P. H. S.

Every Member of Last Year's Team Is Available for Quintet.

With a nucleus consisting of most of last year's team, Miss Barbara Fleming has started her work of coaching the Plainfield High School girls' basketball team for a banner season on the court. Miss Fleming was herself one of the best basketball players ever turned out at P. H. S. and she has consented to coach the 1912-13 girls' team while taking a post-graduate course at her Alma Mater.

Among those of last year's squad who are available to form a team from are Captain Miss Jessie Steward, Miss Ruth Douglass, Miss Alice Mehl, Miss Madeline Moy and Miss Esther Phillips.

Although there are fully enough veterans to compose the team, a wealth of new material has reported and some of the more experienced players will have to put up a sterling article of basketball in order to hold their own against the incoming material. The P. H. S. girls are out to avenge the defeat handed out to them by the Boroughites last season and from present appearances seem to have a pretty good chance of accomplishing the trick.

Not only are the Borough girls without a court but they are also minus the services of their star forward and captain, Miss Helen Hummel. Unlike the P. H. S. players Miss Hummel decided not to return for a High School post-graduate course and as a result the N. P. H. S. five will be minus a valuable cog in their basketball machine.

P. H. S. ADVOCATING BASKETBALL LEAGUE

Local High School Quintet is Anxiously Awaiting Decision for Boroites.

Followers of Plainfield High School basketball are watching with interest the steps being taken by the North Plainfield High School Boys' Athletic Association to secure a court. The city school has one of the best quintets in years and the boys have been counting on another interscholastic trophy. Should Captain Townley decide to disband his N. P. H. S. five, however, the interscholastic basketball organization would receive a severe jolt and would probably become a thing of the past, for this year at least.

Leal's has never been a strong advocate of this brand of competition and should the league narrow down to a two-cornered struggle with P. H. S. it is likely that the private school would withdraw. Manager Grisley, of the P. H. S. team, said that he was unusually anxious to see the project go through as his school is enthusiastic over the idea and much disapproval would be expressed if N. P. H. S. should decide to withdraw.

The opening game between N. P. H. S. and P. H. S. is only a little over two weeks off, so the Boroughites will have to do some tall hustling between now and then in order to get in condition. As yet no definite place has been decided on to play the contests in, but the North Plainfield manager is said to be the only one to oppose the Y. M. C. A. where the games have been played in previous years. The Y. M. C. A. has always offered the best advantages and no fault can be found in regard to the manner in which the scholastic teams have been treated and the P. H. S. athletic supervisors are said to be heartily in favor of playing the games there.

FUSSY PICTURE KILLED Y. M. C. A. ATHLETIC EVENT

Pictures were taken of the Senior gymnisium class of the Y. M. C. A. last night. It took so long to place the men and to arrange the camera and flashes that it was closing time before the second picture was taken, therefore the fence vault, the scheduled event in the athletic contest was cancelled and only the points for class attendance were awarded.

The standing of the teams are: Orange, 286; Red, 241; White, 213; Green, 200.

Last night's attendance was the largest that has been on the floor for a number of years, and showed that the size of the present building and equipment is not large enough to accommodate the needs of the present classes. Forty-six members were present for class work.

NETHERWOOD HOCKEY TEAM.

All those interested in forming a Netherwood hockey team are invited to put in their applications to Pelham Wilmerding or Philip Van Deventer at the Plainfield High School any time in school hours.

CAMBRIDGE WON.

London, Dec. 11.—The Cambridge team yesterday won the annual Cambridge-Oxford rugby football game. The final score was Cambridge, 10; Oxford, 3.

ELLIOTT DEFEATS JOHNSON.

"Ike" Elliott (80) defeated K. Johnson (90) last night at Stites' hall on West Front street by a score of 80 to 58 in the seventh annual billiard tournament held by the Front street billiard man. Elliott has lately displayed surprising form in his games and has beaten many of the big local players, chief among his victims being Ed. Conaway, the Plainfield crack. The four thousand-per cent. men remaining in the tournament are Leslie Stites, W. Peal, Elliott and Patterson. Match games are held every evening. Tonight Ora Dodge (100) stacks up against W. Peal (80) in one of the important matches of the local season..

TENNIS PLAYERS WED.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 11 (Special).—Miss Mary Sutton, the former woman tennis champion, was married here today to Thomas C. Bundy, who shares the doubles tennis championship with Maurice McLoughlin, of San Francisco. The bride is one of the three daughters of Captain Adolphus Sutton, of Pasadena. All the girls are tennis players of national fame. Mr. Bundy, the bridegroom, is engaged in the real estate business in this city. He has won distinction in all the Eastern tennis championships in the last three seasons, his culminating triumph being the victory in the national doubles at Newport last summer.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The new stationary horizontal bar has been installed in the gymnasium and was used by the Senior class for the first time last night.

Physical Director E. C. Ostlin will have pictures of the Senior class, which were taken last night, by tomorrow night and will take the orders of the members for them.

Two basketball games will be conducted tomorrow night between teams in the color league. Interesting games are scheduled.

BASEBALL WITH CUE.

And still another winter baseball game makes its appearance within our boundaries. Baseball pocket billiards is the name of the new game and A. B. Stites, of West Front street, is responsible for the installation of the angle tables on which the player musses up the balls. The regulation score sheet of nine innings, with three outs a frame, is used in the game. A missed pocket or a scratch counts as an out and a perfect shot a run. The swish of the cues and the sizzling liners are expected to develop World's Series excitement.

JIM FLYNN "GETS HIS."

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 11.—In the Luther McCarty and Jim Flynn bout, scheduled for twenty rounds, Luther McCarty defeated Flynn in the sixteenth round. Referee Eyton stopped the bout as Flynn was in bad shape.

SUN YAT SEN WAS ONCE THEIR GUEST

Mrs. Huie Kin Tells How She and Husband Entertained Liberator.

Mrs. Huie Kin, wife of the pastor of the Chinese Presbyterian church of New York city, spoke at the annual union praise service of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies, of Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, in the church parlors yesterday afternoon. She spoke of the work being done by the Chinese institution in New York, told of the building used by them, where a Y. M. C. A. branch has been started, and bowling alleys, baths and swimming pools, reading and recreation room and dormatories for the use of her country folk installed.

Rev. Huin Kin and his wife live on the top floor of the building and supervise the work and recreation of those in the building. The speaker told of the work being conducted by the missions on the Pacific coast, which she visited with her husband a short time ago. She spoke in particular of the prominent Chinese who use the institutional building while visiting in New York, instead of going to the hotels.

"They feel more at home with their own countrymen than with a lot of inquisitive strangers, such as one runs across in the hotels," she said.

The most prominent men they have had for their guest was Dr. Sun Sen, the first president of China after the revolution, when he visited this country. A number of the Chinese converted at the church in New York have returned to their native country and have received responsible positions with the government, and are spreading the gospel throughout the country.

Rev. Gilbert Lovell, the church's missionary to foreign fields, closed the meeting with a short prayer, followed by benediction.

BIBLE CLASS SEWED TO AID DOMESTIC MISSIONS

The Park Avenue Baptist Volunteer Bible Class, under the leadership of Mrs. Gabriel R. Maguire, held its monthly meeting last night in the church parlors. The hour was spent in sewing for missionary societies in this country. Articles will be sent to the Philadelphia Training College, three Danville, Ohio, societies, and to the Medical Missionary Society at Battle Creek, Mich. The boxes will be packed on Friday.

Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock the Ladies' Aid Society will meet at the church to send a barrel of goodies to New York city.

FIRM FOUNDATION.

Nothing Can Undermine It In Plainfield.

People are sometimes slow to recognize true merit, and they cannot be blamed, for so many have been humbugged in the past. The experience of hundreds of Plainfield residents, expressed publicly through newspapers and other sources, places Doan's Kidney Pills on a firm foundation here.

A. K. Mattis, 127 West Fourth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I gave Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement five years ago after receiving a cure through their use and today I confirm all I then said in their favor. My cure has been permanent." (Statement given January 20, 1911.)

On August 28, 1905, Mr. Mattis said: "I was troubled for years by a dull backache and pains in my head. I believe that my trouble was due to a great measure, to a bad fall I had. Nothing seemed to help me and when I read of the good work Doan's Kidney Pills were doing in similar cases I got a supply at Randolph's drug store. Their use drove away my aches and pains and my experience gave proof of their merits."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

GLOAK WILL BE HEAD OF COUNCIL

Six out of Ten Votes Are Cast for Him in Caucus Last Night.

TALK OF COMMITTEES

New Fire, Laws and Ordinances, Streets and Sewers, and Lights Chairmen—Blatz Likely to Go on Police Board.

Councilman William L. Gloak, who will be the senior member of the Common Council after January 1, was chosen as president to succeed Ralph I. Tolles, at a caucus last night of the incoming Council. Only one ballot was taken. Mr. Gloak received six votes; Frederick E. Mygatt, two votes, and George S. Clay and Patrick J. Reville each one vote. Leighton Calkins was the only member of the new body absent. President Tolles and Councilmen Duncan W. Taylor and John E. Dunn, who retire this year, were among the interested spectators.

As the ballot was a secret one it is impossible to tell how the members voted, at least some of them. A number had previously expressed themselves openly in favor of Mr. Gloak.

With the selection of Mr. Gloak as the new president there has been considerable discussion as to the probable make-up of committees. Owing to the fact that Councilmen Taylor, Holt and Dunn retire there will be new chairmen of the committees on fire and buildings, laws and ordinances and lights, while President Tolles, who also goes out, will leave vacancies which will be filled by Mr. Gloak.

Mr. Gloak will retire as chairman of the committees on streets and sewers and he also goes off the license committee. At present it is problematical who will head the fire committee, but as there are now three experienced members on the committee, it would not be surprising if one of them was chosen. It is not likely to be Charles C. Randolph, however, for he is chairman of the police committee, a position which, it is said, suits him very well.

Two new members will have to be appointed on the police committee to succeed Mr. Holt and Mr. Dunn, and it is said that Francis J. Blatz will probably be made a member of that committee. Friends of Mr. Reville, it is admitted, would like to see him made the third member, but his chances are slim.

Councilman Endress, it is said, is likely to draw the chairmanship of the streets and sewers committees. He has made a study of both departments and is believed to be well qualified for the place. Either Leighton Calkins or Mr. Blatz is likely to be placed at the head of the committee on laws and ordinances because of the fact that they are both lawyers. Either A. D. Edgar or Cornelius vanHerwerden, two new members, is quite sure to be placed on the light committee, succeeding Mr. Dunn. It is also said that Mr. Blatz may be put on the license committee.

Councilmen Holt, Taylor and Gloak will go off the special water committee and some of the new members are likely to be chosen as their successors. A new member will draw the prize as chairman of the auditing committee. Mr. Clay, it is believed, will remain as the head of the public affairs committee, being familiar with that work. New members as a rule have not been given the best positions on committees, but as those who will enter the Council next year are more or less experienced in business affairs, the president may make an exception to the rule.

MOTORCYCLIST DIDN'T FLEE AFTER ACCIDENT

Albert Latzko, 23 years old, of Rahway road, North Plainfield, who, while speeding along Somerset street November 20, ran into Fred Stewart, who was riding a bicycle, was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning. A technical charge of reckless driving was preferred and sentence suspended.

At the time of the accident it was said that Latzko sped from the scene of the smash-up without giving his name or license number, but this proved untrue. Latzko said he paid for the necessary repairs to Stewart's vehicle and for all medical treatment.

P. H. S. SENIORS MAKING READY TO STING JUNIORS

Next Friday has been set as the date for the Junior-Senior class reception at the Plainfield High School and both classes are busily engaged in making preparations for the affair. Senior class meetings have been held every day for the past week and the upper classmen are arranging for the annual Junior class "stings." Nothing will be divulged as to the nature of these "knocks" but the Senior class president says that this year's affair will be something unique and original along that line.

After the conclusion of the "stings" have been launched the two classes will repair to the gymnasium where supper will be served by the Juniors.

PISCATAWAY IS READY TO FIGHT

DARLING AN OPPONENT

Man Who Owns Proposed Site Ready to Combat Plans—Fire Commissioner Johnson, of New York, One of Protestants.

Vigorous protest against the proposed location of a sewage disposal plant on the Darling farm or on any other site in Piscataway township, by Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen was made by more than one hundred citizens of Piscataway at a meeting of the township committee in the New Market school, last night. Fire Commissioner Johnson, of New York, was one of the protestants. He owns land near the Darling farm. William B. LaRue offered a motion that a committee be appointed to do everything in its power to prevent the location of the sewage farm in that territory and it was carried without a dissenting vote.

William A. Coddington, the township counsel, read the report of the township engineer, who, with himself and the committee, had looked over the ground for the proposed plant. All were opposed to the use of that site for sewage purposes

Edgar F. Fitch, son-in-law of John Darling, stated that the latter was against the whole proposition and that he would do all in his power to prevent the carrying out of the plans. Among others who made a strong protest were George R. C. Sours, president of the Beechwood Heights Improvement Association, who read a set of resolutions, adopted at a previous meeting of the committee, opposing the plan; C. E. Kelly, Arthur Tappen and William Foster.

A long letter was received from Warren C. King, a New York business man, who has a handsome home at Beechwood Heights; also from Joseph Johnson, fire commissioner in New York, who owns a hundred acre tract about a half-mile from the Darling farm, both of whom presented strong reasons as to why they opposed the establishment of a sewage farm in the township.

George W. Harris, chairman of the township committee, presided, and in explaining the purpose of the meeting asked those present whether they proposed to allow Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen to place a sewage disposal plant in the township. He was answered by a shout of "No!"

William A. Coddington, the township counsel, has been instructed to protect the interests of the township, and legal steps will probably be taken to try and defeat the joint sewage plans, even though the State Board of Health has approved them.

MURDER SUSPECT IS TAKEN TO TRENTON

Detective Says Braxton's Statements Are "Shady" —On Police Grill.

Spencer Braxton, the negro suspect arrested Tuesday in connection with the murder of Miss Luella Marshall, of Trenton, was taken to Trenton yesterday by Detective John Heher, of that city.

"This man's statements are shady," the detective said after talking with Braxton for over an hour, "and I would not be surprised if he turns out to be our man."

The negro told the detective that he had lived in and around Philadelphia for over twenty years, but insisted that he knew nothing of Trenton.

Upon arriving at Trenton Braxton was brought before Captain of Detectives Clancy and Captain Culliton for a gruelling third degree. Many other suspects, mainly negroes, have been arrested throughout the State, but no real clue has been unearthed as to the murderer's identity.

In the meantime city officials of Trenton, business houses and private citizens are offering rewards aggregating $1,025 for the arrest of Miss Marshall's assailant, and it is likely that this amount will be doubled within a few hours.

ATHLETES DISPLAY ALL SOCIAL GRACES

West End Club Members Dine and Dance on First Anniversary.

Closing with one of the most enjoyable dances held in Plainfield this season, the West End Athletic Club held its first annual banquet last night in the club rooms on East Front street. The program committee, composed of Walter L. Dixon, chairman; P. Dow, Joseph Sullivan and Daniel Nugent, outdid themselves in preparation for the affair. The banquet hall was bedecked with banners and streamers which covered the walls and the ceiling of the long room. Photographs and pictures peeped out from folds of the gayly colored bunting.

The banquet board had been placed in the center of the hall. Seven courses were set before the banqueters. After the plates had been passed and repassed several times chairs were tilted back and Toastmaster Joseph Sullivan came into his own.

After a short introductory talk in which the toastmaster outlined the purpose of the club and what it has accomplished during the past year, and what it intends to do in the future, President Dixon was introduced. He spoke in praise of the association and its rapidly increasing membership. Short speeches by Vice President James McClinton, Joseph Carroll and Frank Malang followed. When the flow of oratory ended the floor was cleared for the dancers.

The club was organized December 12, one year ago today, and the fifteen members who formed it were present last night. They were: President W. L. Dixon, Vice President James McClinton, Treasurer P. Dow, W. Hoffman, J. McCarthy, Frank Malang, Joseph Carroll, Bert Glaentzer, D. Nugent, E. Staats, W. Trembly, J. Wilson, A. F. Jeager, Frank Weigman, and E. Fulton.

HARRY N. BLIMM SECRET BENEDICT

TELEGRAM BROKE NEWS

Romance Began at Dinner Party at Home of Popular Young Merchant's Partner—Wed by Alderman at City Hall.

Harry N. Blimm, of the firm of DeMeza & Blimm, widely known in this city and its vicinity as a business man and as an amateur singer and minstrel and prominent member of the Elks, slipped away with Miss Sarah Gibbs, of Whitehall, N. Y., yesterday to New York, where they were married at the City Hall by Alderman Kueran. The first intimation of the marriage came to the family and friends of the couple yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock when the following telegram was received by Ernest K. Powlison, of Summit avenue:

"City Hall,
"New York City, Wednesday.
"Married this afternoon. Going to Philadelphia. Will return Saturday.
"Mr. and Mrs. Harry N. Blimm."

A year ago last October Miss Gibbs came from Whitehall, where she lived with her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Gibbs, to visit her sister Mrs. Ernest K. Powilson, in the borough. While in the city Harry DeMeza, who lives directly opposite Mrs. Powlison, invited Miss Gibbs to a dinner party one Sunday evening. Mr. Blimm was a guest and he sat opposite the pretty Whitehall girl. When the party broke up Mr. Blimm escorted Miss Gibbs home.

The next day Miss Gibbs returned to her New York home, but letters were exchanged at frequent intervals. The first part of August of this year the young people met again. This was on the shores of Lake Champlain where Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Powlison, Miss Gibbs, Mr. Blimm and a girl friend of the Powlison's went into camp. After a series of moonlight canoe trips the two became engaged. Miss Gibbs came to Plainfield on another visit this Thanksgiving. On December fourth the young people went to New York, Miss Gibbs to do some shopping and Mr. Blimm on business. Before they returned to Plainfield in the evening they secured a license so that everything was in readiness for the culmination of their romance when they slipped away yesterday on the 9:59 train.

COUNCIL CONVINCED ON SEWER PROTESTS

Decides Property-owners Have Ground for Complaint and Arranges Reductions.

Following the caucus of the 1913 Common Council last night at which Councilman William L. Gloak was chosen as the president to succeed Ralph I. Tolles next year this year's body held a meeting to consider the protests against the assessments levied for sanitary sewers in the southern part of the city. The members decided to refer the whole assessment back to the commissioners, Edward A. Laing, H. B. MacDonald and Howard C. Tracy, and it was further decided to assess the cost of the pumping station on the city at large and not on the individual property owners, as originally planned by the commissioners.

It was the unanimous opinion of the councilmen that the city should regard the pumping station as a part of the general sewer system and pay for it and the members were strongly convinced that there should be a revision of the assessments and a change in the methods of levying. As it is pretty late in the month, it may not be possible for the commissioners to complete the work before the first of the year, and in that event the report will come before the 1913 body.

LODGERS RETURN TO THEIR CELLS

Two Charged With Trying to Rob Fellow Station House Guest.

FIGHT ON R. R. TRACKS

Keller and Wain Said to Have Got Italian Companion's Bulging Wallet, Only to Give It Back at Point of Knife.

Three men called at police headquarters together last night and asked for lodging. After leaving the station house this morning, the police say, the three proceeded down the railroad tracks to Netherwood, where two of them attempted to rob the third man of a wallet believed to contain several hundred dollars. The alleged assailants were arrested.

The prisoners are John J. Keller, 43 years old, of 979 East 163d street, New York, and George Wain, 19 years old, of 1 Vine street, Jersey City. They said their companion was an Italian. His name was not learned.

According to Robert Henderson, a railroad carpenter working on the new Netherwood station, and a former patrolman on the Somerville police force, the men were walking slowly down the track, apparently in an argument. As they neared the station two of them suddenly attacked the other and pulled from his pocket a bulging wallet. The attacked man, it is said, drew a knife and recovered his wallet.

The police were notified and Detective Sergeant Flynn nabbed the two prisoners. Patrolman O'Keefe has been detailed to hunt up the supposed victim of the alleged assault.

In the making of Xmas presents, do not forget to put on one's list $5 for a yearly subscription to the Plainfield Daily Press and thereby gve 250 to 500 votes to one's favorite Sunday-school, club, lodge or other organization or individual helping to win the piano-player, piano without the automatic attachment or the vitaphone. What a pleasure it would be to know help had been given a worthy individual or organization to win one of these instruments. Why not help some of the contestants to win one of these prizes? Subscriber, think it over. Renew the subscription. Help those who help themselves. The different organizations have banded together and are now working hard. Help them to win or help some worthy individual to win. Nine more days and the contest ends; only four days in advance of Christmas. What a pleasure it would be to know that one had aided in this worthy cause, giving entertainment evenings and keeping the young at home or at a club or organization. Consider, subscriber, that is does not increase the family's expense account.

Among the organizations who are working hard to win is the Young Men's Club of Grace church and from reports the club is meeting with success. They say that any of these handsome instruments would be a welcome addition to their room,—something that they need. The prizes can be seen at Joseph Sattels' wareroom, 108 North avenue. Call and see them and then call at the Daily Press office, directly opposite, and cast a ballot for one's favorite. The player-piano and the piano without the automatic attachment are the best manufactured by the celebrated Braumuller Piano Company and are fully guaranteed; the vitaphone, the product of the Vitaphone Company, of Plainfield, and is one of the best instruments of its kind manufactured. In fact, the three prizes total in value $1,000.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

That favorite German dialect comedian and "Golden voiced" singer, Al H. Wilson, while in Europe last spring, attended in Paris a performance of a comedy that greatly impressed him would bear repetition in America and with that idea firmly fixed arranged immediately for its translation into English. He is now reaping the reward of his excellent judgment by presenting it in this country under the title of "It Happened In Poisdam," with himself in the leading character. No play heretofore produced by this favorite actor seems to give better satisfaction which is made the more attractive by the introduction of a number of new songs. All admirers of this pleasing fellow have a treat in store when he appears for their approval in this city in the near future.

A novel and extraordinary production, known as "The Miracle," will hold the boards of the Plainfield theatre tomorrow and Saturday evening, with a matinee. "The Miracle" is a revelation in the possibilities of motion pictures. It is wholly different from the ordinary picture such as we see in the ordinary electric theatre. "The Miracle" is the first of a series of picture which have fully demonstrated the superiority of the cinematograph over the novel, and over the play and even over the wordless spectacle so-called. Back of this sublime attraction, "The Miracle," is one of the sweetest, most charming and moving legends of the middle ages. Maurice Maeterlinck built his play, "Sister Beatrice," on this legend,—the famous mystic and radical writer, Gottfried Keller, incorporated the tale into his Seven Legends, and Max Reinhardt has used the ancient story for what is called a wordless spectacle now playing in the Olympia in London. Few men have understood better than Maeterlinck how to analyze the subtler emotions of the human soul and win from them a message of hope. Few writers have been able to enter more deeply and sympathetically into the mysticism of the middle ages than Gottfried Keller. Nevertheless, neither of them has made this loveliest of stories as intelligible and enjoyable to the masses as the motion pictures dealing with the same subject. The wordless spectacle has drawn a step nearer than the play or the novel to a clear interpretation of the story, but the fact remains that in the Olympia in London every bit of scenery used is painted and made to order for the occasion. The motion picture making its appeal far more direct to mind and eye than the printed page and having an audience vastly bigger than any single theatre in the world can hold, does not need the stage carpenter and all the mechanical devices, etc., of the wordless play, and therefore disdains them. It uses for its skeleton and foundation no plaster casts or painted boards, but the very temples and churches which have looked down on humanity when this legend was first told by the lips of faithful believers. The camera shows these noble edifices in their pure, Gothic majesty. Thus we see wonderful interiors of cathedrals which were built in the time of the First Crusade. We see the arches and porticos of monasteries built when the religion of Christ was still young in Northern Europe. We see the homes of nobles and lords who held such supreme sway in the turreted bastions of castles that helped to make the history of the world, and we marvel at the lavish and artistic interior of these castles.

Here are some expressions of approval that have been uttered by men and women of high standing as musical connoisseurs, who were present at Cristeta Goni's first American concert at Carnegie Hall: "Her romance and other renditions show the proverbial teaching of the 'young idea,'—how to bring to earth those fancies which are said to 'have wings.'" "Her 'Zizeunerweisen,' by Sarasate, which echoed Cristeta's own infancy in Almeria, the Spanish city of luscious grapes, showed that Cristeta, the heir of Castilian sunny climes, forms her ideals in the soul-warming surroundings of the old-world masters of Spanish paintings, and her technique in the companionship of French music living deans, Saint-Saens and Raoul Pugno." Another one says: "Her search for melody is exquisite." Cristeta Goni will appear in recital at Plainfield theatre on Monday, December 16, matinee and evening.

POWDER TRUST DISSOLVED.

Wilmington, Del., Dec. 12 (Special).—In compliance with the order of the Federal court, a plan for the dissolution of the Du Pont Powder Company, commonly known as the "powder trust," was sumbitted to the court here today for its approval. According to the plan, the old combination is to be replaced by three newly formed corporations, to be known as the E. I. Du Pont De Kemours Company, the Hercules Powder Company and the Atlas Powder Company. All three of the companies are to have their general offices in this city, but the business of each is to be conducted independently of the others and no one person will be permitted to act as an officer or director of more than one of the corporations.

Frank P. Glass, well known as a newspaper publisher in Alabama, is among those receiving mention for a place in the Wilson cabinet.

Officially there is no longer a Republican party in Maryland, as the State law recognizes but two parties, and the Republicans ran third in the recent election.

The Hamilton Club, of Chicago, is making an effort to get Progressives to return to the Republican party, and has called a meeting to that end to be held in Chicago next month.

Charles P. Taft, of Cincinnati, brother of President Taft, is expected to become a candidate to succeed United States Senator Theodore E. Burton, whose term will expire in 1915.

Friends of Speaker Champ Clark will urge upon the Democrats the selection of Bennett Clark, the 24-year-old son of the Speaker, as parliamentarian of the House of the Sixty-third Congress.

The name of Joseph Teal, a prominent Oregon lawyer who has been extensively identified with the conservation movement, will be presented to President-elect Wilson for appointment as Secretary of the Interior.

For the first time in nearly forty years the Democrats will be in practical control of both branches of the State Legislature of Connecticut when that body convenes for its regular session early in the coming year.

It is generally expected that the approaching session of the Michigan Legislature will see the enactment of a measure designed to simplify the primary and registration laws of that State.

Kansas elected more than 200 women to county offices this year—50 more than in any previous year. The offices to which the women were chosen are among the most responsible in the counties. There are women probate judges, district court clerks, county treasurers, registrars of deeds, county clerks and county superintendents.

William P. Jackson, Republican national committeeman for Maryland, who has been appointed by Governor Goldsborough to succeed the late Isidor Rayner in the United States Senate, is forty-four years old and a native of Maryland. He is reputed to be a millionaire, with large and varied business interests, chief of which is the manufacture of lumber.

NO FEAR OF FRIDAY THE 13TH.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12 (Special).—Associates and other friends of Dr. Theodore Gill, the noted zoologist of the Smithsonian Institution and former Librarian of Congress, have arranged to give a banquet in his honor tomorrow night at the Cosmos Club. The affair will be in celebration of Dr. Gill's seventy-fifth birthday. The actual anniversary occurred last March, but it was decided to defer the banquet until it could be given on Friday, the thirteenth day of the month. As further evidence of their contempt for unlucky days and numbers the guests at the banquet will number exactly 13.

LIQUOR LICENSES RENEWED.

New Brunswick, Dec. 12 (Special).—Judge Daly, of the Middlesex County Court, has renewed the liquor licenses of Gustave Winter, of Dunellen; William A. Norman and Luigfi Currio, of Piscataway township. There were but four applications for new licenses before the court, and one of these, that of John A. Bennett, of Jamesburg, was withdrawn. Judge Daly stated that the rule not to grant any new licenses unless there was the best proof that they were needed, would be followed.

Plainfield, N. J., December 12, 1912.

A REMINDER.

One of the many good things to be said about Plainfield is that its citizens may invariably be depended upon to give their hearty support to any worthy charitable undertaking. Probably in no community of its size are there so many splendid institutions maintained on the voluntary contributions of the people and probably is there no place of the size where there is ready and liberal response to appeals in behalf of those in anyway unfortunate. This is the reason why the Good Fellow movement has been such a marked success. As it touches the heart, it is bound to touch the pocketbook and the scheme has therefore done a wondrously good work.

The Good Fellow movement, as you are no doubt fully aware, is for the purpose of providing a real Christmas for all the poor little boys and girls in the community. One of its best features is that there is absolute secrecy. No names are made public; the only plan is purely anonymous as is explained in the Good Fellow letter published on this page.

This is the fourth year of the movement and the requests for names for worthy children are coming in rapidly. In fact the army of Good Fellows is larger now than on the corresponding date last December. So it behooves all who wish to play a part in this good work to write to Good Fellow as quickly as possible.

Says the New York Herald: "Horace Greeley nearly ruined the prosperous Tribune when he ceased to serve the public and used it as an organ for the advancement of his personal ambitions. The reason for this lies in the popular distrust of any journal which is not first and foremost a medium for the collection and dissemination of news. Advertisers as well as readers fight shy of a newspaper whose single minded sincerity is a matter of doubt, just as they fight shy of a man of questionable integrity."

To save any possible embarrassment, see to it that a yellow label is attached to every Christmas gift sent by express. That will mean that you have paid all the express charges. When a white label is placed on the package or box, it means that the person to whom you send the present must pay the charges, in other words, the goods go "collect." This is a new rule of the express companies and it is well to give the matter your attention at this season of the year.

One of the criticisms on Plainfield mentioned by a local pastor in summing up answers received by him in reply to queries as to what, if anything, is wrong with Plainfield, was that which reflected to the handling of the finances. The man who furnished that opinion to the minister should be ashamed of it. We venture to say, without fear of contradiction, that Plainfield's finances are handled as well if not better than those of any city in the State.

But eight more working days remain in the Daily Press contest. That means that each and every contestant must make the best use of the limited time before the competition closes. A player-piano, a piano without the automatic attachment and a cabinet vitaphone are the three principal prizes, between the losers will have the consolation to receive ten per cent. of their cash receipts, an offer to be made good, win or lose.

One of the greatest press agent stunts in a long time was that worked last night by the management of "The Whip" at the Manhattan Opera House, where Mrs. John Jacob Astor and members of her set acted as "supers." It was good for a column on the first page of almost every morning paper, an advertisement that money could not buy.

All young men, particularly those of limited means, who have ambition, should read the contributed editorial to be published on Saturday. The contributing editor for that issue will be a man who has made a success in life and he will have something to say of peculiar interest to the young.

If for no other reason, gratitude, one of the noblest of virtues, should prompt Woodrow Wilson to call William Jennings Bryan to serve as Secretary of State. Had it not been for the Nebraskan, Jersey's Governor would never have been nominated, much less elected to the Presidency.

Red Cross seals are on sale at the Daily Press office for the benefit of the Plainfield Anti-Tuberculosis Society. They sell for a penny apiece, 100 in a packet for $1.00.

So long as William E. Tuttle holds a seat in the House of Representatives, the Fifth, New Jersey, district will be well represented, judging the future by the past.

If you have not already done so, read the letter of the Good Fellow published on this page, and then govern yourself accordingly.

After March 4, Mr. Taft will be "The Schoolmaster."

F. R. A. ELECTION.

These officers were elected at the meeting of the Firemen's Relief Association last night: President, Chief T. O. Doane; vice president, Captain William Addis; treasurer, Captain William Townley; secretary, Jerella Moethorne.

TO THE "GOOD FELLOWS" OF PLAINFIELD

Just about this time last year I told you my story. You listened to it—you did more—you followed its spirit out in a bang-up style. Bless your hearts, you made over 600 poor little tots know the real meaning of a joyous Christmas. I'm not claiming any credit for my story; I'm claiming credit for knowing that there are many Good Fellows in this fine old town of ours—royal chaps, who don't do much preaching, but when it comes to doing a good turn, well, they're there with the goods. This is no sermon that I'm handing you, it's a heart to heart talk with men with red blood in their veins, and here it is off last year's reel.

On Christmas and New Year's eve you and I went out for a good time and spent from $10 to $200. Christmas morning hundreds of children awoke to an empty stocking—bitter with the pain of disappointment that Santa Claus had forgotten them. That's the way it used to be. Perhaps it wasn't our fault. We had provided for our own; we had also reflected in a passing way on those less fortunate than our own, but they seemed far off and we didn't know where to find them. Perhaps in the hundred and one things we had to do some of us didn't think of that heart sorrow of the child over the empty stocking.

Now, old man, here's a chance. Just send your name and address to the Daily Press—address Santa Claus—state about how many children you are willing to protect against grief over that empty stocking, inclose a two-cent stamp and you will be furnished with the names, addresses, sex and age of that many children. It is then up to you, you do the rest. Select your own present, spend 50 cents or $50, and send or take the gifts to those children on Christmas eve. You pay not a cent more than you want to pay—every cent goes just where you want it to go. You gain neither notoriety nor advertising; no record will be kept; your letter will be returned to you with its answer. The whole plan is just as anonymous as old Santa Claus himself.

This is not a newspaper scheme. The Daily Press will preserve the anonymous character of this work. The responsibility of finding the children and sending you their names will be assumed by this paper and it guarantees that whatever you bestow will be deserved.

Neither you nor I get anything out of this, except the feeling that you have saved from sorrow on Christmas morning. If that is not enough for you then you have wasted time in reading this—it is not intended for you, but for the good fellows of Plainfield.

Perhaps a twenty-five cent doll or a ten cent tin toy wouldn't mean much to the children you know, but to the child who would find them in the otherwise empty stocking they mean much—the difference between utter disappointment and the joy that Santa Claus did not forget them. Here is where you and I get in. The charitable organizations attend to the bread and meat, the clothes, the necessaries; you and the rest of the good fellows furnish the toys, the nuts, the candies, the child's real Christmas.

GOOD FELLOW.

"Good Fellow" is not a professional philanthropist, he takes a drink, and even goes out at night with the boys for a mild good time—but he has taken care of some poor little ones each year in Plainfield. He says he wishes he had always curtailed his holiday joy-making with the good fellows even more than he did, so that he might have had more money to gladden childish hearts.

The Worthy Grand Master of the lodge of Good Fellows has laid his plans for securing names through the Charity Organization Society.

This is how you can joint the lodge of Good Fellows. Write a letter to "Santa Claus," care of the Daily Press, something like this:

I live at No.....street. I will be Santa Claus to 6 children.

JOHN JONES.

The letter will go to Santa Claus. He will indorse on your letter the names and addresses of six children. That letter will be remailed to you. Then you get busy. That's all. Come on in, good fellows.

HORSE LINIMENT FOR HER BLEEDING HEART

Following careful arrrangements made by the Township Improvement Society and the Watchung Chemical Engine Company, the fall term of the Watchung Court opened in the municipal building at Watchung, last night. The case on the docket was a suit for breach of promise brought by Miss Snorer Spoons against Walter Cheese Limburger. Justice John Hermann occupied the bench, while the plaintiff was represented by the learned attorneys, Hon. E. Scanning and Col. Morbus, and the defendant by the eminent firm of lawyers, Sanderson & Nodin. A mixed jury was called, consisting of equal parts of suffragette and mere man. Henry Rogers was listed as a suffragette, but was challenged by the defense because he had never heard of Maud Malone.

Miss Spoons had been engaged as a nurse to the defendant in his early life and had been retained in the family until her attentions to the young man attracted the notice of his mother, who discharged her. She continued to hold her influence over the young man, and when the large savings, which she had accumulated while in the employ of the Limburger family, were lost through the failure of the First National Bank, of Watchung, and the Farmers Trust Co., of Watchung, she plotted to reemburse herself by securing a hold on the Limburger fortune. This she came near accomplishing by weaving a spell over Mr. Limburger.

The jury brought in a verdict that undoubtedly her feelings had been hurt but held that a woman of her advanced years should be able to find balm easily. They awarded her two cases of horse powder, which the defendant sells, together with a box of horse liniment, to sooth her bleeding heart.

The farce was well presented and the humorous features were all brought out. The cast for the trial was: Judge, John Hermann; court clerk, Henry Allen; bailiff, William Demler, Jr.; jurymen, Mrs. William Demler, Mrs. Charles Wheeler, Miss Cass, Messrs. Winans, Woolston and Frazee; witnesses for plaintiff, Misses Elsie and Theresa Schmidt and Francis Bodine; witnesses for defendant, Mrs. Griffith, Miss Underhill and Dr. Groszmann; plaintiff, Miss Nora Koons; defendant, Walter C. Limbarger; attorneys for plaintiff, Edward Canning and John Mobus; attorneys for defendant, W. de La. R. Anderson and Louis Snowden.

The next event of the Township Improvement Society will be a costume dance to be held in the society building in Watchung on New Year's eve.

THOUSAND BOOKS BETWEEN PRIMARY AND HIGH SCHOOL

MISSIONS IN ORIENT VIVIDLY PORTRAYED

Miss Lawrence's Illustrated Talk at Trinity Church Much Enjoyed.

The auditorium of Trinity Reformed church was filled last night at the illustrated lecture on the missionary work in Japan, China and India delivered by Miss Olivia H. Lawrence, secretary of the Women's Board of Foreign Missions of the Reformed Church, who has recently returned from an extended tour of the Orient. Over 100 slides made real the interesting remarks of Miss Lawrence about the missionary work among the heathen.

Pictures of the numerous mission stations which are scattered throughout Japan, China and India and the Christian converts which they keep were shown. The religion of the Mohammedans in all its glory, signified in the beautiful and costly temples dedicated to him, was compared to the simplicity of the Christian faith and its places of worship. There is no Christian church in the world equal to the speaker, approaching in magnificence the Mohammedan mosques in the Orient. The religion, which was founded by a young merchant who professed to be even a greater prophet than Christ, has taken a tremendous hold upon the people. Tens of thousands of them worship daily at a single shrine. Many of them, however, are accepting the Christian faith, Miss Lawrence said, and many more will become converts if only the missionaries are able to reach them.

The wonderful slides with which the speaker illustrated her lecture were made from photographs taken by Miss Lawrence during her trip. Many of them depicted the life of the Oriental people, their customs and their religion. The lecture was given under the auspices of the Young Women's Mission Band of the church.

DIPLOMAT'S TALENTED WIFE.

Princess Lichnowsky, Sociologist, Author, Traveler and Illustrator.

Rarely has the wife of a foreign ambassador become such a central object of courteous, social and diplomatic interest as has the Princess Lichnowsky, the wife of the new German envoy to the court of St. James.

When Baron Marschall von Bieberstein died England, with its constant inclination to Germanophobia, was fearful that his successor might not be a man of such suave and ameliorative tendencies, but the appointment of Prince Charles Max Lichnowsky—rich, cultured and credited with special interest in the problem of how to improve Anglo German relations—allayed these forebodings.

Princess Lichnowsky, who is her husband's junior by nineteen years, was before her marriage well known as Mathilde, Countess Arco of Zirnelberg. She not only paints, plays, sings, travels and writes, but—and it is this trait of her character that is at present occupying most attention—she is also a student of sociology and a practical authority on eugenics.

She has lately published a book on Egypt, the illustrations and text of which are both by her own hand, but proud as she is of this effort it is her forthcoming book that she considers her great work. That book is to be on children, their rearing, their health, their culture and their place.

She devoted several years to the minute studies which she has embodied in the book, finding time for this work in the midst of the most exacting social and diplomatic duties. "A task that is loved is a pleasure," she smilingly explained when complimented on her many activities. While her new book is illuminatingly scientific, it is also infused with a broad, sympathetic humanity and an inspired hope for the future of the race. She says this work is dearer to her than all of her previous endeavors. It is sure to be much discussed not only in Europe, but here, where the study of eugenics is steadily widening.

OLDEST MAN IN THE WORLD!

Chief Firemaker, 131 Years Old, Visited President Jefferson.

Blackfoot Chief Firemaker's face is a map of time whereon are marked the rugged trails of his 131 years. He is said to be the oldest man alive and could well dispute with Colonel William Cody his right to the title of buffalo killer. This Indian has slain 3,000 bison in his day.

Firemaker was born in the region now known as Glacier National park in 1781, according to well authenticated tradition. He was the first red man in that territory to visit the great white father, and his journey to the national capital when President Jefferson was in the White House was a memorable event in his life.

He is regarded in his tribe as an oracle. At the time of his birth, so the Indian legend goes, the father of all spirits, standing on a mountain, shot an arrow near his father's tepee. The prophecy, as interpreted by the medicine men, is that he would live forever and assist the gods in their councils.

Whitlock Learns Municipal Lessons In Europe

BRAND WHITLOCK, mayor of Toledo, sociologist and author, is profoundly impressed by municipal efficiency abroad, and German cities realize his ideals. He says Europe in general and Germany in particular are far ahead of America in almost everything pertaining to city government and that the municipalities of the United States have an incalculable amount to learn from the other side of the Atlantic.

During his eight weeks' tour Mayor Whitlock visited Ireland, Scotland, England, France, Belgium and Germany. His credentials obtained for him everywhere most cordial receptions and most extensive facilities for investigation. Among the honors shown him was a dinner given him by the Liberal members of the house of commons in London.

"My American patriotism has not been lessened by the revelations which awaited me in Europe," said he. "It has rather been intensified, for I am more than ever convinced of the vast room for improvement in our municipal conditions.

Hats Off to the Germans.

"I take my hat off especially to the Germans. Their cities are probably the best administered communities in the world, outside of Glasgow, which is also splendidly governed.

"Speaking generally, I should say that the two things which chiefly account for the good city governments in Europe are, first, that trained professional men are in charge, more or less permanently, of municipal affairs, and, second, that the European cities are utterly unlike our own in that they keep what they have instead of giving it away. They gain possession of their streets, docks, wharfs and other public utilities and operate them on business principles instead of handing them over as a free gift to private corporations.

"These two factors impress me indelibly as being responsible more than anything else for the absence of graft and the efficiency of European municipal governments. The abattoirs I have seen are particularly fine. Everywhere where public utilities are in operation they are giving satisfactory service from the standpoint of both the municipality and the public.

"The system of town planning is admirable beyond words.

"I realize how difficult it is to adapt European measures and systems by wholesale to our own conditions, yet there are a number of things which we could borrow to our incalculable profit.

"The German cities which I looked over carefully—Frankfort, Dresden, Cologne and Berlin—are certainly model municipalities. Every American city which can afford to ought to send its mayor to the fatherland to see how ideally government is conducted.

Stamped by Thoroughness.

"I have been bewildered by the thoroughness of everything and have learned so much I never knew before that I shall have difficulty to know where to begin applying the lessons at home.

"Everywhere I encountered burgomasters and town councilors, with whom the science of municipal government is not a political opportunity or a passing occupation, but a profession which they have practiced for years and intend to practice all their lives.

"Everywhere, too, I found the city in possession of what belongs to the city and not given away. Everywhere I have found a vigorous public interest in civic affairs and a feeling of personal pride in cleanliness, good order, efficient government and everything else which is part and parcel of a municipality's function."

Mayor Whitlock, who was accompanied by his wife, undertook his investigations in Europe chiefly on account of the new Ohio law conferring home rule on cities. He desires to equip himself as fully as possible to meet the complex conditions which the new situation imposes upon Toledo, where he is now serving as mayor for the fourth term.

STRIKERS ATTACK POLICE, TWO KILLED; TWENTY SHOT

Shadyside, N. J., Dec. 12.—Blocking the railroad with bowlders so reinforcements could not be sent through to their victims, three hundred strikers, armed with shotguns and repeating rifles, swept down the face of the cliff, a hundred feet and two hundred strike breakers and detectives at the pockets of the Susquehanna Railroad here yesterday afternoon, killing two detectives and wounding a score of others, six of whom are in the hospital. Women were fired upon, men were beaten, several officers of the railroad narrowly escaped being killed and the bordering section of the Palisades was kept in a state of siege.

One hundred detectives of the railroad patrolled the works last night, while strikers prowled along the face of the cliff, a hundred feet and more above, keeping foreboding vigil. Officials of the railroad sought the aid of the Bergen battalion of the militia, to be prepared if any opposition arises today, when they attempt to start up the works.

FIFTY-DOLLAR FIRE.

A fire of unknown origin and causing damage to the amount of $50 broke out this morning on the roof of the factory at 301 East Fourth street, occupied by the Baird Company, manufacturers of surgical instruments. When the fire department apparatus arrived at the factory the company's volunteer fire corps had the flames nearly extinguished.

that must be considered by itself when you come to Paint. The lumber, the location, the condition of the old paint are all factors that must be given careful consideration. MOTHERS' WORK

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mother's Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

Those parents who think that their children will profit by their good advice, if that advice is not fortified by good personal conduct, are ignorant of a child's methods.

In home life nothing is so hateful to the children as good advice from father or mother when that advice is contrary to their own habits. They will not honor it because they can not; they are not able to hear the words; they are too busy thinking what father and mother do themselves and they are influenced by the spiritual forces of the parents' inner life; and that is what they regard while they laugh at the counsel.

To think that a child can fashion its life after a pattern that it never sees, is to expect it to perform a miracle out of the law-ruled lives we live. And only God can perform miracles of that sort.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

THE HOLIDAY FRUIT CAKE.

LIKE plum pudding, fruit cake may be prepared in advance of the time it is needed. It is better for being kept awhile.

A Very Fine Cake.

Christmas Cake.—Take a cupful and a half of butter and mix it with three cupfuls of brown sugar until light and creamy. Add half a grated nutmeg, a tablespoonful of powdered cinnamon, one teaspoonful each of cloves and mace. Dissolve a level teaspoonful of soda in a half cupful of sour cream, add to it a half cupful of molasses and stir until it stops working. Then add to the other ingredients. Mix well and put in six eggs, beating vigorously between each one. Knead this cake with the hands, for it is too stiff to beat.

Now stir in a wineglassful of brandy. Sift four cupfuls of flour and add to the cake mixture little by little, kneading all the time.

Have ready one pound of seeded raisins, one pound washed and dried currants, quarter of a pound of shredded citron and an eighth of a pound each of candied orange and lemon peel chopped fine.

Add and knead for ten minutes longer, then put the mixture into two brick shaped tins lined with buttered paper, place in a moderate oven and bake slowly for three hours.

Real Christmas Cake.

English Plum Cake.—Take two pounds of flour and mix it with three-quarters of a pound of powdered sugar, half a grated nutmeg and grated mace to taste.

When these are blended make a hole in the middle and pour in the beaten yolks of seven eggs, also the whites of seven beaten with half a pint of yeast, half a wineglassful of sherry and a tablespoonful of orange flower water.

Next melt one pound and a quarter of butter in three-quarters of a pint of warm milk and when it is lukewarm pour into the center of the batter. Throw a little of the flour over the liquids, but do not work altogether till it is ready for the oven. Let it stand before the fire, with a cloth over it, to rise for an hour.

Then add one pound and a half of currants, picked and dried, one pound and a half of sultanas, half a pound of citron, half a pound of orange peel, all sliced thinly, and a half pound of blanched almonds cut roughly.

Mix, pour into a buttered tin and bake for two and a half hours.

ATTRACTIVE TRIFLES.

Tiny Coin Purse Worn on Chain of Black Ribbon.

An attractive novelty in jewelry is the tiny coin purse of perforated metal which holds dimes and nickels. It is strung on a fine neck chain or worn at the end of a narrow black silk ribbon.

Most of the tailored suits have extremely sensible skirts. They are slightly fuller than last year, but the fullness is more in appearance than in reality.

The latest fur fad is to allow the ends of the scarf to drop down the center of the back. Boas and stoles are crossed in front, and the ends fall with a studied carelessness.

Overlapped effects and skirts that are plain at one side and shaped at the other are to be noted on the newest and smartest models, and here is one that is distinctly novel.

BIKE RIDERS LOAF AND DROP BEHIND

Only Made Eight Miles in One Hour This Morning Going Behind Record.

TWO TEAMS LAP BEHIND

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Madison Square Garden, New York, Dec. 12.—Riders in the six-day bicycle race stopped hitting up a pace that left the high marks of previous years in the background today, and twelve of the fifteen teams which started in the long grind on Sunday night are on even terms, but have dropped back to a pace which has put them well behind the average maintained the first three days, and they were three laps behind the record at 10 o'clock.

Since 10 o'clock this morning the men were riding about even with the record. At 2 o'clock the scores posted were:

	Miles.	Laps.
Kramer and Moran	1679	8
Clark and Hill	1679	8
Grenda and Pye	1679	8
Rutt and Fogler	1679	8
Root and Hehir	1679	8
Ryan and Thomas	1679	8
Perchicot and Egg	1679	8
Bedell and Mitten	1679	8
Walthour and Cameron	1679	8
Drobach and Collins	1679	8
Brocco and Berthet	1679	8
Walker and Wells	1679	8
Loftes and Carmen	1679	6
Suter and Suter	1679	6

The record for 86 hours is 1681 miles and 5 laps, or nearly 2 miles better than today's score.

At 9 o'clock this morning the riders were 8 miles and 3 laps ahead of the record, having covered 1602 miles and 1 lap at that time, as against 1593 miles and 9 laps, the best previous record for the same number of hours. Brocco was leading.

Between 9 and 10 o'clock the teams started in to loaf and dropping down from the banked track to the "flat" loafed around the course, some of them reading newspapers and joking with bystanders as they rode. The officials spurred them on in vain. Between 9 and 10 o'clock only 8 miles and 4 laps were covered, the total at the latter hour being 1610 and 5 laps, as against a former record of 1610 miles and 8 laps. It was a repetition of the loaf of Wednesday morning.

After their loaf of an hour the riders got busy again and between 10 and 12 held their own, having gotten one lap ahead of the record at the latter hour, the distance made at noon being 1646 miles and 8 laps. The former record is one lap less.

Shortly after 11 o'clock one of the Suter brothers collapsed and fell off his wheel. His team mate took his place, and they were still in at 2 o'clock.

The Suter brothers, who lost a lap yesterday, fell back another lap during a sprint last evening, together with the Carmen-Loftes combination. All the other teams are going strong.

Another capacity crowd gathered within the big amphitheatre last night to see the old records fall, and to hope for the ocasional sprint which makes the six-day race so fascinating. The advance in prices which has usually been made on the fourth day of the race, was put into effect one day earlier this year, but the change had no deterrent effect on the attendance, which was almost as large as the record-breaking turnout of Tuesday night.

The evening crowd was treated to the usual exciting "jam." It was started by Carmen shortly before 10 o'clock and was taken up in turn by Grenda, Kramer, Clarke, and Pye. The resting riders were called from their quarters, and in a minute the full quota of riders was on the track. The sprint proved a bad move for Carmen, who was unable to keep up with the terrific pace set by his successors, and before the "jam" ended his team had been lapped.

Five of the fourteen teams remaining in the race are what might be called the dangerous teams, and the members of these five are watching each other like hawks. These combinations are the Fogler-Rutt, Hill-Clarke, Root-Hehir, Grenda-Pye, and Kramer-Moran teams. When a sprint is not in progress the members of these teams who are on the track can usually be found in a bunch, each taking no chances in dropping to the rear of the procession, and thus being in a poor position if a sprint is attempted by the leaders. That all these teams will fight for the lead up to Saturday night is taken for granted, if they can escape accidents from falls. All are made up of strong riders, capable of keeping up to any pace that may be set.

COMPANY K SCORES ITS FOURTH VICTORY

Young Men's A. A. Five Easy for Thompson's Well Drilled Soldiers.

Captain James A. Thompson led the Company K quintet to its fourth straight victory last night when the soldiers swamped the fast five from the Young Men's Association by the score of 42 to 8. The game was played on the company floor on West Front street. The playing space was as slippery as glass and as a result many spills were registered before time was called. The athletic association players, although fighting desperately for points, were completely outclassed by the clever team work of the National Guard men. Several rallies were started by the vistors but before a basket could be dumped into the ring the defensive work of the victors smashed up the offensive tactics of the invaders.

Captain Thompson's marksmen took the lead at the crack of the gun, when Darling scored with a free throw. Thompson followed with a sensational basket from the side of the floor and from then on to the finish the scoreboard rapidly showed increasing points for Co. K. Mackan was the only one on the vanquished team who showed any offensive play. The forward broke through the sharpshooters guard for a pair of baskets. Nolan with 8 scores and Darling with 6 led the victorious attack. A pretty duel developed between Captain Thompson and Angleman, the opposing center. Thompson had a shade the best of the argument and succeeded in scoring where Angleman went basketless. The score:

ROTHBERGS START IN WITH THREE WINS

Defeat Westfield All-Stars on Foreign Alleys—Return Match.

The Rothberg bowlers won three games from the All-Stars, of Westfield, last night on the theatre alleys, Westfield. About 200 were on hand to see the match and the crowd at times caused both teams some trouble with their pushing and rooting.

New wood fell very hard for both teams. A return game will be played in three weeks on Walters' alleys.

Thompson, Radin and Britton won four out of five games from Miller, Hegeman and Tobin, after the five-man match was rolled.

It was the first match the Rothbergs have rolled. They are prepared to take on any teams that think they can size up to the job.

COLLEGE ATHLETES RUN DOWN QUICKLY

After 10 Years of Business Life They Are Below Average Men.

The distinguished college athlete, after ten years of severe business life, is below the average college man in his physical possibilities and in the measure of his resistance against disease, if we are to believe the startling words of Dr. Harlow Brooks, Professor of Clinical Medicine at New York University. Dr. Brooks, who has had an unusual opportunity to examine ex-college athletes as the medical officer of a National Guard company, further finds that the defects are chiefly confined to lesions or disturbances of the heart and other circulatory organs, and to adiposity or to joint disease.

The 'varsity football player comes in for marked criticism. In one year, Dr. Brooks examined twelve different men who were all at one time famous as college football players, and six of whom were ex-captains of their teams. These men were subjected to the same work and physical tests as those men who had passed through their college course without any particular athletic distinction, or who had never enjoyed the opportunities of college athletics. Of these twelve famous athletes but one could be rated physicaly up to the average of his comrades of his own age. This one exception was a Yale alumnus who later died in his early thirties of acute diabetes.

Similar conditions were found in other college sports. The defects became even more marked in track men and especially in oarsmen. They appeared to the least degree in baseball players.

The cause for this alarming state of affairs is found by Dr. Brooks in the life the athlete lives after leaving college. Time and mental preoccupation do not permit the continuance of athletics. Training is neglected and eventually the former champion subsides to the arm-chair squad.

TEAM NO. 3 TAKES TWO GAMES FROM TEAM NO. 2

Team No. 3 took two games from Team No. 2, in the tin-pin tournament which was continued at the Park Club last night. They lost the first game by the narrow margin of 671 to 749, but in the second and third games they came back strong, winning by scores of 806 to 752 and 801 to 693. No especially high scores were rolled, all being of a good average. A rather remarkable incident was that both W. D. Flanders and C. P. Titsworth put up the same scores in each game, the former a 140 and the latter a 130. The same was true of E. M. Daniel, 2, who rolled a 160 in each game. The scores:

ELABORATE GATEWAY FOR PRINCETON FIELD

Princeton, Dec. 12.—The baseball crowds which will attend the Princeton games next spring will have a pleasant surprise in store for them, inasmuch as the university is erecting a handsome gateway to replace the old Thompson gateway, which has been the entrance to University Field for many years. The cost of building the new structure is coming from the fund donated to the 1911 football team by Cyrus H. McCormick, '79. He gave $25,000 last spring to be used as the members of the championship football team should see fit. The gateway will cost about $7,000, and the balance of the original amount will be held in trust for future athletic improvements.

The new gateway will centre on a line bisecting Williams street, which has been the main avenue of approach to the field. It will be similar to the gateway facing on Prospect avenue. Messrs. McKim, Mead and White are the architects of both entrances. The same material will be used for the new gateway as was used for the old Harvard brick with with Indiana limestone trimming.

The gateway proper will be in the form of a rectangular tower, thirty-two feet wide, twenty-four feet high, pierced by an arch, to provide for the admission of vehicles. The gate will be of wrought iron. Ticket offices will be built into each side of the gateway. Ample provisions will be made for the accommodation of large crowds. The gateway will be finished in February.

CANADIAN SWIMMERS TO COMPETE IN THIS COUNTRY

Canada will send two great swimmers to this country in January to compete with the American champions. They will come as members of McGill University. George Hodgson, the sensational young distance swimmer who captured both the 400 and 1,500 meter free style championships at the recent Olympic games in Stockholm, and George Draper, a newcomer who is heralded as Hodgson's peer in the sprints, are the coming invaders. If the latter's ability has not been exaggerated, McGill should take the lion's share of the awards even against the leading American colleges and club's, for Hodgson has covered the century in 58 seconds and is practically unbeatable at the furlong.

Everyone is looking forward with keen interest to a race at 500 yards between Duke Kahanamoku, of Hawaii; Perry McGillivray, of Illinois University and Hodgson, and it is hoped that they can be brought together in a contest for the title. Ie would prove the greatest swimming event of the season. While Hodgson is undoubtedly a wonder from the furlong up, McGillivray beat his best quarter-mile time a few weeks ago, when he created a new record of 5 minutes 23 2-5 seconds, and there are many who believe Kahanamoku will prove a match for either one of his great rivals. He has been training for the distances, and is said to be able to carry speed over the longer course proportionate to that which he has shown in the sprints.

Hodgson is anxious to compete against American champions, and the McGill authorities have promised to do their best to arrange matches for him.

THIS WOMAN LANDS TIGER OF THE SEA

Mrs. James Garvey.

Mrs. James Garvey, of Los Angeles, recently had a thrilling experience while fishing for sharks with other passengers of an ocean liner off the coast of Salvado. A half grown man eater grabbed the bait on the line which she held and had it not been for her screams for help she would have been pulled into the water. The shark was landed.

Later, a dozen of the passengers got into a little canoe designed for four persons and started for the shore. The sharks followed them and the whole company all but lost their lives.

HOCKEY SEASON SCHEDULE.

Four Teams Contest For Amateur Championship of America.

With only four clubs in the competitive schedule of the race for the Amateur Hockey league championship which is slated to start Jan. 7, 1913, it is promised that despite the seeming lack of the forces for the titular honors the series will be productive of as stubborn a schedule as ever contested for the ice honors.

As only four clubs will compete for the championship, the committee decided to play a triple instead of a double round robin.

While it is not known just who will constitute the makeup of the Irish-American Athletic club team, the newcomer in the ranks of the hockeyists it has been intimated that the members will be without cavil by any one interested in the series, which is as follows:

First Round.—Jan. 7, Hockey club versus St. Nicholas; 10, Crescent A. C. versus Irish-American A. C.; 13, Hockey club versus Irish-American A. C.; 15, St. Nicholas versus Crescent A. C.; 21, St. Nicholas versus Irish-American A. C.; 24, Crescent A. C. versus Hockey club.

Second Round.—Jan. 28, Hockey club versus St. Nicholas; 31, Crescent A. C. versus Irish-American A. C.; Feb. 3, Hockey club versus Irish-American A. C.; 5, Crescent A. C. versus St. Nicholas; 11, St. Nicholas versus Irish-American A. C.; 14, Crescent A. C. versus Hockey club.

Third Round.—Feb. 18, Hockey club versus St. Nicholas; 21, Crescent A. C. versus Irish-American A. C.; 24, Hockey club versus Irish-American A. C.; 26, St. Nicholas versus Crescent A. C.; March 4, St. Nicholas versus Irish-American A. C.; 7, Crescent A. C. versus Hockey club.

TRIANGULAR BOAT RACE.

Penn Oarsmen Will Meet Harvard and Princeton Next Year.

That Pennsylvania will meet Harvard and Princeton in a triangular crew race some time in May is at this time almost an assured fact.

At present the plans have not been completed, but the first race will probably be held at Cambridge early in May. Last year Pennsylvania, Princeton and Columbia held a triangular eight oar race on Carnegie lake at Princeton.

The races will be held every third year at the different colleges. The final plans of the race will be completed by the first of the new year.

SIX DAY RACES AN OLD SPORT

Long Pedal Grinds Started Abroad Thirty-seven Years Ago.

ARE POPULAR THE WORLD OVER

Distance Riding Began First With One Man Teams—Team Racing In 1899. This Year's Event Will Be Held In New York During Week of Dec. 9.

The six day bicycle race under the auspices of the Garden Athletic club, which has been an annual affair in New York since 1891, will be staged in Madison Square Garden, New York, beginning the week of Dec. 9.

Under new management the race this year should be well handled. In the matter of teams the field will be a representative one. Few persons know it, but the six day race, which has become one of New York's annual winter events, originated in Europe nearly forty years ago. Its history at this time is quite interesting, recalling as it does the early struggles.

Six day cycle races date from about 1875, when a twelve hour a day affair was run in Birmingham, England. A little while later one of eighteen hours a day was held in London. In this race Waller rode with a cycle fitted with a wooden saddle for the full eighteen hours without dismounting.

The first invasion of America took place in 1879. Jack Haverly and Peter Duryea brought over a team to this country from Europe and gave exhibitions and rode six day races of three and six hours a day on roller skating floors in New York, Boston, Chicago and other cities. In 1886 Tom Eck constructed the first track having banked or raised corners in a hall at Springfield, Ill. This was the first time the riders and skaters were able to make turns at full speed. Until that year all records for the quarter mile to 1,044.5 miles (144 hours) were held by Europeans.

The first 142 hour race in America was held in the Washington rink, Minneapolis, Minn., long before they rode these races in New York. Albert Shock won with a total of 1,405 miles, W. J. (Senator Morgan) finished second with 1,165 miles, while Louise Armaindo, advertised as the most accomplished woman rider of the world, ran third and had ridden 1,050 miles.

The first six day race ever held in Madison Square Garden was in 1891, seventeen riders starting and riding twenty hours a day. Plugger Bill Martin of Lowell, Mass., won and rode 1,146 miles. The following year Ashingeri was the victor. In 1893 Albert Shock won on a safety vehicle and rode 1,600 miles and three laps. No race was run in 1894, but during the following year a woman's six day race was run and was won by Frankie Nelson.

Again in 1896 the race was resumed and Teddy Hale, from Ireland, won, while Charlie Miller of Chicago accounted for the races in 1897 and 1898. Hale rode in Buffalo at the Broadway arsenal in 1896. In the year 1897 Miller covered 1,983 miles and in the following contest bettered the mark, riding 2,097 miles four laps.

In 1899 the authorities passed a law prohibiting riders from riding more than twelve hours in one day. Team racing was then taken up.

In 1899 the first team contest was held, and the winners were Charlie Miller and Frank (Dutch) Waller, they covering 2,733 miles and four laps, a record that stood until 1908, when McFarland and Moran won with a total mileage of 2,737 miles one lap, that being the record at the present time. The late Harry Elkes and Floyd MacFarland won the following year, and in 1901 the race was won by Walthour and McEachern. George Leander and Floyd Krebs won in 1902. Walthour repeated in 1903 with Benny Munro as a partner.

Eddie Root won his first six day race in 1904, his partner being Oliver Dorton. Root repeated the next year, but this time his mate was Joe Fogler, the Brooklyn cycler. Fogler and Root again paired in 1906, and Fogler, who rode the last mile sprint, beat out the field for the honor. For the first time since team racing was in favor a foreign team won the race in 1907, when Walter Rutt of Germany and John Stol of Holland came home in front. Floyd MacFarland again put his name among the winners in 1908, when, with Moran as his partner, he won and established the present six day record of 2,737 miles and one lap.

In 1909 MacFarland started with Jackie Clarke and Rutt had Stol as his mate. MacFarland and Stol retired, and Rutt and Clarke paired up. They not only regained the lap they were penalized, but had a lap lead at the finish. The same state of affairs existed the following year, and with plenty of help they gained all their lost ground, but Eddie Root beat out Clarke, Fogler and Hehir at the finish.

Last year saw Frank Kramer in his first long six day race, and he had Jimmy Moran as his partner. The best they could do, however, was to finish in second place, a lap behind the winners, Clarke and Fogler. What they will do this year is, of course, only problematical.

Special attachment, enabling the performer to obtain a diminished volume of tone in the bass, middle treble, or upper treble registers, by touching one of the two buttons. Cash value of piano, stool and cover, $275.

DESCRIPTION OF VITAPHONE.

The $100 Cabinet Vitaphone is the third prize. This instrument was made by The Vitaphone Company, of Netherwood, and contains points of merit not to be found in other makes of talking machines.

It reproduces voice and instrument so true to life, that one may close their eyes and imagine the performer actually present. No other instrument reproduces the original tone in purity, strength and detail as well, and no metallic parts hamper, diminish or partly destroy the skill of the artist.

Winner can have choice of mahogany, golden oak or mission oak case. There is a triple spring motor that can be wound while playing, interchangeable diaphragm connection from amplifier to horn. Plays either needle or sapphire records. It is beautifully finished and polished. The machine stands four feet high and has a twelve inch turntable, and a filing compartment holding 150 records.

A novel feature of the Vitaphone is the stationary sound box, rigidly fixed to its supporting frame and made of few and simple parts. Any make of records can be used and owing to its construction, a record used on the Vitaphone has a much longer life than is possible on any other Talking Machine.

MORE THAN 1,000 ATTEND NEW BRUNSWICK WEDDING

New Brunswick, Dec. 12 (Special).—More than one thousand guests attended the wedding of Miss Cora Louise Duncan, daughter of Major Kenneth J. Duncan, of this city, and Palmer Tennant, son of the late Dr. Charles Tennant, U. S., which took place here, last night. The affair was one of the most brilliant witnessed here in many years. Rev. Dr. John A. Ingham, of the Second Dutch Reformed church, and Rev. Dr. W. W. Knox, of the Presbyterian church, officiated.

Miss Louise Jewell, of Philadelphia, was the bridemaid, and H. P. Bridges, of Baltimore, was the best man. A reception followed the ceremony. The couple will spend their honeymoon at Hot Springs. The bride is prominent in society and has been a soloist at the Presbyterian church for some time. She received a check for $1,000 from her father. The bridegroom is a prominent member of the Maryland bar.

THE FORUM.

THE WATER QUESTION.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

Would it not be good judgment on the part of our City Council to tell the taxpayers just how much money they have spent and the entire cost to the city to date for engineers, experts, lawyers and court fees in the effort to condemn the water company plant before they rush headlong into the Court of Appeals. There they will get another opinion that the water company has some rights which we can't take away from them.

Before any action was taken, I told the taxpayers through your columns that I had obtained some sound advice from some of the best lawyers in the State to the effect that the city could not condemn and take away the water company's lands and business. It has now been proven beyond a doubt that what I said was correct. Winfield S. Angleman, one of our Plainfield lawyers, also gave the same opinion as have several other local lawyers.

But it seems that no advice or suggestion would avail for our Council was bound to spend our money for experts, lawyers, engineers, etc. I think it is time to call a halt on any more waste of public money in that direction. If we have money to spare, let's spend it in some more practical way. We need lights, pavements, garbage collection and other things. Personally I hope to see the time when a man in public office will conduct public business as he would his own private affairs and when that time comes a dollar will go as far as two dollars do now. If any taxpayers do not believe this, I want him to come over to my office some day and let me convince him of the facts.

UNIQUE FEATURES IN NEW MONSTER HOTEL

Floor for Women and Floor for Bachelors Among Them.

New York, Dec. 12 (Special).—Announcement is made that the new Hotel McAlpin, which excells in magnitude and general appointments anything heretofore attempted in the hotel line, will be ready for the reception of guests within the next week, though the big "blowout" that will mark the formal opening will be deferred until New Year's Eve. The hotel has been completed for several weeks, so far as the exterior is concerned, and a small army of workmen are now engaged in installing the furnishings.

The McAlpin is declared by hotel experts who have inspected it to be the most wonderful creation in the way of hotels that was ever dreamed of by man. As it stands today it represents an investment of nearly $15,000,000, which is "going some" even in this city with its almost countless number of luxurious hotels.

The structure occupies the block on the east side of Broadway, between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth streets. It consists of twenty-eight stories, three of which are underground. The guest rooms number 1,500, all with baths, while a total of fifty parlors will be under the one roof. To run the hotel and the several restaurants and cafes in connection therewith will require a total of 1,500 employes.

The McAlpin will have several features that will be unique among American hotels. For instance, the entire fourth floor will be for women exclusively. A woman guest arriving at the hotel without escort will be able to register with a woman clerk, ascend to her room in an elevator in charge of a young woman conductor, and have all of her errands run by a "bell-girl" instead of the customary bell-boy.

Quite the opposite will be the conditions prevailing on the twenty-second floor of the big hostelry. This floor will be reserved exclusively for "bachelor" guests. No chambermaids or other women servants will be permitted to stop at this floor. All the work will be done by chambermen and valets.

The hotel will maintain a United Service club, to which officers of the army and navy and members of the diplomatic corps can obtain membership cards and enjoy club life and entertain guests. Another feature out of the ordinary will be a section of guest rooms reserved exclusively for the use of newspaper men visiting New York. Here will be found typewriters, an abundance of "copy" paper, reference library and other conveniences for the free use of the visitors.

Grill rooms, palm gardens, plunge baths, roof gardens and other luxuries that are now so numerous among New York hotels that they have almost become common will, of course, be found at the new hotel.

Everything is being placed in readiness at the McAlpin for the New Year's Eve festivities. It is said that every table for the evening was reserved weeks ago. With the main restaurant, the several cafes and a score of private dining rooms the hotel will furnish New Year's cheer for several thousand persons. Nahan Franko, one of the most noted conductors in New York, has signed a two-year contract with the new hotel to conduct its orchestra and have charge of its musical features. There will be forty pieces in the musical force at the McAlpin, divided among the grill room, restaurant and the tea room. The famous Seventh Regiment Band and the Royal Neapolitan Players have been engaged as special features for the opening night.

STYLE AND RELIABILITY

Just a Slight Difference That Marks Those Who "Get Rothberged" and Those Who Don't.

Common Sense is a fine thing, but uncommon sense is a better thing.

There are lots of men who never "Got Rothberged" (but eventually will) who possess an abundance of common sense.

But every man who saves on his clothes-buying has more than common sense—he's got uncommon sense. Join the latter class—quick! It means $5 to you! It means that for

$10, $15, $18 and $20

You are going to get just as much value as you have heretofore been getting for $15, $20 and $25.

It's simply a matter of "sense" now—and dollars after you come in.

AMATEUR TRAMP CLOSE TO DEATH

Edson Has Narrow Escape From Being Crushed Under a Train.

DRAGGED 500 YARDS

Young Philadelphian Doesn't Know How He Succeeded in Rolling Out From Beneath the Wheels When His Grip on Handrail Broke.

Harry C. Edson, 23 years old, of Philadelphia, a youthful amateur tramp, who gained fame two years ago when he was heralded as one of the fastest semi-professional baseball players developed in the western coal regions of Pennsylvania, had a narrow escape from death late yesterday afternoon a few hundred yards east of the Netherwood station when in attempting to board a fast Philadelphia freight he lost his footing and was dragged more than five hundred yards. In some manner Edson twisted his body from under and away from the trucks in the fraction of a second left him to save his life. He doesn't know, himself, just how he did it.

The former ball-player journey to New York city a few days ago for a pleasure trip and when the time came to return to Philadelphia he decided to ride home in tramp style. He had ridden in Pullman cars and had tasted the pleasures of the buffet and parlor-observation trains; riding on a freight train was about the only railroad experience that Edson had not enjoyed. And so yesterday afternoon he decided to become a knight of the road.

With a companion, Frank Cody, of Pasedena, Cal., Edson hopped aboard a fast freight at Jersey City for the ninety-mile run to Philadelphia. It was cold and sitting on top of the cars was not comfortable. The sharp winds cut through their clothes and chilled them. As the train entered the Netherwood station it was flagged and Edson and Cody jumped from their perch and scrambled into the station for warmth until the train should proceed. The block-signal was lifted sooner than they expected and the cars had gained speed before the two realized that it was time to leave the warm station.

Rushing out, Cody successfully swung aboard the rapidly moving train but Edson failed. He clung with both hands to a guard-rail and was dragged along with legs bumping along the ties. His grip finally loosened and he fell forward and under the trucks. In some way he succeeded in throwing his body away from the wheels, and rolled down the steep embankment at the side of the tracks.

Beyond a slight flesh wound in his left hand and two bruised limbs the young Philadelphian suffered nothing as a result of the adventure. When seen last night his only remark was, "Never again." Cody dropped off the train when he saw Edson miss and the two remained in the city overnight. They proceeded this morning to Philadelphia in a passenger train.

WHAT TO DO WITH ALDERMANIC PAUNCH

Slice It Off, Says Dr. Corbusier; It's Only Hinderance.

Dr. Harold D. Corbusier spoke last night before the senior gymnasium class of the Y. M. C. A. on some cases of deformity and their causes. It was the second of a series of five-minute lectures.

"The average man is liable to become deformed throuh mere careless," said Dr. Corbusier. "When you walk down the street just notice how many men you see walking along that are round shouldered or have one shoulder lower than the other. The main cause of the trouble is the carelessness of parents when the child is young by allowing them to stand with one shoulder higher than the other or by allowing them to sit at a table with their shoulders thrown forward, thus causing the muscles of the back to be pulled out of shape and the shoulder blades to project.

"The chest protrudes naturally when walking or should. If the stomach protrudes beyond the chest it would be better for the owner to slice it off. It is only a hinderance.

"Another case we very often see is that of flat-footedness. It isn't necessary that a person's feet should be broken down entirely to denote a case of flat-footedness. If a person has a growing pain under the arch of the foot he can count on it that his arches are falling. A great deal is said about standing with the toes of the feet pointing out. Don't go to the extreme in that as it will cause flat-foot sooner or later. The wild people of the earth do not turn their toes out, they either walk with the feet straight or with them turned in.

BICKELL REBUFFS WIFE WHEN SHE CALLS AT JAIL

Elizabeth, Dec. 13 (Special).—Clare Bickel, of Plainfield, who was recently brought back to New Jersey from Florida on a charge of wife desertion, and who is still in the county jail, had a brief visit from his wife Mrs. Madeline Bickel, yesterday afternoon. Bickel is said to have shown some surprise at seeing her in the jail, and at the same time remarked:

"Why, I don't want to see you."

It is said that the couple were not in each other's presence more than a minute. No one seemed to know just what brought Mrs. Bickel to the county jail.

COURT ORDER PERMITS SALE OF ESTATE HOLDING

Elizabeth, Dec. 13.—Judge E. S. Atwater in the Orphans Court, this morning, according to the request of the executors of Samuel Dreier's estate, signed an order permitting them to sell a plot of land in Orange belonging to the estate, so that certain obligations could be met by the executors.

Samuel Dreier died about two years ago leaving an estate valued at $83,000, but according to the terms of his will none of the estate could be sold under fifteen years. As a result, it is claimed, that there are insufficient means to meet the expenses of the estate, hence the application today before Judge Atwater.

ALLEGED TRAMP HOLD-UPS CHASED OUT OF THE CITY

John J. Keller, 43 years old, of 979 East 163rd street, New York, and George Wain, 19 years old, of 1 Vine street, Jersey City, arrested yesterday for an alleged attempt to rob a fellow vagrant of his wallet on the Central Railroad tracks near Netherwood, were ordered to leave town by City Judge DeMeza this morning.

During the early part of last evening the police doing court duty were highly entertained by a continuous medley on the harmonica played by Keller. He was heard to advise his younger companion to go "straight home to hs mother," after he got out of his trouble.

COURT OVERLOOKS POINT INVOLVED?

Mr. Wherry, in Discussing Water Case, Infers Swayze Begged Main Question.

HOPES FOR AN APPEAL

Has Company Power to Make Contracts for Diversion of Plainfield's Water or is Supply Dedicated to Its Immediate Uses.

The following communication has been received from William M. Wherry, Jr., a prominent resident and a New York lawyer:

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

One of the most significant decisions which have been rendered in recent times is involved in the Plainfield Water Company case, the opinion of which was written by Judge Swayze. The importance and difficulty of the questions involved in this case are apparently not appreciated in Plainfield, nor the ability with which these questions have been raised and presented by those who are acting on behalf of the city.

The case involves the whole question of the right of Plainfield to retain the water supply which is at its doors and which has been, as claimed by those who represent the city in this case, dedicated to the use of this municipality. Nothing could be a more serious deprivation to the City of Plainfield than to have its natural resources taken away from it and, among these natural resources, none is more essential than its water. The position taken by the counsel for the city and which position was worked out by the Common Council for the city is one of far-reaching importance to every municipality, and especially to the inhabitantts of Plainfield, and too high praise cannot be given, in my opinion, to the men who have done this for our community. The case involves questions of grave importance to all water companies and of great interest to the legal profession in general. As Judge Swayze says, it is a case "of the first impression."

At the threshold we are met with the question, whether the water company of Plainfield has power to make valid contracts for the diversion of this water from the use of Plainfield itself, or whether the water supply has not been dedicated to the immediate requirements of this city and suburbs. This question is the fundamental one at issue in this case and a careful consideration of the opinion of Judge Swayze leaves one doubtful as to whether the court fully apprehended the point involved. The entire discussion in the opinion is of a tentative character. The learned Justice does not think it necessary to go into the question of the powers of the company, as defined by the charter, and the meaning of the language therein contained. He rests this branch of his opinion on a very novel proposition, viz.: that the extent of a monopolistic grant in the nature of a franchise can be enlarged by implication through a court's interpretation of a legislative act general in its terms. The argument he adduces in support of this point leaves much to be desired. The second question involved, viz.: the power to take property dedicated to a public use, thereby interfering with such use is handled with greater skill, but the effect of the whole decision produced on the mind is that the main question was begged.

In view of the great importance of this case and of the fact that it is one of the first impression, and in view of the somewhat halting arguments of the court in support of its position, it is to be hoped that this case will be pressed through to the highest tribunal and a decision of these questions, which are vital, obtained as early as possible.

Yours truly,

WILLIAM M. WHERRY, JR.

Plainfield, Dec. 11, 1912.

CHARGES WIFE WITH ELOPING

Daniel Knutter Swears Out Warrant Against Spouse and Man.

CASH IS MISSING ALSO

Young Son Taken by the Alleged Eloping Mother—Husband Vows to Track Down Alleged Paramour and Take Vengeance.

Daniel Knutter, of Dunellen, a machinist employed at the Levgar Structural Iron Works in that place, is mourning the disappearance of his wife and nine-year-old boy, who he says have gone away with James Dunbar, of Bound Brook. Also he says, $600, which he alleges he was to receive from the sale of his property at Dunellen, has gone with his wife and Dunbar.

Knutter appeared before Justice Charles Sedam, of New Brunswick and swore out a warrant for the arrest of his wife and Dunbar. The warrant is in the hands of Constable Wesley Blaine, of Dunellen, and a general search is being made for the couple.

When Knutter was seen last night grief and indignation seemed to be struggling for mastery in his heart. He expressed a determination to go to any length to find his son and get the money he says is due from the sale of his home. He said he was not so particular about his wife returning to his roof.

Knutter, after describing numerous visits on the part of Dunbar to his home while he was at work, said that the latter, accompanied by a colored man of the name of Glen Butler, of Somerville, called at his place of work on Wednesday, December 4, and took him in an automobile to the office of George Day in Dunellen, where in the presence of his wife he signed the papers for the sale of his property, the agreement being that he was to have half the amount realized, after paying off the mortgage. That, he says, was the last time he saw his wife.

Knutter says that when he returned home that night he found all the pictures, with a few exceptions, the silverware, as well as most of the furniture, gone. Going to the home of his father-in-law, Edward Smith, on East Third street, this city, he learned that while the furniture had been taken there, nothing was known of the whereabouts of his wife and son. Inquiry among friends failed to disclose any trace of the woman and boy. He says that he then became satisfied that his wife had eloped, and immediately had a warrant issued for the arrest of Mrs. Knutter and James Dunbar.

"While I was in New Brunswick," said Knutter, "I was informed that Dunbar was wanted by the authorities on four other warrants, and I was further told that he had figured in another home-wrecking case in North Branch.

"I have been married about fourteen years and up to the present time always got along without any serious quarrels with my wife. Every week I gave her at least $14 for living expenses, and more, if necessary, never questioning what she was going to do with the money. I worked hard and by saving every penny I could I was able to buy and furnish the house my wife sold. Now everything is gone. If it takes me the rest of my life I will get that man who has been going about the country breaking up homes."

Knutter alleges that Dunbar left a wife and six children without any support. A report came to him yesterday that two trunks had been found at Jersey City where are supposed to belong to the missing pair. They are being watched. Knutter is boarding at present in Dunellen.

WELL WORTH SEEING.

The Miracle which will be the attraction at the Plainfield theatre for today and tomorrow, matinee and night, accomplishes incredible wonders. It brings before one's eyes a bygone age with a fidelity to truth that is positively startling. There are over a thousand scenes in this production, not one of which was taken in a studio. Not only has it cost many thousands of dollars to prepare this picture but more than a year has been spent in elaborating the details. The musical score which accompanies the pictures renders the performances very impressive and the spectators rise from the entertainment with a sense of great and lasting pleasure. An explanatory prologue precedes the picture. The subject of the story is the old legend of the Madonna which Maeterlinck has utilized in his famous play "Sister Beatrice."

MINISTERS CO-OPERATE

Aid of Their Association Enlisted by Dr. Frank Moore, Head of Parkway Reformatory — All Churches to Unite in Meeting.

Rev. Dr. Frank Moore, superintendent of the Rahway Reformatory, who is president of the State Association of Charities and Corrections, attended the regular meeting of the Plainfield Ministers' Association at the Y. M. C. A., yesterday, for the purpose of securing the co-operation of the ministers in making the coming conference of the association to be held here, February 2, 3 and 4, a success. Dr. Moore presented a tentative program, showing that some of the best known speakers in the country will be heard on pertinent topics.

The conference will begin on Sunday, February 2, and it is planned to have the ministers co-operate in a union meting of all the churches, to be addressed by Bishop Wilson, of the Methodist church, and Rev. Dr. Francis, pastor of the Clarendon Street Baptist church, Boston. It may be necessary to hold two meetings and a committee comprising Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson and Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, were appointed to arrange for the co-operation of the ministers and decide whether to hold one or two services. Dr. Moore said that between 500 and 600 delegates from all parts of the State and outside were expected to attend the sesions of the conference.

During the business session of the association, Rev. Arthur E. Wilson, the new pastor of the Unitarian church, was elected to membership. His name was proposed by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue church, and seconded by Herbert E. Parker, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

Rev. Dr. Zelie extended an invitation to the members to be his guests at a social gathering in his study some evening in January, the date to be fixed later. At that time Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church, will present his paper on "Plainfield, Its Faults, Aims and Prospects," which was read at the service in the Congregational church last Sunday. The next meeting of the association will be held on Thursday, February 13. Those at yesterday's meeting were Rev. J. Y. Broek, president; Rev. Evarts C. Conover, secretary; Rev. C. C. Cain, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, Rev. F. J. Hubach, Rev. Dr. E. G. Read, Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire and Herbert E. Parker.

MISS BERTHA TOUCHON BRIDE OF F. A. CORIELL

Miss Bertha Touchon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Touchon, of West Front street, and Frank A. Coriell, son of William Coriell, of New Market, were married at 7:30 o'clock last evening at the parsonage of the Temple Baptist church, by Rev. Evarts C. Conover, the pastor. The couple were accompanied by the sister of the bride, Miss Jane Touchon, who acted as bridesmaid, and Fred Coriell, brother of the bridegroom, who filled the role of best man.

SMALLEY'S FIRE RAKES ANDERSON

Former Boro Mayor Charges Township Chairman With Gross Unfairness.

FRANCHISE IS REFUSED

Assemblyman Committeeman Sure Hand of Public Service is Behind Application for Crusher Trolley—Minutes of a Tart Meeting.

The Smalley Stone Company didn't get a franchise for a trolley line from its crusher to the terminus of the Somerset street line, at the meeting of the North Plainfield Township Committee held in the town hall at Watchung yesterday afternoon. Newton B. Smalley, who appeared in behalf of the proposition, seized the opportunity to tell Assemblyman W. de laR. Anderson, chairman of the committee, what he thought of him.

While the former borough Mayor was talking to Mr. Anderson in his characteristic style, mincing no words, Committeemen Archibald and Brokaw and Clerk George Mobus listened in silence. That Mr. Smalley believed he had been unjustly treated particularly by Mr. Anderson nobody could doubt after hearing his statements. Mr. Anderson frequently replied in an effort to justify his actions.

After telling the chairman of the committee that he had given him a bad shake-up; that when the proposition was first presented the chairman had considered it fair and that at his suggestion the proopsition was held up until after election, Mr. Smalley criticized the chairman for giving the newspapers an unfair report of the last hearing before the committee. He was unfair, Mr. Smalley said in giving the questions propounded to him, but not the answers.

"I want to say again," said Mr. Smalley, addressing Mr. Anderson, "that the Public Service Railway has no interest in this proposition. If you have any grievance against the trolley company why don't you settle with them and not try to take it out on me? You asked me some questons at the last hearing, now, Mr. Anderson, let me ask you a few. What did you expect to get for voting for that fifty-year franchise in the Legislature?"
